CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—Little Jack Little will open at the Trianon Ballroom Aug. 14 for a week's stay and then to the Aragon Ballroom for two weeks. . . . Frances Wallertz, 18-year-old lyric soprano who won a WBBM staff job with her unusual performance in WBBM's high school day broadcast last month, is now starred in her own CBS network program, "Bon Voyage." . . . Steve Trumbull, former Chicago CBS publicity chief, visited Chicago last week to sail with Fran Byrne, Chicago photographer, to sail in the Mackinac race. Trumbull is now a member of the staff of the Miami Tribune, and a citrus fruit grower. . . . Hal Makelim, newly appointed WIND sales manager, was formerly manager of KXBY, Kansas City. . . . John Harrington, busy WBBM, news, sports and man-on-the-street commentator, has the Sinclair Refining Co. for his sponsor on a daily 15-minute news review.

Cincinnati Town Pump

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—Margaret "Peg" Maloney, publicity chief of WKRC, is on her vacation. . . . Bill Seymour, newsroom editor, and brother of Ann Seymour of the ether lanes, is pinch-hitting. . . . Charlie, the six-year-old son of France Raine, radio editor, Cincinnati Times-Star, interviewed by Ken Williams, WCKY announcer, displayed an unusual knowledge of radio programs.

Omaha Town Pump

OMAHA, Aug. 8.—Grounds of WOW's transmitting station, located on a high hill northeast of Omaha, are being beautified. . . . Harry Burke, program manager for WOW, has returned from a vacation trip to Yellowstone Park and west coast points. He visited his parents in Portland while away. . . . Dorothy Delfs, formerly with the Cathedral choir of Lincoln, Neb., has become WOW's day hostess. She also is doing vocal and piano numbers for the station.

Philadelphia Town Pump

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 8.—Wedding bells will ring next fall for WIP's night supervisor, John Facenda, and

Einstein a Visitor

Prof. Albert E. Einstein was an unexpected Radio City visitor the past weekend, and naturally he was escorted through the broadcasting plant by NBC officials. Finishing the tour, the father of relativity remarked:

"Ha! It's all quite complicated."

Dorothy Hunger. . . and similar music for Doris Havens, WCAU accompanist, and E. Samuel Lonholm, radio singer. . . . Jacqueline Ash, member of Hal Roach's movie gang, is a guest star with Uncle Wip on WIP. . . . The Sleepy Hollow Gang, having left WCAU, and their mountain music is now on WEEU, Reading, Pa. . . . Jim Aull, KYW press chief, is vacationing. . . . Harold Davis pinch-hitting for Pat Stanton's WDAS shows while the latter is honeymooning in Canada.

Don Martin, former WIP announcer, will leave this week to join the staff at WTAR, Norfolk, Va. . . . while he is recuperating from a recent accident that dislocated his hip, Stoney McLinn, WIP sports director, is broadcasting all his sport programs directly from his bedside at his home.

San Antonio Town Pump

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8.—Kenny Hyman, former control man at KABC, has gone back to his old job as supervisor with Western Electric in Houston. . . . Grand Prize Beer is now sponsoring KABC's "Voice of the Crowd" from in front of the Gunter Hotel. . . . Tee Casper of KAND, Corsicana, Tex., was a recent visitor at the Alamo Broadcasting Co. and other local stations. . . . "Knight Knappers" is a new program on WOAI Wednesday, Friday and Saturday at 9:15 P.M., sponsored by Knight Kap Corp. It will go on the Texas Quality Network beginning Aug. 15, says Steven Wilhelm, head of Payne's Radio Agency.

San Francisco Town Pump

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Purchase of a launch, in which shortwave equipment will be installed for remote pickups along the waterfront, was announced by KGGC's new manager, S. H. Patterson. . . . John Nesbitt's "Passing Parade" will return to Mutual Sept. 12, after six months on NBC's red network. . . . M. H. Sears, KJBS announcer, has resigned to join KYOS, Merced. . . . KFRC's Enes Canata, program traffic head, is recovering from injuries incurred when struck by an auto recently on the way to work.

Pepperell Series to Go on NBC-Blue Net

The Pepperell Mfg. Co., which last spring tested a series of philosophical talks by Dr. Karl Reiland over two southern stations, will bring the program to the networks beginning in November.

The talks will be presented over the NBC-Blue network, Fridays, 7:15 to 7:30 P. M. Batten, Barton, Durstine, & Osborn is the agency.

The series will mark Pepperell's first attempt at network advertising in more than six years.

Packard Re-Signs for 13 More NBC Weeks

Packard Motor Corp., sponsors of the Tuesday night NBC-red program, has placed a 13-week renewal order for the series, effective Sept. 7. The Packard show, heard from 9:30 to 10:30 P.M., shortly will undergo talent changes which will bring Charles Butterworth, Lanny Ross and Raymond Paige's orchestra to the hour. Young and Rubicam is the agent.

WNBC Adds News Periods

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Aug. 8.—Milt Berkowitz, WNBC news editor, has inaugurated a new news setup. The regular Transradio news periods now are being augmented with bulletins from Transradio Press at intervals during the day, usually on the hour and half-hour station breaks. The station has received many favorable comments since the idea was put into effect this week.

George Bijur Returns

George Bijur, former vice-president of Fletcher & Ellis, Inc., has returned from a six-month survey of advertising technique in Europe. He will open offices shortly after Labor Day at Rockefeller Plaza, where he will head his own agency, to be known as George Bijur, Inc.

WOR to Discuss Films

"Motion Pictures and Their Effects Upon Growing Children" will be discussed at the meeting of the Parents' Club of the Air over WOR tomorrow from 12 noon to 12:15 P. M. A Parents Magazine speaker will make the address.

Complete "Like It" Cast

CBS has completed casting for "As You Like It," sixth production in the network's Shakespearean cycle, which will be broadcast Aug. 16. Assigned to the lead roles are Wendy Barrie, Frank Morgan and Moroni Olsen.

Air "Romeo" in Spanish

Tiajuana, Mex., Aug. 8.—NBC and CBS may battle over the Bard, but it means nothing to this Spanish-speaking community just across the border from San Diego. They've got their own Shakespearean troupe covering the town with 100 watts power behind them.

A flowery Mexican version of "Romeo and Juliet" thrilled native listeners this week on XEC. Studio, transmitter, sound effects department and everything else are all located in one room. The announcer doubles as a member of the cast recruited from local townsfolk and the engineer spins recorded sound effects. Those who speak the language say the results are just as exciting as NBC's.

Makers of Receivers Raising Ad Budgets

Prospects for radio receiver sales this fall are brighter than they have been in many years, with set manufacturers consequently hiking their advertising budgets an average of about 15 per cent. Radio will receive a goodly share of the budgets.

Among the set manufacturers who will try radio as a consistent medium for the first time in a considerable period are Zenith and Stewart-Warner.

Zenith has signed a 52-week contract for a network program on NBC. Program details are lacking, but the program will begin late this fall. The network will be large enough to make Zenith one of the largest users of radio, it is said.

The Stewart-Warners radio campaign has not been fully formulated as yet, although it is believed the company will devote the greater part of its radio budget to spot and transcribed series on stations throughout the country.

Philco and General Electric have programs currently on CBS and NBC.

WOW Appeal Secures 1,500 Subscriptions

OMAHA, Aug. 8.—Approximately 1,500 subscriptions to the Radio News Tower, publication of WOW, were received following a single 15-minute broadcast by Foster May. May decided to use the time when renewal subscriptions for the publication were slow in coming in.

Chevrolet sponsors May's "man-on-the-street" series, but May is given latitude in selecting any subject he chooses. In choosing the Radio News Tower he adopted a bantering style, asking that his listeners prove their loyalty to him by subscribing.

Returns were beyond the station's wildest hopes, many of the letters containing as much as $2 or $3. The yearly rate is 50 cents, but some subscribers asked for two or more years or sent in names of friends.

Garrett Gets Atlas Radio Foreign Post

Herbert R. Ebenstein, president of the Atlas Radio Corp., has appointed Sidney Garrett as foreign sales representative. Garrett sails aboard the Georgic Saturday to take up his duties in London.

Garrett has long been identified with the film industry and has for many years been the representative abroad for Harold Lloyd and Sidney Chaplin.

"Ma Perkins" on Four Years

"Ma Perkins," NBC serial sponsored by Procter & Gamble through Blackett-Sample-Hummert, will be on the air four years with the Aug. 14 broadcast. The program began over WLW on that date in 1933, and shortly thereafter moved to the NBC network, where it is now heard over both the Blue and Red webs.

Atlantic Gets Ohio State

AKRON, O., Aug. 8.—The Atlantic Refining Co. has signed to sponsor the five Ohio State home games on WADC. Games to be aired from Columbus will be Texas Christian, Sept. 25; Purdue, Oct. 2; Northwestern, Oct. 23; Indiana, Nov. 6, and Illinois, Nov. 13.

Monday, August 9, 1937

Train to Broadcast From Cincy to N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 8.—A continuous broadcast from a moving train from Cincinnati to New Orleans, with announcers, musicians, singers and other radio artists on the programs, will be made over six radio stations in cooperation with the Louisville & Nashville Railroad on Aug. 14 and 15. The program is being offered in commemoration of the fourth anniversary of the daily "Pan-American" broadcast.

One of the railroad's air-conditioned dining cars is being converted into a traveling studio. WSM, Nashville, is installing a short-wave transmitter on the car which is known as short wave station WBPA. The transmitter will be used during the entire trip.

WSM states the F. C. C. advised it, when application was made for a permit for the installation of the special equipment, that no request for such a broadcast had ever before been made.

At 7:30 A. M. Sunday, Aug. 15, WWL at New Orleans will send out a program from the train for 25 minutes before the train reaches the L. & N. station there. After the train arrives at New Orleans, its final destination, WWL will continue its broadcast, interviewing passengers and broadcasting a short talk by city officials of New Orleans. Jack Harris, announcer for WSM, will be in general charge throughout the trip.

"Kiddies' Review" Celebrates

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 8.—The Kansas City "Kiddies' Review," WHB feature, celebrated its fifth birthday anniversary last week and moved into its sixth year. Now sponsored by Jenkins Music Co., it is broadcast at 10:15 each Saturday morning from the Jenkins auditorium. Charles Lee Adams is director.

More than 25,000 persons have watched the broadcast in the five years. Adams has conducted 122 outside engagements of the revue in theatres, at fairs, etc. At Bethany, Mo., the units have played 12 return engagements. In another spot they have been back nine times.

KFSD Adds Programs

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 8.—A transcribed series of "True Story Court" is a new half-hour weekly feature on KFSD, local NBC-Blue outlet. Sponsored by Lipton's Clothery, the series is aired Sundays at 4:30 P. M. The program was set through the Gracemill agency.

Another new transcribed program, spotted for Sunday, on the same station, is a 15-minute broadcast of religious talks and music, titled "St. Germaine's Teachings." The program is heard at 9:30 A. M. and is a sustainer.

Resume "Heatrolatown Herald"

CINCINNATI, Aug. 8.—Wells Ginn, WLW actor-announcer, again will be editor of the "Heatrolatown Herald" when it returns to the air for another season tomorrow. It will be heard Mondays from 9 to 9:30 P. M., E. S. T., and will include "Who Said That?" flashbacks of famous sayings and their origin; "Fashions in Music," a comparison of music of one era with another, and "Candid Musical Pictures," embracing candid camera shots of melodies from various sections of the country.

New Mexico Station May Use 500 Watts

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 8.—Reports along radio row that the proposed 150,000-watt transmitter at Rosarito Beach, 20 miles south of San Diego, on Mexican soil, may eventually come on the air with only 500 watts fail to surprise local men. Current information is that the station will go on the air in about a month using 1,040 kilocycles.

The biggest threat to a crowded ether is seen in XELO which will use high power just a notch on the dial away from KPO, NBC Red network key station.

Already on the air just over the line from San Diego are: XEC, XEMO, XEAC, XEBG, XEOK. XEMO is installing its own power plant.

Increase Mexican News

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 8.—Thrice daily news bulletins, formerly the exclusive feature of but one local radio station, are now being dispensed from four stations. One station gives these bulletins in English.

"Fireside Reveries" to KSL

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 8.—"Fireside Reveries" for the Independent Coal Co. will be a quarter hour release each Thursday evening over KSL. The contract calls for 39 performances. Talent will be composed of Miriam Erickson, soprano; Ramp-ton Barlow, baritone, and a String Ensemble. Commercial dialogue will conform with contemporary and current happenings throughout the territory the coal producers serve with occasional salutes to honor cities in its territory. Placed by Edward J. Broman, the first program will be aired Aug. 6.

KSFO Adds Four Accounts

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—New spot announcement business signed for KSFO, CBS outlet, includes Baldwin Laboratories, Saegertown, Pa.; Beaumont Laboratory, St. Louis; Carter Co. and Maryland Pharmaceutical Co. of Baltimore.

Radio Beau Geste

Boston, Aug. 8.—A nice gesture has been made by WBZ and WBZA in the NBC Air Way to Sales, in which is featured a photograph of Lewis Whitcomb. Whitcomb is with CBS here.

The caption reads: "WBZ contemporaries salute gallant Lewis S. Whitcomb, assistant manager of WEEL, winning his battle with critical illness."

Auburn Firm Seeks Facilities of WMBO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Taking over the facilities of WMBO, Auburn, N. Y., is sought by the Auburn Publishing Co. of that city with the filing of an application with the F. C. C. for a construction permit for a new broadcasting station to operate on 1,310 kilocycles with 100 watts power night, 250 watts day.

The commission also received an application from KOL, Seattle, for authority to change its frequency from 1,270 to 1,020 kilocycles and increase its night power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts.

Two Nets to Carry Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The fourth annual football game between the College All-Stars and the professional champions—this year the Green Bay (Wisconsin) Packers, will be described from Soldiers' Field, Sept. 1, by both the Mutual Broadcasting System and the NBC-Blue network.

However, no NBC station within a 150-mile radius of Chicago will carry the event. WGN, of the Mutual System, owned and operated by the Chicago Tribune which is sponsoring the football classic, will be the only station in the Chicago area broadcasting the game.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Foster Goss, city editor of the Illustrated Daily News, has resigned to take over the editorship of the News Bureau. Pete Pringle remains as his assistant. Goss will move in tomorrow. . . Black Drug Co. of New York, through Husband & Thomas, Inc., has placed a contract calling for a Monday through Friday daily 100-word news announcement, from Oct. 4 to Feb. 18, on KFI plugging Omega Oil.

Returning from a tour of the West coast, Tommy Tucker and his orchestra have been booked into the Pasadena Civic Auditorium for Friday and Saturday nights and KNX and the Columbia Pacific stations will broadcast from a remote each night from 11 to 11:30 P. M., P. S. T. . . Hill-billy swing music, whatever that might be, will be introduced on the KNX "Hollywood Barn Dance" Saturday night by the trio of "Lizzie, Dizzie and Frizzie," who are billed as "Queens of Quaint Swing."

Paul Richards will be heard on the Fire Dep't. broadcast on KNX Saturday from 7:45 to 8 A. M., P. S. T.

Richards is a Los Angeles youth who, as a baritone, made good in New York air shows. . . Ray Buffum has been appointed by the Robert S. Taplinger office as publicity executive for the Ruthrauff & Ryan radio shows. He will be the contract man on the Al Jolson, Joe Penner and Milton Berle programs and will start Sept. 1, working through both the Hollywood and the New York offices of the firm.

KMTR, with its portable transcription equipment, is conducting a "Man in the Street" survey of the current anti-gambling drive being conducted by city and county officials. The results of the poll are being aired from 7 to 7:15 P. M., Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Frank Robinson Brown, who also conducts the station's "Hollywood Chatterbox," film gossip commentary, is doing the series. . . Capt. J. M. de Beaufort, who was in the British Intelligence service during the World War, has begun a series of interviews on his experiences on KMTR. Frank Ellissen is handling the series, which will be heard Wednesdays at 7:45 P. M., P. S. T.

Birmingham's Radio Lineup Is Shifted

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 8.—The city's radio lineup has been altered considerably, with WSGN, the News-Age-Herald station joining the new southern Blue network of NBC, and WAPI undergoing a change in ownership.

Taking over WAPI under terms of a 15-year lease are Thad Holt, former assistant national director of the WPA, and Ed Norton, real estate operator. WAPI will continue to broadcast Red network programs of NBC and such Blue network programs as were originally sold nationally for WAPI until Jan. 1.

WAPI, however, now has pending before the FCC a contract whereby it will transfer its affiliation from NBC to CBS while under terms of the same arrangements, WBRC, now a CBS station, will switch to NBC's Red network. The F. C. C. will approve the proposed transfers, it is expected.

WTMJ Party Draws Crowd

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 8.—Despite rainy weather WTMJ's 10th anniversary celebration attracted some 25,000 fans to the station's transmitter grounds 12 miles west of Milwaukee. People viewed WGMJ's radio progress exhibit, the station's new 400-foot radiator transmitter and the advertiser's midway featuring displays of 23 firms.

The occasion was a homecoming for Louis Roen and Don McNeill, both of NBC; Merle Blackburn of WCFL, Chicago, and Johnny Olson, who is conducting his own program for the Pure Oil Co., all of whom were formerly connected with WTMJ.

Stations Must Pay License

SPOKANE, Aug. 8.—KHQ and KGA must pay regular $200 carnival license fee for "A Night in Old Mexico," which the stations will sponsor Aug. 13, 14 and 15 in the Gonzaga University stadium. The stations had asked the City Council to lower the fee, pleading that the show was educational and non-profit.

The talent includes an 86-piece band, 20 entertainers and a trick motorcycle squad and pistol team from the Mexico City Police Dept. It will be a good will stunt to open the fall buying season.

Fuller Joins Dispatch

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—Adrian Fuller is now radio editor for the Columbus (O.) Dispatch. Fuller, formerly dramatic editor of the paper and editorial writer there, has handled the Dispatch programs on WBNS for several years. He has had an 11 P. M. spot with "Day Is Done" and the noon newscast under the name of the "Globe Trotter." Fuller has traveled extensively abroad and was with the British Army in the Near East during the world war. The Dispatch now features a new Sunday radio page in its magazine section.

Seeks Massachusetts Station

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Thomas Dorgan, former state representative, has filed with the clerk of the House a bill directing the state superintendent of buildings to establish and maintain in the State House a broadcasting station to be used by departments, commissions and officers of the state for distribution of information, particularly about health, education and public welfare. Commercial matters and political discussions would be barred.

Short Subjects

"Vitaphone Broadway-ites"

(Vitaphone)

A fair collection of moderately entertaining vaudeville acts. The turns are presented in straight vaudeville style and include eccentric dancing, comedy and other light material. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Paper Hangers"

(Educational)

There are a few laughs in this entertaining Terry-Toon cartoon, in which the pig-paper hanger arrives with his rooster and dog assistants to paint and paper a house, but who is more than a little upset by a pair of playful kittens.

Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Porky's Railroad"

(Vitaphone)

Here are some highly entertaining and excitingly executed cartoon scenes that make first rate amusement. The porcine character races his decrepit equipment against a streamliner. With the aid of an infuriated bull he wins and becomes pilot of the new train. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Revue No. 12"

(Vitaphone)

In this reel there is shown a clever child golfer, the manufacture of pianos, questioning a child genius, and the early stages of the execution of a mural. Mildly interesting. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Flowers from the Sky"

(Vitaphone)

A more or less effective variation of the backstage romance idea. Josephine Huston is the focal point. At various points throughout the thin plot she offers light songs which she renders pleasantly. It is an entertaining tabloid musical. Running time, 22 mins. "G."

"Speaking of the Weather"

(Vitaphone)

Here is a gem of a color cartoon that has all the favorable aspects of the recent Warner animated offerings. It is brilliant stuff, highly imaginative, at times slightly satiric, but always hilarious. Various popular magazine titles are used to illustrate a funny little narrative of cops and robbers. Screen personalities are worked in with clever burlesque. It has Academy Award potentialities. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Permit Okla. Smoking

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8.—The City Council has passed ordinances permitting smoking in theatre balconies. In the ordinance was a provision for smoking in the Municipal Auditorium during sports events.

Claire Trevor Quits Cast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Because of illness Claire Trevor has withdrawn from the cast of "The Great Diamond Robbery" and has been replaced by Phyllis Brooks at 20th Century-Fox.

Looking 'Em Over

(Martin Johnson-20th-Fox)

Truman Talley, as producer; Lowell Thomas, as narrator, and Lew Lehr, as continuity man and humorous commentator, have combined their talents to make excellent use of the negative shots by the late Martin and Mrs. Johnson on their last trip to Borneo. Sepia tints are used throughout and they add considerably to the pictorial values and general attractiveness of the film.

As in their last African picture, the Johnsons used a plane as well as native canoes and rafts for navigating. Most of the earlier scenes show various kinds of monkeys and the building of a camp site in the jungle. Lehr's comments on these are intended to supply the humor in the picture.

The action builds up after a party with the natives and the really exciting moments of the film come near the close with the capture of an orang-utang. The huge animal leaps around among tree branches, escapes when a tree is cut down, but finally is subdued after getting tangled in slip knots.

It's good double bill fare and has plenty of interest for children.

Running time, 74 minutes. "G."

"The Case of the Stuttering Bishop"

(Warners)

The adventures of Perry Mason, Earle Stanley Gardiner's fiction character enacted on the screen by various up-and-coming players, are unvaryingly bright and thrilling entertainment. This is no exception. The dialogue is snappy and the story mixes pungent action into the building of suspense.

Donald Woods plays the Mason role. Ann Dvorak is his "Della." The bishop's case comes their way in cleverly handled introductory passages that clearly establish the situation—the plight of a woman who seeks to unmask an imposter posing as her daughter in order to become heir to a great fortune. As the clues become apparent the wealthy benefactor is murdered. The mother of the girl is accused and goes on trial. Woods takes her case. In a fast-moving courtroom scene he breaks down the prosecution witnesses' testimony and draws out the culprit. It has a really clever conclusion that will keep the audience guessing.

Woods acquits himself of the attorney's part with distinction. Miss Dvorak's sophisticated secretary is good. The support features Linda Perry, Ann Nagel, Robert McWade and Craig Reynolds.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

"River of Unrest"

(B.I.P.-G.B.)

The Irish rebellion that has served admirably as background for a number of fine films is offered again here as the setting for an ordinary story. There is little new in the development of the plot and the dramatics are rather obvious.

Basically the action concerns the operations of Mick O'Day, who first appears on the scene when he liberates two prisoners taken by the Black and Tans. It is later revealed that he is the brother of Antoinette Cellier, who is engaged to John Lodge, British district officer. But she becomes the center of John Loder's interest, not without a mutual liking on her part. The climax is arrived at during the trial of an informer. The British raid the hideout. There is good suspense in the scene depicting the taking of the revolutionaries.

A young officer discovers O'Day hiding up a chimney. O'Day kills him, but is taken. Following his identification as Miss Cellier's brother, he makes his escape and is killed by Loder. A pair of confederates seeking to avenge O'Day's death lure Loder to Miss Cellier's home. They take Loder for a ride, but the British army comes to his rescue. Lodge, seeing Miss Cellier's love for him fading, takes the blame for her brother's death and leaves the pair to their happiness.

The film moves excitingly enough at times and the characters are colorful although the story is set in troubled times. Niall MacGinnis plays the O'Day role. The performances of the principals are good. Brian Desmond Hurst directed.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Start Free Parking

ALBANY, Aug. 8.—The Grand, a Fabian house, has started a free parking service for patrons on Bank Nights.

Paul Fine Joins G. B.

DES MOINES, Aug. 8.—Paul Fine, formerly with Universal, has been appointed manager of G. B., replacing Lester Rosenthal.

Variety Club

Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 8.—About 140 persons participated in Tent No. 10's annual golf tournament and dinner at the Highland Golf and Country Club and 114 of them played. The winner was STUART TOMLINSON, who took first honors two years ago. He was awarded a trophy and will receive $100 from the Plantation, new night spot near Indianapolis, which will go to the tent's charity fund.

LOUIS (SHORTY) PHILLIPS placed second and JOHN HOWARD was third. Winner in the guest division was BILL REED, who stroked 67; set a new record for amateurs at the country club.

Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis tents sent representatives. A dinner and floor show closed the day's festivities.

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 8.—Directors of Variety Club have set Sept. 13 as the date of the Variety Club-Film Row picnic. Earnings from the affair, for which exchanges suspend activities for half a day, go to the charity fund the industry maintains for its own needy.

ROBERT F. WITHERS, Republic-Midwest exchange manager, is general chairman this year.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.—Another initiation night is to be held by Tent No. 1 on Aug. 14 for resident and non-resident members who were not present July 17.

Among last week's visitors were: GEORGE WEEKS, HARRY GOLDSTEIN, JACK HOLLISTER, FABIAN WRIGHT and HOWARD ADELSBERGER, who now is in Atlantic City for a two-week vacation.

MRS. JOSEPH MISRACH will be chair-lady at a Ladies' Night Aug. 20, with Mrs. J. J. McGREEVEY as assistant.

Odeon in Manchester

LONDON, July 31.—The Odeon circuit is to open a 3,300-seat house in the center of Manchester, a key city in which it is not so far represented. A site has been acquired in the same area as the Oxford St. Picture House and the Gaumont. Cost is estimated to be £250,000. Odeon has also acquired a site in Southport, Lancashire holiday resort, for a £100,000 theatre seating 2,200.

Broadcasters Charge Music Union Unfair

N. A. B. Sends Out Letter Criticizing Demands

Broadcasters throughout the nation were recipients yesterday of a letter from the National Ass'n of Broadcasters in which it was charged that the American Federation of Musicians, in its move against stations, recording and transcription companies was using "an approach that is not a fair one."

The N.A.B. letter is signed jointly by James M. Baldwin, of the N.A.B.; Mark Woods, treasurer, NBC; Lawrence W. Lowman, vice-president,

CBS; Fred Weber, general manager, Mutual; John Shepard, 3rd, president Yankee and Colonial networks, and Willett H. Brown, vice-president of the Don Lee Broadcasting System.

The reproach states in part: "Both the purpose and tactics of the A. F. of M. are obvious. The A. F. of M. insists that many more musicians be regularly employed by broadcasting stations. It has elected not to follow

Building Active in England-Griffiths

England is now in the midst of an extensive theatre building program that will carry into next year, D. E. Griffiths, head of the Kinematograph Renters' Society and managing director for First National in England, stated yesterday upon his arrival on the Queen Mary for a three-week vacation.

Because of this, there is a danger of overbuilding, he added, although he could not estimate the number of new structures in progress.

General conditions are excellent, he

Wilcox Talks Deal For Four "A" Films

Herbert Wilcox will produce four "A" pictures annually in England for RKO Radio Pictures on a long term deal if the negotiations now under way between himself and the company are consummated successfully, according to a statement yesterday from Leo Spitz, RKO president.

Spitz also revealed that RKO has

National Theatres Changes Predicted

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 9.—Several important changes in the executive setup of National Theatres and some of its subsidiaries are expected to materialize after the annual convention of the circuit here. The moves have been under consideration for some time and are scheduled to become effective shortly after the sessions here on new product and operating policies.

Representatives from all over the country began arriving today for the three-day meeting which will begin tomorrow with Spyros Skouras, executive vice-president of National, at the helm. About 100 will attend.

All major product deals have been closed with the exception of United Artists. This deal has been in work for several months and is expected to be concluded following the return of Skouras, William T. Powers, Edward Zabel and Aubrey Schenck to New York.

A number of equipment men are here to demonstrate new apparatus. This is scheduled for Thursday. Final meetings will be held Friday, following which the men will entrain for their headquarters.

New U. A. Accessory Plan Starts Aug. 23

United Artists will inaugurate a rental plan for its advertising accessories on Aug. 23, Harry D. Buckley, vice-president, stated yesterday. The plan was originally announced at the regional convention here last June.

According to Buckley, exhibitors using the plan will save from 35 to 50 per cent. Accessories not included in the plan are 24-sheets, window cards, heralds, slides and mats.

"Souls at Sea" Is Opened In Spite of a Picket Jam

By J. M. JERAULD

Paramount got "Souls at Sea" off to an auspicious start at the Globe last night in spite of neighborhood complications. The crowd was large and enthusiastic, as the press agents say. That is, that portion of the crowd which saw the picture was enthusiastic.

For months no opening has been complete without a few pickets. Last night's was more than complete. There were almost as many pickets as film patrons.

It so happens that the Globe is sandwiched in between Child's and Horn & Hardart's biggest Automat and that at the latter there is a strike. From

RKO Retains Louis Nizer To Handle Matter

Continuing its informal investigation of the local exhibition field, the Dep't of Justice yesterday called in Henry Randel, Brooklyn and Long Island exchange manager for Paramount, and Lillian Bergson, booker, for questioning. Louis Phillips, who played an important part in the Paramount legal defense lineup in the St. Louis anti-trust trial, also represented the company at yesterday's hearing before Assistant U. S. District Attorney Leo Hickey in Brooklyn.

Louis Nizer of Phillips & Nizer has been retained by RKO to represent the circuit. At the time of the Century Circuit clearance complaint before the NRA against RKO, Nizer acted for the defense, while Mitchell Klupt of Hovell, McChesney, Clarkson & Klupt represented the plaintiff. The issue involved was RKO's clear-

Action on Move Expected During the Week

A proposal for a $2,000,000 cash settlement of the recovery actions brought by the Paramount trustees against former officers and directors of the company may be acted upon late this week, it was learned yesterday.

Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee of Paramount, will submit the proposal, drafted here recently, to Arthur A. Ballantine, of counsel to the Paramount trustee, in London this week. Griffis arrived in London yesterday, while Ballantine has been there for some time in the course of a vacation trip abroad.

The tentatively agreed upon payments to be made by the 24 defendants in the two recovery actions aggregate about $2,000,000. If approved by the trustee and counsel, the cash settlement would be paid over to Paramount. Indications are that further negotiations will be necessary as the trustee is reported to be opposed to having the payments spread over a period of years, as some of the defendants have requested, and, in addition, regards the settlement figure as inadequate.

Associates of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who are defendants in the actions, and include Sir William Wiseman and the

Missouri to Audit Firms in Tax Drive

KANSAS CITY, August 9.—An audit is to be made of every retail establishment in Missouri, including theatres, covering business back to Jan. 15, 1934, when the first sales tax levy went into effect.

Forrest Smith, state auditor and collector of the sales tax, said he expected the auditing would secure several million dollars for the state. About 50 auditors working out of Smith's department will start within a few days, beginning with the larger cities.

From Jan. 15, 1934, to Aug. 27, 1935, the one-half of one per cent levy was in effect. On June 8, this year, the two per cent levy became effective.

"Zola" Dated for Oct. 2

Warners have set Oct. 2 as the national release date for "The Life of Emile Zola," which opens tomorrow night at the Hollywood Theatre.

Heavy advertising is to be concentrated in national magazines, with full page review layouts scheduled for some. The company expects the film to run at least eight weeks at the Hollywood.

Seize Bank Night Outfit

ORLANDO, Fla., Aug. 9.—On authority of a Circuit Court order obtained by the City of Orlando, Sheriff Frank Karel entered a theatre here and confiscated all Bank Night equipment.

City officials said they approved the action because of the fire and traffic hazards caused by crowds collecting in the street outside the theatre on the night of the weekly drawing.

End Bank Night at Blair

BLAIR, Neb., Aug. 9.—By order of the Attorney General's office, C. N. Robinson has dropped weekly Bank Night drawings at the Home.

Previously County Attorney Grace Ballard, only woman holding this office in Nebraska, had refused merchants' requests to bar Bank Night until the State Supreme Court rules in September on the Fox-Midwest case at Beatrice.

Reopen Wage Talks With Oklahoma City

Major home office representatives will meet today with George Snodgrass, president, and Paul Kearns, vice-president of the Oklahoma City Film Exchange Employees union for a re-discussion of an agreement reached three weeks ago.

Members of the Oklahoma City unit of the I.A.T.S.E. rejected the arrangement concluded here by I.A.T.S.E. executives and distributor members. Snodgrass and Kearns came on to talk over changes with distributor representatives.

According to Ed Chumley, business agent for the Oklahoma City organization, 76 employees are represented.

Home office representatives stated yesterday that the points in dispute will be cleared up without any trouble. It is also expected that agreements for one or two other cities will be settled this week at the Warner home office where meetings are being held.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"It Happened in Hollywood"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—A pleasingly entertaining picture, "It Happened in Hollywood" will probably cut no great swath in the line of box-office records, but will satisfy thoroughly. Added to its normally reckoned pull by virtue of the name quality of Richard Dix and Fay Wray, who top the cast, will be that psychological reaction of film fans whose appetite for back-of-the-scenes material of the film industry has been whetted by such recent pictures as "A Star Is Born" and "Super Sleuth."

Tim Bart, a western silent star, is thrown out of pictures when he fails in a sound test. His feminine lead, Gloria Gay, goes on in films. Bart, refusing a comeback part in which he would appear as a killer of policeman, is dispossessed from his large ranch home and thrown into consternation by the arrival of a former crippled boy, whose recovery was spurred by Bart's previous invitation while on a visit to a hospital to come to Hollywood for a visit. Bart takes over his former home for a day, and throws a party for the boy, inviting doubles of the stars to fete him. The boy is hurt riding Bart's trained horse, and Bart is about to rob a bank to obtain money for his care when a gang decides to do likewise. Bart shoots them down and on the strength of the publicity created, is signed anew to star in a new type of Westerns, but with Gloria, who, in the meantime, had fallen from the cinema firmament.

The story was written by Myles Connolly, who also produced. Ethel Hill, Harvey Ferguson and Sam Fuller wrote the script, and Harry Lachman directed, all combining their talents for a workmanlike job.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Flight from Glory"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—In "Flight From Glory," turned out in record breaking time by Producer Robert Sisk and Director Lew Landers, RKO has a commendable sustaining attraction. Presented in two sets, an interior and an exterior, the picture is grim personal drama and differently conceived romance contrasted by sequences of sensational aerial acrobatics. Though occasionally wordy, the film primarily is exciting melodrama that won the respect of the preview audience.

Played by a capable cast with Chester Morris, Onslow Stevens, Van Heflin, Solly Ward, Douglas Walton, Whitney Bourne and Rita LaRoy giving performances not ordinarily expected in low budgeted and quickly produced pictures, the show is a noticeable departure from formula aviation films.

Operating a flying freight service in the Andes, Stevens keeps his crew in almost penal servitude. Pilots Morris, Walton, Paul Guilfoyle and Richard Lane know that only the death that is sure to come if they continue flying Stevens' "crates" will bring escape. To the scene comes Heflin and his wife, Miss Bourne, to be quickly disillusioned. As Morris and Walton try to convince the girl Delgado is no place for a woman, Richard Lane and Walter Miller fly to death and Walton sacrifices his life. On the verge of going to pieces, Heflin lures Stevens into a plane whence, after terrorizing him, he leaps to death and Stevens is left to his own fate. Morris embarks to America with Miss Bourne.

In the main the story is told with deft, sure and impressive strokes. That it will go over with the masses is hardly to be questioned. Based on a story by David Silverstein and John Twist, with screenplay by Robert Andrews, the film is crowded with fundamental dramatic elements.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Buckaroo" New Title

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—Paramount has changed the title of "Arizona Ames," Zane Grey story featuring Gilbert Roland, Marsha Hunt and Charles Bickford, to "Buckaroo."

RKO Changes Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9.—RKO has changed the title of the Lily Pons film, formerly titled "Born to Sing" and then "The Girl in a Cage," to "It Never Happened Before."

Modern Film Corp. has acquired the American distribution rights to "The Daughter of the Samurai," a Japanese film. It will be released in the Fall.

Fleischer to Appeal Labor Board Ruling

Max Fleischer Studios will appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here from the National Labor Relations Board decision directing the company to hold an election of employees to determine their collective bargaining representative, Louis Nizer, attorney for Fleischer, said yesterday.

Nizer conferred on the N.L.R.B. decision and the company's appeal move yesterday with Mrs. Elinore M. Herrick, regional director for the N.L.R.B. The latter's decision, handed down in Washington last week, directed the company to call the election within 10 days and indicated the classifications of employees who would be entitled to vote. Former Fleischer employees who are members of the Commercial Artists & Designers Union have been on strike since early in May.

to follow in order to push through the agreement which gives them a 10 per cent pay increase.

Three courses were discussed—a strike, the calling in of labor conciliators and the seeking of a restraint against the activities of the I.A.T.S.E. At a late hour tonight a decision had not been reached.

The new wage scale was to have gone into effect last Monday, but as a result of some confusion the producers called it off, reportedly after I.A.T.S.E. influence has been exerted.

IATSE to Meet in Seattle

SEATTLE, Aug. 9.—The mid-summer session of the general executive board of the I. A. T. S. E., will start here Aug. 15, according to Basil Gray, business agent of Stage Employees' local No. 15.

The board members will be headed by George E. Browne, president, and will number about 25, including secretaries. A two-week session will be held, with headquarters at the Olympic Hotel here.

the ordinary practice of approaching broadcasting stations individually through local chapters of the A. F. of M. and considering the problem of each radio station locally and on its own merits, but, rather, to put pressure on broadcasting stations by attempting simultaneously and by national action to deprive them of the services of union musicians, not only at the station and by remote control, but also through the medium of electrical transcriptions, net work programs and phonograph records. We have urged that this approach is not a fair one."

The N.A.B. letter also criticizes the A. F. of M. for not making it clear how many union musicians will have to be employed at each station. It reads: "The International Executive Board of the A. F. of M., rather than the local unions, has assumed exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether the number of musicians employed by any particular station is 'satisfactory,' although rates, and, presumably hours will be determined by local regulation. What number will be satisfactory to the board it declines to say, and we have no means of knowing."

The signers urge upon each broadcaster that he address himself to the problem because "the solution of the present difficulty depends upon the co-operation of each and every member of the broadcasting industry. The undersigned cannot commit or even speak for you. Your cooperation is needed and needed now!"

NBC Daytime Sales Gain 38% for July

The NBC daytime versus evening hour time sale revenue for July finds the daytime total up 38 per cent, and the night time sales netting a gain of but 7.5 per cent, compared to the figures for July, 1936, again proving that the daylight periods are becoming more important each season.

The weekday daytime sales for the month aggregated $728,880. Weekday daytime sales for the first seven months of the year were $6,250,862, a gain of 74.2 per cent over the corresponding period last year. The evening sales for July were $1,907,327. Evening time sales up to and including July were $15,157,518.

September Business At New WFIL Peak

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—September sales at WFIL will achieve a new peak, according to Donald Withycomb, station manager. Already time commitments for September are running 32 per cent ahead of September, 1936. The upward trend in time sales has been marked by increased buying on the part of national spot advertisers, according to Sales Manager Jack Stewart. Whereas there were only seven national advertisers last year, this September shows 12 spot campaigns. There is also a marked increase in local accounts, 16 already having been entered.

There is also a trend for programs rather than spot announcements on the part of advertisers. Of the local accounts, half will be using programs where last year found only two. Of the 12 national accounts, five will use programs. Stewart also reports that there is an increased interest in the afternoon periods.

WCAU Exclusive on Strike

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 9.—Exclusive coverage of the city wide trucking strike that crippled the city last week is credited to WCAU. Ken Stowman, director of the station's special events department, reports that the record for special broadcasts goes to Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

With special lines running to the Mayor's reception room in City Hall, the chief executive was heard five times during the three days' strike. In addition, WCAU kept an 18-hour daily watch on the situation, broadcasting hourly bulletins. Further repercussions of the general strike found the Philco Radio & Television Corp. closing its plant for one day when trucks were unable to move and 8,000 of the 9,000 workers were sent home.

said. Theatres are doing a fine business.

American distributors in England want to see fewer and better pictures made in England. The Warner studios at Teddington will produce from 18 to 20 films next year, Griffiths said. Three new stages were recently completed. He will sail for home Sept. 1 on the Aquitania, or a week later on the Queen Mary.

Fischer Bringing 100 Girls

I. Frey of Loew's legal department returned from a five-week vacation which he spent at Vichy, Paris and London. He said David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of Loew's, will return Sept. 9 on the Ile de France.

Clifford C. Fischer who will produce the Folies Bergere show at the French Casino, which reopens Aug. 20, stated he had completed casting the new revue and that 100 girls, including Valiere Tuck, Miss England, will arrive tomorrow on the Champlain for rehearsals.

Louis Hayward, who is under contract for two pictures at RKO, left for the coast yesterday after a three-week vacation at his home in England. He said it wasn't much of a vacation as he spent most of his time selecting and completing purchase of a new home for his family.

Francine Larrimore also was on the ship.

Wilcox Talks Deal For Four "A" Films

closed with Wilcox for the distribution of a second picture from the Denham studios this year. The feature is "The Rat," with Ruth Chatterton and Anton Walbrook. The picture is now in production in England and will follow RKO's release here of Wilcox's "Victoria, the Great."

The four pictures annually on the term deal which is now in negotiation would cost approximately $750,000 each, according to Spitz's statement. Two of the first year's group would be in Technicolor, it was said.

Indications are that the negotiations will not be completed prior to Wilcox's departure for England tomorrow on the Queen Mary, but will be resumed when he returns here next month for the Music Hall premiere of "Victoria, the Great." Wilcox and Anna Neagle, star of the latter picture, will attend the London, Paris, Ottawa, Toronto, Montreal, New York and Hollywood premieres of the film, it was said.

estate of Otto H. Kahn, are to pay a lump $600,000 to Paramount, under the tentative agreement. Other defendants will pay proportionate amounts, it is proposed. These include, Adolph Zukor, Sidney R. Kent, Sam Katz, Jules E. Brulatour, Frank A. Bailey and the estate of Emil E. Shauer. The aggregate of the payments which would be made by these is reported to be in excess of $1,200,000.

The actions were brought by the Paramount trustees in 1934 and seek recovery of salaries alleged to have been paid the defendants in "excess of a reasonable amount" between the years 1927 and 1931, and the recovery of sums alleged to have been lost through the redemption by the company of guaranteed stock repurchase agreements granted for expansion purposes during the same period. Recovery is also sought from other directors or associates of "actual or potential" profits alleged to have been made through participations in a Paramount employee stock purchase plan.

Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, according to reports in exhibitor circles here.

If the reports are correct, it is assumed here that the interest of the department in the case may have originated with the complaint against Paramount filed by Allied States Ass'n with the Federal Trade Commission in Washington last week. In addition, the Attorney General's office has been the recipient in recent weeks of complaints against distribution practices from regional exhibitor organizations and individual theatre owners in various parts of the country, according to local information.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 9.—Theatres in this territory playing Paramount product have not been picketed in the "buyers' strike" against the company, as was originally planned, and picketing of the local exchange was halted late last week when the Federal court here granted Paramount a temporary restraining order to prevent mass demonstrations.

Al Steffes, president of the strike committee of Northwest Allied, said that 250 theatres in this territory have agreed to participate in the strike.

KMTA Steers Clear Of a Buyers' Strike

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 9.—While directors of the K. M. T. A. "feel that all companies who take unfair advantage of exhibitors by sales policies such as have brought on the present action (in connection with Paramount) in other situations should discontinue such unfairness, we do not feel that similar action would be proper for our association.

ance over Rockville Center and Far Rockaway. The case was never completely decided by the local NRA board as hearings were in progress when the NRA was declared unconstitutional.

Nizer had planned to leave last Saturday for a vacation at Hawaii, but postponed his departure to work on the RKO case. He may leave for the coast the end of the week.

In addition to Loew's and RKO, Skouras Theatres is understood to have been mentioned in the reported complaint by Century Circuit.

A. H. Schwartz, operating head of Century, yesterday refused to comment on the Government action. He had just returned from a weekend at Lake Placid and referred all questions to other parties.

Brief Talk with Skouras

However, George Skouras met him in front of the Paramount Bldg., where Skouras has his headquarters. The meeting was short lived with Skouras asking questions and Schwartz seemingly inclined not to discuss the situation.

Leopold Friedman, legal head for Loew's, said that no one from the circuit had been to Hickey's office. William A. Scully, local district manager, stated that none of his branch managers had been called.

Hickey is expected to ask another local exchange manager to visit him today.

Weisman Is Awarded $15,000 Allowance

Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton yesterday awarded Milton C. Weisman $15,000 as an ad interim allowance for services as receiver of the Fox Theatres Corp. from Jan. 13 to July 12. Weisman had asked for $20,000.

Weisman's petition revealed that the $2,184,184 claim of Adolphus M. Burroughs and Louis M. Boas for alleged breach of contract to purchase a chain of theatres had been disallowed by Special Master Courtland Palmer and the time for an appeal had expired. The $400,000 claim of Theatre Builders, Inc., for alleged breach of contract to erect a theatre in Newark was settled for $10,000. The $100,000 claim of the Nandies Realty Corp. for alleged breach of a lease on a theatre in Ossining was disposed of for $15,000. Weisman also stated in his petition that his suit against the A. T. & T., Erpi and others for alleged violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law was in process of settlement.

Monogram to Hold 2 Regional Meets

Monogram will hold two regional sales meetings starting Saturday. The first session will be held at the New York exchange and will be attended by sales forces from Philadelphia, Washington, Boston, Pittsburgh, Albany and Buffalo.

Home office executives will leave for Chicago Saturday night for the second meeting, which opens there Sunday.

W. Ray Johnston and Edward Golden will tell the sales staffs that plans are under way to add star names to all attractions on the program.

Following the Chicago meeting Johnston will leave for the western and northwestern exchanges, where he will hold individual sales sessions. At the same time, Golden intends to depart for the southern territory, where he will hold similar meetings.

Allied Meeting to Get Start Sept. 22

Allied of New Jersey has put back its annual convention one day. Instead of having the three-day meeting open Sept. 21, the sessions will get under way at the Ritz Carlton, Atlantic City, on Sept. 22.

Weekly meetings of the New Jersey will be held from now until convention time. The first session is slated for today at the Lincoln when details on the Atlantic City get together will be gone over. The meetings will last about an hour. Eastern regional heads also will convene with the local unit.

British Title Plan Put Into Operation

A title registration system patterned after that in use here has been set up in Britain and is now in effect, F. W. Allport of the M.P.P.D.A. said yesterday on his arrival here aboard the Queen Mary.

Allport went to London last January to confer with British producers on the establishment of a title registration system and remained to aid in setting one up. With cooperation between the British and American title bureaus confusion arising from the occasional duplication of titles is expected to be eliminated in the future.

TEN CENTS

Film Probers Call Haines, Henry Randel

Will Appear Friday for Brooklyn Questioning

Roy H. Haines, eastern division sales head and former metropolitan New York district manager for Warners, and Henry Randel of Paramount will be called Friday morning and afternoon by Assistant U. S. District Attorney Leo Hickey, who is conducting a series of informal conferences in connection with the reported complaint by Century Circuit against Loew's, RKO and Skouras Theatres.

Haines will be accompanied by I. Levinson, Warner home office attorney, and Randel will have Austin C. Keough and Louis Phillips as counsel.

When Haines appears for questioning, it will mark the third Warner representative to be summoned by Hickey. Harry Decker, Brooklyn branch manager, and Sam Lefkowitz, office manager, appeared twice before the Government agent last week. Levinson accompanied them at both sessions. Lefkowitz is no longer with the company, having left Monday to join Prudential Playhouses as general manager. However, he is on call and

Wilcox-RKO Reach Tentative Agreement

Herbert Wilcox and RKO Radio Pictures are "agreed in principle" on the production arrangements under which Wilcox will make four "A" features annually for the company in England, the British producer said yesterday. Actual closing of the deal, however, is not expected until Wilcox's return here in September.

The deal would be for world distribution and production on the first of the group would get under way in

Musicians' Film Music Demands To Await Broadcast Settlement

The demands of the American Federation of Musicians on Hollywood producers, which are designed to increase studio employment of the union's members, will not be pressed until similar demands on broadcasters and electrical transcription concerns have been settled, Joseph N. Weber, president of the A. F. of M. said yesterday.

Weber added that no meetings with Pat Casey, studio labor representative, who arrived from the coast yesterday, have been scheduled.

The A. F. of M. is demanding that producers discontinue the use of musical recordings from film libraries and, instead, employ orchestras to make new recordings for every picture in which music is used. Film libraries have been supplying most of the music for "B" pictures. The demand will be discussed after agreements have been reached with the broadcasters and electrical transcription concerns, negotiations with whom were recently adjourned until the second week in September.

Casey said he planned to leave today on a vacation by motor and would confer with Weber on his return.

Pathe-Cinema Fate Disturbing French

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Aug. 3.—French film circles are displaying anxiety over the future of Pathe-Cinema (formerly Pathe-Natan) which has been in receivership for three years and has just undergone another shakeup among the forces in control after stockholders had voted down a reorganization plan.

The proposed plan was presented by

Cinecolor to Expand Facilities on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Cinecolor, Inc., is planning a $300,000 expansion program to erect a new laboratory plant for entry into the local color feature field this fall.

At present having a capacity of 400,000 feet per week, the new plant will have a capacity of 2,000,000 feet per week. The plant at present is crowded to capacity with work mostly on shorts for foreign distribution, according to Howard C. Brown, a vice president.

A $200,000 stock issue is planned. Cinecolor uses a process through

Makeup Men Vote to Extend Negotiations

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—The Makeup Artists' Local of the Painters' Brotherhood voted last night to continue negotiations with the producers and turned down strike talk as a means of forcing a contract, which, they claim, has been delayed by the I.A.T.S.E. dispute.

Members also refused to accept the resignation of Vernon Murdoch, business agent, and his negotiating committee.

Assert Philadelphia "Strike" Will Go On

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—Leaders of the exhibitor "buyers' strike" against Paramount declared today that the withholding of playdates and refusals to discuss new season contracts with the distributor would continue locally despite the outcome of today's hearing on the company's application for a restraining order against the striking exhibitors.

Spokesmen for the strike committee contended that even if Paramount is granted the injunction it seeks by Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson following today's hearing, it will enjoy

Exchange Pay Rise May Pass Two Millions

Estimates Vary Due to Lack of Uniformity

The unionization of exchange employees may cost the industry an additional $1,500,000 to $2,500,000 annually, according to estimates made by distribution executives yesterday.

The wide variation in the cost estimates results from the fact that wage scales of individual companies prior to the organizing movement differed considerably. Thus the new union scales represent greater increases in costs for some companies than for others, with the result that no standard average of increase covering all distribution companies can be determined. Several distributors were already paying the present minimum wage scales prior to the organizing movement, others were paying approximately the present minimums, while still others were appreciably below the new scales.

Another factor contributing to the uncertainty of the increased distribution cost is the fact that the scales being placed in effect differ according to the location of exchange centers. Northern and eastern scales are uniformly higher than southern and western scales. This also makes the determination of an average national increase difficult.

Distribution executives are agreed,

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Varsity Show"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—This high-budgeted spectacle is among the classiest of Warner musicals. With Dick Powell, Ted Healy, Fred Waring and many gorgeous girls in the cast, it is certain to pull them in. The preview audience was virtually in the aisles with laughter at the comedy situations and dialogue, although its pace slackened near the end. It has a well-woven, substantial story and excellent comedy in which Healy emerges as a new type of comic. Healy, Mabel Todd and Walter Catlett furnish the bulk of the laughs.

The story concerns a college whose students call in Powell, an alumnus and a stage producer, to aid them in putting on their annual varsity show. Powell runs into complications with the conservative faculty and a series of mixups. He returns to Broadway, where he is rated as a flop producer. The students become aware of the cause of his departure and come to town, seize a theatre and put their hit show on, giving Powell full credit. The finale, a number created and directed by Busby Berkeley, is just about tops in production numbers with chorus boys and girls forming letters representing various universities as Waring's band plays the school songs. Rosemary Lane of the Waring band troupe is potential star material. She plays opposite Powell and sings in a grand manner.

The picture has nine song numbers, seven of which are written by Dick Whiting and Johnny Mercer. "Love Is on the Air Tonight" and "You've Got Something" are the best bets for popularity. The story is an original by Sig Herzig and Warren Duff. The script was a collaboration between the authors of the story and Jerry Wald and Richard Macauley. William Keighley merits a palm for his efforts to keep it moving at a lively pace.

"Double or Nothing"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—A comparison with "Waikiki Wedding" leaves much to be desired. It moves slowly for three-quarters of the running time. The film's fundamental entertainment and consequent commercial value is confined to its concluding reels. These last reels assume the nature of a vaudeville show and present Ames and Arno in an eccentric dance which provoked spontaneous applause. The audience also thought well of the mimicry of Andre and Steve Calgary and it considered the big production number—the moving of a night club from one building to another—an expert example of stage mechanics.

For motivation the dramatic story is twisted into comedy with musical contrast. Due to their honesty, Bing Crosby, Andy Devine, William Frawley and Martha Raye, a quartet of purse finders, are given a chance to claim a million dollar inheritance. Samuel Hinds plans to flim flam the lucky ones out of the opportunity. Frawley loses his interest quickly. Devine is the victim of a sucker game when drunks make a hole in one on a golf course and get his money. The police close down on Miss Raye, whose tendency to do a strip-tease dance breaks up a water carnival. Finally Crosby, knowing he is in for a trimming, outwits Hinds as the girl in the case, Mary Carlisle, has a change of heart and is with him when the club is moved.

Crosby has four songs and Miss Raye two. Both put them over in their customary style. The chief novelty is a singing band where voices mimic instruments. The audience attending the preview was restless while waiting for something to happen. When it did come the crowd was too fatigued to fully appreciate its worth. Trimming some sequences and eliminating others will undoubtedly speed up the picture and tie the loose ends together to make it more appealing.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Reserve Ruling on Film Seizure Stay

Judge Samuel Mandelbaum reserved decision in the U. S. District Court yesterday on the motion for a temporary injunction made by Jewel Prod., Inc., to restrain Henry Morgenthau, as Secretary of the Treasury, and Harry M. Durning, as collector of the port of New York, from attempting to seize the print of "Science of Life."

The print with German dialogue was passed through the Customs House without objection. When the negative of "Mysteries of Sex," with French dialogue entered the country, it was seized by the customs authorities because of alleged obscenity.

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Edward Ennis argued that the print of "Science of Life" was originally admitted without inspection of its contents and that this did not prevent the Government from seizing the print when its contents became known. Judge Mandelbaum seemed reluctant to grant the injunction, but gave both sides an opportunity to file briefs.

Attach Kendis Property

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Timothy A. Leary granted a writ of attachment yesterday on such New York property as is possessed by the Jay Dee Kay Prod. and its president, J. D. Kendis. The writ was obtained by Principal Film Exchanges which sued Jay Dee Kay and Kendis for $5,000, charging that the defendants violated a contract whereby Principal was to distribute in New York and New Jersey Jay Dee Kay's picture, "Crusade Against Rackets." Counsel for Principal sought the attachment on the grounds that the principal officers of the defendant firm, as well as Kendis himself, are in California.

New Haven Theatres Talk Higher Scales

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 10.—A meeting of downtown and neighborhood theatres has been called for Thursday, at the Hofbrau Haus for a discussion of a possible raise in College and second run admissions. It will be proposed that the leading neighborhoods raise prices from 25 to 30 cents top all week, in which case Loew's second run Bijou will go up and Loew's B house, the College, will advance from the present 35 cents to 40 cents.

Since the depression, the tendency in the territory has been to cut prices, and only one or two instances of advances have been noted in recent years, although under the NRA code the proposal received much discussion.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sea Racketeers"

(Amkino)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Reaction of a preview audience indicated that in this latest Russian importation to reach here the film never rises from mediocre level and the final destructive uprising is obvious propaganda.

The narrative concerns the misadventures of two unfortunates who escape from the toils of serfdom. They take refuge with a military Legree in an adjoining estate. There they are tricked into servitude again. The interpreter of the title role falls in love with the landowner's daughter. When he rescues her from a marauding enemy troop he is promised her hand and made a sergeant in her father's Cossack troop. But her father reneges on his promise and arranges for her to marry an elderly colonel. The prospective groom is enraged. A reunion follows. His fellow fugitive arranges the details of the ensuing uprising and the difficulties of the oppressed Ukrainian populace are settled. Love seems to have found its way into Soviet scenarios.

The story is based on a purported classic poem by Shevchenko. There are running titles in English.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 92 minutes. "A."

Looking 'Em Over

"Boothill Brigade"

(Republic)

An interesting western melodrama is developed here. Harry F. Olmstead's original story unfolds with a balanced combination of humor, romance and comedy. The characters are all of what is expected of them and the picture moves speedily against picturesque backgrounds.

Johnny Mack Brown is the champion of the rights of squatters who have been living in a valley peaceably until an unscrupulous individual through a legal trick obtains title to the land. They decide to fight before they are evicted. With plenty of hard riding and fisticuffs, more or less instituted by Brown, the tricked people manage to outwit the shrewd Simon Legree and turn him over to the sheriff.

Claire Rochelle is featured opposite Brown. Horace Murphy handles a rustic comedy role easily. Sam Newfield directed.

may have to put in another appearance.

Randel had been called in Monday along with Lillian Bergson, Brooklyn and Long Island booker for Paramount. Miss Bergson was questioned at length about local theatre developments and bookings and by the time she got through, Hickey decided to hold off his interrogation of Randel until Friday. Both Keough and Phillips sat in during the time Miss Bergson answered questions. No testimony was taken.

Louis Nizer, who has been retained by RKO to represent them in the current investigation, is understood to be making a study of expansion moves by Century during the past 10 years. He has interviewed a number of persons and at the same time has temporarily postponed plans for a month's vacation to Hawaii.

Figured in St. Louis Case

Both Levinson and Phillips played key parts in the defense of the Government's anti-trust criminal and civil actions in St. Louis two years ago. Keough was also active in the Mound City cases. They also took active parts in the recent informal hearing before Assistant Attorney General Hubert Harrington in Newark. In both instances, Newark and Brooklyn film companies are cooperating with Government officials.

Seen in the background of the local investigations is Russell Hardy, who led the Government's legal lineup in the two St. Louis actions. He has been reported to have discussed the Century allegations with the circuit's attorneys in New York.

20th-Fox Asked for Data

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Hubert Harrington of New Jersey has requested local sales executives of 20th Century-Fox to furnish data in connection with clearances and protection in Newark. The local office is now working on the information, but is awaiting word from Felix Jenkins, general counsel, before submitting it.

Representatives from 20th Century-Fox and Universal were missing from the general discussion held in Harrington's office at Newark on July 23. When attorneys and sales representatives of major companies attended the session they found that a complaint had been made by the Mosque, independently operated.

According to Willard B. McKay, Universal general counsel, Harrington has not asked for any information from the company.

Switch Raft's Schedule

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—George Raft's next for Paramount will be "Strange Fascination," in which Shirley Ross will play the feminine lead. This picture will supercede "Beau Geste," "Argentine Love" and "You and Me," other vehicles scheduled for Raft. William LeBaron will produce and Andrew L. Stone will direct the story, which he is now writing with Eve Greene. It was formerly called "Dream of Love."

which they are taking over from James N. Robertson on Sept. 1.

At the time of the recent schism in the ranks of Allied, when 55 theatres belonging to both organizations resigned from Allied, W. & W. said that they would not re-join the book- ing combine. Since then, it has been reported that Allied and the American Theatre Science, a buying combine of some 40 out-state theatres, would unite with Allied, including the W. & W. houses, to form another combine to compete with Co-Op. Today's action eliminated the possibility of this and completely upset the local picture, Co-Op. now having won enough strength to make it all-powerful in this territory.

H. M. Richey, who resigned from Allied to become director of public relations for Co-Op. at the time of the schism, issue the following statement today:

"At the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of Co-Operative today, Fred Delodder was elected president to replace James N. Robertson, whose Roosevelt theatre passes to Wisper & Wetsman on Sept. 1 and whose Cinderella Theatre will be taken over by United Detroit Theatres. Gustave Funk, of the Great Lakes Theatre, was elevated to vice-president, succeeding Delodder.

Wisper to Co-Op. Board

"Probably the most important business of the meeting involved the approval by the board of directors of the membership of the Wisper & Wetsman theatres, 12 in number. The combination of Wisper & Wetsman with Co-Operative is the result of several conferences between them, myself and R. E. Moon, general manager of Co-Op. Lew Wisper becomes a member of the board of directors of Co-Op. The organization now has a membership of nearly 100 theatres in Detroit and out-state."

Lew Wisper said: "We believe the movement a constructive one and we are always happy to be a part of a general co-operative movement for the betterment of all."

The switch of W. & W. to Co-Op. and the resulting resignation of their theatres from Allied will be a blow to the exhibitor organization, leaving it with only about 50 theatres in the city and state, most of them unimportant houses. No statement could be obtained from Pearl Sprott, acting manager of Allied, as to the future or future plans of that organization.

fact that he is out of town so much that he cannot devote the time the post requires. He has headed the unit for two years and feels that another should take over the presidency.

Regional directors will meet the morning of Sept. 22 with Arthur B. Price conducting the session. Nathan B. Yamins, Fall River; Arthur Howard, Boston, and Fred Herrington, Pittsburgh, have indicated they will attend. Other directors, particularly from the west, have not been heard from.

The local unit yesterday held a meeting at the Lincoln where plans for the convention were discussed. A nominating committee is scheduled to be named in two weeks.

Pathe-Cinema Fate Disturbing French

Robert Dirlor, who has been in control since the retirement of Bernard Natan and the resultant receivership. Dirlor proposed a 50 per cent reduction in debentures, a 25 per cent reduction in shares and the cancellation of the social capital of the receivership society. After a disturbance during which the police were called 250 shareholders present representing 600,000 shares voted down the proposal, 438,000 shares to 165,000. Dirlor was defeated for reelection as president of the board of shareholders, 407,000 shares against 220,000.

Dirlor retired from the meeting and Verdet-Kleber, representing the Union Parisienne, French bank; Lucien Fabre, representing Credit du Nord, another bank; Georges Deacours and Jacques Thibault, representing some Lyons concerns, and Messrs. Clarac and Hayet, representing Kodak Film, were elected to the council.

The council has to start on a new plan, and it is believed it will encounter opposition from the Dirlor supporters. Bernard Natan still owns 184,000 shares under a decision of the Court of Commerce and he is an important factor.

U. A. Testing a New Method for Titling

United Artists, in association with Technicolor technicians, has developed a new plan for superimposing titles on films for foreign markets, according to Arthur W. Kelly, in charge of foreign activities, except England, for U.A.

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" will be the first picture on which the plan will be used. It will be tried in Buenos Aires and if successful will be extended to other countries.

Under the plan, titles are printed between frames so that they are projected below the picture on the screen. This necessitates dropping the masking of the screen one foot so that the titles are underneath the scene instead of on it.

Kelly stated that all companies will be invited to use the method as an industry development. A test screening will be held next week. The plan also requires that exhibitors change apertures slightly.

George Hilton, in charge of film prints for U.A., worked out the development with Technicolor men.

KMOX has signed Martha Cushman, songstress at the Hotel De Soto here. . . . With the Slack Minstrel show off the air at KWK until early fall, various members of that entertainment group are vacationing in different places.

WIL to Retain Small & Brewer

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—Negotiations have just been completed and the contract signed by L. A. Benson, president and general manager of WIL, to retain Small & Brewer as national representatives. WIL is looking forward to a full commercial schedule this fall, and Small & Brewer will handle all national accounts.

Bar Quebec Liquor Ads

QUEBEC, Aug. 10.—Acting upon a request of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the Governors of the Canadian Radio Commission have banned liquor advertising over the radio in this Province, beginning Sept. 30. Before that date they will rule also on a proposed ban on beer and wine programs.

Iturbi's American Music Ideas Stir Up Mild Storm

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—A musical storm of first rate proportions is stirring this staid old city as a consequence of Jose Iturbi's refusal Monday evening to play tunes of Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern or George Gershwin during the All-American Robin Hood Dell concert here. As a consequence of the maestro's action, NBC, which was broadcasting the concert, cut the program off the air 25 minutes before schedule.

Local newspapers are featuring the episode on their front pages, quoting Iturbi as stating that he refused to play the songs of the aforementioned trio because he considered their works "cheap." Lucy Monroe, who, with Jan Peerce, was a featured soloist in the Dell, has taken exception to Iturbi's alleged castigation of the works of Herbert, Kern and Gershwin, and her exception is being widely featured in the newspapers here. Transradio Press yesterday issued to its station clients Miss Monroe's statement, in which she said that she could not conceive how any All-American concert could be considered representative without including the compositions of the three Americans.

Missouri University To Ask Radio Charge

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—The University of Missouri will cash in on its home played football games next fall by charging each radio station broadcasting the games $100 per game for the privilege. Last year the broadcasting privileges were free to all stations whose sponsorship and announcers were approved by the university heads. This approval will still be a requirement.

KSD, KWK and KMOX all broadcast the Missouri home games last year here and in Columbia, and it is likely that the $100 fee will not deter these stations from broadcasting the games.

Broadcast Births

New Orleans, Aug. 10.—A new wrinkle in broadcasting was that of WWL which extended its wires to the Hotel Dieu—a hospital—and, under the guidance of Henry Dupree, a broadcast was made from the maternity ward. The announcer described the treatment accorded a new born infant from the moment of its birth till it was delivered to its mother to be taken home.

CBS Will Broadcast Wightman Matches

CBS will broadcast the Wightman Cup tennis matches Aug. 20 and 21 over its network and its short wave station, W2XE.

The Aug. 20 matches will be broadcast from 2:30 to 4 P. M., and again from 4:30 to 5:30 P. M. The following day's play will be aired from 2 to 5:30 P. M., with the exception of the half hour period from 3:30 to 4 P. M.

KYW Feeding 16 Programs

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—KYW is now feeding 16 sustaining shows weekly to the NBC Red network, with others to be added as time clearance allows. Jan Savitt, station's musical director, handles most of the shows, with solo spots going to the piano duo of Carlile and London, songstress Bonnie Stuart and organist Arthur Hinett.

Ray Atchinson Quits KNX

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Ray Atchinson, purchasing department manager of KNX, has resigned and Fred Grayston succeeds him.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Lewis Allen Weiss, general manager of the Don Lee chain, has placed an order with Western Electric for two Type 110-A program amplifiers, one to be used at KHJ and the other for KFRC, San Francisco. The installations, set for Nov. 1, will be the first equipment of its kind to be used in the west, it is said. The new equipment will give the effect of a 100 per cent increase of carrier power.

Frederick Stark claims the local marathon recording distinction—21 excerpts from grand opera in six hours. . . . "Radio University" inaugurated the first of a new weekly drama series, "Ceiling Unlimited," over KHJ and the Don Lee chain Monday. The sponsor is Alpha Eta Rho, national aviation fraternity.

Margot Yoder, George Fischer's wife, has gone to Chicago for a month's stay. . . . J. J. Viala, French consul, will be guest speaker on Joine Alderman's "Women's Club of the Air" Monday on KFWB. . . . In addition to the appearance of Dalies Frantz, pianist, on the Kraft Music Hall Aug. 12, Claude Rains and Fay Wray are also billed.

Gail Patrick and Wendy Barrie have been cast for "As You Like it," CBS Shakespearean offering Aug. 26. . . . George McCaughna, Columbia assistant sales promotion manager, has been transferred to the department of Alan Cormack, traffic chief. . . . Columbia vacationists include: Kay Neurwirth, secretary to Les Bowman, head coast technician; Ben Paley, assistant program director, and Vern Tashner, technician. . . . Cocomalt returns to the air with Joe Penner and Jimmy Grier's orchestra Oct. 3 for 52 weeks from KNX here. . . . When Kate Smith resumes her Columbia programs Sept. 30, she will be heard on the coast for the first time. . . . KNX has cleared times for Chevrolet's weekly program starting Sept. 26 and the Coca Cola program Sept. 10.

Transradio Has Third 50,000-watt Station

through Central Iowa by Transradio. Transradio is now providing California for the first time with breakfast news broadcasts Sunday mornings. The Don Lee units go on the air at 10 A.M. with the reports, the only spot news broadcast that early in California.

KGER, Long Beach, Cal., this week began broadcasting Transradio service. The station will air five-minute spots hourly, with 15-minute news roundups and late flashes at appropriate times during the day.

KFXM, broadcasting Transradio for the past two years, has renewed its contract for the service. The station is owned and operated by Lee Brothers Broadcasting Co.

Corn Company Takes WHO Series

DES MOINES, Aug. 10.—The Pioneer Hi-Bred Corn Co., of Des Moines will sponsor the WHO Farm News broadcasts Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 6:30 A.M., beginning Aug. 17. Herb Plambeck, WHO farm editor, conducts the broadcasts. E. J. Potts & Co., Kansas City, Mo., is the agency.

LINCOLN, Aug. 10.—Nebraska Broadcasters, representing 10 stations in this state, elected John Gillin of WOW, Omaha, president; John M. Henry, of KOIL and KFAB, Omaha, vice-president, and Art Thomas, WJAG, Norfolk, secretary-treasurer.

Radio

Radio News Editors To Hold First Meet

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—The first annual meeting of the Association of Radio News Editors and Writers will be held Sept. 10 through 12 at the Hotel Sherman here. John Van Cronkhite is president.

Approximately 100 members have signified their intention of attending the three-day gathering.

The convention program is in the hands of a committee composed of Jack Harris, WSM; Beckley Smith, WJAS; Al Hollender, WJJD-WIND, and Ken McClure, WOAI.

The definite convention program will be announced next week. The three-day conclave is expected to go into every phase of radio news gathering, writing and broadcasting.

Three Station Pleas Go Before the FCC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Applications for three new broadcasting stations have been submitted to the FCC, as follows:

Platt & Platt, Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1,000 kilocycles, 1,000 watts; Cadillac Broadcasting Corp., Detroit, 1,140 kilocycles, 500 watts, daytime, and Valley Publishing Co., Harlingen, Tex., 1,200 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day.

The commission also received an application from Station WLBL, Stevens Point, Wis., for change of power from 2,500 watts to 1,000 watts night, 2,500 watts day.

"Radio Newsreel" Is Bought

The Emergine Co., which recently had an audition of a program titled "Radio Newsreel," has bought the show, it was made known yesterday.

The series is to begin Oct. 24 on the Basic NBC-Red network, and Sundays thereafter from 3 to 3:30 P.M. People in the news of the week will be featured in talks and interviews on each program. Parks Johnson and Wally Butterworth, who are featured on the Molle "Vox Pox" program, will supervise the programs. Stack-Goble is the agency. Publicity Associates will handle production.

John Schultz Goes West

John Schultz, of Fanchon & Marco left New York yesterday for Hollywood, where he will stay for 10 days looking after the affairs of Olson & Johnson, who are appearing on a west coast hookup for the Richfield Oil Co., through a F. & M. placement. It is believed that the sponsor is considering placing the act on a coast-to-coast hookup, hence Schultz's mission.

Jonathan D. Pierce to Sail

Jonathan D. Pierce, president of Birmingham, Castleman & Pierce, sails for Europe today on the Queen Mary, to visit the agency's European clients.

Mary Small for "Junior Revue"

Mary Small will headline "Junior Revue," a new NBC sustaining series beginning Aug. 18, from 8:30 to 9 P. M. over the Blue network.

Van Cronkhite Adds Two New Executives

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Van Cronkhite Associates, Inc., has added two executives to its personnel.

Forrest Johnson, formerly president of Pacific Air Industries and more recently account executive with the Pettinger & La Grange agency in Indianapolis, has taken over the directorship of VCA's foreign language station representative division, succeeding George Roesler who recently sold out his interests to John Van Cronkhite, VCA president.

Sam Knott has been appointed managing editor of the VCA news division. Knott formerly was with the United Press, and more recently divisional manager of Transradio Press Service.

Hold Hearing on WHN Row

Oral arguments in the dispute between the A. F. of L. and the C.I.O. involving WHN technicians will be heard today before the National Labor Relations Board in Washington.

Louis K. Sidney, head of WHN, and Irving Greenfield, Loew attorney, left last night for Washington to present their side of the case. Several weeks ago hearings were held here before a trial examiner. A report on the developments was sent to Washington at the time.

Scribner Back to Mutual

Jimmy Scribner, radio's "one man show," returns to the Mutual network beginning Aug. 23 from 6:45 to 7 P.M., and Mondays through Fridays thereafter at the same time.

Scribner is the whole program. He writes the script, produces, and enacts the roles of 22 characters. The program will originate in the studios of Mutual's Cincinnati outlet, WSAI.

KNX Adds Three Lines

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—Business has increased so rapidly at KNX that three new trunk lines were added to the switchboard today.

however, that the added cost to the industry will be at least $1,500,000. There are more than 10,000 exchange employees, with an annual payroll of $27,500,000. Thus, the varying estimates of increased costs would indicate wage increases as a result of unionization ranging from four to nine per cent.

The unionization of theatre personnel, now in progress, will place a considerably higher burden on the industry, as there are an estimated 240,000 persons employed in theatres in this country.

Board Asks Ruling On Fleischer Vote

The Regional labor relations board today sought an opinion from the N.L.R.B. in Washington as to whether or not it could proceed with the holding of an election of Fleischer studio employees for a collective bargaining representative while Fleischer's appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals from the N.L.R.B.'s order directing the holding of the election is pending.

Louis Nizer, attorney for Fleischer, said that the appeal from the national board's ruling would be filed "within the next few days." As the Federal appeals court has recessed for the summer, no hearing on the appeal can be had until fall. In the meantime, the regional board is desirous of proceeding with the election.

New IATSE Union Formed

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 10.—Following approval of separate jurisdiction by Felix Snow, I.A.T.S.E. representative here, the eight operators in Independence, Mo., adjoining Kansas City, Mo., on the east, have formed a separate I.A.T.S.E. local No. 498. The eight operators work in four theatres, and will have another in Fairmount when Rube Finkelstein finishes his new $40,000 theatre there. Theatre employees in Independence will come under the Kansas City, Mo., local, and stage hands, if Independence theatres ever need any, will come from the local here.

Continue Wage Talks

Another session will be held today between I.A.T.S.E. and distributor representatives for setting up agreements for local exchange unions. Oklahoma City and other key cities were discussed yesterday.

N. H. Gathering on Bank Night Fizzles and Edward Levy of the M. P. T. O. unit feel that the Windsor Locks case was not a real test because the exhibitor there deviated from the usual plan.

Following similar orders in Hartford, Fairfield and Middlesex Counties last week, the New Haven Police Dept. has sent formal notice of the ban on all money games in this area. Bank Night, Cash Nights, Screeno, Bingo, Beano and all others are included in the order.

Strike Threat Wanes In Mexican Theatres

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 10.—The strike peril resulting from the demand of unionized theatre workers for a 25 per cent wage increase has been more or less removed, as most exhibitors have granted the demand. This action has inspired the unions to hold back their demand to share in the theatres' annual income.

A move of a group of screen players to secede from the national picture players union was frowned upon by the Government. The Federal Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, which has jurisdiction over all such labor matters, refused to permit the dissenting group to officially register. The board refused registration sanction on the ground that it would set a precedent which would pave the way to a split up of unionism in this country.

January, Wilcox said. He leaves for London today on the Queen Mary and may confer while there with Stanton Griffiths, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, who is now abroad, on a producing deal for that company. He will return to New York next month for the American premiere of "Victoria, the Great," his first picture for RKO distribution.

Martha Raye, "Eve" $60,000 Chicago Smash

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Martha Raye, at Chicago, did a record-breaking business, $60,000, which was $28,000 above average. "Ever Since Eve" was the film attraction. Appearing four and five shows daily to capacity business, Miss Raye proved the biggest attraction to play the Chicago since the Century of Progress Exposition days.

"Wee Willie Winkie" at the Roosevelt was another big hit and scored $20,600, which was almost double average. "The Road Back" at the Palace was a strong contender for honors with $28,000.

The weather was fair and warm. A circus just on the edge of the Loop, the free band concerts, ball games and races attracted many patrons but didn't seem to hurt the Loop houses, although neighborhood theatres found business rather light.

Total first run business was $177,200. Average is $118,000.

Estimated takings:

Senate Moves For Start of Radio Probe

Committee Approval Is Given Resolution

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The long-agitated Congressional investigation of the broadcasting situation today was given the blessing of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee and sent to the Senate for approval before adjournment.

At its meeting this morning, the committee ordered a favorable report on the resolution introduced by Senator Wallace White of Maine, thus getting in ahead of the House where the Connery resolution has been pending for some months.

The White resolution proposes that the inquiry be conducted by the Interstate Commerce Committee with particular reference to the following points:

Cases, if any, in which the F.C.C. has departed from or has modified the application of its regulations;

All acts by the F.C.C. which recognize or seem to recognize rights to

Radio Actors Will Get Charter Today

The Associated Actors and Artistes of America is scheduled to issue an A. F. of L. charter to the new American Federation of Radio Actors today. The radio charter was recently surrendered to the Four A's by Actors' Equity Ass'n in order to permit the formation of an autonomous union for the radio talent field.

The new radio organization's national board of governors has been ratified by all of the Four A unions and is scheduled to meet early next week to elect officers and appoint a management staff.

Labor Board Hears Arguments on WHN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Chairman J. Warren Madden and member Donald W. Smith of the National Labor Relations Board today heard oral arguments in the WHN case involving a controversy between the American Radio Telegraphists Ass'n and the I.A.T.S.E. over representation of em-

Court Orders Briefs Be Filed by Aug. 16

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson reserved decision following the hearing in U. S. District Court here today on Paramount's petition to make permanent a court order restraining exhibitors in this territory from mass demonstrations against the company and concerted action in refusing to set play-dates and negotiate for new season product. The court directed attorneys for both the company and the exhibitors to submit briefs on the law involved by Aug. 18.

Pending the court's decision, the restraining order issued by Judge

ERPI'S EQUIPMENT FIELD AWAITS BID

Kent at National Talks Television

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 11.—Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, predicted here today that television will be perfected in due time, but declared its use will have little effect on attendance in motion picture theatres "because people want their amusement with a crowd."

Here to address the National Theatres convention, Kent said he did not believe television "will hurt the movies any more than radio, which I feel, has helped the movies. People may stay home a few nights to listen to the radio, especially when there is some important event broadcast, but they soon want their entertainment with the crowd, and attend a movie, ball game or some similar entertainment." The greatest "kick" people get, said Kent, is from other people, although they may not always realize it.

Regarding the use of color in films Kent said that the process is improving in quality and use, but asserted it would not take the place of black and white in production. "Some pictures become invaluable through the use of color," he said. "With others, it

Open for a Formal Offer
Of Purchase; RCA's
Future a Factor

Erpi stands ready to dispose of its theatre equipment and servicing business if an acceptable arrangement can be made with prospective purchasers, a high official of the company told MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday.

Several tentative proposals have been broached already, it was stated, but have not materialized in any formal purchase offer yet. The proposals contemplate the taking over of R. C. A. Photophone's theatre equipment and servicing business, as well, as those interested in a possible deal are reluctant to enter the situation with two theatre equipment sales and servicing organizations in the field, it was indicated.

One of the first proposals to develop was broached to Erpi executives by representative operators of large circuits affiliated with Paramount at their national meeting in Miami last March. The circuit men present at that meeting included E. V. Richards of New Orleans, Karl Hoblitzelle, Dallas; M. A. Lightman, Memphis; Samuel Pinski, Boston; M. E. Comerford, Scranton; Robert Wilby, Atlanta; N. L. Nathanson, Toronto; R. J. O'Donnell, Dallas; W. K. Jenkins, Atlanta, and Barney Balaban, Y. Frank Freeman and Adolph Zukor of Paramount.

Informed at that time of Erpi's willingness to consider an offer, a tentative proposal was outlined later. It

Rain Dampens All but Ardor At Opening of "Emile Zola"

By SHERWIN A. KANE

The rain started falling at 7:40 P.M. and an hour later, when the premiere of "The Life of Emile Zola" at the Hollywood was 10 minutes behind its scheduled start, S. Charles Einfeld had abandoned whatever hopes he might have had earlier in the evening for a formal dress opening.

Umbrellas and raincoats hid summer finery; flashes of lightning vied with the photographers' bulbs, but the rain did a better job of keeping the sidewalks clear for Warners' guests than a squadron of bluecoats might have been able to do otherwise. It was still raining at 9:21 when the picture started and Nate Blumberg, Major Edward Bowes and Jack Cohn arrived. And at 10:30 Ben Crisler of The New York Times, was still waiting en deshabille in the theatre manager's office for someone to return from the tailor's to whom his rain-soaked trousers had been consigned for pressing more than an hour before.

While clothes may have been dampened, spirits were not. It was a gay opening and a crowded one. It induced Einfeld to announce that the Hollywood was to be made available in the future as a Broadway roadshow house to all producers, and that Warners hoped to make it "the Carthay Circle of New York." It encouraged Sid Rechetnick to quote statistics on the advance sale for the "Zola" run, which on the basis of pre-opening campaign alone, he said, was double that of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" on the first day.

In addition to a long list of civic and social figures who made up last

Reported as $9,490

A net profit of $9,490 for the Roxy Theatre for the period from June 25 to July 29 was shown on the monthly report filed by Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, in the U. S. District Court yesterday. The statement is based on unaudited figures and the profit is calculated before deductions for interest on funded indebtedness, depreciation, amortization and legal fees.

Cash received for the period was $166,492 and disbursements were $153,341, showing an excess of receipts over disbursements of $13,151. Cash on hand is $77,365 as compared with $64,213 a month ago.

Admissions totaled $150,782; film rentals, $26,447; special talent, $2,374; orchestra, $11,525; stage, $9,764; projectionists, $4,754; advertising costs, $18,875; house salary, $15,174; advisory supervision, $7,688; rent, tax and insurance, $17,526. A formal hearing on the approved plan of reorganization for the Roxy was adjourned to Aug. 25 by Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum.

Eastman Net $11,475,066

A net profit of $11,475,066, after taxes and charges, for the six months ending June 12 has been reported by Eastman Kodak Co. and subsidiaries. The figure represents $5.01 per common share.

To Film Steel Making

Technicolor has been engaged by the U. S. Steel Corp. to film a commercial feature centering around the steel industry. An eight-week itinerary has been mapped out calling for shooting at plants scattered from Minnesota to Pittsburgh. The film will cover steel processing activities from the raw ore in the mine to finished products. The deal is reported to be for over $200,000.

"The Life of Emile Zola" was reviewed in MOTION PICTURE DAILY, July 1.

Free Lottery Violators

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11. — Charges against eight Bingo operators arrested last April as lottery violators were dismissed here today by Police Judge Lillian Westropp. The dismissal followed a request of the vice squad head, Lt. Ernest Molnar, who claimed it doubtful that he could get convictions. Six previous cases had resulted in acquittals. No exhibitors were involved.

Schenck Awards Plaques

Grace Niles, manager of Loew's Lexington; L. Suess, Fairmount; Charles Burns, Yonkers; Archie Adlman, 175th St.; Seymour Mayer, formerly of the Pitkin and now district manager; A. Weiss, Oriental; H. K. Brown, Century, and A. Isaacs, Plaza, winners in the recent Loew's Spring Hit Parade drive in Greater New York, yesterday were awarded plaques by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of the circuit.

LONDON, July 28. — H. Yorke has been appointed joint assistant general manager of Odeon Theatres Ltd., with R. H. Dewes and A. C. Swift.

Purely
Personal

MICHAEL MARKS COHEN, third in the SAMMY COHEN household, arrived yesterday, just in time for the COHENS to celebrate their 14th wedding anniversary today.

ROGER FERRI, editor of the 20th Century-Fox house organ, Dynamo, returned yesterday from an extended trip to the west coast. J. P. O'LOUGHLIN, leader of the S. R. Kent Drive, also returned with FERRI.

HAROLD RODNER was tendered a luncheon the other day by M. P. Associates at Leone's. JOE LEE, president, was toastmaster. RODNER talked on the Will Rogers Memorial.

CHARLES KULLMAN, Metropolitan Opera tenor, who will have one of the leads in "The Goldwyn Folies," left yesterday for the coast.

ROLAND YOUNG sailed yesterday on the Queen Mary for the G.B. studios in England where he will appear in "Sailing Along."

MIKE CONNOLLY, former New York agent, has been made studio contact and checker for the eastern office of the Screen Actors' Guild.

S. R. KENT, who has gone to Colorado Springs to attend the National Theatres' convention, is due back Monday.

JULES KOENIG, formerly manager of the Times Square, has been shifted to the Republic.

STANLEY RAUH's original "A Trip Through the Plant" has been acquired by M-G-M.

HARPO MARX and MRS. MARX (Susan Fleming) are at the Waldorf-Astoria.

SYLVIA SIDNEY will arrive from the coast today to start rehearsals in "To Quito and Back."

NEIL F. AGNEW returned yesterday from Philadelphia.

RUTGERS NEILSON will sail Saturday for Bermuda and a vacation.

GILBERT JOSEPHSON has closed the World and plans to reopen it shortly.

RKOWon't Roadshow
Disney "Snow White"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11. — Walt Disney's cartoon feature, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," will be released by RKO in its regular product lineup instead of being roadshown as had originally been planned. Uncertainty concerning the percentage to charge for the film is said to have caused the shift in the RKO plans.

The release date is tentatively set for some time shortly after the first of the year. The studio says that the film will have cost $1,500,000.

In Appreciation
'ZOLA'

With great pleasure and pride I take this opportunity to thank everyone connected with the production of "The Life of Emile Zola". The acclaim which greeted the picture at its premiere at the Hollywood Theatre last night belongs to Hal B. Wallis, to Henry Blanke, to William Dieterle, to Paul Muni and every artist, to the writers and to the entire Warner Bros. studio personnel for having made possible a production that marks still another milestone in the history of the screen. They, and they alone, own the glory of having created a masterpiece as far above the average as our first talking picture was above the silent ones.

Dickinson on July 30 continues in force.

George P. Aarons, secretary of the U.M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, was the only witness to take the stand at today's hearing. Questioning of the witness by Louis Phillips and William A. Schnader, Paramount attorneys, was aimed to show that the exhibitors would interfere with the free flow of interstate commerce through their "buyers' strike" against the company.

Aarons testified that the exhibitors had discarded their elaborate picketing campaign and would seek only to continue the date strike and refrain from signing new contracts by "lawful means."

The absence of exhibitors from the courtroom, reportedly on the advice of counsel, Benjamin Golder, was noticeable today. Fewer than a dozen were present, presumably to avoid the suggestion of mass interest or concerted action.

It was reported that Dep't of Justice agents attended the hearing as observers in connection with the Allied States complaint filed against Paramount with the Federal Trade Commission in Washington, but no spectator was positively identified as an agent of the department.

Minneapolis Hearing Today

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye is scheduled to hear Paramount's application for an order restraining independent exhibitors in this territory from conspiring to interfere with the company's interstate business today in U. S. District court here. A temporary restraining order was signed by the court on Aug. 5.

Chicago Delays Move For New Theatre Tax

last week made it necessary to work out a plan and this will be done next month.

It is expected that with the ticket tax idea out of the way a theatre license fee increase will be the solution to the matter. It is intimated that the present license fees will be doubled at least, in the attempt by the city to collect approximately $1,000,000 from theatres to help meet a $3,000,000 city deficit which has been brought about by the granting of a pay increase of 10 per cent to all city employees.

"Band Wagon" Is Back

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Warners are still having trouble with the title for "Hollywood Hotel." First called that, and then changed to "Hollywood Band Wagon," the picture became "Hollywood Hotel" last week when, it was announced, that the title had been cleared. Now it appears that the announcement was premature, and it is now titled, tentatively at least, "Hollywood Band Wagon."

Fligelstone Arrives To Study Exhibition

T. H. Fligelstone, former head of the C.E.A. in England and currently operating six theatres independently, arrived yesterday on the Champlain for a five-week visit. He will spend about a week in New York and then go to the coast. En route he will stop to inspect a number of theatres. While in Hollywood, he will visit the M-G-M, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia studios. He will sail for home from Montreal on the Empress of Britain the middle of September.

Although Fligelstone stated he was here on pleasure, he also said he would look over theatres in New York and other cities.

"I'm a little tired of being told what you do over here; I'm now going to see for myself," he said.

Fligelstone asserted that the circuits in England are now going through expansion moves similar to those made by major circuits in this country five years ago. The circuits are expanding very fast, he added, "and I'm one of the few independents left."

The British theatre operator held high hopes that the new proposed quota regulations will make for a better industry in England. Parliament is in recess until October, he said. The proposals will be threshed out when it reconvenes.

Form Columbia Units

DOVER, Del., Aug. 11.—Columbia Films of Netherlands Indies, Ltd., and Columbia Films of Malaya, Ltd., were chartered here today. Each company has a listed capital of $5,000. Incorporations for each are Max Seligman, Richard Philpott and Floyd Weber.

Wilk, Daniell in London

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Arrivals aboard the Aquitania here included Jake Wilk and F. W. Daniell, of Australia.

"Gangway"

London, Aug. 11.—Running 90 minutes with 75 per cent of the sets depicting New York and an ocean liner, this film starts slowly but gathers momentum as Jessie Matthews delivers some good comedy in addition to five musical numbers, the best of which is the title song and dance. However, there is more farce than music in the picture.

Miss Matthews is a girl reporter who, making an involuntary trip to New York, is mistaken for a famous jewel thief. Getting herself mixed up in a gang war she frustrates an attempt to steal the necklace of a millionaire.

Comedy roles are well filled and the story has value as a fast-stepping gangster farce. ALLAN

F.P. Canadian Will Hold Toronto Meet

Famous Players Canadian will hold a three-day convention in Toronto, starting Aug. 23. A number of film men from New York will attend the sessions.

J. J. Fitzgibbons, operating head for the circuit, and Ben Geldsaeler, booker and film buyer, are in New York discussing new product deals. They will remain here until the end of the week.

MGM to Open in Durban

M-G-M will open the new 2,000-seat Metro in Durban, So. Africa, tomorrow evening. "After the Thin Man" will be the initial attraction. The company will also open a new house at Brisbane, Australia, Oct. 1.

See Lower Rates at Amalgamated Studio

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Latest developments here in the receivership of Amalgamated Studios, Ltd., are causing some concern in the industry which anticipates lower floor rates for the studio, the original cost of which was £600,000 and which now is said to be available for only £300,000. It is believed that bidders for the property will include John Maxwell and M-G-M.

The original plan of Amalgamated was for inclusive floor hire at prices 25 per cent below those prevailing at Pinewood and Denham. The latest valuation of the plant makes further cuts possible.

Prime movers in the Amalgamated plan were S. H. Soskin, Russian banker and uncle of Paul Soskin, and Major Charles Bell, construction engineer.

The studio at the present time is just a shell. It is believed that a large shipment of American equipment for the plant was never cleared from the docks.

Westabee Made RKO Manager in Holland

Max Westabee, for 20 years with RKO and former companies, has been named Holland managing director by Phil Reisman, foreign sales head. He sailed yesterday on the Queen Mary for Amsterdam where he will make his headquarters.

Westabee succeeds Roberto Trillo, who was killed July 28 in a plane crash in Belgium.

shown that upwards of 32,000,000 persons paid more than $8,000,000 for theatre tickets during the seven-month period, representing a six per cent increase over 1936, and an 11 per cent improvement over 1935.

Oregon theatres grossed more than $5,000,000, representing 20,000,000 admissions during the seven months ending last July 31. The percentages of increase over preceding years are the same as those recorded in Washington.

Frank L. Newman of Evergreen State Corp., who aided in the compilation of the figures, pointed out that they were achieved in the face of a 25-cent admission average for the two states. He attributed the gains to increased public leisure due to shorter working hours now prevailing.

Starts Billboard Fight

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Attorney General Paul Dever is taking legal steps to effect the removal of nine billboards along the state highways on Cape Cod. The action, of interest to the industry, concerns advertising signs in Barnstable, Bourne, Brewster, East Falmouth, Orleans, Truro, Wellfleet, and Sandwich. Billboards elsewhere in the state are threatened with removal.

Schines Revive Billboards

ALBANY, Aug. 11.—Billboard advertising is being revived by the Schine Circuit. All along the public highways in the up-state area Schine paper is plentiful.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Sea Racketeers"

(Republic)

[Editor's Note—Due to a typographical error a review of another picture was published yesterday under the above title in MOTION PICTURE DAILY. The correct review follows:]

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Reaction of a preview audience indicated that this will have wide appeal, eliciting praise for novel twists in a patently melodramatic plot which has the United States Coast Guard and fur smugglers as background. The story keeps moving at a rapid pace, the direction is well pitched, and the performance of the cast, which is not overly studded with name values, is appropriate.

Made with an unlimited budget, "Sea Racketeers" might attract greater attention, but it ranks far above many productions of equivalent overhead, both from workmanship and entertainment angles.

While the story utilizes the innocent dupe idea in connection with the plot, the film is marked by added embellishments in the drive of the Coast Guard to track down the smuggling gang, which makes its headquarters aboard a gambling night club boat.

The cast is headed by Weldon Heyburn, Jeanne Madden, Warren Hymer, Dorothy McNulty and J. Carroll Naish. Armand Schaeffer, long identified with Republic westerns, is responsible for the production, and the veteran Hamilton MacFadden directed. Dorrell and Stuart MacGowan wrote the neat screenplay.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Fred Allen returns to "Town Hall Tonight" on a date as yet undetermined. Wednesdays, 9 to 10 P. M., E.S.T., on the Red network. Sponsored by Bristol-Myers Co., through Young & Rubicam.

To Raise Radio Set Prices

Due to increasing production costs, three major manufacturers of radio sets, RCA, General Electric, and Philco intend to advance their prices. While the boost is as yet unspecified, it is said the increase will amount to 10 or possibly 15 per cent.

Zenith is boosting prices $2.50 to $10 a set on their most popular models.

"Blue Serenade" on Today

"Blue Serenade," a new series built and produced by Nat Brusiloff, musical director, and Jack Coombs, assistant program director, makes its bow over WMCA today at 8:15 P.M. The program will feature Libby Hall, Clifford Lane, a male quartet and Brusiloff's orchestra.

Summer Shows On the Air

"Hello Peggy"

"Hello Peggy," serial script based on the career of a hotel telephone operator, is one of those typical early hour scripts which often border on the assinine.

The story deals with Peggy, her reporter boy friend, Ted, and a couple of bellhops named Speedy and Windy.

Yesterday's episode dealt with Peggy's jealous burn-up because Ted, away on an assignment for his paper with a crew of girls, had written to her about a "starry-eyed innocent" named Sally. With the little green god jabbing away at her reason, Peggy makes a date with an old flame. Ted returns, vows his love for Peggy, states Sally means nothing to him, and asks Peggy to keep a date with him. Consequence: Peggy has two dates at the same hour, and her perplexed sobs end the episode. As if he needed to tell anyone, the announcer hinted that Peggy would prove her resourcefulness in the next episode by getting out of the scrape.

"Hello Peggy" is sponsored by the Drackett Co. for Drano, and is heard over the NBC-Blue Wednesdays and Fridays at 11:45 A.M.

BANNER

Gordon Signs A Deal With Herman Bernie

Max Gordon, well known theatrical producer, has closed a pact with the Herman Bernie office whereby the latter will represent him exclusively in radio. Several of the bigger advertising agencies are now negotiating for the Gordon radio show.

The program tentatively is titled "Max Gordon's Radio Bandwagon." The ingredient will be excerpts from his dramatic and musical successes. These include "Three's A Crowd," "Bandwagon," "Cat and the Fiddle," "Roberta," "Design for Living," "Dodsworth," "Great Waltz," "Pride and Prejudice," "Shining Hour," "St. Helena," "Ethan Frome," "The Farmer Takes a Wife" and others.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—"Hits—Old and New" and "Serenade in the Night" started this week as regular KFWB Wednesday night programs, the former, from 7 to 7:30 P.M., P.S.T., featuring Marian Mansfield, Fred Skinner and Leon Leonardi's orchestra, and the latter, from 8:30 P.M. to 9 P.M., P.S.T., features Verna Osborne and Rene Williams' orchestra. . . . KFI and KECA will pick up remote control broadcasts from the Coconut Grove while Hal Kemp and his orchestra play their engagement there. NBC will air the program nationally and CBS will continue to air his Friday night cigarette program.

Pat Bishop is on his vacation, Doug Evans has been given the announcing assignment on KFI's "The Screen Week," which is written as a weekly

Wednesday night program by Richard Sheridan Ames. . . . John Canady takes Bishop's place on the news broadcasts. . . . Paul Myers of "Good Ship Grace," KFI, is also vacationing, as are John Edwards and Dorothy Graham of the program department.

KNX next Sunday will try another "Traffic Control from the Air" broadcast, with Lieut. J. Vic Wallen warning of traffic tieups from a National Guard airplane flying over the beach fronts. . . . "The West Coast Church of the Air" will present an all-Catholic service on KNX and the Columbia Pacific network Sunday from 1:30 to 2:30 P.M., P.S.T. . . . Carol Lofner this weekend (Friday and Saturday) will bring his band to the Pasadena Community Dance Hall and KNX will broadcast his melodies from 11 to 11:30 P.M., P.S.T., each night.

Radio Personals

NILES Trammell, vice-president in charge of NBC's central division, and Frank M. Russell, head man in NBC's Washington office, are in town. . . . Gabby Hartnett, catcher for the Chicago Cubs, will be a guest on the "Jamboree" program Aug. 14. . . . Bob Trout, Washington announcer, is in the city. . . . Jimmie Lunceford's orchestra will make its first appearance on the west coast when the band opens a 20-week stay at the Sebastian Cotton Club at Culver City Oct. 4. The deal was set by Tom Rockwell who, by special arrangement with Harold F. Oxley, will also handle the aggregation for theatres, one-nighters, pictures and radio. . . . Harry L. Grelck joins NBC as a studio engineer Aug. 16, coming from the International Broadcasting Co. . . . Fred Weber, Mutual executive, has returned from a business trip to Chicago. . . . Elinore Sherry, WOR songstress, has been booked for a personal appearance at the Metropolitan, Boston, beginning the week of Aug. 19. . . .

Del Casino will return to home grounds next Monday when he starts a new CBS sustaining series at 5:30. The following evening he will be heard as guest vocalist on the Mark Warnow series, and on Wednesday he will start the first of his 10:30 broadcasts. . . . Cornelia Otis Skinner will be heard on the Sealtest program Sunday. . . . Hammerstein "Music Hall" guests Aug. 20 will be Lucy Monroe, Clyde Barrie and John Hendrick. . . .

Sam Hammer to Start Aug. 18

"How About It?," a new program conducted by Sam Hammer, will be heard for the first time over WOR and the Mutual network Aug. 18, from 10 to 10:30 P.M., and weekly thereafter at the same time. Ten teams of contestants, each consisting of a man and a woman, will compete in telling their reactions to situations in life that are headlined in the news. A $10 cash prize will be awarded weekly to the winning team.

University Uses Radio Scripts

All programs of the CBS Shakespearean cycle are being made use of by the University of Nebraska as part of the Speech Department's summer course for directors. The University publishes front page stories about the cycle in the Nebraskan, posts weekly notices on the school bulletin board, and has placed a radio in the auditorium where classes listen to the broadcasts.

Mutual Gets Gold Cup Race

Mutual will broadcast the Gold Cup Regatta races from Detroit Sept. 4 to 6, inclusive. The descriptions will originate through the facilities of CKLW, Joe Gentile, Steve Douglas and Art Sutton providing the commentary and descriptions.

Hoffman Signs with WNEW

Hoffman Beverage Co. has signed for a spot schedule over WNEW, beginning Aug. 2, to continue indefinitely. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn is the agency.

Whether the acts and decisions of the commission have been influenced by matters not apparent in the public records;

The geographical distribution of broadcasting facilities and whether there is an equitable distribution of service to all parts of the country and, if not, what steps should be taken to provide fair and equitable service;

The extent to which broadcast stations have been concentrated in the larger communities by transfer of stations from smaller communities;

The extent to which the circumstances under which the ownership, control, management or interest in more than a single station has passed into the hands of any person or group;

The circumstances surrounding and the considerations for the voluntary transfer of station licenses or construction permits, and all details of license or station transfers, sales of stock, leases, etc.

All acts or assertions by licensees which involve the claim to any right or interest beyond the terms, conditions and periods of the license.

To Probe Charges, Profits

Whether considerations have been paid or promised to any licensee for not interposing objection to an application for all or part of his facilities; and cases in which persons whose applications for license renewal have been refused have received from persons licensed to use those facilities money or other consideration in excess of the value of the physical equipment taken off the air.

Intermediate ownership of stations and its effects; investments in stations by licensees; charges for the use of station facilities and profits therefrom to which stations are used to build up other businesses in which licensees are interested and extent to which facilities of stations are refused to competitors of such other business; extent of newspaper ownership and control; all facts regarding networks; and their effects upon independent stations; censorship by stations; and extent of public service, political and advertising programs.

The Senate move followed by one day another biting attack on the radio industry by Representative W. D. McFarlane of Texas who has been trying to force the House to act on the Connelly resolution. During his speech McFarlane charged that the industry was violating the anti-trust laws.

Young Amateur Makes Good

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Thirteen-year-old Susanne Meniss, recent amateur hour discovery, is now heard three times weekly in her own quarter-hour song programs, over KYA and the California Radio System. The child is a soprano. She sings classical and popular tunes.

Charter Richmond Firm

RICHMOND, Aug. 11.—The Times-Dispatch Radio Corp., with maximum capital of $200,000, has been chartered.

ployes of the broadcasting station. All organized employees of the station are affiliated with the I.A.T.S.E., which claims it should also represent the engineers, as it now represents a majority of the workers. The engineers belong to the A.R.T.A., which refused to surrender them.

Discussion before the board today revolved around points brought out during the hearings in New York some weeks ago, and the board now has the matter under advisement, its decision being expected within the next few weeks.

Among those who appeared at the hearing were: Murray S. Kaplan, of the I.A.T.S.E. and Irving H. Greenfield, Louis K. Sidney and Herbert L. Pettet, representing the Marcus Loew Booking Agency, which controls the station.

"Passing Parade" Starts Sept. 12

"Passing Parade," which goes coast to coast for Duart Sales over the Mutual network beginning Sept. 12, will be heard as a sustaining period for four weeks prior to the commercial sponsorship. The sustaining programs begin Aug. 15, from 12 midnight to 12:15 A. M., Sundays. The sustaining broadcasts will be offered in cooperation with the World Peaceways.

FCC Grants Two Permits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The broadcast division of the Federal Communications Commission has granted operating permits to WJIM, Lansing, Mich., 1,210 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day, and WHLB, Virginia, Minn., 1,370 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day.

Wells to Go on NBC-Red

Linton Wells, newspaper correspondent, will inaugurate a radio series of personal anecdotes Aug. 21, from 8:30 to 8:45 P. M. over the NBC-Red network. The series, to be titled "Bits of Life by Linton Wells," will also include Wells' interpretation of trends and events.

Mike Stiver in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Mike Stiver, Australian manager of the J. Walter Thompson office, has arrived from Sydney to sort out some transcriptions which he will take back with him.

Superstitious?

Ted Webbe, WNEW's "man in the street" broadcaster, has sent the following requisition to the sound effects department for the Friday, the 13th, broadcast: two dozen pocket mirrors, a folding ladder, one pound salt, carton of cigarettes and matches, and a black cat—tamed.

The question of the day will be: "are you superstitious?" Whenever anyone says "no," Webbe will require them to tempt the witches by breaking a mirror, spilling salt, walking under the ladder, stroking the black cat, and be one of three on a match.

WBRC, Birmingham, To Join NBC-Red

Effective Jan. 1, WBRC will become affiliated with NBC as the Red network outlet in Birmingham, Ala.

The network rate for the station will be $160 per evening hour.

NBC's current affiliate in Birmingham, WAPI, will be terminated as of Dec. 31, this year. WAPI is a 5,000-watt station. WBRC has a power of 1,000 watts.

WBRC is currently the CBS station in Birmingham and it is believed that WAPI will replace it as the CBS unit.

Carrillo Home Broadcast Scene

"Hollywood in Person," a feature of the General Mills Hour on CBS, will feature a visit to the home of Leo Carrillo for an interview with the comedian and Jean Arthur, Aug. 13 from 1:45 to 2 P. M.

Aug. 16, the same program will feature as its guests Lupe Velez, and Wheeler and Woolsey.

Orr Heads Stack-Goble Radio

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Winthrop Orr, producer of radio dramas, has been named radio director of the Stack-Goble Agency effective Aug. 15. Orr has been with NBC during the past year.

WJJD, WIND to WLW Line

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—WJJD and WIND, Ralph Atlass stations, will join the WLW network starting Sept. 15, giving the WLW Line two Chicago outlets.

Dallas Bouts on NBC-Blue

A description of the Pan-American boxing bouts from Dallas, Tex., will be offered over the NBC-Blue from 10 to 11 P. M. Aug. 14. Hal Thompson will report the bouts.

Rites for Short Sunday

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Funeral services for Al Short, NBC orchestra conductor, will be held Sunday night in Springfield, Mass. Short died on Tuesday.

Ben Byers Joins Morse

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Ben Byers has quit his position on the Hollywood staff of Radio Guide to become personal publicity representative of Carlton Morse, "One Man's Family" author.

Erpi Willing To Drop Sale Of Equipment

contemplated the formation of a national company, the stock of which would be owned by the participating theatre interest. These stockholders would be granted regional franchises to conduct the equipment and servicing business in their respective territories. Erpi officials evidenced an interest in the proposal and the sponsors of the plan were invited to put the idea in the form of an offer. However, action on the proposal lagged thereafter and no formal proposal has been submitted to date, the Erpi official said.

Another proposal, currently being discussed, contemplates a take-over of Erpi's theatre activities by company employees under some such arrangement as was employed by A. T. & T. in divesting itself of Graybar Electric & Mfg. Co. Still another involves the acquisition of the business by a projector manufacturer.

Erpi to Maintain Control

Whichever deal materializes, and one is expected to eventually, would leave Erpi solely as a licensor of Western Electric-made equipment. Erpi is believed to favor retention of its sound recording equipment business, in which field for some time past it has been little more than a licensor. Sales in that field have long since reached the saturation point and servicing of equipment is handled to a large extent by studio technicians. None of the recent and current discussions has included the studio recording business, although major producers on several occasions since the introduction of sound have evidenced a serious interest, the last time as recently as a year ago, in an acquisition of Erpi's complete operations.

Several obvious factors account for Erpi's willingness to divest itself of its theatre equipment business. Foremost is A. T. & T.'s publicly declared intention of ultimately confining its interests to the communications field, as stated by Walter Gifford, president, before the Federal Communications Commission last year, and on several other occasions. In the offing, according to report, is an F. C. C. investigation of A. T. & T.'s activities outside the communications field.

Form Six Companies

ALBANY, Aug. 11.—New companies chartered here are: East Coast Studios, Inc., by Louis Bernstein, Leonard Greenspan and Gertrude Feinman; Waterloo State, Inc., by George E. Smith, Harry G. Copeland and Ruth E. Ackerson; Brooklyn Fox Corp., by Simon H. Fabian, Cornelius J. Smyth and Rae Okun.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 13, 1937

TEN CENTS

Coast's Radio Moves Delayed By Television

Construction Depending On Developments

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Fear that television, when nationally used might render obsolete present radio studios and equipment today was believed the reason for the delay of both NBC and Mutual in starting building programs here. This is also believed to be the reason Columbia is retaining its two broadcasting theatres here for periods long after the scheduled completion, expected by Jan. 1, of the new CBS building which will have seven studios and an auditorium.

Both Mutual and NBC headquarters, the former in Los Angeles and the latter in Hollywood, are admittedly cramped for space. NBC is bargaining for one of several spots. Rumors have the deal "in the bag" for the purchase of a portion of a city block at Sunset Blvd. and Vine St., site of the old Famous Players-Lasky studios, but insiders believe the deal may fall through. NBC is also talking over the purchase of the Warner studio on Sunset Blvd., on which

Hear Finance Plans On the Fox, Detroit

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—Plans for financing the reorganization of the Fox were discussed at a hearing held today before Special Master Marston. The reorganization plan was approved by the court some time ago.

Preliminary estimates of the amount of fees for trustees, attorneys and creditors' committees and of other reorganization costs were supplied the special master today. A final hearing on the matter is to be set later.

Federal Supervision Asked by S.E.T.O.A.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 12.—A resolution asking Congress to appoint a commission to supervise the sale of films to small theatres, thereby breaking up an alleged monopoly, today was adopted at a meeting of the South Eastern Theatre Owners' Assn. at Jacksonville Beach.

Maintain Decency, Is S. R. Kent Plea

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 12.—A plea for cleanliness on the screen was voiced here today by Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox in an address made before the 1937 convention of the National Theatres meeting at the Broadmoor Hotel. Kent's address, which was heard by 105 theatre executives, stressed the absolute necessity of keeping the screen on a high moral plane.

Kent asserted that the Legion of Decency, organized about two years ago in the Roman Catholic Church, Jupiter Pluvius and G. B. took a vote last night to see whether "Gangway" should be shown on the U.S.S. Texas at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and Jupiter won the first round. It was a wild night at sea and ashore.

Arthur Lee, George Weeks and Al Margolies transported a half hundred magazine and newspaper critics to Brooklyn by bus and the U. S. Navy officers met them at the yard gates. Dinner was served after a 21-gun salute outside the three-mile limit. The hors d'oeuvres were excellent. The soup was good. The

Para. "Strike" Stay Extended In Minnesota

Restraint Effective Until Aug. 19 Hearing

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 12.—After a preliminary hearing which lasted throughout today, Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye continued in full force until further hearing on Aug. 19 the temporary restraining order obtained by Paramount last week against Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest and individual defendants. The order prohibits mass action by the exhibitors in their "buyers' strike" against the company.

Judge Nordbye adjourned the morning session following arguments on a motion by the defendants to amend the wording of the restrainer. The motion was granted by the court after the hearing resumed at 2:00 P. M. The change involved only the language of the preamble to the order and did not alter the effect of the order in any respect. Under its provisions the defendants continue to be restrained from concerted action against

Exchange Men Move to Keep Chicago Board

Independent Financing May Be Adopted

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Exchange managers here today developed an independent financing plan in order to continue the local Film Board of Trade which may be adopted by other exchange centers throughout the country.

Clyde Eckhardt, president of the Chicago Film Board, in declaring that the board would be continued, said that it would have no connection with New York in the future. He said that officers of the board would continue to serve until the next annual election in the spring of 1938. Emma Ablanap, secretary, agreed today to continue in that post. She leaves Friday on an annual vacation and will resume her regular board duties on her return Sept. 7.

Eckhardt did not divulge the details of the plan under which the board will be continued, but it is assumed here that its independent, local character implies that the maintenance of the board will be undertaken by the exchange managers themselves.

Distribution home offices and the M.P.P.D.A. said yesterday that they had not been informed of the method

"Courageous" Gets $39,000 at Capitol

$1,600 for the first day at roadshow prices at the Globe, took in $1,500 the second day.

"Stella Dallas" began its second week at the Music Hall yesterday. At three P.M. $4,000 was in the till. The forecast for the day was $13,500. The first day of the second week appeared to be bigger than the opening day.

"Topper" on Dual Big

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—The opening day grosses for "Topper" and "Between Two Women" at the Chinese and Loew's State here totaled $4,844, which is close to a record for the combined take. It bettered the mark set by "A Day at the Races" but was beneath those of "Saratoga" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Many "Toast" Holdovers

"The Toast of New York" is being held for a second week in numerous key situations, including Keith's, Boston; Palace, Chicago, and Palace, Cincinnati.

Purely Personal

Y. FRANK FREEMAN, LEON NETTER, NATE BLUMBERG, FRED MYERS, MORT SINGER and JOE BEN discuss the Paramount-RKO pool in Minneapolis during the mid-day repast at the Tavern yesterday. At another table RUBE JACKTER is getting the low-down on the Florida theatre situation from SIDNEY MYERS. The latter leaves today for a fishing trip in Maine which will last until the end of next month. Then he will go to Chicago for another vacation, he said.

BILL BARNETT is lunching with a friend and informs that he will sail Sept. 1 on the Normandie for a six-week tour of the Continent. MITCHELL KLUPP, MILTON KORNBLUM, LEO JUSTIN, MORRIS JACKS and HERMAN GLUCKMAN occupy the Monday Knights round table. KORNBLUM is a newcomer, hailing from the state of Washington, and is the guest of KLUPP.

ARTHUR LEE, seated at a table by the wall, is all excited about the screening of "Gangplank," latest JESSIE MATTHEWS picture, on the Texas. Dinner first, he says, then the screening which will be followed by dancing. ARTHUR GREENBLATT is close by with MORRIS EPSTEIN and the discussion revolves around the local investigation by the Dept. of Justice.

CHARLIE STERN, just back from Buffalo, and MOE STREIMER come in late and join the Monday Knights. FRED MCCONNELL is alone and apparently enjoying the food. ARTHUR KELLY and TOM MULROONEY discuss U.A. foreign matters. JACK BARNSTYN and JACOBO GLUCKSMAN talk on the same subject, but with the independent field in mind.

HAL HORNE has ESTELLE SCHROTT as his guest and is later joined by A. P. WAXMAN and WOLFE KAUFMAN. BEN WASHER, COLVIN BROWN, TERRY RAMSAYE, JAMES CRON, BOB HARRISON, WILLIAM FITELSON and GEORGE BROWN are spotted at other tables while TOOTS SHOR makes the rounds with a big broad smile masking his ruddy features.

MRS. JEROME SAFRON will leave via American Airlines for the coast Monday. The Columbia coast division manager is now in San Francisco and will be back at his Los Angeles headquarters Monday.

ARTHUR WILLI, talent head for RKO, will leave for the coast tomorrow by train. He plans to spend several weeks at the studio.

GERARD B. LAMBERT, of the United Air Lines, flew back to New York via "The Commodore," after a short business trip to Chicago.

R. E. GRIFFITHS, his brother and HORACE FALLS are in town looking over product for the Oklahoma City and Dallas circuit.

HARRY WEINER, Columbia branch manager in Philadelphia, has returned to the Quaker City after a brief visit here.

LEONARD GAYNOR of the 20th Century-Fox publicity staff is vacationing in Maine and Canada.

SIDNEY MEYERS is here from Miami on product deals.

LEONARD PALUMBO of Warners foreign publicity department left for the coast last night for a two-week vacation. The trip is the Quigley Publications prize at the last Film Daily golf tournament.

TOM KEENE, Monogram star, arrives from Hollywood today and tomorrow will attend the regional sales meeting here. Next week he will leave for Skowhegan, Me., where he will appear in a stock show.

GREGORY DICKSON, publicity head for WALT DISNEY, will leave for the coast today by train after conferring here with BARRET MCCORMICK of RKO and HAL SLOANE, eastern Disney representative.

EDWARD PESKAY, general sales manager for Grand National, will leave Monday night for a swing of the company's eastern exchanges.

JOAN BENNETT will attend the opening of "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" next week. The actress at present is in Saratoga.

MORT SINGER and JOE BERN, attorney and partner of SINGER, will leave for Chicago and Cleveland, respectively, today.

JAMES CAGNEY is slated to arrive from the coast late next week to spend a vacation with his family at Martha's Vineyard.

DAVID LOEW plans to leave for the coast in 10 days.

... Detroit

HARRY KOMER, partner in the Komer circuit, has returned from a two-month trip to Europe.

ANN ZIMMERMAN, of the Columbia branch staff, and her husband, LEN SHECTER, checker, also have returned from an eight-week visit to his home in England.

HARRY HONDORF, Monarch booker; FRANKIE JONES, Warner booker, and JACK ZIDE, premium salesman, are back from vacations.

WILLIAM FLEMION, Monogram manager; BERT FOSTER, Monogram salesman, and AL DEZEL, of Roadshows Pictures, are vacationing in northern Michigan.

Name Swiss Chamber To Survey Pictures

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The Swiss Government has approved legislation creating a Federal Film Chamber of 18 members, according to the American Consulate report to the U. S. Dep't of Commerce. Membership of the board will come from the film industry's branches, representatives of arts, science and culture groups, of business and industry, and of Cantonal educational groups and police.

The immediate tasks of the chamber include the observation and study of the development of film industries in other countries, with particular emphasis on political aspects; establishing criteria for a Swiss national film policy and compilation of statistics showing the development of the cinema, demand for films and the employment of Swiss nationals in the industry.

Exchange Men Move to Keep Chicago Board

which Chicago exchange managers would follow in financing the Film Board of Trade there. It was stated that there were no objections to continuance of the boards if branch managers were able to obtain the required funds independently of New York.

The New York headquarters of the Film Boards was closed on July 1 when appropriations for its maintenance were discontinued by distribution companies. Appropriations for all boards were made for an additional 30 days, but after Aug. 1 no further funds were forthcoming from New York for salaries, rent or other operating expenses for any Film Board except New York's.

Actor May Contest Expulsion by SAG

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Eugene Marcus, attorney for Buckley Russell and the Hollywood Picture Players' Ass'n, today said that he is considering an appeal from the decision of the Screen Actors' Guild expelling Russell for having organized extras into a rival association. Marcus stated that he is studying A. F. of L. procedure for the proper appellate channel but that if a solution is lacking in that direction he will take the matter to the court which has jurisdiction.

Russell was suspended for a year and fined $1,000, which fine was suspended. Marcus characterized the guild's action as tyrannical and unconstitutional, pointing out that Russell is now forced from the studios because of the guild shop agreement.

Continue Session on Local Union's Deals

Representatives from Local 306, I.A.T.S.E., local exchanges and major distributors yesterday continued negotiations for setting up basic wage scales and minimum hours for New York. Although local employees are said to be the highest paid in comparison to any other exchange, increases are being sought by the local unions, it was said.

An agreement covering Oklahoma City has been slightly revised.

Miss Molseed Joins MGM

OMAHA, Aug. 12.—Regina Molseed, former secretary of the Omaha Film Board of Trade and secretary of the M. P. Exhibitor's Ass'n of Omaha until the Supreme Court issued a temporary restraining order against Bank Night, is the new contract clerk at M-G-M's exchange.

Miss Molseed will continue the board's fire prevention work and keep up the mailing and gratis lists.

"Zola" Advance Sale Big

Warners yesterday reported that tickets for "The Life of Emile Zola" were selling eight weeks in advance at the Hollywood. A fourth treasurer has been added to the staff to handle the matinee and evening business as well as future reservations.

Carroll-Drake Suit On Story Dismissed

Federal Judge Vincent Leibel yesterday dismissed two of the four claims made by Richard Carroll and William Drake, authors and scenario writers, in their suit against Warner Bros. in the U. S. District Court. Twenty days to file an amended complaint was allowed the plaintiffs.

The writers charged that they prepared a scenario for Warners in 1934 in which Paul Muni was to have starred, based upon the life of General Gorgas and the construction of the Panama Canal. They allege that after rejecting the script, Warners filed intention with the Hays office to produce a film on the same subject. As a result they were unable to market their story. One of the counts dismissed was the claim that the system of registering intentions to produce plays was "an unlawful conspiracy in restraint of trade." The charge was dismissed on the ground that the court lacked jurisdiction.

Sues on "Man of People"

Henry Rose filed suit in the U. S. District Court yesterday against M-G-M Pictures Corp., M-G-M Distributing Corp., Loew's, Inc., Culver Export Corp. and Frank Dolan charging "deliberate piracy" of his play, "Burrow, Burrow" in "Man of the People." The plaintiff alleges that he wrote his play in 1934 and submitted a script to M-G-M and that it was rejected. A permanent injunction, damages and an accounting of the profits were asked.

Adopt Standards for Electrical Filters

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—William Koenig, chairman of the Research Council of the Academy of M. P. Arts and Sciences, has announced the adoption of a standard nomenclature for filters to be used throughout the industry. In the past, electrical filters used in studio recording circuits and theatre reproducing circuits have been described by any one of several methods, none of which conveyed enough information to describe completely the filter characteristics.

Consequently, all of the methods previously used will be discarded and the Research Council standard will be used exclusively. Erpi and RCA and technical representatives of many of the theatre companies cooperating in the council's standardization program and studio sound directors have approved it for use.

The standard has been submitted to the radio industry for consideration as a possible standard there.

Detroit Delays Ban On Cash Giveaways

George W. Trendle, president of United Detroit Theatres, and H. M. Richey, of Co-operative Theatres of Michigan. Opposing the ordinance were David Newman, exhibitor-attorney, representing Allied Theatres of Michigan; Sam Carver of the Downtown; J. E. Stocker of the Myrtle, and Walter Kelly, attorney representing Screeno. Opponents of the proposed ordinance presented petitions signed by more than 100,000 theatre patrons favoring the use of the games.

G. B. Goes Nautical; Jupe Pluvius Helps Out, and—

the picture, scheduled for the quarter deck—or maybe it was the half deck—of the U.S.S. Texas was postponed. Finally the rain stopped and the pilots of the busses took the guests down to the Texas.

It was heroic, but futile. The Texas, so far as a landlubber could see, was afloat, but water was dripping off her 14-inch guns and off her masts and off her chains. Some of the sailors had raincoats. They needed them. Even an admiral couldn't enjoy a picture under those conditions.

Boatswain Arthur Lee looked around and suggested that the party return to the officers' mess. It did, but not until after a bus driver had tried to knock the stern off a yacht and the bridge off a destroyer trying to turn around in a narrow space never intended for bus drivers' maneuvers.

At the officers' mess the orchestra played, the boatswains and petty officers tinkered with wires and screens, a bugle blew. About 11 o'clock "Gangway" was started. It was a good picture—very entertaining.

It would have been even better in an air-cooled theatre, with a leak-proof roof.

Weeks Declares New G. B. Policy Success

The new sales policy recently inaugurated by G.B. is meeting with success, George W. Weeks, general sales manager, stated yesterday.

Arthur Greenblatt, circuit sales manager, has closed a deal with RKO for Greater New York, starting Aug. 31.

In numerous cases, Weeks said, exhibitors have purchased the entire program of 12 "A" films.

101 on Para. List

Hollywood, Aug. 12.—Paramount's new contract list today revealed a total of 101 players under regular contract, and 14 others under special one or two picture deals—a new all time high for the studio.

Germans' Production Falls Short of Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Of the films which had been announced in Germany for the 1936-'37 season, 190 had been passed by the censors at the end of June, 1937, and 17 were still in preparation, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Assistant Commercial Attache R. M. Stephenson in Berlin.

Altogether, there were 44 fewer films finished than had been announced.

UFA, Tobis, Terra-Filmskunst, and others have announced a combined 1937-38 program of 125 pictures, including 15 films carried over from the past season. Already four of the new season's product have passed the censors and 29 are in preparation.

It is not expected that the 1937-'38 schedule will exceed the 1936-'37.

Jessie Matthews Coming

Jessie Matthews is coming to this country shortly. It will be her first visit in seven years. The decision was made yesterday via a transatlantic telephone conversation with Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of G.B. in this country. Miss Matthews will be accompanied by her husband, Sonnie Hale.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"On Such a Night"

(Major-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Except for several spectacular production scenes in which the Mississippi River floods dams and levees go out, the material offered here is routine melodrama. Average in quality as far as story is concerned, nothing new or different is provided in the plot. Situations and sequences are put together and characterizations are so developed that audience anticipation of what is going to happen is automatic.

In the river country, Eduardo Cianelli, a gambler, succeeds in having his one time partner, Grant Richards, framed into conviction for a murder which he, himself, had committed. Floods imperil the prison. As Richards is being transferred he is swept into the river and lands in a refugee camp. Found there by his wife, Karen Morley, she, aided by Alan Mowbray, transports Richards to the safety of an old mansion. He is trailed by Cianelli and Roscoe Karns, a newspaper man. The flood becomes more dangerous, death looming for all, Cianelli confesses his crime and Richards makes a hazardous swim through the waters to dynamite a levee and turn Cianelli over to rescuing officers.

Based on a story by Morley Cassidy, S. S. Fields and John D. Klorer, the screenplay is by Doris Malloy and William Lipman. E. A. Dupont directed.

Running time, 70 minutes. "A."

Northwest's Outing Committees Chosen

SEATTLE, Aug. 12.—Committees for the annual picnic of the Northwest Film Club to be held Aug. 19 at Shadow Lake, have been named by L. J. McGinley, president. Entertainment will include races, a baseball game between exhibitors and distributors, tennis and ping pong competition, dinner and dancing.

The committees are:

Gate and grounds—Jean Spear; transportation—Art Slater and Dan Hoidale; baseball—Frank Christie and Harry Blatt; races—Joe Cooper, John Danz and Al Bloom; tickets—Ed. Lamb, Ben Shearer and Al Oxtoby; dancing—Leroy Johnson and Neal Walton; prizes—Neal East, Al Rosenberg, Roy Cooper, George Blair, B. F. Shearer, L. J. McGinley and Leroy Johnson; ping pong—Frank Christie and John Hamrick; water sports—Neal East and Fred Mercy, Jr.; publicity—Jack Sampson, Ed Lamb and Joe Cooper.

N. H. Is Undecided On Admission Hike

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 12.—No definite decision was reached today by exhibitors who met at the Hofbrau Haus to discuss increases in admission prices at the College and second run houses. The proposed increases would hike admissions in the leading neighborhoods from 25 to 30 cents with the College rates advancing from 35 to 40 cents.

There has been only one price raise in this territory since the depression.

Hotel-Theatre for Neth

COLUMBUS, Aug. 12.—A 100-room hotel building, with a 1,500-seat theatre on the first floor, at Lancaster, O., are among the plans in the expansion program of J. Real Neth, local circuit operator, who now has the 1,500-seat Markham, neighborhood, under construction here. Work on the Lancaster project is scheduled to begin early in the fall.

After completion of the Markham, the reported cost of which is $250,000, Neth intends to erect two other neighborhood houses here.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER

ROBERT TAYLOR

"THE PRESS AGENT"

This is a montage of a little of everything that goes into the daily life of a press agent. The montage closes with a stock shot of a big city room . . . over which is superimposed the floor dial of an elevator showing the elevator's rise from ground level to the eighteenth floor. Just as the montage ends we dissolve to the doors of the elevator and ROBERT TAYLOR exits and walks across the office building hall to a door.

(He approaches the door on which is lettered: "EDITORIAL ROOMS")

Taylor goes through the door into a reception room where we find HELEN TROY at a switchboard:

TAYLOR:

I'd like to see the motion picture editor . . . if you don't mind . . .

The girl is all a'twitter—she has an idea . . . and yet . . .

TROY:

Why certainly, mister . . . Gee . . . Why . . . Right through that door . . . Gee . . . But you look like Robert Taylor . . .

TAYLOR:

I am Robert Taylor.

(He starts through the door on which is lettered "MOTION PICTURE EDITOR") Beyond Taylor we see the editor at his desk. This is an ultra modern office—class written all over it . . . Smartly-framed pictures of film stars adorn the walls.

EDITOR:

Bob Taylor! Well . . . This is something . . . Usually we fellows have to chase the stars . . . Now . . . You turn Press agent!

TAYLOR:

Bill . . . It's like this . . . I'm so enthusiastic about "Broadway Melody of 1938" . . . It's so chock-full of entertainment...It has so many great players... That I've asked permission to tell theatre-goers . . . Through your newspaper . . . That it's the greatest musical M-G-M ever made . . .

BILL:

That's fine . . . But . . . Show me!

TAYLOR: (Opening a brief case . . . takes a picture from it . . . and tosses it atop the Editor's desk.)

(As Taylor tosses the still . . . we cut to a close insert . . . in action . . . of Taylor's hand completing the toss . . . and the still in full view hitting the Editor's desk. This still is an actual blown-up frame of the scene we are going to reveal. The camera trucks down on the still until it fills the screen.)

(Over this still we hear Taylor off-screen:)

Here she is! The Queen o' Taps . . . ELEANOR POWELL . . . And with her George Murphy . . . My rival for Eleanor's affections . . . I'm not doing so well in my pursuit of Eleanor . . . But . . . George is "feelin like a million"!

(Here the still comes to life . . . and Eleanor and George do a bit from "Feelin' Like A Million".)

TAYLOR:

(Now he tosses another still upon the desk . . . and off-screen we hear Taylor:)

Ever hear of Judy Garland? . . . You'll be hearing plenty about her from now on. And that grand trouser who needs no introduction . . . Sophie Tucker. The 'man with the lolly-pop is Barnett Parker . . . among the funniest! Sing, Judy, Sing!

(Still comes to life and the three sing a bit from "EVERYBODY SING")

TAYLOR: (Excitedly)

That's enough, Judy, we have other pictures to show.

(Taylor picks up the picture . . . and tosses another still on the desk . . . this time he places the still upright against a desk lamp . . . and we truck up on the insert from the eyes of the Editor)

TAYLOR: (Over still truck-up)

Three guesses—but you'll only need one of them! It's lanky, loose-jointed Buddy Ebsen . . . dancier than ever—

(After Ebsen does part of the routine . . . we "freeze" the action . . . and Taylor picks up still . . . puts it away . . . and removes four or five stills from the brief case one at a time tossing them on the desk . . .)

TAYLOR:

You'll never forget Robert Wildhack . . . The "Snorer" of last year's "Broadway Melody"! Here's Charley Grapewin—he's always good for a laugh—Billy Gilbert "stops the show" every time he's on . . . And here now . . . I've got so many pictures I almost forgot Robert Benchley. Hold on there "Snorer" I'm going to give you all a chance!

(Continuing the Scenario of the Short-Subject-Trailer ROBERT TAYLOR as "THE PRESS AGENT")

(Now we utilize a four-way split screen . . . giving each of these four players about five or six feet of pantomime action . . . the stills have been so placed on the editor's desk as to place the four in exact screen proportions to allow this trick)

(Taylor scoops up the four stills. In the shuffle of pictures . . . Bob drops one . . . the Editor picks it up . . . Bob reaches for it . . . Editor holds it away—)

EDITOR:
What's this?

(It is the picture of Bob and Eleanor in the swing on the roof.)

TAYLOR:
I didn't mean to show you that one . . .

(at the end of the song . . .)

EDITOR:
So . . . you sing a song of romance . . .
(Bob lets the line go by . . .)

TAYLOR:
Here's another picture . . . Hold on Bill . . . I seem to be in that one too . . . You see it's like this . . . I've just finished telling off Binnie Barnes . . . who is Raymond Walburn's quick-tempered horse-racing wife . . . But she had it coming to her . . . And now big butter-and-egg-man Walburn is about to tell me off!

(Still comes to life for telling-off scene)

EDITOR:
Okay, Bob! What about Charles Igor Gorin—I understand M-G-M has a great new singing find in this young man!

TAYLOR:
Right you are! Take a look!
(Still comes to life for a bit of the song in the Barber Shop)

EDITOR:
And isn't Willie Howard in it?

TAYLOR:
I'll say he is . . . But who's the press agent . . . You or me?

EDITOR:
Okay . . . I'm back in character. But you've got me talking about "Broadway Melody"

TAYLOR:
And now just a peek and that's all . . . The big number . . . "Your Broadway and Mine". Eleanor Powell tapping . . . George Murphy dancing . . . Sophie Tucker torching . . . Charles Igor Gorin and Judy Garland singing . . . Buddy Ebsen shuffling . . . and the Whiteway Beauties in Cellophane—well—see for yourself.

(Big number)

EDITOR:
What a show . . . I'd call it next year's biggest musical . . . Today!

TAYLOR:
And you're not wrong . . . That's what everybody's going to say about "Broadway Melody of 1938". See you opening night!

EDITOR:

TAYLOR: (As he exits from the door . . . with editor slipping paper into typewriter . . .)

What do you mean eighteen banner lines . . . I'd say a hundred and eighteen!

(As Taylor exits he bumps bang into Sophie Tucker . . . dressed in the smart suit she wears in the "EVERYBODY SING" number. She...too...is carrying a brief case...just about to enter the Editor's office!)

TAYLOR:
What . . . You, too!

TUCKER: (With a big take . . .)
Scooped . . . again!

the company, mass demonstrations or the employment of coercion to compel exhibitors to refrain from playing the company's pictures or negotiating new contracts with Paramount.

It is expected that the hearing on Aug. 19 will be a final one and that the court will decide the distributor's application to have the restrainer made permanent within a short time thereafter.

Only a few exhibitors attended today's hearing.

lyn this morning and Henry Randel of Paramount will appear for questioning this afternoon. Lillian Bergson, Long Island and Brooklyn booker for Paramount, will be unable to attend this afternoon's session. She is slated to sail tomorrow for a vacation at Havana.

Randel and Miss Bergson were called into Hickey's office last Monday. Two stenographers took down a full account of the questions and answers. Austin C. Keough, secretary, and Louis Phillips of the Paramount legal staff attended the Monday session and will be on hand again this afternoon when Randel is further questioned.

Questions on "Exclusive"

Hickey, who lives at West Hampton, L. I., is understood to have asked the Paramount representatives why "Exclusive" was shown at Loew's Valencia, Jamaica, before the theatre in his town. The answer is said to have been that the Valencia pays several thousand dollars for a picture first run while the West Hampton is sold the same film for about $15.

Although Loew's is said to be one of the circuits at which the local investigation is directed, Century circuit and Loew's are partners in the Avalon and Kingsway, Brooklyn; Hillside, Jamaica; Prospect, Flushing, and Mt. Vernon, Mt. Vernon.

At the Avalon and Kingsway, the Century circuit plays pictures day-and-date with the RKO circuit, the latter having no financial interest in either house. RKO's competitive houses are the Tilyou and Kenmore.

In Jamaica, Century has the Merrick and Fox Jamaica in opposition to RKO's Alden. Century has the right to play 20th Century-Fox, Universal and G.B. simultaneously with the RKO circuit at either the Merrick or Fox Jamaica. RKO has no financial interest in the Merrick and the Fox Jamaica. The Alden plays Warner and RKO product.

Back in 1934, Century circuit and Prudential Playhouses pooled all competitive houses in Long Island. Later Century and Skouras theatres pooled in Long Island with the exception of Astoria theatres.

In 1932, RKO acquired the Strand, Rockville Center, L. I., from De Costa and Powers, and two years later dropped the house because no first run pictures were available.

Maintain Decency, Is S. R. Kent Plea

had done the motion picture industry one of the "biggest favors" in its history. Since the move "to clean up pictures" was started, the industry has made its biggest advance, Kent said.

Following Kent's address the theatre men held group meetings. Division managers met with Spyros P. Skouras, president of National Theatres, to discuss policies. District managers and bookers conferred with W. T. Powers, New York; J. J. Sullivan, Los Angeles; Milton Hossfeld, New York; Aubrey Schenck, New York, and I. Barry, New York, on bookings. Purchasing and maintenance matters were discussed at a session over which E. F. Zabel and Frank Irby, both of New York, presided.

Treasury department men discussed accountancy and finance matters with Harry C. Cox, Alan May and John E. Edmondson. Publicity and advertising was discussed by district managers and bookers meeting with Phil Phillips, San Francisco, who said the general opinion was that "newspapers are the No. 1 asset in the advertising of motion pictures."

The delegates made a trip late in the afternoon to the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun on Cheyenne Mountain to place a plaque to the memory of the late humorist. The plaque carried the names of those attending the convention under an inscription reading:

"To commemorate the first visit of a group of theatre men to the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun, August 11, 1937."

theatre here and president of the association, said, "This is the most drastic action any such organization has taken to break up unfair trade practices in the motion picture industry." He also stated that the association condemns the practice of the industry in "forcing on the theatres pictures on percentage basis, newsreels, cartoons and other pictures we do not want."

"Only a few companies which operate chains of theatres can operate under the present system, and unless some changes are made by the Federal Government, the little theatre owners will be put out of business," President Moore concluded.

Ed Kuykendall of New York, President of the M.P.T.O.A., and O. C. Lam of Rome, Ga., a national representative of Kuykendall's organization, were guests.

Seattle May Raise Fees

SEATTLE, Aug. 12.—Local theatres are faced with an increased license fee for the coming year. The City Council is now conferring on ways of balancing the city budget for the coming fiscal year, and prominently mentioned is the plan to double the current fee paid by theatres, beer parlors, dance halls and other places of amusement. Opposition is planned by theatre operators.

there is an administration building, now unused, and several sound stages, as well as a portion of KFVB's offices. The property if acquired would obviate the necessity for NBC's undergoing an extensive building program which, when television reaches commercial proportions, might have to be remodeled.

Mutual has made a bid for NBC's lease on the latter's present Melrose Ave. quarters, and it is looked upon favorably by NBC executives, it is reported.

Columbia's new building, at Sunset Blvd. and Gower St., will be ready by Jan. 1, on schedule, but CBS will retain the former Vine St. Theatre and the Music Box Theatre for presentations and remote control broadcasting, which strengthens the belief that television also has CBS executives worried about new stages and equipment.

Paramount is selling the two blocks at Sunset Blvd. and Vine St. to the Times-Mirror Co. and NBC is interested in purchasing one of them.

Shifts in NBC Affiliates

Several important changes in management of NBC affiliated stations were effected yesterday. H. A. Woodman, general manager of the Westinghouse station KDKA, Pittsburgh, has been transferred to New York for an unspecified executive assignment. A. M. Nelson, general manager of KOA, Denver, has been appointed his successor in Pittsburgh.

Nelson will be succeeded as general manager of KOA by Robert H. Owen, at present chief engineer of the station.

Camel Hour Returning

The Camel program will return to a full-hour broadcasting schedule, with Jack Oakie back as the star, beginning with the Sept. 28 broadcast. The show at present is a half-hour period, 9:30 to 10 P.M., with Benny Goodman's orchestra as the sole offering.

With Oakie's return, the first half-hour, 9:30 to 10 P.M., will come from Hollywood, with Goodman's orchestra completing the period from New York. The Wm. Esty Co. is the agency.

To Select Best Pictures

The "Movie Pilot's" last quarter-hour on WEAF tonight will be devoted to an attempt to select the best film of the past three months. The critics who will make the selection are Rose Pelswick of the Journal-American, Howard Barnes of the Herald-Tribune, and Frank Nugent of the Times. Produced by Bruce Disque, Jr., of King Features Syndicate, the series folds tonight after 13 weeks of broadcasting.

Alois Havrilla to Free Lance

Alois Havrilla, NBC announcer, has resigned from the announcing staff to free lance. Havrilla was the winner of the Diction Award in 1936. His resignation is effective Aug. 31.

Radio Personals

ED CURTIN, NBC's news editor, became the father of a baby boy, the first, yesterday . . . Dave Driscoll and Bill Maloney, of WOR's special events and publicity department, respectively, begin their vacation periods today . . . Mrs. Georgie Price has been added to her husband's series on WOR, which begins Sunday . . . Bella Blau, co-producer of "Having Wonderful Time," will appear on Bide Dudley's series over WOR Aug. 14 . . . Charlie Pekor, NBC commercial publicity writer, Don Goddard, assistant director of special events, and George Hicks, announcer, off to Joe Louis' training camp . . . Roy C. Witmer, NBC vice president in charge of sales, leaves on a motor trip to New England today . . . Norman Morell, assistant program manager of NBC, Charles E. Phelps, sales representative, and Harry Kopf of the Chicago sales office, return together Aug. 18 from Europe. . .

Beatrice Fairfax Signed

Contracts were signed yesterday for a new network program featuring Beatrice Fairfax, King Features marital authority, in behalf of Silver Dust, a cleaning powder. The pact involved the signatures of the client, the agency, Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, and Fred Smith, manager of King Features radio department. King Features owns the copyright to the Beatrice Fairfax column. Time starting date and network will be decided upon within the next few days.

"Canary Chorus" for Sundays

"Canary Chorus," a new series to be sponsored by the American Bird

Sandy Roth Busy

Hollywood, Aug. 12.—Hearing that Sandy Roth had been named publicity director of KMTR, a Motion Picture Daily reporter called him at the station. Finding him busy, he left word to call him back.

Roth called back and verified the report. "In addition," he said, "I'm—but just a minute, I'm on the air now."

After two minutes, Roth came back to the phone, saying, "I'm also in charge of the station's sports announcements, special events and interviews, in addition to being an announcer."

Products Co., will be heard each Sunday over Mutual, beginning Oct. 10. The time is 11:45 A.M. to 12 noon, E.S.T. Stations which will carry the programs are WGN, KFEL, WTAM, and WHKC.

WMCA Adds Two Salesmen

Two new salesmen have been added to the WMCA sales staff, it was learned yesterday.

Eddie Cantor Back Sept. 12

Eddie Cantor's return to the air has been set for Sept. 12. The program, sponsored by Texaco through the Buchanan Advertising Agency, will remain in its present broadcasting period, 8:30 to 9 P.M. over CBS.

Lightning Halts WCOP

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Lightning striking a transformer on the Speedway in Brighton this week cut off the power supply to WCOP in Boston and kept the station off the air for 50 minutes until repairs could be made.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12.—Jimmy Fidler, NBC film gossip commentator, is branching out, having purchased at a reported price of $45,000 the library of the old Polyscope Co., assembled by Col. W. N. Selig and containing about 900 copyrighted books, plays and scenarios. He will offer them to film studios. . . . Although his new Sunday show, starting in October, will not be heard west of Denver, Phil Baker will broadcast at least two of his first programs from Hollywood, for he does not plan to return to New York until late October.

"Piano Painting," former KFVB musical program featuring Bert Fiske, assistant music director, has returned to the station to be heard Tuesdays and Thursdays regularly. . . . Lieut. Commander Perry Wood, U. S. N. R., has switched his "Officer of the Day" program, which gives information of Governmental activities such as the Navy, from KNX to KHJ and the Don Lee network. He is heard Thursdays from 7:30 to 7:45 P.M., P. S. T.

The broadcast by Mutual of Paramount's "High, Wide and Handsome" premiere at the Carthy Circle was lined up as a regular production, rather than the former haphazard manner of attempting to get stars and featured players to come to the microphone. Cliff Lewis of Paramount handled production reins, and George Fischer, Hollywood commentator, and Lynne Overman, actor, were masters of ceremonies. . . . Raine Bennett isn't superstitious, so on Friday, the 13th, he moves his weekly "Island Cruises" on KECA at 7:30 P.M., P. S. T., from Saturdays to Fridays.

Allen and Davis return with their all-request "Musical Memories" program to KMTR this week as a nightly feature. . . . Sandy Barnett, "Lux Radio Theatre" writer, is back from his vacation. . . . Forest Lawn Memorial Park brings back its "Reunion of the States" program to KNX starting Oct. 3 for 52 weeks. Edward Lynn will continue to write the program, to be staged and aired by remote control from the Woman's Club of Hollywood stage, and Bill Lawrence will produce the program. . . . August 17 guests on "Hollywood in Person," CBS, will be Dixie Dunbar and Virginia Fields when the traveling microphone goes to 20th Century-Fox. . . . Frenko Laboratories and the Coast Federal Savings & Loan Ass'n. will participate in the "Housewives Protective League" program, KNX daily.

A. F. R. A. Governors To Convene Monday

The first meeting of the national board of governors of the newly formed American Federation of Radio Artists will be held Monday, at which time national officers are scheduled to be elected and management posts filled.

A meeting of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America scheduled for yesterday was postponed to Aug. 27. The issuance by the Four A's of an A. F. of L. charter to the new radio union is expected to take place at that meeting.

There are 42 members of the national board of governors, selected from the original radio organizing committee of Actors Equity Ass'n and from the Screen Actors' Guild, American Federation of Actors and Grand Opera Artists Ass'n. Local boards will be selected by regional units of the radio union as they are organized.

To Scout London Reviews

The reviews of London plays to be given over WMCA in New York the same nights they open in London, will be watched by American scouts for overseas talent. This development was indicated today following arrangements now being made by Donald Flamm, president of WMCA, to contact American producers.

The reviews start during the week of September 13. J. W. Marriott, English author and critic, will cable the reviews to WMCA, where they will be broadcast by a local critic over associated stations of the Inter-City Broadcasting System.

Dodge to Air Football Giants

For the second successive year, the games of the New York Giants, professional football team, will be heard as a sponsored series over WOR, beginning Oct. 3. The games, eight in number, will be broadcast from 2:15 P.M. until approximately 4:15 P.M., E.S.T., with the exception of those played in November and December, which will start 15-minutes earlier, at 2 P.M.

The Chrysler Motor Co., Dodge division, will sponsor. Ruthrauff & Ryan is the agency.

Feg Murray in Bakers' Series

The "Bakers' Broadcasts," returning to NBC early in October, will have Feg Murray, newspaper cartoonist, as an added feature, supplementing Ozzie Nelson's orchestra.

The program last season featured Bob Ripley, Murray's cartoon strip is very similar to Ripley's. It would appear, therefore, that Murray's "Strange As It Seems" dramatizations will provide the highlight portions of the returning series.

Flippen in Von Zell Spot

Jay C. Flippen will take over Harry Von Zell's emcee duties on the "Summer Varieties" series over CBS beginning Aug. 22. Von Zell, following a three week vacation jaunt to California, will return to the program Sept. 12.

Hall's Taft Band Is Set

George Hall's orchestra will be heard in a weekly dance series from the Hotel Taft over WNEW each Friday from 8 to 8:30 P.M., beginning this evening.

British Labor Asks Passage Of 50% Quota

Also Wants Quality Film To Benefit Workers

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The National Ass'n of Theatrical Employees will put forward two resolutions concerning the British film industry at the Trade Union Congress in September. The congress is the yearly parliament of the whole trade union movement in England.

In its first resolution the N.A.T.E. will ask the congress to reaffirm the policy, stated in 1931, of support for a British film quota of 50 per cent. Reciting the national importance of the film, the resolution also alludes to the danger of "foreign domination" of the industry and the necessity of safeguarding British labor.

The second resolution presses for an early revision of the 1909 Act, dealing with licensing, by the inclusion of a series of safeguards for labor, including the establishment of minimum staff standards, and the provision of rest rooms for staff.

The N.A.T.E., jointly with the Ass'n of Cine Technicians, has also issued a press statement regarding

Television Causes No Rush—Murray

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—England today has "what might be called satisfactory commercial television broadcasting," with, however, "no rush to buy television receivers at $350 each," said Albert F. Murray, chief television engineer of the Philco Radio & Television Corp., of the present status of television in the world in an address to the Rotary Club.

Murray said that although the science has not as yet reached the commercial stage in the United States,

Albert Warner Is Queried in Probe

Albert Warner, vice-president in charge of distribution for Warners, and Roy H. Haines, eastern division sales head, are understood to have appeared before Assistant U. S. District Attorney Leo Hickey in Brooklyn for questioning in the reported complaint by Century circuit.

The questioning is said to have revolved around product buys and clearances in Brooklyn and Long Island.

Henry Randel and Lillian Bergson of Paramount were not called yesterday. Miss Bergson, Brooklyn and Long Island booker, today sails for a two-week vacation at Havana. It is likely that Randel may be called next week. Both Paramount representatives have already appeared before Hickey with Austin C. Keough and Louis Phillips, secretary and attorney respectively, in attendance.

I. Levinson, home office lawyer for Warners, is said to have accompanied Warner and Haines at the sessions

Monogram Regional Gets Started Today

The first of two Monogram regional sales meetings will get under way today at the Astor and will be followed by another meeting in Chicago tomorrow.

Home office and eastern executives who will attend the local session include W. Ray Johnston, president; Edward A. Golden, general sales manager; Herschel Stuart, treasurer; Lou Lifton, publicity and advertising director; Norton Ritchey, export general manager and the following exchange personnel:

New York, Joe Felder, Jerry Wilson, Sidney Kulick, Charles Penser, W. E. Raynor and Jack Meltzer; Philadelphia, Sam Rosen, William Z. Porter, S. Perlswieg, Charles C.

N. Y. Exchange Wage Talks Go on Tuesday

Negotiations among representatives of major distributing companies, I.A.T.S.E., Local 306 and exchange employees on a contract for the New York territory have been continued until next Tuesday. Three sessions were held this week, but because of the number of people attending, it has been impossible to hear all affected. More than 25 have been present at the discussions.

Increases are being sought by the "back room" exchange employees in the local area. No uniform scale exists, but it is understood that the staffs in New York and New Jersey exchanges are the highest paid in any key city.

Cake for DeMille

New Orleans, Aug. 13.—A 50-pound cake shaped like a ship was sent to Hollywood as a present from Governor Leche to Cecil DeMille for the producer's birthday, which was Thursday. The cake was sent as an appreciation for DeMille's choosing Louisiana as the site for filming of "The Buccaneer."

Accompanying the "ship" were 350 cotton "bales," each containing 10 New Orleans pralines. The cake was baked in the Roosevelt Hotel kitchen with a real little ship made in the carpentry shop as a mold.

National Theatres Meeting Concludes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 13.—Executives of National Theatres wound up their four-day 1937 conclave here tonight after discussions that included such topics as sound and projection, legislation, insurance, employees' associations and purchasing.

The 105 attending executives took time out from their discussing of theatre problems to hear Michael Dorizas, professor at the Wharton School, Pennsylvania University, relate experiences during world travels and voice opinions on European conditions. Dorizas assailed communism as a trouble maker throughout the world, and said the capitalistic system "is the best in the world," but has a number of abuses which must be eliminated.

W. H. "Bud" Lollier, Los Angeles, in charge of public relations for Fox West Coast Theatres in California, stressed the large investment in theatre buildings and equipment throughout the country, and the resulting benefits to communities through taxes. He termed the defeat of a "block booking" bill in California as an industry boon.

Defendants Secured Minneapolis Delay

Paramount's legal department was advised yesterday by its Minneapolis attorneys that the postponement to Aug. 19 of the hearing on its application for a permanent restraining order against exhibitors participating in a "buyers' strike" against the company in the Minneapolis territory was granted by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye at the request of the defendants. The exhibitors, Paramount was advised, informed the court that they were retaining new counsel and required additional time to allow the new attorneys to familiarize themselves with the case.

It was stated at Paramount that

"U's" British Films Will Be Made by Woolf

No Outside Arrangement Needed, Says Cowdin

Universal's British production requirements will be handled by C. M. Woolf's General Film Distributors organization, thus relieving the American company of the necessity of effecting an outside production arrangement for compliance with the indicated new quota provisions, J. Cheever Cowdin, Universal board chairman, said yesterday.

The Woolf organization holds approximately a 30 per cent interest in Universal, acquired through its participation with Standard Capital Co. and others in the acquisition of Carl Laemmle's Universal holdings early last year. Through this alliance, Universal attains a position in which its British production requirements under the quota laws are, in effect, supplied entirely within the company.

Cowdin said that negotiations are now under way for new Canadian distribution arrangements for Universal. He declined to indicate the nature of the new arrangements, explaining that the negotiations involve several different possibilities and are insufficiently advanced at this time to predict which, if any, of the deals would be consummated.

Carlos Moore Goes To U. A. India Post

Carlos Moore, who has been with U. A. on and off for the past 20 years, has been appointed general manager for the company in India, Burma and Ceylon, succeeding H. A. O'Connor, resigned. He will sail today on the Champlain for Bombay, where he will make his headquarters.

George J. Tropp, in the past with Home News, has been retained by Hood Educational Broadcasts, Inc., as program production manager.

Baldwin Warns on Radio Fan Mail Use

James W. Baldwin, managing director of the N.A.B., has issued a warning to members, asking them not to sell or rent fan mail to commercial firms, because, he says, the results can be injurious to broadcasting.

Once released, he says, the broadcaster cannot control the use made of such lists but he must be prepared nevertheless to accept his share of responsibility for uses made of his mail. As significant of what he means, he cites a letter received by an N.A.B. member from a commercial house, asking the station owner to supply him with the names of juvenile listeners, of the type who respond to broadcasts appealing to the 10 and 15-year-old group. This type of business must not be allowed in radio broadcasting, he concludes.

Report Farm Gain New Field for Ads

The current farm boom, extending into Canada as well as the United States, is creating new markets for radio advertisers. The latest report of the Radio Manufacturers' Assn. of Canada shows that 9,150 battery sets valued at more than half a million dollars were sold in June, against 9,642 sold in the entire first six months of 1936. Electric sets sold in June numbered 5,821, indicating that the major buying is taking place in farm areas where electric service is not available, and that farmers in such areas at last are in position to spend for more than bare essentials.

Plan 14-Hour Broadcast

GREEN BAY, WIS., Aug. 14.—Fourteen and one-half hours of broadcasting dedicated to the opening of the new WTAQ-WHBY studios atop the Bellin Bldg. have been sponsored by Green Bay merchants for programs to be aired Aug. 15 and 16. WTAQ will also be saluted by a half-hour dance music program played by Jay Freeman over CBS from 9:30 to 10:00 P.M., C.S.T., Sunday night. The sponsored programs include popular orchestras, string ensembles and trios, old time music, vocal and instrumental duos and trios, organ melodies, poetic readings, sportscasts and newscasts.

WFIL to Move Sept. 1

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—WFIL's present quarters in the Strawbridge & Clothier store will be closed at the end of the month and broadcasting will start Sept. 1 at the new $200,000 plant atop the Widener Bldg., according to Donald Withycomb, WFIL general manager. Formal dedication will be deferred until decorative work is finished, probably late in October.

en was that Miss Pons was indisposed. Scheduled again for Thursday night, the interview again was called off.

Instead, Miss Pons and Kostelanetz were scheduled to receive on KNX and the Columbia Pacific chain the Hollywood Bowl trophy for drawing the greatest crowd last season to the Hollywood Bowl's Symphonies under the Stars.

No open indication of the break between Mutual and CBS was given. Mutual has been conducting a series of sustaining broadcasts plugging the bowl concerts, and the time for Monday's program was shifted from the afternoon to the evening to accommodate the pair. KHJ announced Miss Pons had become ill and set the new time for the interview at 7:15 P.M. Thursday.

Wednesday KHJ announced the broadcast was off, giving no reason. Then KNX announced that Thursday night from 8:15 to 8:30, the bowl trophy would be presented to Miss Pons and Kostelanetz over KNX and the Columbia Pacific net.

Both are under contract to the Columbia Artists Bureau.

"from the standpoint of technical development, this country leads the world in television, and the hub of its development is Philadelphia." The three principal television laboratories, Philco, Farnsworth and RCA, are in this vicinity, he said.

It is estimated there are about 5,000 receiving sets in operation in England, most of them owned by dealers and lent to prospective customers, Murray said.

"Literary Forum" for WHN

WHN has completed plans with Dr. H. M. Partridge of the radio division of N.Y.U. to broadcast a weekly series of dramatizations of novels and non-fiction books directly from the Washington Square College of N.Y.U. The program, to be known as the "N.Y.U. Literary Forum of the Air," will start Oct. 7, from 8:30 to 9 P.M.

"Passing Parade" Contract In

The Duart Sales Co. contract for "Passing Parade" was received in the Mutual offices yesterday. The program is to begin Sept. 12, and will be heard over WOR, WGN and CKLW from 9 to 9:15 P.M., and over the 11 Don Lee stations in California from 12:15 to 12:30 A.M., New York time.

Lutherans to Start Oct. 24

The Lutheran Layman's League will sponsor a new half-hour series over Mutual beginning Oct. 24 from 4:30 to 5 P.M., E.D.T. The series will be aired over 33 stations. Kelly, Stuhlman & Zahndt, Inc., St. Louis, is the agency. The contract is for 26 weeks.

Big Pictures Fail to Halt Decline in Key City Takes

Even the enormous grosses being piled up by "Saratoga," "Wee Willie Winkie" and "The Good Earth" failed to halt the mid-August decline in key grosses for the week ending Aug. 6-7. The total for 24 key cities was $1,424,122. This was $73,242 below the previous week.

New York was an outstanding example of a city that felt the impetus of outstanding attractions in spite of the heat. Instead of falling off, it chalked up $256,600, above the previous week by $12,070. Chicago also showed strength, getting $177,200, which was $38,600 above the previous week. Other cities which showed gains rather than declines were Milwaukee, Montreal, Oklahoma City, Pittsburgh, San Francisco and St. Paul.

The number of first run houses in operation remained at 138.

Divestment of Erpi by W.E. In Eight Weeks

Officers and Department Heads Figure in Deal

Western Electric's divestment of the physical aspects of theatre sound reproducing sales and servicing in Electrical Research Products is expected to be consummated in about eight weeks. The manner and method still are to be determined, but at present the indications point strongly in the direction of officers and the more important sales executives of Erpi acquiring the business. This would be accomplished by Western Electric virtually giving away a license—probably for some such nominal sum as $1—to a new national company, which, in turn, would sell, for prices proportionate to the size of the respective territory, sales franchises to sub-units headed by and operated by the individuals, who would raise their own financing.

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Broadway Melody of 1938"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—When this edition of the M-G-M annual is good it is very, very good and when it is bad there is still Robert Taylor to look at. It is very good when Sophie Tucker steps up to the lens and turns on the "red hot" personality and it is very bad when many people with talents worthier of likelier chores toil with the telling of the old, old story about the producer who lacks money for his show and the older, older one about the impoverished daughter of the blue-grass pastures who saves the racehorse that saves the day. In between these high and low spots the picture sparkles in spots and sprawls in others but always it is efficiently executed, impeccably appointed and fastidiously fabricated. It brings to the marquee more than enough box-office names to carry a picture half as good but it is as well to forego the annual temptation to declare the current edition twice as good as its predecessors.

Unlike the more memorable of these, this one dwells upon the story and disposes briskly of production numbers that are or were the life blood of the form. There is no dearth of singing and dancing and all of it is tops, but for the most part the solo talent does its stuff where it happens to be standing when it gets its cue, and some of it looks pretty impromptu. Eleanor Powell's dancing is of course the outstanding factor in that department. She dances alone, with George Murphy and Buddy Ebsen, and finally with the chorus, but always in the established manner. The singing assignments are distributed among Miss Tucker, Judy Garland, Charles Igor Gorin and Miss Powell, with the honors falling in that order. Miss Tucker's "Some of These Days" is a show-stopper in any man's cinema and Miss Garland scores almost as soundly with a straight revival of the decade-old "You Made Me Love You," sung to a portrait of Clark Gable. Willie Howard is briefly in and out of one sequence shared for the laughs with Robert Wildhack. In a new routine, Robert Benchley does the best he can with a closely clipped press agent bit. Raymond Walburn, Billy Gilbert and Helen Troy enliven the proceedings at intervals with characteristic comedy.

Robert Taylor plays the impecunious producer without seeming to feel at all perturbed about where the money is coming from. The story is recorded as an original by Jack McGowan and Sid Silvers. It offers Taylor as a budding producer backed by a capitalist whose wife is for him. Miss Powell plays the impoverished Kentucky miss he falls in love with and determines to star. She salvages a race horse born on her pappy's farm and when the capitalist's wife causes the producer's backing to be withdrawn the horse wins a race and the prize money goes into the production which turns out to be colossal. The picture skips at once from race track to stage and it is in this last prosceniumed splurge of song and dance that the picture rises to the expectations bred of its illustrious forebears which are kept constantly in memory by excerpts worked into the musical score. The new music and lyrics are by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed. Jack Cummings produced the picture and Roy Del Ruth directed.

Running time, 110 minutes. "G."

chises to circuits and groups of exhibitors, probably employing present Erpi department heads, engineers and workers, or to give the company outright to Erpi employees, as Western Electric did with its Graybar electrical household distributing company. The employee plan was born within Erpi itself, and a group in the company is understood to be still sponsoring the idea.

The exhibitor-franchise idea dates back to the Paramount theatre-partners' meeting last March in Florida, where Erpi executives and the Paramount partners discussed such a possibility. Lawyers in New York are understood to be presently engaged in "paper" negotiations between some of the Paramount partners and the electrical company.

In any event, each of the three plans have gained considerable ground, but inner-company complications, legal and otherwise, have entangled either of them.

See International Using Erpi

It is quite likely that regardless of which plan is effected, International Projector Corporation, manufacturing Powers and Simplex projectors, will be sold the right to manufacture the Western Electric sound heads and incorporate them directly in their projectors in their own factories under Western patents. The projection and Erpi sound machines now are entirely separate devices, and the new plan is to incorporate them into one. The engineers of each company have long felt that this would make for greater efficiency. International Projector have been using RCA sound heads for some time, and the acquisition of the right to use Erpi's sound heads would thereby allow the company to give complete service to exhibitors on both sound systems.

RCA still figures in the picture of a reconstructed sound business, in connection with the strong possibility that the new Western Electric-divested sales and servicing plan would take over RCA's servicing, long an economic problem to that company. Erpi has down through the years made a profit on its servicing—although only a very nominal profit.

W. E. Continues Reproducers

Western Electric, of course, would continue to manufacture the Erpi theatre reproducers, save for those manufactured by International Projector or any other such projection makers as may purchase patent rights.

And behind it all is the United States Government's continuing investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's activities in fields other than communications being conducted through the Federal Communication Commission. No conclusions have necessarily been drawn by the Commission, which holds hearings sporadically, but Walter Gifford, president of the Telephone Company, told the Commission last year, while testifying as a formal witness, that A. T. and T. would eventually disassociate itself from ERPI.

set and Varsity, Brooklyn; the Concourse, Cameo, Jackson and Radio, Bronx.

In Long Island, the following are listed: Central, Cedarhurst; Bays, Hampton Bays; Howard, Howard Beach.

New York State: Hudson, Cold Springs; Manor, Livingston Manor; Center, Marlboro; Parkway and Plaza, Mt. Vernon; Cameo, New Rochelle; Broadway, Central and Parkhill, Yonkers.

New Jersey: the Opera House, Bayonne; Lyric, Bound Brook; Broad, Elizabeth; Fort Lee, Fort Lee; Casino, Keansburg; Fowler, Keansburg; Parker, Long Branch; Newsreel, Newark; Rahway, Rahway.

The 17 theatres darkened include the Glory, Gotham, Esquire, Roosevelt, Chopin, in Manhattan; the Imperial, Marvin, New Kirk and Jackson, Brooklyn; the Central, Cedarhurst; Criterion, E. Rockaway, Long Island; Opera House, Livingston Manor; Plaza, Mt. Vernon, New York; Opera House, Bayonne; Rivoli, Belmar, and Topaz, Clinton, New Jersey.

Theatres which underwent a change in name are the Ideal to Esquire; 79th St. to Colony; Sunshine to Chopin; Bay to De Luxe; Luxor to Eagle; Rex to Center at Marlboro, N. Y.; Folk to Century in Manhattan.

Brandt Acquired Three

Major and independent circuits which added and dropped units during the three months include Brandt Theatres acquiring the Colony, Century and Sheldon. The circuit also dropped the Marvin and closed the Imperial. Leo Brecher added the 68th St. Playhouse. Century circuit darkened the Central, Cedarhurst, L. I.

Cinema circuit took the New Amsterdam and Sam Cocalis turned over the Broadway and Parkhill, Yonkers, to RKO, and at the same time added the Casino, Keansburg, N. J.

Harris Theatrical Enterprises closed the Jackson, and Interboro linked the Sunset and Vanity in Brooklyn to its group. Ben Knobel took the Schuyler in Manhattan and closed the Plaza, Mt. Vernon. Loew's acquired the Cameo, New Rochelle, and is now building a de luxe theatre on the Boston Post Road in the Bronx. This is expected to be completed by Labor Day. The Newsreel Theatres, Inc., bought the Concourse, Bronx, which will reopen shortly as a newsreel unit. RKO also closed a deal for the Republic, which will be turned over by Randforce on Sept. 1. Herman Sussman sold the Parkway, Mt. Vernon, to the major circuit.

The Rosenblatt-Welt circuit dropped the Sunset and Vanity, Brooklyn, and Warners increased its New Jersey holdings by taking the Rahway, Rahway.

RKO Proctor to Operate

RKO Proctor Corp. will be the operating company for the Central, Parkhill and Broadway, Yonkers, recently acquired from Sam Cocalis and Herman Sussman by RKO. The Central changed management July 23, while the other two houses came into the RKO fold June 1.

Stage Council to Attempt Program

program developed at the national convention. The meeting will also consider a constitution for the council acceptable to all theatre organizations. Several of the theatre unions such as Actors Equity Ass'n, I.A.T.S.E., A. F. of M. and other theatrical unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. have objected to provisions of the constitution which would permit the American Theatre Council to commit the labor organizations to a participation in council activities without ratification by the executive bodies or membership of the various individual unions. If a compromise on this point could be reached, it is felt that the theatrical unions would have no hesitancy in accepting membership in the council.

Among the aims outlined for the council by the national convention, in addition to the formation of a permanent organization and the appointment of a promotional manager for the theatre, are the development of plans for a national theatre festival, the extension of aid to new playwrights and producers of promise, enlargement of opportunities for new stage talent, revival of the "road" and organized defense of the stage from censorship and legislation.

In addition to the informal support of the theatrical unions, the council has the active backing of the Dramatists Guild, the League of N. Y. Theatres, numerous "little theatre" organizations and drama critics.

At the present time no uniform wage scale obtains for local exchange employees. However, they are regarded by distributors as the highest paid in any key city.

An agreement is expected to be reached this week which will provide for a 40-hour week and a minimum wage scale.

New Roxy Clearance Plan Stirs Protest

is seeking the same clearance clause as the Music Hall, which is said to have seven days' protection over theatres within a radius of 50 miles.

Independent operators are demanding that the present clearance schedule be continued. This provides that theatres 15 miles or more from the Roxy play day-and-date on all product, sometimes starting with the opening of the picture and at other times a week later.

In defense of the Music Hall clause, exhibitors assert that this theatre established the precedent and is entitled to continue it, but theatre owners are not willing to accede to its adoption by other Broadway houses.

Under the recent reorganization plan approved by the Federal Court, 20th Century-Fox will give the new operating company for the Roxy a 20-year franchise.

Best Week of Entire Summer In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The stage and screen combination at the Earle and "Artists and Models" at the Stanley combined to give Philadelphia its best week to date this summer.

With "Super-Sleuth" as the film and the Three Stooges, the Preisser Sisters and other headliners on the stage, the Earle gathered $20,000. "Artists and Models" grossed $19,500 for its first Stanley week and stays for a second.

Rest of the business slipped under par. "Exclusive" disappointed; only got $10,500 at the Fox, and "Good Earth," in its first popular price run, took in $12,500 at the Boyd. The reissued "Manhattan Melodrama" did a nice $1,800 for its five days at the Arcadia.

Total first run business was $75,200; the average is $71,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending August 12 are:

No Date for Moskowitz

No date has been decided upon for the adjourned hearing of the examination of C. C. Moskowitz, Loew executive, in the suit by the Brandt circuit against Loew's split week booking policy. Moskowitz had been questioned twice, but did not complete the quiz by Melvin Albert of Weisman, Quinn, Allen & Spett.

Hold "Dallas" in A. C.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 15.—The Strand is holding "Stella Dallas" a second week. The picture previously played at the Apollo for a week.

The Music Hall may hold over "Stella Dallas" a third week. A decision will be reached by W. G. Van Schmus today.

Add Two "Firefly" Dates

Two more roadshow engagements have been set by M-G-M for "The Firefly." The picture will open at the Community, Saratoga, Aug. 24, and the St. James, Asbury Park, Aug. 26. Both engagements are for one week.

No definite date has been set for the opening at the Astor. The picture will follow "High, Wide and Handsome."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hopalong Rides Again"

(Paramount-Harry Sherman Production)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Best entry in the series to date, "Hopalong Rides Again" looks like a sure fire money maker for those exhibitors who specialize in their presentation. Based on a logical story, well acted, intelligently directed by Les Selander, with outdoor scenic backgrounds of superior quality, the film blends more than the customary amount of romance with the standby drama, comedy, suspense and action. Bill Boyd, Russell Hayden and George Hayes repeat their quality performances, and a juvenile newcomer, Billy King, makes a decided impression. In the heavy role, Harry Worth is a resourceful foe who gives Boyd no end of trouble.

Crowded with elements appealing to adults and youngsters, romance is introduced in a manner to give the drama a refreshing character. Mysterious rustlers play havoc with William Duncan's cattle drives. Boyd, romantically attached to Nora Lane, feels that her brother, Worth, who poses as a professorial fossil collector, is involved in the dirty work. Setting a trap after a mountain has been dynamited and making it possible for Hayes and young King to be convincingly heroic, Boyd leads the Bar-20 cowboys into a roaring battle with the rustlers. A spectacular climax has Worth killed in an explosion in which he had planned to wipe out both his cohorts and enemies.

In his first production effort, Ralph Ravenscroft demonstrates he understands what showmen and audiences want in "Hopalong Cassidy" pictures. Under his guidance, this one emerges as a romantic, hard punching outdoor feature that should more than satisfy. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Gangway"

(G. B.)

With the larger part of "Gangway" filmed against the backgrounds of New York and a transatlantic liner, and with a sprinkling of Hollywood familiars in the cast, Director Sonnie Hale has kept American audiences well in mind in the production of this newest Jessie Matthews vehicle.

The picture is off to a hesitating start, but redeems itself in delivering plenty of action, and just the right amount of comedy, romance, song and dance as it unreels.

As a girl reporter, Miss Matthews becomes embroiled in a hunt for an international jewel thief. The suspicions of Barry Mackay, as a Scotland Yard man, fasten on her. American gangsters, also mistaking her for the thief, take command of her on her arrival in New York after an involuntary voyage from London, in order to avail themselves of her talents in a spectacular jewel robbery in a night club setting. Miss Matthews turns the tables and succeeds not only in preventing the planned theft but in delivering the real thief to the police and winning the handsome Scotland Yard man for herself.

Mackay is a satisfactory partner in romance and dance for Miss Matthews. The latter's song and dance numbers are effectively spaced and unobtrusively introduced. Olive Blakeney, as a former Hollywood star of the silent screen era; Patrick Ludlow, as her meek and unacknowledged mate; Nat Pendleton, as a New York gangster, and Warren Jenkins as a dancer, all contribute effective comedy. Photography and sound are excellent.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Berman Sets Ginger

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Ginger Rogers has been cast for the lead in "Having a Wonderful Time," Pandro S. Berman, producer for RKO, made known today. Miss Rogers is now working on "Vivacious Lady," following which she will take a short vacation and report back to the studio. Director and the balance of the cast have not been set.

MGM to Use "Whoppers"

M-G-M has closed a deal with the magazine Liberty for the use of the first 11 winners in a "Whoppers" contest as material for short subjects to be produced by Pete Smith. The competition begins Sept. 18 and ends Oct. 9. Fulton Oursler, editor of Liberty; Pete Smith, the producer, and Fred C. Quimby, in charge of shorts at M-G-M, will be the judges.

"Artists" Gets A High $9,000 At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—"Artists and Models" and "Under the Red Robe" took the week's high money with $9,000 at Fox's Palace. It has been held over.

"The Road Back" and "Marry the Girl" together took second money, grossing $7,000 at the Warner, $2,000 to the good. "The Mighty Treve" and vaudeville at the Riverside grossed $6,500, while the Wisconsin grossed $8,600 for the final five days of "Wee Willie Winkie" and "Born Reckless" and the first two days of "The Good Earth" and "Blonde Trouble."

Total first run business was $35,100. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings:

Make Evelyn Daw Trailer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Grand National is producing a trailer to introduce Evelyn Daw, who plays opposite James Cagney in "Something to Sing About," as her film debut. The teaser trailer will be shipped to Grand National exchanges as part of the build-up campaign and will precede the regular trailer by two weeks.

Crash the Gate

Delphos, O., Aug. 15.—C. W. Ruby and Mrs. Ruby literally "crashed the gate" after driving from Lima to attend the Capitol here.

Finding a parking space in front of the theatre, Ruby steered toward it, but lost control of the car. When the car stopped it was wedged tightly between the box-office and entrance.

They didn't see the show.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 15.—The week's high money went to "Knight Without Armor" and "Call It a Day," which grossed $7,500 at the Warner, just $2,500 above average.

"Saratoga" and "Big Business" in the last four days of its second week at Fox's Wisconsin, and "Wee Willie Winkie" and "Born Reckless," in its first three days gave the house $9,500 for the week, $1,500 to the good. "Saratoga" and "Big Business" have been booked into the circuit's Strand. Germans Claim New Device for Dubbing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Karl Robert Blum, of the firm of Blum & Co., has developed a new process called "phonorhythmic," by which it is possible, it is claimed, to produce sound films in any number of languages using only one sound strip, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Assistant Commercial Attache R. M. Stephenson in Berlin.

In this new process, sound and pictures are shot separately. The text for all languages is recorded before the shooting of the picture begins and the pictures are then synchronized (by a special procedure) with the sound film. The sound is recorded in two parts, one strip for the music and noises and one for the language. These strips are then mixed, and copied on the picture strip.

The inventor claims that by this method it will be easy to replace a good singer who is a poor actor by a good actor, recording only the singer's voice.

It is claimed that by this method, costs may be reduced by 25 to 30 per cent through saving in materials, time, and employment over the usual dubbing methods.

So far, only short films produced by this method have been shown privately in Germany. A long feature, however, is in preparation, which is intended to be produced in eleven languages.

The process is covered by German and foreign patents.

New Zealand Rules Restrict Theatres

By CLIFF HOLT

AUCKLAND, N. Z., July 24.—Regulations governing the restriction of theatre licenses have been gazetted by the New Zealand Government. They are embodied in the Cinematograph Films Act, and provide for the following:

If in any locality there are one or more theatres functioning, and an application is lodged for a new license or for increasing the number of seats in any licensed theatre, the licensing officer may refuse the application, provided he is satisfied:

(a) That the existing theatre or theatres provide adequately for the requirements of the locality having regard to the entertainment value and date of release of the films exhibited, the seating accommodation and general amenities provided, the number of nights per week on which exhibitions are given, the prices charged for admission, and any other relevant considerations affecting the public interest; or

(b) That in view of the conditions existing in the industry or the limited number of films of reasonable exhibition value obtainable in the market, the granting of further licenses in the locality or the licensing of additional seating accommodation or of exhibition on additional nights would cause undue hardship to such existing licensed exhibitors or would result in unreasonable economic waste.

For a city license the application fee is £25. For suburban areas exceeding in population 10,000 a fee of £15 is required, and for all other applications, £10.

Short Subjects

"Sport's Greatest Thrills"

(Columbia)

Chock full of slam bang exciting incidents in various branches of the sports world, this subject will keep audiences on edge. Some patrons may find some of the thrills, particularly the last shot where a racing car does a somersault and the driver hurtles through the air, a little too much. But for the true sportsman, this is a knockout reel with Ford Bond describing and continuity by Jack Kofoed. Running time, 9 mins. "A."

"The Killer of the Tonto"

(Paramount)

Well filmed scenes of the tracking and capture of a cattle-killing mountain lion. The camera work in the chase scenes is exceptional. It is well narrated and should hold interest. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Spring Festival"

(Columbia)

An interesting and entertaining novelty animated subject in Technicolor's three-toned process. It should find a preferred spot on any program. Mr. Ground Hog emerges from his subterranean quarters to announce the oncoming of spring. And then Mother Nature makes the rounds and is greeted by a merry jubilee with flowers, birds and animals participating. The music under the direction of Joe de Nat provides a happy accompaniment. Charles Mintz produced and UB Iwerks directed. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Queen of Harmony"

(Paramount)

Phil Spitalny's girl band, featured in radio, performs with distinction in this short. In cleverly mounted sequences they offer "Tiger Rag," "The Lost Chord," "Alabama Barbecue" and a modern treatment of a Liszt Hungarian rhapsody. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Bury the Hatchet"

(Columbia)

Monty Collins and Tom Kennedy may make up a fine team of housewreckers, but the story material is so ordinary that this so-called comedy falls far short of its mark. As neighbors, Collins and Kennedy are always scrapping. When Collins accidentally breaks a pane of glass in the Kennedy homestead, Collins sends the Kennedy offspring out to buy another pane. Instead, he goes to a movie and wins a furnished home in the Bank Night draw. Both Collins and Kennedy claim the home, take possession of it and wreck the place in short order. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"I Never Change My Altitude"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

The usual Popeye-Pluto combat. This time it is ingeniously set in the air. Plenty of whirlwind action and laugh-provoking humor. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

Overseas Preview

"Feu"

(Open Fire)

(F.C.L.-Eclair Journal)

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Jacques de Baroncelli, veteran director, here has re-made his silent film success. The modern taking version is not up to the standard of his original story.

The narrative is set in 1925, on the Moroccan coast, where the French navy is engaged in tracking gun-runners. A naval commander on patrol there meets and falls in love with a woman, who, unknown to him, is the ringleader of the smugglers. The romance blooms and she is about to give up her illegal pursuit. But the officer discovers her identity. She makes her escape. The navy pursues her ship and as she refuses to surrender they open fire, sinking the vessel.

Victor Francen plays the leading male role. Edwige Feuillere, very talented and attractive, is the woman in the case. Also in the cast are Roger Legris and Aimos. The production is rather old-fashioned.

There is an interesting musical score by Jacques Ibert and Roger Le Febvre's photography of the Mediterranean Sea and other outdoor settings is beautiful. The greatest value of this film lies in its story. It could be re-made advantageously in Hollywood.

AUTRE

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Twentieth Century-Fox will team MYRNA LOY and WARNER BAXTER in "Career in C Major," from the book by JAMES M. CAIN. . . . GLENDA FARRELL goes into Warners' "Hollywood Hotel," announced today as the final title for the picture which has been having its name alternated between "Hollywood Hotel" and "Hollywood Band Wagon."

Kay Francis' next for Warners will be "Return from Limbo," which STANLEY LOGAN will direct. . . . FRANK McHUGH will be featured in "Larger than Life," which BRYAN FOY will produce for Warners. . . . MAURICE CONN has purchased three untitled westerns for KERMIT MAYNARD's series. They are by RIDGEWAY CALLEW, GEORGE PLYMPTON and LEW KINGDON. . . . HAL ROACH has extended the contract of CONSTANCE BENNETT and will feature her in "Love without Reason." . . . RUTH HUSSEY, M-G-M contract player, has changed her name to RUTH MARCH. . . . Columbia's "All American Sweetheart," based on college crew racing, gets under way this week with SCOTT COLTON, PATRICIA FARR, GENE MORGAN, ALLEN BROOK, ARTHUR LOFT and JOE TWERP topping the cast. LAMBERT HILLYER will direct.

WARREN LEONARD, dialogue director for Schulberg's "Blossoms on Broadway," will also direct dance numbers for the film.

Casting—MARGOT GRAHAME in CECIL B. DEMILLE's "The Buccaneer." . . . REBECCA WASSER in "Wells Fargo," Paramount. . . . BENNY BAKER in "Love on Toast," Cohen-Paramount. . . . JEANETTE HALL goes into Wanger's "I Met My Love Again." . . . LOIS JANUARY draws the feminine lead of "The Roaming Cowboy," which JED BUELL is producing for Spectrum release. . . . CHARLES IRWIN in RKO's "Fight for Your Lady." . . . HENRY JANICE, one of the Radio Rogues, in "Blossoms on Broadway," SCHULBERG. . . . GEORGE REGAS in "Ali Baba Goes to Town," 20th Century-Fox.

ALLYN JOSLYN in "Hollywood Hotel" in which TED HEALY's three new stooges, GARNER, WOLFE and HAKINS, make their film debut. . . . FRANCES DRAKE in "I Married an Artist," Columbia. . . . ANDY DEVINE in "Young Man's Fancy," Universal. . . . M-G-M placements: JANET BEECHER in feminine lead of "Give Till It Hurts," short, ROBERT YOUNG to "Navy Blue and Gold," LIONEL BARRYMORE in "A Yank at Oxford."

Writers—RIAN JAMES goes to Universal to work with SOPHIA CLEUGH on the screenplay of her original, "Little Lady," for DEANNA DURBIN. ADRIAN LEVY goes to Paramount to work on an untitled original musical. . . . HENRY F. MISSELWEITZ, former United Press man, joins M-G-M. . . . STUART PALMER is scripting a new Paramount Bulldog Drummond feature. . . . FREDRICK SCHLICK is working on Paramount's "Prison Farm," and STUART ANTHONY and ROBERT YOST on "The Mysterious Rider," same lot.

Directors—ROY DEL RUTH assigned to direct "Bread, Butter and Rhythm."

Contracts—Paramount has given term contracts to five screen possibilities—DOROTHY HOWE, M-G-M Dallas exchange telephone girl; MARGARET RANDALL and JACK HUBBARD in Chicago; RICHARD DENNING, Los Angeles business school graduate, and JAMES CRAIG of Houston. . . . KARL STRUSS signed as cameraman on MAE WEST's next, tentatively titled "Sapphire Sal."

Columbia Set for Season

Columbia in September will usher in "Happiness Month." During this period "Lost Horizon," "It's All Yours," "The Awful Truth," "It Happened in Hollywood," "The Game That Kills" and "Counsel for Crime" will be released on a nation-wide scale. "The Community Sing" short subjects will also be offered.

Short Subjects

"Aquabats"

(Rice-Paramount)

There are thrills in practically every foot of this Sportlight. It deals with the insane, limb-risking antics of individuals who get their fun from being towed by a speeding boat in shallow water and doing the darndest things while racing in outboard hulls. There is no limit to their prowess. It is good enough to be run twice in succession. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Haiti's Black Napoleon"

(Columbia)

While many of Haiti's points of interest afford an interesting background to the subject, it is far below the general travelogue. The producers here resorted to sketches to bring out a complete story of the subject. Other scenes are hazy and the narration seems to lack force.

Coastal fortifications, citadels and other important buildings which make up Haiti's present day life are interesting, but the combination of poor continuity, narration and photography relegates this subject to the so-so category. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Paramount Pictorial 7-1"

(Paramount)

A "bird bar" with humming birds sipping nectar from an automatic feeder, fine scenes in color of dude ranch activities in Wyoming and an intimate glimpse of Sam Coslow, the songwriter, at home. A good combination effectively presented. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Unusual Occupations"

(Paramount)

This is the first of a new series. It is handsomely filmed in color. The unusual pursuits include flea taxi-dermy, sand sculpture, a golf-ball picker-upper and a sky-writer. The last named is thrillingly photographed. It should have good reception. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

Quota Default Fines Talk Up in Commons

LONDON, Aug. 5.—The fact that Associated British Pictures had been fined five times for quota default has been raised in the House of Commons by J. R. Remer, M.P., who pointed out that it was the second biggest film company in the U. K. and that its principal, John Maxwell, was a member of the Advisory Committee to the Board of Trade under the Films Act. Remer suggested that the president of the Board of Trade should make inquiries "in the interests of public policy," but Capt. Euan Wallace, the Parliamentary Secretary, replied that no further inquiries seemed necessary in view of the fact that A.B.P.'s defaults had taken place over a period of three quota years in some 250 theatres.

Increase Capital

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 15.—The National Theatre Supply Co., Delaware, in Oklahoma City has been granted an increase in capital stock from $18,844.01 to $19,459.86, it was announced by the secretary of state.

in which they are located are: Broadway, Charlotte; Ogden, Denver; Garfield, Milwaukee; Nile, Minneapolis; Southeast, Salt Lake City; Alhambra, San Francisco; Egyptian, Seattle; Ritz, St. Louis.

Five more Canadian theatres remain to be set before the entire number is completed. The pictures to be screened include "It's Love I'm After," "The Life of Emile Zola," "Varsity Show," "That Certain Woman," "Confession" and "Back in Circulation."

Chamber to Aid

DALLAS, Aug. 15.—J. Ben Critz, vice-president of the local Chamber of Commerce, has sent letters to all exhibitors who have received letters to attend the Warner trade showings to also visit the Centennial exposition. The Warner exhibit will be held at the Melrose Aug. 23-24.

Warner Theatre Men To Meet on Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Approximately 150 Warner theatre managers and others in the local zone will be on hand for the one-day meeting scheduled for the Bellevue-Stratford on Tuesday.

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of the circuit; Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager for Warners; S. Charles Einfeld, advertising and publicity director; and Harry Goldberg will address the men.

Ted Schlanger, zone manager, will preside at the meeting which will be followed by a screening of "The Life of Emile Zola."

James Cruze Sues Photoplay for Libel

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—James Cruze, director, has filed suit for $250,000 damages against MacFadden Publications, Inc., and Ruth Waterbury, editor of MacFadden's Photoplay, charging he was libeled in an article in the June issue of the magazine.

Through his attorneys Holland, Snidow and Johnson, Cruze alleges that the article implied that his directorial career ended with the advent of sound and that it said he was reduced to "living in a room in the servants' quarters of his home."

Writer Asks Damages

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—Charles Art Powell, writer and former newspaperman, whose pen name is Gordon Newell, has filed suit for $30,000 damages against Sol Lesser, Principal Productions, Inc., Harold Bell Wright and 20th Century-Fox Film Corp., charging that he had not received sufficient exploitation and screen credit on the story, "The Californian," which Lesser produced. Powell alleged that he wrote the original and adaptation of the film, and that Wright was credited with the story writing and he with the adaptation in an inconspicuous manner on the main leader of the picture.

New Fan at 87

AGNESS, Ore., Aug. 15.—The screen has a new fan. He is 87 years old and lives on the banks of the Rogue River. His name is Chris Jacher.

The other evening, members of the C.C.C. camp here invited Jacher over to look at the "newfangled" form of entertainment. He wasn't so anxious because he was hard of hearing, but when he emerged from the screening he asked officers to put him on the "free list."

Kent, Skouras Back From Colorado Meet

LOS ANGELES. He will return here later to finish a number of product deals.

Among those due today are William T. Powers, Edward Zable, Aubrey Schenck, Milton Hossfeld, Irving Barry, Jack Edmondson, Frank S. Irby, Harry Cox, Alan May and John Healy.

The new product and operating policies for the circuit's theatres were the main topics discussed at the Colorado Springs sessions.

All other divisional operating heads and staffs have returned to their respective territories.

Nine Return to Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Arch Bowles, Fox West Coast division manager, will return tomorrow with eight men after attending the four-day National Theatres' convention at Colorado Springs.

Skouras Has Woman Acting as Manager

Skouras Theatres are experimenting with women managers again. Some time ago the circuit tried out the idea, but dropped it when the manager resigned. Augusta Kessler, formerly secretary to George Skouras, is now relieving managers at the various houses and in a few weeks will be assigned to a permanent spot.

Loew's has three women managing theatres and has found the plan to be successful.

Reopen Frisco Amazon

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Golden States Amusement Co. this week reopened the Amazon after extensive alterations.

Markowitz Closes Palmer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Irving Markowitz has closed the Palmer and is reported seeking a site across the way for the construction of a new theatre. His father M. L. Markowitz, operates the Davies, while his uncle, Abraham, is interested in the Neptune, Alameda.

pective patrons have been turned away.

The third week of "Wee Willie Winkie" ended at the Roxy with $28,700. "They Won't Forget," in its second week at the Strand, got about $14,000.

According to the Roxy management, 17,314 persons saw "The Road Back" on the opening day, Friday. The picture is being shown there for the first time at popular prices after a four-week engagement at the Globe at two-a-day.

Harry Charnas and B. S. Moss have booked "Talent Scout" for the Criterion, starting Aug. 18. "Confession" will open at the Strand Wednesday.

Arthur Miller to Return

ARTHUR MILLER, in charge of plant operations for Pathe at Bound Brook, will return this week on the Washington after a six-week trip to London. While in England he made a study of operations at Alexander Korda's studio at Denham.

Prior to Korda's sailing for London recently, he closed a one-year contract whereby Pathe will handle all the printing next year.

"Winkie" Up 25 Per Cent

PORTLAND, Aug. 15.—The first week's take of "Wee Willie Winkie" at the Paramount exceeded that of "Stowaway" by 25 per cent. The Shirley Temple picture is now in its second week and is still holding.

"100 Men" Starts Aug. 31

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Universal has set the premiere of Deanna Durbin's "100 Men and a Girl," for Aug. 31 at the Pantages with a $2 top opening. Regular prices will follow.

Investigation Of Radio Said To Be 'Assured' was criticised by Bacon, who suggested that the company might "want a friend at court to influence the decisions of the Communications Commission."

Three resolutions calling for an inquiry into the broadcasting situation are now pending before the Rules Committee, introduced by the late Representative Connery of Massachusetts, and Congressmen Wigglesworth of Massachusetts and McFarlane.

"In the Senate, through the efforts of Senator White," Bacon pointed out, "a resolution calling for an investigation of the radio industry and the Federal Communications Commission has finally been unanimously reported to the Senate and will undoubtedly pass. Thus a real investigation is assured. The House of Representatives should have passed the resolution of Congressman Wigglesworth long ago. The Democratic leadership, however, has refused to allow his resolution calling for an investigation to come up, and it still remains buried in committee."

Inventor White

Paul White, CBS director of special events, has turned inventor. The invention is a new golf coverage device, and it will be given its first test at the National Amateur Golf championships the week of Aug. 23-28.

The device is a tall umbrella-topped stick with a heavy point which enables it to stick solidly in the ground. Attached to the stick is a periscope. The periscope magnifies the player, ball, and the cup ten times. Attached to the pole is a microphone. With this equipment the commentator can stay quite some distance from the actual play and give an accurate story of what is going on. Previously, spiliers have had to clamber up the ladders or trees to broadcast the putting portions of a golf match.

tions. N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., agency.

Sept. 13—Lever Bros., for Lux, "Radio Theatre," 9 to 10 P. M., over 58 stations. J. Walter Thompson, agency.

Sept. 19—The Texas Co., returning Eddie Cantor and new cast, 7:30 to 8 P. M., over 59 stations. Young & Rubicam, agency.

Sept. 26, Chevrolet Motor Co., 6:30 to 7 P. M., over 97 stations. Talent not yet set. Campbell-Ewald, agency.

Sept. 28—Personal Finance Co., "Your Unseen Friend," 10:30 to 11 P. M., over 11 stations. Albert Frank-Guenther Law, agency.

Sept. 28—R. J. Reynolds, for Camel, returning Jack Oakie, for a full-hour show, 9:30 to 10:30 P. M., 79 stations. Wm. Esty, agency.

Oct. 2—Pet Milk, 8 to 8:30 P. M. Talent and network unannounced. The Gardner Co., agency.

Oct. 3—R. B. Davis for Cocomalt, with Joe Penner, 6 to 6:30 P. M., over 45 stations. Ruthrauff & Ryan, agency.

Oct. 3—Gulf Refining Co., returning Phil Baker, 7:30 to 8 P. M., over 59 stations. Young & Rubicam, agency.

British and Irish Shows for 'Workshop'

The "Columbia Workshop" experimental dramas which Irving Reis directs for CBS, will venture afield for the first time when it broadcasts its Sunday evening programs from London and Dublin Sept. 12 and 19 respectively.

The first production will be "Death of a Queen," which will be transmitted here from the BBC studios with Val Gielgud as guest director. "Riders of the Sea" is the drama to be given from Dublin. The broadcasts will be received here from 7 to 7:30 P. M., E.D.S.T.

Reis will sail for Europe Aug. 25 for extended visits.

Taplinger Sells to 150

Supplementing the usual printed release coverage, Bob Taplinger, radio publicist, has completed arrangements with more than 150 local radio commentators in 85 cities to broadcast exclusive material consisting of news, chatter and comment upon the Taplinger radio and film clients.

Several Promotions Made in KOA Staff

DENVER, Aug. 15.—Several promotions have been made in the KOA staff, effective Sept. 1, when A. E. Nelson, manager of KOA, will become general manager of KDKA in Pittsburgh. Robert H. Owen has been named as manager, and he will be succeeded as chief engineer of the station, a job he has held since 1927, by C. A. Peregrine, control supervisor. Walter L. Morrissey succeeds Peregrine.

To work with Owen in the business end of the station operation A. W. Crapsey has been named commercial manager and James R. MacPherson merchandising director. Remaining as program director will be Clarence Moore.

Nelson came to KOA in 1934, and since then has built the station up to the position it now holds. Nelson was here for the dedication of the new 50,000-watt transmitter in July, 1934. He demanded new offices and studios. The result was a $100,000 Denver Radio City, where the downtown broadcasting plant of KOA is located in the NBC Bldg. He cooperated with the Denver Post in developing a daily news service direct from the editorial rooms of the paper, and in 1936 the station paid 17 times as much to Denver radio talent as in the first year Nelson came.

His successor, Owen, has been with KOA for 10 years as chief engineer, and was on the technical staff for three years before that.

WFIL to Have 55 Mins. of News

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—The fall season will find the program listing 55 minutes of sponsored news broadcasts at WFIL. Starting Sept. 14, placed for 52 weeks through the Clements Agency, Mrs. Morrison's Puddings will sponsor a daily quarter hour news period at 8:45 A.M. Tide-water Associated Oil Co. will sponsor 30 minutes of news daily and Adams Clothes will have another 10 minutes. The only sustaining news period is a five-minute shot at 5 P.M., which is already being eyed by prospective sponsors.

WFIL is serviced by International and Universal and maintains its own news bureau headed by Joe Connelly.

Standard Oil Off Air

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—No appropriation for radio advertising has been made by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana for the coming year, it is reported. This means that the company which sponsored Bob Elson's broadcasts of the professional football games here last fall and a series of programs by Jack Hilton will not use this media for a year at least.

Don Lee to Have 22 Outlets

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—The addition of 11 stations in Oregon and Washington on Sept. 1 will increase the Don Lee Broadcasting System to 22 outlets, according to Lewis Allen Weiss, general manager. The chain is affiliated with Mutual.

Purina to Start on WHO

DES MOINES, Aug. 15.—The Purina Mills, farm feed manufacturers, will begin a series of musical programs over WHO Aug. 30. The show will be heard at 6:45 A.M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The Gardner Advertising Co., St. Louis, is the agency.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Mutual aired a new transcontinental show Sunday, "Sands of Time," a 15-minute presentation of drama based on lives of famous men and women. Charles Frederick Lindsley wrote the plays, and John Prince directed. The first drama was an incident in the life of Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross.

Frank Tavaglione, 20-year-old community opera star, has been added to David Broekman's "Music of the Stars" program, on KHJ-Mutual, Saturdays.

Johnny Green will take a month's vacation after the last broadcast of his current Tuesday night series, Aug. 31. . . . Wilbur Hatch, music director of KNX, takes his first vacation in 15 years this week when he gets five days off.

Ashmead Scott's "Your Witness" presentation on KNX and the Columbia Pacific network will be "The Camera Sees Death," a story of a nun being murdered during the filming of a motion picture. . . . Chiquito, "the original peanut vendor," will be a guest again on "Western Home" on KNX and the Columbia Pacific chain Monday night. . . . The Broadway (department store) has placed with KFI and KECA an order for 80 one-minute electric transcriptions to be run off from Aug. 16 to Dec. 3.

WCKY Signs New Accounts

CINCINNATI, Aug. 15.—The following new accounts have been closed by WCKY, NBC basic Blue: Sherwin-Williams Co., 52 weeks, participation on "For Women Only" program, five days weekly, through T. J. Maloney, Inc., New York; Bartlett Pear Advisory Board, 14 spot announcements, through J. Walter Thompson Co., San Francisco, and the Anderson Co., (Sleetmaster), weather reports, seven days weekly, Oct. 24 to Nov. 27, through Schwab & Beatty, Inc., New York.

WOW Signs New Accounts

OMAHA, Aug. 15.—New business signed by WOW includes an early-bird program sponsored by the Producers' Live Stock Marketing Ass'n featuring Cullen Wright, humorist billed as the "Will Rogers of Nebraska," and also giving current market trends. Time is 6:45 A.M.

Also signed are the Omar Bakeries of Omaha with an "Our Home Town" program, at 10:00 A.M., Mondays through Fridays, and a transcribed series, "Modern Miracles," sponsored by the Chicago Engineering Works.

'Air Mass Details Are Set

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 15.—Joseph Lopez, WICC supervisor, has completed arrangements with Father John E. Riley of St. Ann's Church for Connecticut's first broadcast of a complete Catholic mass. Starting early in September, high mass will be broadcast weekly from 9 to 10 A. M.

Ritz Carlton Starts Tieup

The first venture in radio by Ritz Carlton Hotel will start on WQXR today when that hotel will employ spot announcements to advertise its Japanese Gardens. The contract was placed through J. Walter Thompson.

Second Conference Is Set for Radio

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Plans for a second national conference on educational broadcasting, to be held at Chicago Nov. 29 to Dec. 1, next, were announced today by C. S. March, executive secretary of the conference, composed of 28 organizations.

The conference, it was explained, is intended to provide a national forum where interests concerned with education by radio can exchange ideas and experiences, appraise the situation, and examine the present and potential resources of education through radio.

Among the organizations which will cooperate in sponsoring the conference are the Institute of Radio Engineers, Institute for Education by Radio, National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, National Association of Educational Broadcasters, and National Committee on Education by Radio.

Van Cronkhite Gets Exclusive on Dunkel

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Van Cronkhite Associates, Inc., have secured exclusive sales and programing rights to the Dick Dunkel Football Forecasting System.

Dunkel, chief radio buyer for Benton and Bowles, is now in Chicago for conferences with VCA sales executives. It is understood the deal was completed several months ago but announcement withheld until VCA localized plan for radio station use.

The Dunkel system is going into its third year for Atlantic Gasoline in 18 eastern states over CBS, NBC, and regional networks.

According to John Van Cronkhite, VCA president, radio broadcasting rights are now available for all states west of Ohio and the Carolinas.

"Never before has this sports broadcast been available to local stations and local sponsors," said Van Cronkhite.

Atlantic Gasoline officials have pointed out that in 1936 over 700,000 people came into Atlantic stations each week for the Dunkel forecast sheets.

"Dead End" on "Hotel"

A radio adaptation of "Dead End" will be offered during the "Hollywood Hotel" program over CBS Aug. 20, from 9 to 10 P. M., E. D. S. T. Joel McCrea, Humphrey Bogart and Andrea Leeds will appear in the lead.

CBS Reacquires Stock

CBS, Inc., in its initial report to the Committee on Stock Listings of the New York Stock Exchange reports reacquired shares as follows: 2,850 shares of class A stock and 189,750 shares of class B stock.

Medford Maxwell Joins WIRE

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 15.—Medford Maxwell, formerly of WCLS at Joliet, Ill., has been named traffic manager of WIRE here. He succeeds George Engelter, who resigned.

WOR Signs Contract For Higher Wages

An increase in wages and reduction in hours at WOR was this weekend effected when a contract was signed between the Radio Quality Group Service, Inc., operators of WOR, and the American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers. Guild negotiations had been under way for the past six weeks.

An immediate increase in wages for announcers and production men will result from the agreement and graduated increases in the scale for the future were provided for.

The term of the contract is until Sept. 1, 1939.

In addition to the 40 elapsed hour, five-day week, increased benefits were obtained by the Guild for its members with respect to vacations, leaves of absence, preferential re-employment, etc. Two weeks' notice of discharge is required and the management must arbitrate any disputes under the contract.

One innovation in the management set-up resulting from the contract is the establishment of a classification of senior directors, who will build and direct the more important shows. This group of employees will receive the highest scale in the production department.

The negotiations were conducted for the Guild by three WOR staff announcers, Roger Bowers, who was spokesman, Howard Barnes and Jack Hayes. Roy Langham of CBS is head of the Guild. Representing the station were Alfred J. McCosker, president, Ted C. Streibert, a WOR executive, and Jack Popelle, chief engineer and a member of the station board of directors.

Crandall Joins Atlas

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 15.—Perry Crandall, KGB staff-writer, has resigned to accept a position as writer and producer with the Atlas Radio Corp. in Hollywood, effective Aug. 20.

Crandall has authored "True Air Adventures," "Life of Edison" and the current "Tales of the Tuna Clippers" and "Sycamore Street," all heard locally.

No successor to Crandall at KGB has been announced, but it is expected that Ada, local newspaper woman, will handle the "Sycamore Street" scripts.

Hotel Lincoln Takes WMCA

Arrangements have been completed for the inclusion of WMCA programs on the radio channel of the Hotel Lincoln. The addition of this hostelry brings the total of midtown hotels running WMCA features to five.

The hotels listed with WMCA are, in addition to the Hotel Lincoln, the New Yorker, Park Central, Waldorf-Astoria and the Lexington.

Call Off Peabody

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—In a sudden decision, Eddie Peabody's "Rancho" program on KFVB for the last six months, has been ordered discontinued for the rest of August and all of September. It was announced that the program would resume in the fall.

Leon Leonardi and his orchestra will supplant "Rancho."

Ostrer Hits Government's Quota Plans

Sees No Help to British Industry in Scheme

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 7.—Isidore Ostrer has gone on record expressing his disappointment with the proposals of the Government White Paper on films.

"They will undoubtedly result in more American pictures being made in Britain but not in helping the establishment of a real British industry," he said, adding that there is "no sufficient inducement to the American producer to lessen his obligation to make quota pictures in Britain by the showing of genuine British pictures in the United States."

Ostrer had previously expressed support of a policy whereby American distributors in England would be compelled to expend a proportion of their takings on British films for American release.

Criticism of the White Paper, in other quarters, is gradually shaping into opposition to the cost clause on

China Grosses Off

Washington, Aug. 16.—Closing of theatres in North China has reduced Chinese earnings of American pictures by 25 per cent, declared Commercial Attache Julian Arnold, at Shanghai, in a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce. Shanghai box-office receipts have fallen off considerably because of the prevailing disturbed conditions, he said.

Denies Orpheum Plea To Intervene in RKO

Another effort of preferred stockholders of Orpheum Circuit, Inc., to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings was denied in the U. S. District Court yesterday when Federal Judge William Bondy denied a motion of Isidore J. Kresel, attorney for the consolidated preferred stockholders' committee, to compel RKO through its controlling interest in Orpheum to include the latter in the reorganization plan.

An alternative petition to permit the committee to intervene directly was also denied. Judge Bondy ruled that an order of June 11 by Federal Judge Patterson declared that the stockholders had no interest in the assets of Orpheum and that "all points had been fully and carefully considered," on the original motion.

Orpheum assets were sold to Stadium Theatres, Inc., an RKO subsidiary, for $700,000 in cash and the waiver of a $2,908,774 claim. The petition stated that Orpheum profits amounted to $500,000 and constitute 25 per cent of the total RKO earnings. Kresel also charged that Orpheum assets were sufficient to meet all claims

To Continue Phila. Strike Against Para.

Exhibitors So Vote at UMPTO Meeting

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The date strike against Paramount here will be continued indefinitely, it was indicated today. Local exhibitors, meeting at a session of the United M. P. T. O., individually went on record as approving an extension until such time as the Paramount situation is settled amicably.

The extension of the strike probably will apply to all exhibitors now participating in the move. It is assumed here that no exhibitor will enter into negotiation for the new season product.

The chief address at the meeting was made by Ben Golder, attorney for the organization, who reviewed the situation. When questioned regarding the possible entrance of Dep't of Justice investigators into the case, Golder stated that if it were so it would take a long time before any action would come from that source. He revealed that two years ago when he was appointed a "friend of the court" by Federal Judge Welsh, he went ahead

Monogram to Finish Nineteen by Nov. 30

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—W. Ray Johnston, president of Monogram, here for the sales meeting of midwestern branch managers at the Drake Hotel yesterday, told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the company would have 19 of the scheduled 42 pictures finished and delivered to the exchanges by the end of November.

He declared that sales during October and November would bring in $900,000, the greatest collection total in the company's history.

"High, Wide" Sign Is Using Projector to Operate Bulbs

The new type animated projection sign currently in use above the Astor for the run of "High, Wide and Handsome" is expected by Douglas Leigh, Inc., the owners, to replace most of the spectacular electric signs used in the Times Square area within the next year.

The apparatus comprising the 43x75 foot sign can be dismantled and set up in a new location on short notice. Although Paramount contracted for the sign for $21,000 for seven weeks at the Astor, it is to be rented in the future at $4,000 per month.

The sign contains a center screen,

24x30 feet, within which is projected an animated display of figures or lettering. Ordinary animated films are prepared for this display and projected against a miniature replica of the sign in the projection room. Light from the film touches off photo-electric cells on the miniature sign, transmitting the film image to the outdoor sign, the two being connected up by a very long system of wiring. The film carrying the advertising message can be changed as often as desired. Currently, it displays the artist's conception of scenes from the picture,

Extension Nears for Brooklyn Pool Pact

Negotiations for continuing the Brooklyn pool of the Strand, Paramount and Fox are expected to be concluded tomorrow. The one-year arrangement ends Aug. 31. Discussions under way are for extending the deal for a period of years.

Si Fabian currently operates the three houses in association with Byron Moore, metropolitan district manager for Warners. Joseph Bernhard, who is in Philadelphia today attending a zone managers' meeting, is due back tomorrow on the deal. Y. Frank Freeman will represent Paramount.

Zukor In from Coast

Adolph Zukor arrived from the coast yesterday and will be here another week for regular production conferences with Barney Balaban, Paramount president, and Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of distribution. Zukor is scheduled to leave on the Queen Mary Aug. 25 for a four-week vacation in England and France. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Zukor, who said the crossing will be her 27th.

Purely Personal

FRED JACK, Warner southern district manager, arrived in town yesterday from Dallas to confer with GRADWELL L. SEARS and HERBERT J. OCHS. He will return to his headquarters at the end of the week.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, vice-president and treasurer of United Artists Theatres Circuit, will arrive tomorrow on the Bremen. He has been vacationing in Europe for two months.

MORT BLUMENSTOCK, Warner advertising manager, left yesterday for Detroit to supervise the campaign on "The Life of Emile Zola," which opens at the Cass on Aug. 26.

EDWARD SMALL, due yesterday on the Normandie, cancelled departure plans at the last minute. He is scheduled to return from abroad within the next few weeks.

FRANCES WEIL, associated with HARRY GOETZ in Reliance, will sail Thursday on the Quarigua on a Caribbean cruise. She will return Labor Day.

No Cruelty

Hollywood, Aug. 16.—Seeking to avoid the usual rumors of cruelty to animals which crop up during the production of pictures using horses in battle scenes, Samuel Goldwyn invited a committee of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to witness the battle scenes for "The Adventures of Marco Polo."

Some 250 horses were used in the scenes which the committee saw and it approved the treatment of the animals.

New Games Test Is Up in Connecticut

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Aug. 16.—Arrest of the Palace management here for operation of Bank Night precipitated a new Bank Night test case in this state, following complete abolition of money games last week. The arrest was pre-arranged on agreement between the Middlesex County State's Attorney George S. Ryan, Boston Bank Night attorney, Joseph B. Morse, local Bank Night attorney, and the theatre operator, Sal Adorno.

Roy Heffner, Bank Night distributor for New England, states that every attempt will be made to carry the matter to the Supreme Court without undue delay, and that leading exhibitors in the state, including Loew's and Warners', will cooperate with Bank Night in the attempt to reinstate the plan in the state's theatres. Meantime, exhibitors state that churches and organizations are unmolested in their operation of Bingo.

Negotiations Off on Para-Criterion Deal

Negotiations under which Paramount would acquire a partnership interest in the Criterion have been discontinued with little indication that they will be revived, a Paramount official stated yesterday.

The company had planned to use the Criterion, in the event a deal was worked out, as an extended run house, product to go in there directly from the Paramount whenever additional first run time was believed to be warranted. Failure of the participants to work out an agreement with Loew's State, which has Paramount product under contract for runs following the Paramount, is understood to be the reason for the collapse of the partnership deal with the Criterion. The latter house may contract for Paramount pictures rejected by the Paramount, however.

Warner Managers to Hold Meeting Today

Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner Theatres, is in Philadelphia to address the annual general meeting today of the managers and executives of the Philadelphia zone.

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, and S. Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, also will address the men. During the afternoon "The Life of Emile Zola" will be shown to the managers at the Aldine, after which Harry Goldberg will discuss the merchandising of the film.

Cleveland Warnerites Meet

CLEVELAND, Aug. 16.—Warner Zone Manager Nat Wolf will hold a meeting of southern district managers tomorrow and Wednesday at the Netherlands-Plaza Hotel in Cincinnati, and a meeting of the northern district managers the following two days at the Warner offices here.

Skouras Men to Convene

About 100 managers and assistant managers of Skouras Theatres will convene Monday at the St. Moritz for the first session of a three-day meeting. Policies and new product deals will be discussed by George Skouras, William White and other circuit executives.

Looking 'Em Over

"Riders of the Dawn" (Monogram)

When Bert Longenecker handles the photography on a western the audience is given a fine, pictorial treat of outdoor scenes. This is probably the sole redeeming feature of this film. It also brings a new western star on the screen, Jack Randall. Randall sings with a fine baritone voice and reads the dialogue lines effectively.

The plot is one of those things about the tough time peaceful citizens in Green Valley are having due to the depredations of unscrupulous outlaws. Sympathizing with the father of a murdered boy, Randall decides to tame the place. He ingeniously works himself in with the gang and more ingeniously captures them with the aid of his whitecapped troop and the heavenly aid of a departed buddy, who causes lightning to strike a stage coach that is carrying dynamite and bandits. Peggy Keys, attractively dimpled, plays the feminine lead. Warner Richmond and George Cooper do quite well with their respective character parts. R. N. Bradbury directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Paramount's 'SOULS AT SEA'—a WHALE of a film"

—Kate Cameron,
Daily News

DAILY NEWS, TUESDAY, AUGUST

One Whale of a Sea Film Opens at Globe

By KATE CAMERON.

"Souls at Sea," Paramount picture directed by Henry Hathaway, screen play by Grover Jones and Ted Lesser based on story by Dale Van Every, presented at the Globe Theatre.

Every once in a while, a picture comes out of a Hollywood studio that is so good it surprises its own makers. It happened that, when the Paramount producers saw the finished print of "Souls at Sea," they decided Director Henry Hathaway had created a stirring film play which deserved to be treated to a special release on Broadway, instead of being sent out to the trade merely as a run-of-the-mill product. Therefore, it was brought into New York last night for a flood-lighted premiere at the Globe Theatre, decorated especially for the occasion, where it will continue to be shown indefinitely on a two-a-day schedule.

The picture is based on a sensational marine case that was tried years ago. The story of the court proceedings came to light when a newspaper man, browsing through the old files of a Philadelphia Journal recently, came upon the brittle, yellow pages containing the account of a sailor's trial for a mass murder at sea.

Out of this incident, Dale Van Every constructed a fictional account of the terrifically exciting and climactic events that followed up to the one man on a sinking ship assumes command of an overcrowded lifeboat and plays God to the extent of discarding some of the passengers and carrying others to safety.

Suspense Breathless.

With a finely constructed screen play, the work of Grover Jones and Ted Lesser, and a superb cast headed by Gary Cooper, George Raft, Henry Wilcoxon and Frances Dee, Director Hathaway has built an engrossing drama that holds one's attention from beginning to end.

The picture opens slowly and removes with a certain amount of reserve through the scenes of the trial of Nuggin Taylor for the murders at sea. But even through the leisurely progress of the trial, there is a persistent stir of mystery that keeps one's attention riveted to the screen until the action that fades into the action that provoked it. Then the mystery gives way to a breathless suspense that lasts throughout the horrific sea adventure.

Gary Cooper is a perfect choice for the role of Nuggin Taylor. He

Labor Board to Hold Fleischer Election

The regional labor board, acting on a recent order of the National Labor Relations Board, proceeded last night with an election designed to select a bargaining representative for employees of the Fleischer Studio.

Spokesmen for Fleischer said that the company would not cooperate in the holding of the election pending a planned appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here from the N. L. R. B.'s order. It was also stated that, to the company's knowledge, none of its present employees would participate in the election.

Washington Union Chartered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Local B-14 of the I. A. T. S. E. has become a reality with the granting of a charter to the so-called ushers' union.

Willard L. Brabson, chief of service at the Earle, heads the new organization, whose formative period was directed by DeForest L. Ormes, former business agent of the projectionists and now business agent for the Film Exchange Employees Union, Local B-13, which he helped to form.

Union Demands Ready

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 16.—A. F. of L. Local 42B of theatre employees is reported to be contemplating a simultaneous presentation of demands with the M. P. Operators' Union in this territory. A wage schedule has been adopted but not made public.

Canada Union Fights Single Man in Booth

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 16.—Projectionists' Union, Local 340, has taken strong exception to the ruling of a public inquiry commission here which will allow one man in a booth, instead of two as previously demanded under the B. C. Fire Marshal's Act.

J. Williams, union secretary, declares the findings of the commission "contrary to expert witnesses' testimony," and claims the trend everywhere, else is back to two-man control. He stated that, if the commission recommendations are accepted, the union will "refuse to accept responsibility" for the consequences.

At the present time theatre owners are negotiating new wage scale contracts with the projectionists, and the commission decision is making the discussions somewhat difficult.

Mexico Will Produce Shorts for U. S. Use

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Louis Ramos Alarcon, Mexican Government director of cinematography, has completed a deal, through Fred Futter, for $10,000 worth of new camera and lighting equipment, as part of Mexico's plan to use films to attract tourists to that country.

Alarcon said that the films would be shot in 16mm. with English narration added later to the series of short subjects, to be distributed only in the United States.

Beecher Is Knopf Aide

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Milton Beecher of M-G-M's casting office has been made assistant to Edwin Knopf, story department head. Warren Groat continues in the story department as writer contact man.

requiring 4,104 specially designed bulbs for the center screen.

The sign is the invention of a Stockholm scientist, but all of the American and manufacturing patents are held by Douglas Leigh, Inc., for a period of 17 years. They have been held by the firm for more than a year but the sign was not introduced until very recently, when final mechanical details were perfected. Its current engagement at the Astor is the first time it has been used in motion picture advertising, and the second time for any commercial purpose. The Wilson whisky people used the sign in Times Square a few weeks earlier but Douglas Leigh regards that as an "experiment."

Three Film Meetings Scheduled at Denver

DENVER, Aug. 16.—Scheduled for meetings in Denver the last of August are several theatre men's organizations. Rick Ricketson, Fox Inter-mountain division manager, has announced that nearly 100 will attend a divisional meeting here Aug. 31, Sept. 1-2.

During the week of Aug. 22 the partners in the Gibraltar Enterprises, Inc., will be in Denver for meetings at the Park Lane Hotel. Charles R. Gilmour, president, says that tentative plans call for a mountain trip, too.

A one or two-day convention of the Theatre Owners' and Managers' Ass'n of the Rocky Mountain Region will probably be held here the last of the month, according to A. P. Archer, president.

The Rocky Mountain Screen Club's annual picnic is to be held at Cherry Hills Country Club Aug. 31.

Cooper, Schoedsack Plan Jungle Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Under the terms of his new contract with M-G-M, Merian C. Cooper will be joined by his former associate, Ernest B. Schoedsack, to produce a jungle film in color in the East Indies with an all-native cast.

The color process to be employed has not been decided upon as yet, according to the studio. It may be Cinecolor. Hal Roach has been making secret tests with two color processes, one of which is believed to be Cinecolor. In the event this process is used, it will mark the entrance of Cinecolor into the major production field.

Reade-20th-Fox Sign

Walter Reade has closed a deal with 20th Century-Fox for the latter's product next season for the entire circuit. Harry H. Buxbaum and Joe Lee represented the distributor, while Reade and Leo Justin acted for the circuit.

SEATTLE, Aug. 16.—Artists and Models finished a first week at the Paramount with $400 better than "Waikiki Wedding," which chalked up a record for the house two years ago.

Educational Films To Be Studied Anew

The National Research Council of Washington, D. C., has begun a study of scientific aids for the educational field which will embrace the use of both films and radio in the schools of the nation and possible means of increasing and improving their use, Irvin Stewart, director of the council's educational committee, stated yesterday.

Stewart is a former vice-chairman of the F.C.C., having resigned that post June 30 last, to become associated with the committee on scientific aids to learning. Members of the committee include James B. Conant, president of Harvard; Vannevar Bush, vice-president of M.I.T.; L. D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota; Frank B. Jewett, vice-president of A. T. & T.; Ben D. Wood, Columbia University; Bethuel M. Webster, attorney, and Ludvig Hektoen, chairman of the National Research Council. The committee's headquarters have been established in New York.

No definite activities have been decided upon by the committee yet for the educational film and radio fields other than to proceed with a study of the extent to which and means by which they are and may be applied to learning. The committee is not connected with either the May committee on educational films or the M.P.P.D.A.'s educational films committee.

Derr to Produce 4 For Monogram List

E. B. Derr has been signed by Monogram to produce four pictures on next season's schedule. Derr will leave for Hollywood in a few days.

W. Ray Johnston, president, flew from Chicago to the coast yesterday after attending the second regional sales meeting. With 37 franchise holders and salesmen in attendance, the group passed a resolution complimenting Scott Dunlap, production head, on the pictures he has turned out since he took over the post early in March.

While on the coast Johnston will confer with Dunlap.

Finish Eastern Scenes

Eastern scenes for Republic's "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" have been completed at the Biograph studios. John Auer, assistant director, who has been working on the picture here, has returned to the coast.

Among the personalities filmed were Kay Thompson and her rhythm singers, Henry Armetta, Ted Lewis and his band, Cab Calloway and his orchestra and Joe di Maggio.

Reliance Deal Not Set

Reliance has not completed negotiations for a new distribution outlet for its program next season, Harry Goetz stated yesterday. Discussions are under way but nothing has been decided, he said. "The Women," current Max Gordon show, is expected to be the first attraction.

portion of the profits which the station was making.

Commissioner Payne intimated "dirty work" within the commission in favor of WLW, declaring that "Immediately after my attempt to question you there was surreptitiously inserted into our annual report to Congress—a report that was never seen by any commissioner—a gratuitous and valuable advertisement of your station, confirming my impression that there was something strange in Denmark."

"Since I first attempted to obtain information from you about your station, the commission and the public have had the question of monopoly and favoritism brought officially to their attention in both houses of Congress," he added.

Citing addresses made by Senator Wallace White, Jr., of Maine and Representative W. D. McFarlane of Texas, the commissioner renewed his demand that Crosley submit, by Sept. 13, detailed financial data, including a balance sheet showing its investment, assets, liabilities and stock; a profit and loss statement, statement of dividends declared, broadcasting hours sold, time devoted to products of Crosley and affiliated companies and rates and increase in rates.

McFarlane Concur

Declaring that Commissioner Payne's letter demonstrated an intention on the part of the F. C. C. to "clean house," Representative McFarlane, who has been the leading figure in the broadcasting fight since the death of Representative William Conner of Massachusetts, characterized it as a "very courageous statement and certainly in keeping with the facts."

"No man can serve two masters," he said, in referring to charges that the commission has granted preferential treatment to certain of the large stations. "I consider this a concrete result of the efforts that I and certain of my colleagues in the House have been making to secure a thorough airing of the broadcasting situation."

Other members of Congress also expressed gratification over the commission's new stand, but predicted it would not serve to avert a Congressional investigation.

Crosleys on a Vacation

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—Powell Crosley, Jr., president of WLW; Lewis Crosley, general manager, and William Hedges, station manager, were vacationing in Indiana, MOTION PICTURE DAILY was informed here. Mrs. Dorothea Bauer, Crosley's secretary, said however that the letter had not been received. She said Crosley would give it consideration when the letter arrives.

union was ratified at yesterday's meeting and its A. F. of L. charter was applied for and granted by resolution of the board of Associated Actors and Artistes of America, the parent A. F. of L. organization for the amusement world. Formal issuance of the radio field charter is scheduled to take place at the next meeting of the board of the Four A's on Aug. 27.

The national board of governors of the radio union will consist of 45 members when complete. There are now 10 vacancies on the board which will be filled by the representatives of local radio unions to be established in the course of a national organizing drive which will get under way shortly. The present 35 members of the board are Edward Arnold, Phil Baker, Jack Benny, Edgar Bergen, John Boles, Richard Bonelli, Reed Brown, Jr., Cantor, Frank Chapman, Bing Crosby, Ted di Corsia, Norman Field, Edward Fielding, Georgia Fified, Martin Gabel, Jascha Heifetz, George Heller, Warren Hull, Carleton Kadell, Joe Laurie, John McGovern, Florence Malone, Queena Mario, James Melton, Grace Moore, Osgood Perkins, Dick Powell, Lanny Ross, Mark Smith, Margaret Speaks, Paul Stewart, Tibbett, Rudy Vallee, Lucille Wall and James Wallington.

Thomson Answers Charges

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors' Guild, yesterday sent a wire to Frank Gillmore, president of the Four A's, denying any personal or organizational ambitions of ruling the latter organization. The wire, Thomson said, was intended as his answer to statements published by the New York daily and trade press which he interpreted as charging him with "czaristic ambitions." The statements referred to by Thomson pointed out that because of its greater membership, the Screen Actors' Guild was in a position to become the dominant influence in the Four A's. Thomson was credited with the sponsorship of the plan which resulted in the setting up of the new radio union as an autonomous organization, rather than as a branch of Actors' Equity Ass'n, as proposed at first by the latter. The switch in plans deprives Equity of the numerically largest organizing field now available in the amusement world.

Mutual Signs 8; Renews 4; More Coming

With eight new contracts for fall programs already signed, with four other commercial shows in the immediate offing, and with four long term renewals set, the Mutual network is looking forward to the most promising fall schedule since the inception of the web several years ago. Incidentally, 38 per cent of all new network accounts signed in the past two weeks have been placed over Mutual. The new accounts follow:

"Sunday Morning Quarterback," with Benny Friedman, for the Parker Watch Co., starts Sept. 12, from 11:30 to 11:45 A. M. The DeGarmo agency handles the account.

"The Shadow" Scheduled

"The Shadow," with Rod La Roque, for the Blue Coal Co., starts Sept. 26, from 4:30 to 5 P. M., with a west coast repeat from 5:30 to 6 P. M. Ruthrauff & Ryan, agency.

"Musical Plays," with Irene Wicker, for the Kellogg Co., starts Oct. 2, from 5 to 5:30 P. M. N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., agency.

"Passing Parade," with John Nesbitt, starts Aug. 22, from 9 to 9:15 P. M. The Duart Co. sponsors. The deal was handled direct.

"Daily Information Service," with Myra Kingsley. The Hector Co. sponsors. Starts Sept. 7, Monday through Friday, from 11:45 A. M. to 12 noon, with a repeat from 1:30 to 1:45 P. M. Erwin Wasey is the agency.

Stokes for Schaeffer

"Harold Stokes' Orchestra," for the Schaefer Pen Co., starts Aug. 27, from 8:15 to 8:30 P. M. Bagley, Horton & Hoyt, agency.

"Dramatic Varieties," for Commentator Magazine, starts Sept. 19. The time has not been set. It will be an evening program, however. Cecil Wadwick, Legler, agency.

"Canary Chorus," for American Bird Products Co., starts Oct. 10, from 11:45 A. M. to 12 noon. Westen, Barnett, agency.

The renewals include:

"Fun in Swingtime," with Tim and Irene and Bunny Berrigan's orchestra, for Admiracion Laboratories. The fall series starts Oct. 17. Charles Dallas Reach, agency.

Weems Coming Back

"Ted Weems' Orchestra," for Variety of Vienna, returns Sept. 26, Sunday from 1:30 to 2 P. M. Bagley, Horton & Hoyt, agency.

"Lutheran Hour," sponsored by the Lutheran Church, resumes Oct. 24, from 4 to 4:30 P. M. The program is direct.

"Get Thin to Music," sponsored by the Wallace Biscuit Co., returns Sept. 27, Monday through Saturday, from 10:30 to 10:45 A. M. Reincke, Ellis, Younggreen & Finn, agency.

Commercial contracts which may be signed momentarily include a program for Health Products; the Georgie Jessel-Norma Talmadge program for Associated Department Stores; the return of "Famous Jury Trials," and a program featuring Potash & Perlmuter.

Summer Shows on the Air

Georgie Price and Company

Georgie Price, who forsook the entertainment world several years ago for a Wall Street brokerage desk, returned to the wars Sunday evening via a new sustaining period over WOR and Mutual, and a welcome return it was indeed. He brought with him Morton Gould's orchestra, his wife Lorraine, and Vivian Ruth. For a sparkling half-hour of light entertainment, the above combination of artists cannot be surpassed on any network.

Price, however, is practically the whole show. Possessed of a personality which is amazingly ingratiating, a singer of songs de luxe, a mimic of first rate ability and an emcee who won his spurs as such in the halycon days of vaudeville and the revue stage, Georgie breezed through the 30-minute period in zestful fashion, palpably having a good time himself, and affording a good time to the listener. His imitation of Harry Richman's "Birth of the Blue" was a highlight.

Morton Gould's orchestra provided several sparkling musical numbers. Gould's arrangements will make his name a by-word in radio before many more seasons elapse, we are positive. Vivian Ruth vocalizes pleasingly. As for Lorraine Price's voice, at the conclusion of her number Georgie regretfully said something about spending a fortune to teach her how to dance. However, he added, she sings as well as Ruby Keeler. Which she does.

The series is a 7:30 to 8 P. M. presentation.

Australia's Radio Ads Gain—Stiver

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Despite equipment obstacles, radio's prominence as an advertising medium has increased so rapidly in Australia during the last two years that it is giving newspapers, handicapped by outside pressure, real competition, Mike Stiver, Australian office manager of the J. Walter Thompson agency, just promoted to head of the agency's London office, said here today.

Stiver arrived here this week from Sydney and his appointment to the London post was announced at a press conference. He had been in the Australian office since 1930. Sam Dobbs succeeds him.

There are no restrictions in advertising matter on Australia's radios, he said. Everything including laxatives can be openly plugged.

There are 13 "A" class stations—Government-owned and controlled; 19 "B" class stations—privately owned and controlled in capital cities; and 15 provincial stations—privately owned and controlled which serve principally as relay links for the capital stations.

No Ads on "A" Stations

Stiver explained that the "A" class stations carry no advertising at all, and are operated by the Australian Broadcast Commission, on the same lines as B. B. C. in England. Little enterprise, outside of broadcasting the cricket and tennis matches and such events, is used by the A. B. C., Stiver said, and the "A" stations have only 20 per cent listener appeal, according to surveys.

The "B" class stations have most of the 80 per cent remaining of the 800,000 radio set owners, with the provincial stations' appeal appearing negligible, according to Stiver.

There is a dearth of live talent on Australian radios, he said. Most of the programs are from transcriptions which have been added to, giving as an example the Kraft Music Parade—the Australian rendition of the cheese program's American "Kraft Music Hall." Records of the American broadcasts are made, and deletions and additions are made for Australia.

Polish Program for Oxydol

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—A program in Polish for Oxydol started today for Procter & Gamble, through Blackett, Sample-Hummert, over WJBK in Detroit.

The foreign language division of Van Cronkhite Associates handle the new program.

Husing on Ohio Game

COLUMBUS, Aug. 16.—Ted Husing will broadcast the Ohio State-Texas Christian football game from here Sept. 25, over WHKC and the Columbia web. Kellogg Co., Atlantic Refining and the Griffin Mfg. Co. will jointly sponsor.

Dedicates Program to KGW

CINCINNATI, Aug. 16.—WLW dedicated its midnight program of "Moon River" to KGW, Portland, Ore., Saturday, when that station inaugurated its new 625-foot vertical antenna.

Amateurs Gather in Houston on Friday

HOUSTON, Aug. 16.—One thousand licensed amateur radio operators will meet in Houston Aug. 20 for the 11th annual convention of the American Radio Relay League, fifth district. The district includes Texas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

There are 204 licensed radio amateurs in Houston. Delegates will visit the KPRC-KTRH plant at Deep Water. County Judge Roy Hoffheinz and President L. P. Holland of the Houston Amateur Radio Club will welcome delegates.

Among the group will be John L. Reinartz, RCA representative; Dr. Eugene C. Woodruff, president of the Penn State college of the American Radio Relay League; Dr. J. S. Waters, professor of electrical engineering and instructor of communications engineering at Rice Institute, and Dr. Burton T. Simpson.

The Army Amateur Radio Service, the Naval Communications Reserve and the newly organized Amateur Radio Emergency Service, all members of the A. R. R. L., will hold organization meetings in advance of the convention.

New Play Series Is Inaugurated by KFI

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—KFI will attempt a new departure in radio drama presentation when it inaugurates a series of plays tomorrow in an effort to do on the air what fadeouts, close-ups, dissolves and other film tricks do on the screen.

The series of programs, called "Preview Nights," will be produced by Don Clark and directed by Ghan Heisch. First of the dramas will be "Runaway Husband," a comedy by John Boylan, KFI writer. The cast includes Hanley Stafford, Beatrice Benaderet, Ynez Seabury, Anne Stone and Joseph Kearns.

WHN Signs New Accounts

Two new programs started over WHN yesterday. They were "Leroy, Pianist," and a series for Famous Fairsex, Inc.

"Leroy, Pianist," will be offered Monday through Saturday for 13 weeks, from 1:15 to 1:30 P. M. The series, transcribed, was signed direct.

The Famous Fairsex series, also for 13 weeks, consists of three five-minute periods Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Plan Informal Law Talks

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 16.—WICC has scheduled a series of informal and semi-humorous law talks by Attorney Frances Roth, former assistant prosecutor for New Haven County and lecturer in the Yale University Education Dep't. for Thursdays at 7:30 P. M., E. D. S. T., beginning Sept. 2, under the title, "The Law and the Layman."

the part of independents in all sections of the industry and of criticism of the double quota and reciprocity clauses by American interests.

The reciprocity clause, giving quota value on a footage basis to a British film bought for America, is generally assailed on the ground that the same film, bought for England, possesses double quota value, due to its minimum "labour cost" of £22,500. Saying that "no intelligent body of business men would ever put up such proposals," Ralph Hanbury, British chief of Radio, expressed a general view of the unworkability of this proposal.

The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., which is preparing an intensive Parliamentary campaign against the cost clause, is being supported by independent producers, who are quoting many instances of films costing little more than £5,000 to £6,000 which have been booked in as many as 1,800 theatres. The minimum cost is seen as putting these companies out of business, and causing unemployment.

This independent group is expected to make special approaches to Members of Parliament, apart from the C. E. A., and any success on their part will strengthen the House of Commons group, already considerable, which will urge a viewing test in place of the cost clause.

ATP Planning 20 in England Next Season be designed for international release, he added.

Baker will leave for Hollywood today for conferences with Edward L. Alpers, president of Grand National.

Associated British Film Distributors, of which Baker also is managing director, releases all of Grand National's product in the United Kingdom in addition to all films produced by A.T.P. and associates. The deal has another year to run and Baker and Alpers will discuss matters pertaining to it in Hollywood.

This is the first trip for Baker in two years and it marks the initial crossing for his son.

"The industry in England is now on a pretty firm foundation," Baker stated. "The people who have been in the business a long time are still in it; those who have been making pictures for years are continuing to make them and exhibitors of long standing are still operating theatres."

None of the companies with which he is identified in the theatre business, Baker said, and although there has been considerable discussion about oversteering there is no redundancy. "It will be some material time before redundancy comes," he added.

"We have 4,300 theatres and a population of 48,000,000. G. B. has 360 houses, John Maxwell 343, the Odeon circuit about 200," he said.

English producers make about 200 pictures annually, he stated, but this number is expected to be reduced considerably under the new quota laws.

To Continue Phila. Strike Against Para.

with his investigation, but that the Dep't of Justice had asked him to wait until he heard from them. He was still waiting, he said.

Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, came in for criticism because of his statement that the strike was costing Paramount only $10,000. Three independent exhibitors at the meeting stated that their Paramount film bill came to well over $100,000. Golder, however, advised the organization not to make capital of it. Grand National was criticized when it was revealed that the company was advising exhibitors it would not deliver the second James Cagney film on last year's contract. It was indicated that the United M. P. T. O. would take action in the matter.

A plan for giving power of attorney to a committee to buy 1937-'38 Paramount product was presented by David Barrist. The suggestion was taken under advisement.

Polesia Para. Producer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Herbert Polesie, former assistant to Barney Glazer, who recently left Paramount to produce for Warners, has been promoted to an associate producer's berth at Paramount. His first assignment will be the Bing Crosby vehicle, "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon." Polesie was a radio producer-writer until he went to the studio.

in a statement to stockholders yesterday, explained that some years ago it was the company's policy to invite some of its customers to become financially interested in the business, by granting options to purchase stock, conditional upon a guaranteed volume of business. Extension of this arrangement is looked for, Kalmus declared. To date all such options have been granted at the market price at the time of arranging the accompanying contracts for the production of features.

No Change in Embassy

The Embassy Newsreel has not changed hands and the present owners have operated the Broadway house for the past three years, it was stated by the management yesterday in correcting an item which appeared in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

The same company will open the Newsreel Theatre in the Bronx in a week or two.

Ford Has G. N. Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—Wallace Ford has signed a four-picture-per-year starring contract with Grand National. The pictures will be produced by Dave Diamond. The first will be "He Wanted to Marry," a Percy Rowland original which Clarence Marks is adapting.

Dissensions Flare Within Ranks of FCC

Crosley Fight Cause of Internal Rupture

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Dissension within the ranks of the Federal Communications Commission flared openly today over Commissioner George H. Payne's attack on the Crosley Radio Corp.

The bitterness of the situation was not alleviated by a statement by Powel Crosley, Jr., head of Station WLW, denying that his company had refused to furnish data, challenging Payne's right to request such information, and asserting that the station had increased its rates only 20 per cent, and not 50 per cent as alleged yesterday by the Commissioner.

Crosley characterized one implication of Payne's as "libelous," and stated flatly he would not furnish the Commissioner with the data he sought. Defending that station against Payne's charges, Crosley asserted the delay in furnishing information was "due" (Continued on page 10)

Henry Chosen Head Of Nebraska Ass'n

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 17.—John M. Henry of Omaha, general manager of Central States Broadcasting Co., was elected president of the Nebraska Broadcasters' Ass'n at the annual convention here.

Other officers chosen included Clark Standiford of KGFV, Kearney, vice president; Art Thomas of WJAG, Norfolk, secretary-treasurer, and Frank Manchester of WAAW, Omaha, and L. L. Hilliard of KGKY, Scottsbluff, directors.

Fleischer Hits at Labor Board Vote

The Fleischer Studio, through its attorneys, Phillips & Nizer, yesterday characterized the employees' collective bargaining election held on Monday night under the direction of the regional labor board as "improper, purposeless and binding upon nobody."

The election registered 59 votes in favor of the Commercial Artists & Designers Union as the employees' bargaining representative and none against it. An additional 15 votes cast by employees who were discharged for engaging in a "slow-down" strike some time ago were not counted, pending a decision from the National Labor Relations Board at Washington as to whether or not they are entitled to vote.

Fleischer declared that "most of the employees of the company voluntarily refused to vote" and those who did "were favorable to the union" or out on strike. The company, it was (Continued on page 12)

"Road Back" at Roxy $30,000 in Four Days

"The Road Back" garnered $30,000 in the first four days at the Roxy and indications are that the picture will end with approximately $45,000 on the week. "Gangway" will open Friday.

The third week of "High, Wide and Handsome" at the Astor garnered about $7,000. The first week of "Souls at Sea" at the Globe ended with $11,000. Both are two-a-day attractions.

With the exception of a roadshow engagement at the Carthay Circle in Los Angeles, both pictures are being pre-released by Paramount. "Souls at Sea" is slated to open in Philadelphia next week.

Joan Bennett Gets Plaque; Spectators Get an Eyeful

By SHERWIN A. KANE

The Professional Models of New York—which is not really a benevolent and protective society for mannequins but a selected few who were invited to decorate Rockefeller Center's decorative Promenade Cafe from 4:30 to 6:30 yesterday afternoon—gave the party for Joan Bennett. Reporters who were present were given to understand, however, that the models received some assistance from United Artists.

The party was attended by a polite group of the industry's inveterate party-goers, most of whom were bewildered and abashed upon finding

Fabian, Paramount Deal Extended Year

An extension for one year from next Sept. 1 of the deal under which Si Fabian operates the Brooklyn Paramount was closed yesterday. The arrangements were concluded by Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, and Fabian.

Extension of the Paramount operating deal is incidental to a continuation for a similar period of the Brooklyn first run pool involving the Paramount, Strand and Fox, all operated by Fabian in association with Byron Moore, metropolitan manager for Warners. An agreement on the extension of the pooling arrangement may be concluded today.

Al Hanson Resigns As Aide to Skouras

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Al Hanson, assistant to Charles P. Skouras, operating head of Fox West Coast, has resigned to devote all his time to his two theatres and the new one he is now building. Hanson owns 49 per cent in the Tower and Compton, Compton, Cal., FWC retaining 51 per cent.

Before he built the two Compton houses with FWC, Hanson owned two theatres in the town without affiliations. They were demolished in the 1933 earthquake. Hanson did not attend the four-day convention of National Theatres at Colorado Springs.

Whether Hanson will continue to make his headquarters at FWC here after Sept. 1 is problematical. No successor has been appointed.

Cullman Will Quit at Roxy September 2

Harry C. Arthur to Take Charge on That Date

Howard S. Cullman, trustee, will step out of the Roxy on Sept. 2, at which time Harry C. Arthur, Jr., will become top man in the operation of the house. Cullman will file a complete report of his five-year trusteeship with Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey shortly. At the same time he will file an application for fees.

During the past four years, Cullman has been allowed four interim fees of $20,000. In his report to the court, Cullman will render a week-by-week analysis covering the operation of the theatre.

Arthur, who was scheduled to leave for St. Louis this week, has postponed his departure until next Tuesday. Arthur is head of Artco, which has had a management contract for the Roxy during Cullman's supervision. This agreement expires the end of the month. The theatre hiked its prices recently with the booking of "Wee Willie Winkie." No change in management, operation or personnel is contemplated when Cullman steps out. Rose Berks, his secretary, will join him in his tobacco business.

In addition, Cullman at the present time is a member of the Port of New York Authority.

"Dallas" Holdovers Gain in Key Cities

"Stella Dallas," which concludes a two-week engagement at the Music Hall tonight and will be followed by "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," is being held over in Atlantic City, Providence, Cleveland, Louisville, New Orleans, Rochester, Reading and Boston.

Passing of Dempsey Delays Union Talks

Negotiations which were scheduled to be resumed yesterday by union and home office representatives on the local exchange employees' agreement, have been postponed indefinitely due to the death of Fred J. Looking 'Em Over

"Kliou"

(Bennett Pictures)

Produced and directed by Henry de la Falaise, this short feature records a story of the native mois of French Indo-China, in their pursuit and eventual destruction of the scourge of their village, Kliou, the tiger.

Done in Technicolor, with occasional flashes of excellent color value pictorially, the film opens with a prologue as Falaise returns to the French military outpost from a hunt, and tells the story of the villagers' war on the tiger. An accompanying musical score is supplemented with subtitles. The photography is the work of Howard Greene, and included are several shots of animals native to the region and excellent views of the tiger.

The thread of a story is woven through, that of the young hunter of the tribe, the only one not afraid of the tiger, who goes in pursuit of the beast after it has mauled the chief. With the young brother of the girl he loves, he follows the animal through the jungle and swamps, eventually killing it with a poisoned arrow.

The film is satisfactory of its type, as a somewhat different type of attraction, but contains little that is striking.

No production code seal. Running time, 52 minutes. "G."

Para. Signs Benny
To Four-Year Pact

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Paramount, by cable, has signed Jack Benny, now in Europe, to a straight four-year contract calling for him to star in eight pictures during that time. The first of these will be "Music Over America," written by Preston Sturges and to be produced by Arthur Hornblow, Jr.

The studio recently extended the contract of Mrs. Benny (Mary Livingstone) who makes her screen debut in "This Way, Please."

Warners' regular board of directors' meeting scheduled for yesterday was not held because various board members were out of town.

Balcon in Praise of Coast Thoroughness

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Hollywood's thoroughness in all stages of preparation for production, and the absolute disregard of cost on the coast, in the search for perfection, were stated by Michael Balcon, producer for M-G-M British Studios, to be the things that most impressed him during his three-month stay at the M-G-M studios.

The completeness of the American tryout system was also highly praised by Balcon, who said he had personally followed a picture to four audience previews, and had studied the cutting and re-cutting it had undergone. The level of ability of Hollywood executives is exceptionally high, Balcon also said.

RKO Takes Wilcox Film

LONDON, Aug. 9.—RKO has acquired the distribution rights to "The Rat," produced by Herbert Wilcox, it was revealed here by Phil Reisman, foreign manager for RKO.

Films at Conference

Two films will be shown at the 1937 Williamstown Institute of Human Relations at Williams College from Aug. 30 to Sept. 3, under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians. One film, "This Thing Called Tolerance," was produced in Hollywood at the RKO studios by H. L. Gumbiner, president of the Gumbiner Synchron-Sound Co., and Sol Lesser, president of Principal Prod.

M-G-M Troupe Coming

Robert Taylor, Lionel Barrymore, Maureen O'Sullivan, Margaret Booth, Joe Newman and Hal Rosson are due from the M-G-M studios in Culver City this week en route to London to start work in "Yank at Oxford," the first M-G-M British picture. The group is scheduled to sail on the Berengaria Saturday.

Close Monogram Deal

The Butterfield circuit of Michigan has signed for Monogram's output next season. The circuit will book the product first run in 10 cities.

Government Sues for Return of Sex Film

U. S. Attorney Lamar Hardy filed suit in the U. S. District Court yesterday against Jewell Prod., Inc., to compel the delivery to the Government for destruction of the print of "Science of Mankind." Hardy also asked for the right to destroy the negative of the same picture which is entitled "Mysteries of Sex" and which was seized by the customs authorities. Hardy alleged that the print entered the country without inspection and that it was "immoral and obscene."

Caruthers Suit Dismissed

The $1,000,000 copyright infringement suit of Allen Caruthers against RKO Radio Pictures was dismissed in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey. Caruthers charged infringement of his unpublished manuscript, "The Sooners," in "Cimarron." After reading both scripts and viewing the picture at a private showing, Judge Woolsey ruled that "there is no basis for the plaintiff's claim of literary larceny." The only similarity found was that both stories dealt with the occupation of Oklahoma.

Bartholomew Case Ends

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson today took under advisement the case of M-G-M, seeking a permanent injunction to prevent Freddie Bartholomew from working for any other studio. The action was featured by a series of charges and counter charges from the company and from Mylicent Bartholomew, the aunt and legal guardian of the boy.

"Zola" in Two Spots

Two local roadshow engagements of "The Life of Emile Zola" will start next Tuesday at RKO's Strand, Far Rockaway, and Rugoff & Becker's Laurel, Long Beach, L. I. The attraction has been dated for a week's day and date run with prices scaled from 50 cents to $1.50. The picture tomorrow starts a second week at the Hollywood on Broadway, which has been doing capacity business for the first six days.

Warner Films Monday, Tuesday

Warners will hold an advance preview of new product next Monday and Tuesday at the New Amsterdam roof theatre. There will be simultaneous showings in 30 other cities and six Canadian situations. Approximately 500 exhibitors from the surrounding territory have been invited. The films to be shown are "The Life of Emile Zola," "Confession," "It's Love I'm After," "That Certain Woman," "Back in Circulation" and "Varsity Show."

"Firefly" Premiere Aug. 31

Loew's has dated "The Firefly" to open at the Astor as a two-a-day attraction on Aug. 31.

Filmarte Opens Sept. 14

The Filmarte, which has been closed since June 21, will reopen Sept. 14, with "Mayerling," foreign film in which Charles Boyer and Danielle Darrieux are starred, as the opening attraction. A formal premiere is planned.

Personality Shows Ahead of Amateurs

Amateur shows, long the most popular type of radio presentation, have been usurped by personality shows as the leading radio attraction, with the amateur programs in second place, according to the Cooperative Bureau of Analysis (Crossley Report.) Variety shows are third in popularity. Other principal findings of a 114-page report just issued by the C.A.B. shows the average popularity of programs during the past winter was about 30 per cent greater than during the previous summer, and that the semi-classical programs showed the greatest change, moving from sixth to fourth place. The report analyzes 233 network programs, 144 evening, 89 daytime, broadcast between Oct., 1936, and April, 1937.

On an average, all evening programs rated highest among the "C" income group of set-owners. The 144 programs had an average of 9.2 in that group as against 6.8 for the "D" group, and 6.2 for group "A". The average for all groups was 8.2 which is identical with the median of programs among the "B" class.

Ten Leaders Listed

The ten leading evening programs for the seven-month period ending with April, 1937, were Jack Benny (Jell-O), Eddie Cantor (Texas Gas), Major Bowes Amateur Hour (Chrysler), Radio Theatre (Lux Soap), Fred Allen (Bristol-Myers), Burns and Allen (Campbell's Tomato Juice), Hollywood Hotel (Campbell's Soup), Rudy Vallee (Royal Gelatin), Bing Crosby (Kraft Phenix) and Phil Baker (Gulf Oil).

During last winter, as compared with the previous summer, the most striking change among daytime programs was the great increase in number. For the summer of 1936 the C.A.B. was able to analyze only 47 programs, but for the winter period it analyzed 89, an increase of nearly 90 per cent. The number of daytime programs rating over five per cent increased nearly 80 per cent, while those rating less than one per cent declined 35 per cent showing an improvement in the amount of listening to daytime sponsored programs.

All Networks Included

The report covers all sponsored network programs, daytime as well as evening. It is based on over 225,000 completed interviews and analyzes popularity of programs by type, by length of broadcast, and by geographical sections.

The C.A.B. is a non-profit mutual organization, the governing committee of which is appointed jointly by the presidents of the American Ass'n of Advertising Agencies and the Ass'n of National Advertisers. The field and statistical work is done on a contract basis by Crossley, Inc. Members of the governing committee are D. P. Smelser, Procter & Gamble, Chairman; George Gallup, Young & Rubicam, Inc., treasurer; C. H. Lang, General Electric, George W. Vos, The Texas Co., L. D. H. Weld, McCann-Erickson, Inc., and A. W. Lehman, manager.

wholly to your own unwillingness to accord our representative the courtesy of a meeting and the statement that until he received further word from you we might withhold sending the letter."

Calling attention to the fact that WLW has been a leader in experimental work, being the first station to use 5,000 watts, and later, the first to use 50,000 watts power, Crosley pointed out that his work had paved the way for experimental permits to other stations.

He denied Payne's charge that the commission rules prohibit the making of commercial profits from experimental licenses and asserted that numerous other stations hold such permits, under which they do commercial business.

The commission meeting today was called by Chairman Eugene O. Sykes, who declared it was a routine conference. Payne, however, asserted it was "most unusual," and there were indications that members of the commission were prepared to thrash the whole matter out behind closed doors, the inference being that Payne would be sharply criticised for his one-man attack on WLW at a time when the commission is under the fire of Congress.

The central broadcasting system will be of 1,000-watt capacity and will operate on a frequency of 1,626 kilocycles. Contact with state headquarters will be maintained through 50-watt transmitter sets to be installed in six trailer headquarters stationed in various section of the state.

Eighty Stations in Australia-Daniell

Approximately 80 radio stations are operating at present in Australia, Frederick Daniell, who is here representing Australian film and radio interests, stated yesterday. Daniell arrived here yesterday on the Aquitania. He is spending a few days in New York in the course of a worldwide survey of film production and distribution methods for his company, Dennison Estates, Ltd., which controls a number of Australian film companies, including Argosy Films, Ltd., and nine radio stations.

The radio field in Australia, Daniell said, is in some respects similar to the English system. A number of stations are government controlled and there is a receiver license. The greater number of stations, however, he added, are privately owned and of a commercial nature. The stations "down under" use American advertising, he said, and electrical transcriptions.

Daniell will be here for about a week after which he will go to the coast to continue his film survey. He will sail Sept. 1 from Vancouver on the Aurania.

WNBF Will Join New Broadcasting System

WNBF, Binghamton, N. Y., at present a CBS supplementary station, will become the seventh link in the chain of stations comprising the New York Broadcasting System, of which WINS is the key station, effective Sept. 7. WNBF, however, will not drop its CBS affiliation.

WNBF operates with a power of 250 watts by day, and 100 watts at night. The Howitt-Wood Broadcasting Corp. operates the station.

The traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Cornell will add four extra stations to the home game network, including WOR, Newark; WTIC, Hartford; WTAG, Worcester, and WJAR, Providence. Play-by-play descriptions are under Atlantic Refining Co. sponsorship.

Hour of News Set on WFIL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—With the sale of two more new commercial contracts, WFIL's program schedule will call for a full hour of sponsored news broadcasts each day. Mrs. Morrison's Puddings, through the Clements Agency, has purchased the "Morning Extra," 8:45-9 A. M., and Cohen's Fur Shops have contracted for the five-minute "Five O'Clock Final" at 5 P. M. Both will start Sept. 14 for 52 weeks. Currently running accounts using news are Tidewater Associated Oil Co. using 30 minutes daily on a staggered schedule and the remaining 10 minutes sponsored by Adams Clothes.

Durbin, Stokowski on Air

Deanna Durbin and Leopold Stokowski will reenact scenes from "100 Men and a Girl" on "Hollywood Hotel" over CBS Aug. 27.

said, declined to participate in the election, holding that the only purpose of such an election is to select a bargaining agent for the employees and the C. A. D. U. has already been accepted by the company as a bargaining agent for certain of its employees. "Negotiations with the union have been carried on for the past few months," the company's statement said, "but an agreement has been impossible because of unreasonable demands."

Fleischer cited the union's insistence upon representing the studio's animators who, it was said, "feel that their problems are entirely different from all the other employees" and, therefore, want separate organization and representation. Substantiating this claim, Arthur Krim of Phillips & Nizer displayed a petition signed by 26 of the 30 Fleischer animators setting forth their position and declaring their refusal to vote in the election called by the regional labor board.

Allege Wagner Act Violation

The company's statement declared the holding of the election prior to a review of the N.L.R.B.'s decision by a court of law to be "improper" under the provisions of the Wagner Act.

"The election at this time had no possible purpose," the company said, "and was binding upon nobody. It did not reflect the desires of the employees. When and if a proper election becomes necessary, the company will participate and extend its fullest co-operation to protect the rights of every employee."

Spokesmen for the regional labor board declined to comment on the Fleischer statement. They said that the election results had been forwarded to Washington and that the next move would probably come from there. The board is understood to be considering an appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in an effort to test the enforceability of its order in the Fleischer strike.

dresses, while they toyed with hors d'oeuvres and several hundred others watched, craning their necks from the RCA Bldg. and balancing on the hedge boxes on the street level above their heads.

An accordion player circulated among them while they sipped Scotch and sodas and bamboo cocktails, and they listened indulgently until the sun went behind the RCA Bldg. and the resultant shadows made them more comfortable. About that time, however, the Promenade's waiters, with as much delicacy as possible under the circumstances, began polishing plates and setting the tables for the cash dinner customers, and in other ways known only to the insidious waiter craft, made them feel as unwelcome as possible.

The audience reaction was mixed—mostly with mint, seltzer and other good mixers. The fashion tip, if there was one, would seem to have been that black is the models' favorite, but the one in green was the peoples' choice. A sterling example of Radio City architecture.

Oh, yes—Monroe Greenthal hinted that models in general and Joan Bennett in particular, have heaps of clothes to display in a United Artists' release titled "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938."

Cincy Grosses Hold Up; Outlook Bright

CINCINNATI, Aug. 17.—Despite the fact that Cincinnati has felt the direct effects of local strikes, and indirectly has experienced adverse reaction from strikes staged in other situations, theatre business at the first runs has held up remarkably well during the summer, especially for the better product. Some film men predict a record volume after the new season gets under way.

Wages and salaries have in many instances been restored to, or are approaching pre-depression figures, unemployment is decreasing and farmers report bumper crops which they are marketing at higher prices than for many years.

Bank clearings, always a reliable barometer, totalled $1,633,174,443 for the first six months of this year, as against $1,346,534,641 during the corresponding period of last year. There were 22,328 more cars in the traffic interchange between railroads, 1,335 more building permits, and new automobile registrations were, roughly, 1,600 greater. Employment in 17 selected industries increased about 13 per cent.

Lesser Buys Three Songs

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Sol Lesser has purchased three songs for the tentatively titled Smith Ballew western, "Boots and Saddles." They are: "Stars Over the Desert" and "On the Sunny Side of the Rockies," both by Ray Ingrahams and Harry Tobias, and "Roll Along, Ride 'Em Cowboy, Roll Along," by Lyle Womack and Lew Porter.

Assign Charles Dorian

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Charles Dorian, recently promoted from assistant director to feature director, draws as his first M-G-M assignment the reins on "I'll Never Forget," from a story by Robert Tasker and John Bright which Lou Ostrow will produce.

Mitzi Green Gets Lead

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Mitzi Green will have the feminine lead in RKO's "Fiddlesticks," musical comedy written by Frank Gabrielson, David Lefan and Milton Lazarus. Leigh Jason will direct and Pandro S. Berman will produce.

Milwaukee Employees 10% Over 1929 Peak

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—Of benefit to local exhibition, employment in Milwaukee is now 10 per cent above its highest point in 1929, according to A. R. Peirce, manager of the Employers' Ass'n. of Milwaukee, which has completed a survey of representative manufacturing, service and utility companies operating in this area.

The association found that 78,030 persons were employed by the companies co-operating in the survey as against the 39,047 on their payrolls in 1932-1933, the low point of the depression.

Of the companies surveyed, 77 per cent have more employees now than they had 12 months ago and 46 per cent have more than they had in 1929. Nearly all the larger companies contacted have shown increases in employment, while many of the smaller firms are still below 1929 levels.

According to inquiries received by the credit bureau of the Milwaukee Ass'n. of Commerce, retail sales in Milwaukee during the first seven months of 1937 averaged 20 per cent above the same period last year.

To Resume "Vivacious"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—RKO will resume shooting "Vivacious Lady," which was indefinitely suspended due to the illness of James Stewart, when Ginger Rogers returns from her Canadian vacation. Stewart in the meanwhile goes into the cast of M-G-M's "The Last Gangster."

Following this film, Miss Rogers will have a starring role in the film version of "Having Wonderful Time."

Pick Anna Sten's First

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17.—Anna Sten's first for Grand National will be "Love Me Again," an original story by Victor Schertzinger, who will also direct and produce. This replaces "Gorgeous" and other vehicles previously lined up for her.

"Follies" Cast Chosen

and their staffs is planned for next year, the time and place to be decided next May or June, contingent on how soon film buyers complete major deals for 1938-39.

Last year, Spyros Skouras held two meetings, one in Kansas City and the second in Los Angeles. Sales heads were invited to both. This year, one general get together was held at Colorado Springs where the National men interchanged ideas.

This meeting proved successful. It will be the type of convention in the future.

Aubrey Schenck, assistant to William T. Powers, film buyer for National, has been made home office contact in charge of bookings for legitimate shows and concerts.

All major film deals with the exception of United Artists, now in negotiation, have been completed. The last one was the two-year arrangement with Warners. A similar deal had been entered into with Columbia. Whether the U. A. contract will be for two years is a matter of negotiation.

Shift K. C. Film Picnic

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 17.—The annual picnic sponsored by the Variety Club and Film Row for employees of the industry has been re-dated from Sept. 13 to Aug. 30, and will be held at Fairyland Park. The golf tournament usually held in conjunction with the picnic will be held at a later date, according to Robert F. Withers, general chairman.

Booking Fight Picture

TORONTO, Aug. 17.—Following the success of the distribution of the pictures of the Louis-Braddock fight by Grand National Films, Ltd., H. J. Allen, general manager of the new film exchange, has been signing up exhibitors for the Louis-Farr fight film for bookings across Canada through the six branch offices of Grand National.

Rapid Cleanup Of Commission Now Expected

Naming of McNinch Seen For That Purpose

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A quick cleanup of the difficulties and abuses that have plagued the Federal Communications Commission for months was seen by observers here today in the appointment as commissioner of T. A. M. Craven, former chief engineer, to take the place of Commissioner Irvin Stewart, resigned, and the transfer of Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, to succeed the late Chairman Anning S. Prall of the F. C. C.

The two members were selected with an apparent purpose on the part of President Roosevelt to deal with a situation in the commission which long has been the target of Congressional

Ask Separate Talks With Director Units

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Major producers today informed the Screen Directors Guild that they are willing to negotiate a working conditions contract with the directors and a separate one with assistant directors or unit managers but not with one group representing both.

The letter, which was written by Darryl Zanuck, Jack Warner and Edward J. Mannix, was sent to the guild committee of Howard Hawks, John Ford and Edward Sutherland and pointed out that directors are more or less in the category of employers and therefore not under the terms of the Wagner Act.

Production Costs Going Up, Admissions Must, Says Zukor

By J. M. JERAULD

Production costs have gone up and admission prices must do the same, says Adolph Zukor.

The statement was not made as a dictum, but as an expression of an opinion tinged with a note of regret and an explanation during a two-hour discussion with trade press and daily paper writers at the Astor yesterday.

What started out as an interview developed into a mild argument when Terry Ramsaye suggested that these increased costs were getting films away from the 10-cent customers. Zukor's reply was both a defense and an explanation.

"Ten-cent customers won't go to see 10-cent entertainment," he asserted. "That day has passed. Don't think for one moment that we do not have to compete with these big radio hours. They have the finest talent they can buy—personalities, music, programs prepared with infinite care. The public is educated up to these things. We must supply entertainment that will get people out of homes into theatres."

Ramsaye was in a mood to argue the point.

"But why not make pictures for sections of the public—finer pictures for those who can afford to pay for them, lesser types for those who can't."

"I'm no super-man," Zukor replied warmly. "I don't know what the public wants. All I can do is study trends in public taste in literature and in films as well as other branches of endeavor. All that I know is there is always a market for stories of adventure, of achievement, of romance. Anybody who sits back and tells me just what the public wants is beginning to go backwards instead of forward. If we hadn't gone forward,

New Theatre Costs Put at $12,511,500

A total of approximately $12,511,500 will be expended on 187 theatres under construction or planned for which cost estimates are available, in 38 states, according to a study by MOTION PICTURE HERALD, out today. In all, 284 new theatres are planned in the 38 states, the survey indicates.

The construction plans range from a high of 37 in Ohio and 29 in Illinois down to a single theatre in such states as Colorado, Delaware, Indiana, Maryland, Montana and Rhode Island. Costs range from $25,000 for a theatre in Louisiana to $2,420,000 for 19 of 29 new houses planned in Illinois, and $2,240,000 for 28 of the 37 planned in Ohio.

"Zola" at Two-A-Day In 15 Spots at Once

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager for Warners, plans to open "The Life of Emile Zola" simultaneously in 15 key situations at two-a-day, he stated yesterday. Among the cities it will be shown day-and-date are Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston, Washington, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Toronto.

The openings will follow the premiere of the picture at the Cass, Detroit, Aug. 26, Sears said. "The Life of Emile Zola" is now in its second week at the Hollywood on Broadway and next Tuesday opens at the Strand, Far Rockaway, and Laurel, Long Beach, L. I., on roadshow engagements.

Technicolor Seeks Producer Sharing

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Clarification of the plan by which Technicolor proposes to increase its stock by the authorization of 500,000 new shares was issued today by Dr. Herbert Kalmus, president, who stated that it is the purpose of the company to invite all the important producers in the industry to participate, thus adding their names to the several producers who now hold blocks of the organization's securities.

The complete statement of Dr. Kalmus follows:

"The principal purpose of the proposed increase of authorized stock is to provide shares to cover options to

Pooling Deal Awaits Return of Si Fabian

Completion of the deal for the continued pooling of the Paramount, Strand and Fox in Brooklyn will await the return of Si Fabian from Albany on Monday. Fabian has already reached an agreement with Y. Frank Freeman for an extension of the Paramount deal for a year and now has to work out a similar arrangement with Joseph Bernhard of Warners for the Strand.

The current one-year pool expires Sept. 1. Preliminary discussions have been held between Bernhard and Fabian on the Strand and no hitch is expected to develop. The three-theatre working agreement is said to have proved very successful last year.

Pact on Para. Officer Suits Gets Approval

Griffis Reported as for $2,150,000 Offer

A tentative agreement for the settlement for $2,150,000 of two recovery actions brought by the reorganization trustees of Paramount in 1934 against officers, directors and associates of the company during the period 1927 to 1931 was reached during conferences between Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee of Paramount, and Arthur A. Ballantine, of Root, Clark, Buckner & Ballantine, counsel to the Paramount trustee, in London last week, it was learned here yesterday.

The conditional settlement figure, which is $150,000 more than the original proposal submitted to Paramount and the trustee, Charles D. Hilles, by attorneys for the defendants several weeks ago, is subject to further negotiation as to the manner of payment—whether in lump sums or spread over a period of years—and, in addition, must be approved by the U. S. District Court here which retained jurisdiction over the two actions at the time it approved the Paramount reorganization plan in 1935. It is estimated that another 30

Skouras Meet Ending

Skouras Theatres' managers, assistant managers and home office personnel today will wind up a three-day general meeting at the St. Moritz. Various problems pertaining to the theatres were discussed by the men with George Skouras conducting the two previous sessions.

District managers will meet at the home office tomorrow to discuss the highlights of the three-day conclave.

Wood Visiting in East

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio I. T. O., is vacationing in Camden, N. J., where his son is associated with the RCA plant. He expects to visit New York, Washington and other eastern points before he returns.

Purely Personal

WALTER WANGER has cancelled plans for visiting Italy and instead will return to the coast in two weeks, HAL HORNE informs at the Tavern during yesterday's luncheon period. HORNE is with his assistant, HARRY KOSINER, and both will depart for Hollywood in about a month. J. FRED COOTES and BENNY DAVIS are seated in the bar sector, having come over from the Cotton Club where they are rehearsing the new show. Both are dressed in polo shirts and aver they have been putting the performers through a couple of stiff paces.

JACK GOETZ and ARTHUR GOTTLIEB are in their usual corner and promise to deliver a picture and affidavit proving that AL YOUNG caught that 575-pound tuna at Nova Scotia. J. J. MILSTEIN and SAM HACKER have business on hand and locate in the rear of the room. ALAN FRIEDMAN and DICK BRADY entertain a guest.

JACK PARTINGTON, IRVING LESSER and LOUIS ASTOR get together on a deal for Columbia product in F. & M.'s St. Louis theatres. MIKE CLOFINE and Ed REEK are seated at a wall table, while Ed THORGERSON and a number of the Movietone boys keep close to the bar. ALEC MOSS is all alone. CHARLES D. PAINE, likewise, behind him.

SAM LEVENE, who appears in "Room Service," chats with some of his friends before matinee time. HY DAAB talks over advertising with two of his men. BOB FABER says "hello" to some of the boys he hasn't seen in some time. JACK BARNSTYN has a guest on foreign sales come up.

HARRY GOLD, EMANUEL SILVERSTONE and GUMMO MARX are having a time of it with MARX and GOLD swapping jokes, the former getting the better of the latter in the scoring. DAVE EPSTEIN is visited by HORNE for a few minutes. BILL JAFFE and HERMAN ROSENBLATT, brother of SOL, come in late. Ditto for MONTE PROSER and HAL LE ROY. EDWIN MORRIS and one of his associates take a back table. JOE FELDER, CHARLES PENSER and SIDNEY KULICK discuss Monogram from a local angle.

JACK CONWAY, HAL ROSSEN and MARGARET BOOTH, director, cameraman and film cutter, respectively, are due from the M-G-M studios tomorrow. They will join the M-G-M contingent that is arriving today and sail on the Berengaria Saturday.

JAMES M. CAIN's story, "Career in C Major," which will be filmed by 20th Century-Fox, has been sold by the William Morris Agency to the American Magazine for early publication.

MAURICE CONN plans to leave for Hollywood next week. He said yesterday he will have an announcement to make in a few days regarding Ambassador Pictures, of which he is president.

NED SPARKS and WALTER WANGER are among the coast visitors stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria.

A. W. SMITH, JR., is still down Atlanta way working on a number of U. A. product deals.

JOE NOLAN, assistant secretary of RKO, is in town from Hollywood.

WILLIAM PHILLIPS, vice-president and treasurer of United Artists Theatres Circuit, Inc., yesterday returned on the Bremen from a two-month vacation. He said he didn't give business a thought on the trip and visited Scandinavia, Spitzbergen, Russia and Germany. Four days were spent in Russia and a week in Germany. PHILLIPS said he didn't get to see JOSEPH M. SCHENCK, who is in Carlsbad for his health.

CONSTANCE BENNETT, who sailed on the Normandie yesterday, will remain in Paris for a week. She is due back Sept. 15.

MAX COHEN, local Universal manager, has been kept away from his office the past few days because of a bad cold.

JOAN BENNETT plans to leave for the coast next week. She may not appear in a stock show at Dennis, Mass., after all.

MONTE PROSER yesterday sent out invitations for the reopening of the French Casino tomorrow night in French.

EDWARD M. SAUNDERS, M-G-M western division manager, left yesterday by plane for Denver and St. Louis.

HARRY ENGEL of F. & M. left yesterday for Cleveland and Toronto to renew booking deals in those cities.

BOB BENJAMIN has returned from a visit to Denver and Hollywood. He was gone several weeks.

WILLIAM C. GEHRING, 20th Century-Fox divisional sales head, will return from Detroit in a few days.

KEN O'BRIEN of the U. A. publicity department is home ill. He is expected back at his desk shortly.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK, British producer, is aboard the Queen Mary now on the high seas en route here.

HOWARD HARRIS, brother of RADIE, yesterday flew to the coast via American Airlines.

ROBERT TAYLOR will arrive on the Century this morning from the coast.

LOUIS NIZER plans to remain on the coast for at least three weeks.

JACK SCHLAIFER, western division sales head for U. A., is in Chicago.

WILLIAM SCULLY is in Boston for a few days. On M-G-M business.

HARRY BODKIN, Philadelphia U. A. manager, was in town yesterday.

RUTGERS NEILSON returns Monday from a Havana vacation.

ALBERT WARNER is due back from the coast within a week.

BING CROSBY has arrived from Hollywood for a short vacation.

GERTRUDE BERG is due from Hollywood today.

Oklahoma City Wage Pact Starts Sept. 1

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 18.—The local agreement, revised in New York last week, for exchange union employees will become effective Sept. 1, according to George Snodgrass, president of the union, who has returned from the east with Paul Kearns, vice president.

Provisions in the tentative contract call for a closed shop, 40-hour week, time and a half for overtime, two-week vacations, sick leave and increases from 15 to 35 per cent in salaries ranging from $17.50 to $38. There are 76 men affiliated with the local union.

No contracts have been signed as the Oklahoma City pact will be included in the national uniform agreement which is to be drawn as soon as terms for all key centers are agreed upon by major distributor home office and I. A. T. S. E. representatives in New York.

Few Benefit in Omaha

OMAHA, Aug. 18.—Only a few members of the local exchange union will benefit by pay raises under the compromise agreement reached in New York between distributors and the I.A.T.S.E. on local demands. The salary scale granted was:

Head shipper, $35; shipper, $28; assistant shipper $20; head poster clerk, $23; poster clerk, $20; head inspectress, $20, and assistant inspectresses, $17.50.

The agreement stated, however, that no one will be designated head shipper unless the branch employs at least three in this department. None of the Omaha exchanges does.

A 40-hour week was granted, too, but no agreement has been signed pending arbitration on the union's other demands.

Union Meeting Due Today

A meeting of representatives of the home offices and unions on an agreement for New York exchange employees may be called for today or tomorrow. A session, scheduled for Tuesday, was postponed due to the death of Fred J. Dempsey, I.A.T.S.E. executive, who was buried yesterday at Dorchester, Mass.

Office Union in Drive

Mimeographed circulars were distributed to Columbia home office employees by the Film Division, Local 16, of the United Office & Professional Workers of America, affiliated with the C.I.O.

Lefkowitz Returns To Post at Warners

Sam Lefkowitz, who recently resigned as office manager of the local Warner exchange to become general manager for Prudential Playhouses, is back in his former post after one week with the circuit. When Lefkowitz tendered his resignation at Warners, Ben Kalmenson, eastern district manager, had been out of town. Upon his return, Kalmenson succeeded in getting Lefkowitz to return to the Warner branch.

Delay "Firefly" Date

The opening of "Firefly" at the Astor announced for Aug. 31 has been changed to Sept. 1.

Variety Club

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Aug. 18.—The Cleveland Variety Club, in the throes of moving, expects to inaugurate its new clubrooms in the Allerton Hotel with open house on Aug. 28. M. B. Horwitz, chief barker, is making preparations for a Hollywood premiere, with I. J. Schmertz, chairman of the house committee.

New Frisco Circuit In Strong Position

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—With the pooling of Golden States Theatres and T. & D., Jr., Enterprises as United California Theatres, Inc., Bob McNeil, Mike Naify and E. H. Emmick now operate the largest independent circuit on the west coast. About 65 theatres are included in the new setup, which is second to Fox West Coast in California.

McNeil, during the past few weeks, is understood to have been experiencing difficulty in getting together with Paramount on a product deal for next season. Report had it that Paramount had been threatening to build 18 theatres in the Bay area. However, with the new combination now a potential factor in the local theatre field, United California is expected to conclude all product deals shortly. The Paramount theatre building report has been generally denied.

Hutchinson Sails on Australian Pooling

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Walter J. Hutchinson, foreign head for 20th Century-Fox, sailed today for Sydney on the Mariposa to discuss with directors of Greater Union Theatres a plan for continuing the five-year pooling deal with Hoyts.

The current agreement expires the end of the year. Hoyts has already submitted a proposal for extending the contract for a number of years, but a decision will not be reached until Hutchinson arrives in Australia.

Charles Munro, managing director for Hoyts, and Stanley S. Crick, managing director for 20th Century-Fox in Australia, returned to Sydney last month after conferring with Sidney R. Kent and Hutchinson in New York.

James McIntyre Passes

NOYACK, L. I., Aug. 18.—James McIntyre, of the film and vaudeville blackface comedy team, died here today at his home. He was 80 years old. He had been associated with Thomas K. Heath, his partner, for over 50 years.

Eddy's Grandmother Dead

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Aug. 18.—Mrs. Martha Gardiner Eddy, 84, grandmother of Nelson Eddy, died here today following a lingering illness. Eddy will be unable to attend the funeral which will be held here on Friday.

"Dallas" Grosses Up

The average Monday gross of "Stella Dallas" in 21 key cities was 130 per cent of the opening day, according to United Artists. The Tuesday average was 147 per cent, it was claimed.

Looking 'Em Over

"The Man Who Cried Wolf"

(Universal)

The novel treatment given the grim drama in this film should be found satisfying by the general run of audiences. It has cleverly handled sequences that tend to make the deadly purpose of the chief character seem less serious.

Lewis Stone, as an Australian stage player, confronts the police immediately after a series of murders, taking the blame for each tragedy. They knock down his statements and he reaps the publicity. Tom Brown enters the cast of Stone's play and shortly after his step-father is murdered. Stone is actually Brown's father but the youth is unaware of this relation. The murder evidence points to Brown and he is convicted. Stone does his act before the police again in an effort to save the boy but is sent to the psychopathic ward. He escapes, finds the murder gun and confesses the crime. The ending is one of those sentimental affairs with Stone facing the electric chair and Brown going on to a happy life with Barbara Read.

Stone delivers his customary finished performance. Miss Read and Brown are satisfactory as the young lovers. Forrester Harvey, Robert Gleckler, Billy Wayne, Jameson Thomas and Marjorie Main round out the supporting cast. Lewis R. Foster directed.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

"Roaring Timber"

(Columbia)

The usual type of action film with which the general run of audiences associate the name of Jack Holt in the leading role, this picture should be found satisfactory for the action fans, with its chief suitability the second half of dual programs.

There are some excellent shots of the activity of the men who handle the big timber, as well as a punch-laden forest fire sequence, the usual devilry by the villains of the piece, a touch of expected romance and the triumph of right, strength and love for a happy conclusion.

Supporting Holt are Grace Bradley, Ruth Donnelly, Raymond Hatton and Willard Robertson, the menace, in particular. The screenplay by Paul Franklin and Robert James Cosgriff has Holt taking over a tremendous task as foreman on a timbering contract calling for a large amount of timber in a short time. When the owner is killed, Miss Bradley, his daughter, takes charge, and the unscrupulous efforts of two men are designed to force Holt out and the girl to sell the business. But Holt beats them out, and misunderstandings with the girl are cleared finally. Phil Rosen directed.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Blazing Sixes"

(Warners)

A well turned western. It has the vital elements of this sort of production and they are handled in a style that makes the film satisfying from start to finish.

Dick Foran, who sings well, is a government agent tracking a gang of road bandits, who are illegally converting gold ore. He works himself in with the crooked outfit and gets a lead on their activities. As he is about to make his kill he is arrested. His pal, Glen Strange, sets him loose and with a fast-riding posse they catch up with the outlaws and annihilate them in one of the best gun battles seen in a long while. A romantic angle in the film is introduced by Helen Valkis. John Merton effectively plays the heavy.

Noel Smith directed. The screenplay is by John T. Neville. Ted McCord photographed.

Running time, 57 minutes. "G."

"Vogues of 1938," this morning's opener at the Radio City Music Hall, was previewed by wire from the coast on Aug. 5.

"Topper," another picture opening this morning, but at the Capitol, was reviewed from Hollywood on July 9 by wire.

"Confessions," previewed from Hollywood by wire on July 17, is now current at the Strand.

"Artists and Models" at the Paramount and "You Can't Have Everything" at the Rivoli are holdovers.

"Gangway," which will be previewed at the Roxy tonight, was reviewed on Aug. 16.

Alfred Stern Joins G. N.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Alfred Stern, former production supervisor for Universal, has joined Grand National as an associate producer.

Webber Hall in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—Webber Hall, Movietone cameraman, is in town shooting scenes for a "Magic Carpet" travelogue.

Short Subjects

"The Song of Ceylon"

(Denning Films, Ltd.)

This is to be considered a lengthy short subject rather than a feature, since it runs just over a half-hour. It is said to have been a prize winner at the Brussels film exhibition in 1935, and possesses a certain quality of symbolism as well as a few examples of striking pictorial effect.

Divided into four sections, with organ music accompanying a large part of the subject, the film is virtually a pictorial description of Ceylon, indicating its religion, the activity of its inhabitants at work and play and something of the ceremonial dances of the natives of the interior. Actually a travel subject, it is generally interesting. John Grierson produced.

Running time, 36 mins. "G."

Theatre Changes Are Foreseen in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Aug. 18.—Outside theatre interests are taking a marked interest in property here, with prospects bright for a number of shifts within the next year.

Tony Sudekum of Nashville, operating one of the south's largest independent circuits, has been dickering for the Warner here, but the deal is still remote. Sudekum has holdings in virtually every other major Tennessee city.

Mose Lebovitz, Chattanooga theatre owner, has made an offer of $12,500 for the Ace, neighborhood house in the suburbs here, and acceptance awaits only the approval of Chancery Court. The Ace is one of the assets of the Lee Lumber Co., which is involved in litigation proceedings at the moment. John B. Coon, receiver for the company, has asked court permission to accept the Chattanooga showman's offer.

The Orpheum here, now in the hands of local bondholders, is expected to be taken over by one of several outside companies negotiating for a lease on this property with the bondholders. At one time it appeared that Jones, Linick and Schafer of Chicago would lease the house, but the deal fell through after several weeks of negotiation.

Shift "Zenda" Showing

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Selznick International will hold its press preview of "The Prisoner of Zenda" Friday night at the Chinese here. A tieup for a coast-to-coast radio broadcast of the event is being planned. Originally scheduled for Saturday night, the preview was shifted to Friday because of protests by newspapermen.

Stoll Joins Selznick

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—John Stoll, San Francisco etcher and painter, has been added to Selznick International's special effects department.

Jessel Warner Producer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—George Jessel, who has been associated with Mervyn LeRoy for the past few months, has been named an associate producer by Jack L. Warner. He is preparing a story based on the life of Haym Salomon, financier of the Revolutionary era. Paul Muni may be cast for the leading role.

"Artists" at $28,400 High L.A. Grosser

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—"Artists and Models" was the outstanding grosser of the week here, doing $28,400 at the Paramount with a stage show, against an average of $18,000, up $10,400.

"Topper" dualled with "Between Two Women" at the Chinese, took a good $16,121, where the average is $12,500. The same combination at Loew's State grossed $17,548, over the $14,000 average by $3,548. "Firefly" at the 4-Star hit $10,500, bettering the $8,000 average by $2,500.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18.—Charters have been granted here to the Dewey Theatre, Inc., Philadelphia, incorporated by Edna F. Schwartz, Anna G. Hackett and Emily G. Koppehuber, and to Rajah Theatre Co., Inc., Philadelphia, incorporated by Cormack G. Keeney, Jay Emanuel and Harry Cohen.

Blank Plans Two Houses

OMAHA, Aug. 18.—A. H. Blank is negotiating for two or three suburban sites in Omaha, according to District Manager Evert R. Cummings. Blank also continues to consider building a first run neighborhood house and is still holding several sites under option.

Lincoln Fight Still On

LINCOLN, Aug. 18.—The newspaper-theatre war is still very much in evidence here, with the latest development an eight-day throwaway called "Movie News" which is being distributed by the theatres for a majority of their publicity.

"Artists" on Dual Is Tops in Omaha

OMAHA, Aug. 18.—With "Artists and Models" dualled with "When Thief Meets Thief" the Omaha was the high scorer of the week here, taking, in 10 days, $13,500, against a seven-day average of $5,500.

At the Orpheum, "Exclusive" and "Midnight Madonna" on another dual, grossed $8,100, to top par by $900. The Brandeis, dropping its dual policy to single feature "The Toast of New York," did well, bettering average by $500 to take $4,500.

Total first run business was $26,100. Average is $16,700.

tor, they said, governs the physical and financial side of operation and represents the management; therefore their position is amenable to the Wagner Act. Negotiations which directly or indirectly places these two groups in the same position is illogical and would be destructive of the character of the relation that should exist between the two groups. It can only be defended on the basis that it gives directors the advantage of supplying them with greater numerical strength in such negotiation.

The letter ended by saying that producers recognize the right of groups to negotiate with employers and are ready to begin such separate negotiations at once. Columbia, First National, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO, Fox, Goldwyn, Selznick, Universal, Wanger and Warners' representatives unanimously concurred in the decision.

producers in connection with contracts for producing groups of feature pictures. The basic idea is to invite all important producers in the industry to participate in the plan which is already in existence between Technicolor and several of the important producers.

"If, in addition to those producers who have already done so, all the larger American producers participated in the plan as contemplated, there would be issued to them options on approximately 225,000 shares of the proposed new authorization of 500,000 shares. If later these options were all exercised and all the corresponding stock issued, the stockholders of Technicolor would be in such a position that the issued stock of their company would have been increased by approximately 25 per cent from its present issued number of shares, for which their company would have received in its treasury some $5,000,000 of new cash and with every prospect that the business of their company would be doubled, if not trebled, beginning some time in 1938.

"And, moreover, what seems particularly not to be understood: after there has been used for the present proposed options plan approximately 225,000 shares of the proposed increased authorization of 500,000 shares, there would remain in the treasury 275,000 shares for the further purposes of the company, concerning which there are no immediate plans."

Advertising Booming Reaches Nashville

NASHVILLE, Aug. 18.—When theatre patrons in Little Rock organized a booping campaign against commercial advertising on the screen they started something.

Last week, a local theatre had a radio loudspeaker on the stage and blared forth the virtues of a commercial product. This was a prelude to the trailer on coming attractions.

The voice behind the radio droned on while the audience gave forth a brand of catcalls and booping that drowned out the announcement.

If the local incident is any criterion, the campaign started by the Society for Booping of Commercial Advertisements in M. P. Theatres of Little Rock is getting places.

Building New N. O. Spot

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—Elias & Scharff are building a new 1,100-seat theatre here. It will cost approximately $30,000. The house will be booked by Affiliated from New Orleans.

Rapf & Rudin Drop House

Rapf & Rudin will drop the DeLuxe on 125th St. The circuit recently merged with Harry Harris Theatrical Enterprises, which has the Sunset in the same zone as the DeLuxe.

Rebuild in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—The Capitol here, one of the United Chain units, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt.

"Gave Him" on Dual Top in 2 Boston Spots

BOSTON, Aug. 18.—"They Gave Him a Gun," with "Thunder in the City," grossed $4,600 above average at the Loew's Orpheum this week with a take of $16,600. The same program also did well at the Loew's State with a gross of $13,000. Average is $11,000.

"Wee Willie Winkie," second run, co-featured with "Dance, Charlie, Dance," drew $9,600 at the Paramount, above average by $2,600. The same program at the Fenway grossed $6,000, up by $1,500.

"You Can't Have Everything" and the Rio Brothers and Sandar Glanz and Bellak's Ping Pong Exhibition on the stage drew $1,000 under average with a gross of $21,000 at the Metropolitan.

Total first run business was $84,400. Average is $79,500.

THE KEYSTONE OF YOUR FUTURE

to 40 days will be required to complete details and file a petition with the court to authorize the settlement.

Trial of the first of the two suits is scheduled for Sept. 27 before Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel here, and present indications are that a postponement will be asked in order to complete the settlement details.

Ballantine, questioned on his arrival here yesterday on the Bremen, said that no settlement has been approved yet but readily admitted that he had discussed the proposed terms with Griffiths in London and stated that "in cases of this kind there is always the possibility that an agreement will be reached eventually."

Hilles is away from the city for the month of August, and could not be reached for comment.

Amounts Listed

The approximate amounts to be paid by the principal defendants, if the present conditional settlement is ultimately approved, are understood to be as follows: Kuhn, Loeb & Co., former Paramount bankers, $650,000 on behalf of six to eight defendants, including the estate of Otto H. Kahn, former head of the banking company; Sidney R. Kent, $250,000; Sam Katz, $200,000; Adolph Zukor, $550,000; Jules E. Brulatour, $100,000; Frank C. Bailey, $100,000; the estate of Emil Shauer, $50,000; all others, $250,000.

There are 22 defendants named in the two actions, one of which seeks recovery for alleged losses incurred by the company in the redemption at guaranteed prices of its stock which was issued for the acquisition of theatres and other property during the company's expansion period, ending in 1931. The recovery sought is for the difference between the redemption price and the market price of the stock at the time it was redeemed. The second suit seeks recovery of sums allegedly paid to former Paramount officers "in excess of reasonable compensation," and the recovery from financial associates of "actual or potential profits" from participations in an employees' stock purchase plan.

A settlement of the suits would avoid litigation which would be both costly and prolonged.

Bank Night Goes on In St. Louis County

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—The lid is still on Bank Night within the city limits as a result of the activity of Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, but in the rest of St. Louis County and eastern Missouri it is flourishing in spite of the fact that a court decision is pending.

One case that reached the Supreme Court was referred back to a Circuit Court.

Across the river in the downstate section of Illinois, including East St. Louis, there has been no interference with Bank Night in spite of the ruling of the Illinois Supreme Court that the drawings are lotteries.

pictures would be only a memory right now."

Zukor expressed the opinion that the industry was passing through one of those periods when costs rise sharply—with a shock. The introduction of features was the first of these, he said. Sound brought in another, and now labor costs have introduced another new factor.

"We can still make small, inexpensive pictures," he continued, "but our experience shows that they do us no good and they do exhibitors no good. The public wants personalities. They're expensive. It wants big productions, made with the utmost care and skill, each an advance over its predecessor. These are factors that cannot be controlled. We can't go backward; we must go forward."

Justifies Cost Increase

"But," argued Ramsaye, "pictures are the only things advancing in cost all the time. Automobile prices go down."

"Ford makes one model a year," retorted Zukor. "We make 50, and we can't repeat on any of them. I don't blame exhibitors for arguing about the prices of pictures. It's a buyer's privilege; it's good business, but it's bad business not to recognize that if he is going to get the kind of superior product that will turn in profits he must pay more for it. The makers' and the sellers' problems are the same in this instance."

"The ingredients of films remain the same; the treatment becomes more elaborate. When I insisted upon making 'The Texas Ranger' it was just another western, I was told. The producer and the director were not particularly enthusiastic, but they gave it the best they had—cast and production treatment. It was something more than a western when it came out. It was a high class modern film and it went over the way a high class, modern film should. The attitude of the studio organization was entirely different when we came to make plans for 'The Plainsman.' I cite these merely as examples of why we have to go forward to new effort and new costs. People demand it."

Zukor delved into the storehouse of his memory for more illustrations of his contention that there must be continual change. He produced them and at the same time he explained the origin of protection, or clearance, as it is now called.

"I had a theatre on 14th St. that was the Music Hall of its day," he reminisced. "We used to have four-reel programs changed daily. Our film cost us $30 a day—$210 per week, and we used to gross between $600 and $700 during the good weeks. I paid these prices—higher than my competitors—so that I could have the film exclusively on the day we played it. The subsequent runs began the next day."

Traces Feature Development

"The turning of the tide in favor of longer pictures came with a three-reel Pathe subject. Then came 'The Great Train Robbery' in four reels—that was about 1907, if I remember correctly. We ran it two years at Coney Island. When one print wore out we bought another by mail. That was before exchanges. Then came 'The New York Hat' with a little girl named Gladys Smith. I saw that longer pictures were in and that personalities were in. I took a walk around to Miss Smith's house on West 17th St. one night before her mother changed her name to Mary Pickford."

"Pictures and personalities have become costlier since. They are continuing to do so, usually on a progressive scale. This year is an exception. It's a leap. We can't help it. We must keep abreast of the times. If we don't progress, we will be supplanted eventually by some other form of entertainment."

"Artists" $42,000 In 2nd Para. Week of "The Life of Emile Zola" at two-a-day at the Hollywood took in approximately $25,000. "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" at the Strand tallied about $9,000. "Between Two Women" at the Rialto got $6,200. The Criterion with "Blonde Trouble" did slightly less than $5,000.

Dietrich Ohio Censor

COLUMBUS, Aug. 18.—E. N. Dietrich, assistant state director of education, has been appointed state director by Gov. Martin L. Davey. He succeeds E. L. "Murder in the Red Barn" has been booked into the Midway at the Pan American Exposition in Dallas. Olympic Pictures is handling the distribution.

End Trust Actions Against Electrics

as "mutually acceptable to all concerned."

The plaintiffs charged in their action that exhibitors were compelled by Erpi contract provisions to use only the sound equipment of that company and, failing to do so, would be unable to obtain pictures from Erpi's producer licensees. They contended that as distributors of competing sound equipment they had been damaged by the resultant situation.

It was pointed out that early this year the Federal District Court at Wilmington, Del., passed upon similar charges in the trial of an action brought against A. T. & T., Western Electric and Erpi by General Talking Pictures Corp. and Duovac Radio Corp. and held that the contractual provisions were proper during the early years of sound while experimentation and developments were under way, and that, after sound had become commercially established, the restrictive provisions were either abandoned or substantially modified.

The plaintiffs in the action settled yesterday, according to the joint statement, "candidly recognized the force and effect of the Delaware court's decision, and have concluded that efforts to press their claims through trials, which of necessity would be protracted and very expensive, would not be warranted."

The individual plaintiffs, in addition to those named, were S. Theodore Hodgman, Bernard R. Gogel, Thomas F. James and John T. James. Ralph Vatner and David G. Berger, attorneys for the plaintiffs, and G. F. Hurd, attorney for the defendants, made the joint statement on the settlement.

Delay Inquiry Into Brooklyn Clearance

A temporary respite in the informal investigation being conducted into the Brooklyn and Long Island clearance situation by Assistant U. S. District Attorney Leo Hickey on the reported complaint by Century Circuit is understood to have been declared.

Hickey left town yesterday and is not due back at his Brooklyn headquarters until tomorrow. Roy H. Haines, eastern and Canadian sales head for Warners, and Henry Randel of Paramount, who appeared before Hickey last week for questioning, were scheduled to be called again this week. According to Hickey's office, neither man was called again, and from other sources it was learned that they will not appear in the Brooklyn Federal Building Friday, unless there is a last minute change in present plans.

"Saratoga" in 4th Week

PORTLAND, Aug. 18.—After a heavy three weeks run of "Saratoga" at the United Artists with an estimated combined take of $24,000 for the period, the film was moved to the "Mayfair" for a fourth and succeeding week.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—Almost 400 musicians, their families and friends helped the American Federation of Musicians' Recreation home celebrate its fifth anniversary with a picnic in Mandeville.

attack, this view being strengthened by the fact that McNinch was given a leave of absence from his position on the Power Commission to take the FCC job, which he probably will not keep for more than a year, although his term has five years to run.

Conditions in the commission reached a crisis this week with an attack by Commissioner George S. Payne on the Crosley Broadcasting Station WLW, which gave proponents of a Congressional investigation the best support they have yet secured. That Payne and Powel Crosley, Jr., carried on their controversy through the newspapers is said to have created bitter feeling in the commission.

See Illumination of Abuses

President Roosevelt's quick action in filling the two vacancies on the commission is seen as an effort to forestall the threatened investigation. It was indicated that the commission will immediately set to work in an attempt to purge itself of the abuses which are alleged to exist and that a "new deal" will be cooked up for broadcasters in which the privileges said to be enjoyed by large and prominent stations will be eliminated.

Publication yesterday of Crosley's reply to Payne's demand for information regarding the activities, rates and profits of WLW under its 500,000-watt experimental license was followed by another attack on the broadcasters, delivered by Representative Hamilton Fish of New York, who urged an inquiry into the employment of Charles Michelson, publicity director of the Democratic National Committee, by WLW, and the activities of Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, who, he said, sold several Texas stations to William Randolph Hearst, ownership changing hands without the usual formality of a hearing before the F. C. C.

Two Stations Deny Dickstein Charges

Referring to charges made by Representative Samuel Dickstein, officials of the Brooklyn Broadcasting Corp. and the Long Island Broadcasting Corp. yesterday denied that announcers of their station "conduct German programs in the United States where German consuls and visitors to the German Government are allowed to speak freely."

Two of the four announcers mentioned by Dickstein in his charges were Hans Muennz of WBBC, operated by the Brooklyn Broadcasting Corp., and Helmut Wessels, of WWRL, operated by the Long Island corporation.

Arnold Jaffe, of WBBC, said that Muennz worked at the station from March, 1936, to January, 1937, and "never presented or interviewed German consuls and visitors to the German Government, nor did he ever speak on political or religious matters. Frank R. Clarke said Wessels stopped working at the station in March of this year. "Our setup is such," he said, "that no propaganda could be broadcast without our knowledge."

NBC Leasing Sound Stage from Warners

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18.—Giving rise to reports that a deal for the property is being at least talked about between the two parties, NBC today completed arrangements to rent a sound stage on the old Warner Sunset Boulevard lot for presentation of radio programs.

The deal, made through KFWB offices, gives NBC a complete sound stage for an indefinite period seven days a week, and NBC will spend several thousand dollars to fix up a control room, a new auditorium stage and about 400 seats. The Warners studio is the site of a portion of KFWB's stages.

Tidewater Has New Program

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—Tidewater Associates and the St. Louis "Veodol Oil" distributors are sponsoring the "The Veodol Amateur Varieties," 9 to 9:30 A. M. Saturdays over KSD here. The program is limited to children under 15 selected from the metropolitan St. Louis area. A three-month stage course is awarded the winners, selected by listeners' votes. A grand final broadcast will be held at the St. Louis Theatre.

Transradio in Deal With WIP and WCLO

Transradio Press Service has signed new long-term contracts with WIP, Philadelphia, and WCLO, Janesville, Wis. Philadelphia listeners receive Transradio news through two outlets, WCAU having inaugurated the news service last month.

WCLO is owned and operated by the Janesville Daily Gazette. When the Press Radio agreement of 1934 was signed, the Gazette was one of the first to obtain Transradio service, which has since been used both in the paper's news columns and in WCLO's news broadcasts.

WCLO is managed by Sidney Bliss, Jr., whose family operates the newspaper property.

Atlantic Sets Big Schedule For Football

The most ambitious schedule ever undertaken by a sponsor for the radio broadcasting of intercollegiate football games has been completed by the Atlantic Refining Co. for the 1937 grid-iron season. The list boasts a total of 163 games embracing 21 schedules and will entail the use of 65 stations. Atlanta Refining Co. pioneered in the sponsoring of play-by-play descriptions of intercollegiate football games last year when the company broadcast a slate of 112 games over 41 stations.

This season's schedule will cover the entire Atlantic seaboard from New York to Florida. The balance of the program will include one member of the Big Ten—Ohio State—in addition to Temple, Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Duke, Georgia, Florida, Holy Cross, Villanova, Albright, Furman, Virginia, Delaware, Franklin and Marshall, Lafayette, Maryland, Richmond and Boston College.

Reticent on Finances

N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., the agency handling the Atlantic Refining account, was non-committal when asked how much money will be expended for the games, but it is believed the figure will approximate $350,000. This estimate includes air time, payments to colleges, and salaries of the special announcers who will handle the games.

In arranging the station setup, Atlanta Refining has followed much the same policy as last year when it virtually formed its chains to give proper coverage in the areas concerned. One advantage this year, however, is the fact that it has been possible to contact a number of NBC and CBS stations. Last year the policy of the two networks prohibited including their stations.

Bulova Returning Sept. 12

The Bulova Watch Co. will return to WEAH Sept. 12 for 52 weeks with five time signals each night between 6 P. M. and station sign off. Four of these will be limited to product identification and the fifth will be a 50-word announcement scheduled for broadcast after 11 P. M. The agency is the Biow Co.

Anderson Does Radio Play

Maxwell Anderson, Pulitzer prize winning dramatist, has written an original radio play titled, "The Feast of Ortolans" for NBC. The story, dealing with the French Revolution, will be presented over the Blue network Sept. 20, from 9:30 to 10 P. M.

Renew Ruth Ritchie

AKRON, O., Aug. 18.—Ruth Ritchie's program has been renewed for 13 weeks by the Ohio Edison Co. The sponsors are making plans to pipe the program to other stations, in the fall.

Declares AFM-Radio Differences Settled

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—A high officer of the Musicians' Union here said today that the difficulties between radio stations and the A. F. of M. have been tentatively ironed out, and that as a consequence the international board meeting in New York Sept. 16 for the consummation of the agreement will take place on an amicable basis. They do not anticipate any trouble such as a walkout, he said, although he admitted no agreement had been signed as yet.

The pertinent points of the controversy have been settled in conversations, and both sides are in agreement, he stated. Concerning the use of transcribed music for films, the official said that this point had also been settled orally, with final arrangements to be made amicably at the board meeting pending the re-opening of the annual basic agreement talks which are scheduled for New York next year with the Musicians' Union.

Union Forces Resignation

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 18.—Internal policing of its members by the Musicians Mutual Protective Ass'n Local 47 of the American Federation of Musicians today forced Ivan Eppinoff out of his job as musical director of KEHE, to which he was appointed two weeks ago. Greater Union Picks Three to Run Houses

By CLIFF HOLT

SIDNEY, July 26.—Conjecture as to the successor to Stuart F. Doyle as managing director of Greater Union Theatres, Ltd., came to an end with the announcement that the board had selected a Committee of Management to direct the activities of the company. The board's decision was announced by Norman B. Rydge, chairman, under whose control the committee will function.

Numbering three, the committee comprises Roy Barmby, Arthur Gillespie and John Evans, all of whom have been executives of the company for a number of years.

Rydge said that the selection of the committee from within the organization was of itself tangible evidence of the board's complete confidence in the executive. Rydge added that the board was determined to maintain the entity of Greater Union Theatres, Ltd., and that the future policy would be planned to place the entire organization on a solid profit-earning basis, so that shareholders would receive dividends. In order to insure progress the entire circuit would be overhauled and modernized to achieve the highest overseas standards of comfort and efficiency.

In a farewell speech Doyle had a tilt at the Federal Government for its scant encouragement of production in Australia. The Quota Acts of New South Wales and Victoria, he said, were badly designed and were an absolute failure. He did not intend under these conditions to further dissipate his efforts in making pictures in Australia, when England received the full encouragement of the British Government in a most effective way. Instead, he would transfer his production activities to England.

Bernhard-Hiscott Organize New Firm

LONDON, Aug. 11.—C. F. Bernhard, managing director of Union Cinemas, and Leslie Hiscott, director of many British pictures, are at the head of a new company which will take over the Riverside studios at Hammersmith, recently occupied by Julius Hagen of Twickenham and previously by P.D.C., Ltd. WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Assistant Trade Commissioner Theodore J. Hadrada at Prague has reported to the U. S. Dep't of Commerce that the Czechoslovakian censor passed 98 films during June, 1937, which compares with 77 during June, 1936.

Carre with Spanish Unit

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 18. — Bartlett Carre has joined Cantabria Films, which is producing all-Spanish pictures, as production manager. John Alton has been signed as head cinematographer.

"Deeds" Leader of Parisian Long Runs

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Aug. 10.—"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" has had the longest run of any American film shown first run here during 1936-37. It was held for 22 weeks at the Cinema des Champs Elysees from June 1 to Nov. 1, 1936.

"The White Squadron," an Italian film, also ran 22 weeks at the Studio de l'Etoile from Feb. 4, to July 11, 1937.

Others follow: "The Green Pastures," 18 weeks at the Edouard VII; "Three Smart Girls," 14 weeks at the Lord Byron; "The Pearls of the Crown," French, 13 weeks at the Marignan; "Le Roi," French, 13 weeks at the Marivaux; "Show Boat," 12 weeks at the Ambassadeurs; "Lost Horizon," 11 at the Cinema des Champs Elysees; "Pepe le Moko," French, 11 at the Marivaux; "Les Amies," French-Russian, 11 at the Pantheon; "Swing Time," 10 at the Ambassadeurs; "Le Homme a Abatre," French, 10 at the Aubert Palace; "Julika," Austrian, 10 at the Studio de l'Etoile; "Theodora Goes Wild," nine at the Avenue Cinema; "My Man Godfrey," nine at the Lord Byron.

Hits at present are: "La Grande Illusion," French, in its ninth week at the Marivaux; "The Good Earth," ninth week at the Paris; "I Gnace," 15th week at the Max Linder; "Farewell Again," British, ninth week at the Edouard VII; "Shall We Dance," 10th week at the Holder.

Doubles in Algeria Hurting U. S. Films

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The adoption of the double feature as standard exhibition policy in Algeria's 148 theatres is charged with the responsibility for the waning popularity and lowered rentals of American films in that territory by Edward B. Rand, American consul at Algiers in a report to the Motion Picture Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce here.

The report states that the "short-sighted policy of dumping mediocre American films on the market" to fill the demand created by the adoption of duals "has had the natural effect of diminishing the demand (and, incidentally, the rental value) of comparatively recent and meritorious American films which have heretofore enjoyed prestige in Algeria, where, notwithstanding the handicap of dualing, they have competed numerically on very even terms with French productions and have in general commanded much higher rental prices."

Rand's report shows that more French films than American films were shown in Algeria during the first half of this year. It also records the advancement of plans for the establishment of a studio project near Algiers, but reports that local trade sentiment holds that it is "foredoomed to failure."

No Delay from RKO's Notes Expected Now

Lawyers Expecting New Setup Next Year

Present indications are that the retirement of the last of RKO's $1,800,000 of secured gold notes will not become an issue which might delay reorganization of the company for an indefinite period, as was feared early in the year, attorneys identified with the company's reorganization said yesterday.

The RKO gold notes are secured by the stock of the company's principal subsidiaries, including its production and distribution assets. A second lien on the same assets is pledged to secure RKO's debentures, but the second lien remains in effect only for as long as secured gold notes are still outstanding and unpaid. Reorganization factors have raised the question of whether or not the debentures would cease to be secured obligations of the company, and could be treated in a reorganization plan on the same plane as common stock, in the event all of the outstanding gold notes were retired.

RKO already has reduced the outstanding $1,800,000 notes to $350,000 under a court-approved agreement

Expect Loew Net to Reach $9 on Common

Recent Extra Increased
Total to $8.50

Net earnings of Loew's for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 are expected to approximate $9 on the common stock, it was estimated yesterday by an executive of the company. With the payment of an extra $3 disbursement on Aug. 26, the total of dividends to be paid common stockholders for the year will be $8.50.

For the 40 weeks ended June 3, Loew's consolidated statement showed a net profit of $11,714,722, which was equal to $85.68 on the preferred and $7.07 a share on the common stock. This 40-week net compares with a profit of $7,390,495 for the same period in 1936. On Aug. 14, preferred stockholders, as of July 29, received a quarterly dividend of $1.62½.

The increased dividends this year are due largely to the tax on undistributed profits.

Annual elections will be held the

"Vogues" Gets Fast Start at Music Hall

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" grossed $5,300 from opening to 4 P. M. at the Music Hall yesterday, according to United Artists. More than 6,000 persons entered the theatre during the first hour, according to the distributor, and by 1:30 P. M. there were 1,900 patrons standing in the inside lobby. About 2,000 were turned away from noon to 1 P. M. and the box-office for reserved seats was compelled to close at 1 P. M.

Walter Wanger, Hal Horne, Arthur W. Kelly, Monroe Greenthal and Monte Proser visited the theatre during various hours of the day checking on the crowds.

W. E. Denies Making $6,000,000 Payment

Western Electric yesterday issued a denial of a statement published in a metropolitan daily newspaper that the $40,000,000 anti-trust suits against itself, A. T. & T. and Erpi which were withdrawn on Wednesday, had been settled for treble damages amounting to $6,000,000.

Western Electric said the statement was issued "to prevent possible repetition of the error," adding that "the terms of the settlement have not been announced and the figure mentioned has no basis in fact."

Report N. Y. Meet

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—Representatives of exhibitor organizations participating in the exhibitor "buyers' strike" against Paramount will meet in New York on Aug. 26, it was reported in local exhibitor circles today. P. J. Wood, secretary of the Ohio I.T.O., who is now in the east, is said to have issued the call for the meeting.

Federation Signs

22 Spots for Acts

The American Federation of Actors reported yesterday that it had signed "closed shop" agreements with 22 houses throughout the country into which acts will be booked by the new I. Hirst circuit. The bookings will provide 27 weeks for the acts, the longest time available to vaudeville on a single circuit in more than five years.

Houses included in the Hirst circuit, according to Ralph Whitehead, executive secretary of the A. F. of A., are the Howard, Boston; Jacques, Waterbury, Conn.; Century and Majestic, Brooklyn; Hudson, Union City, N. J.; Empire, Newark; Troc and Bijou, Philadelphia; Embassy, Rochester; Casino, Toronto; Rialto,

Para. Charges Philadelphia Moves Illegal

Exhibitors Have Court Relief, Says Brief

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Exhibitor buyers' strikes are illegal and unwarranted in the face of the available business and legal relief from the grievances complained of in the Paramount "strike," that company charges in its briefs filed with the U. S. District Court here today in support of its application for a permanent injunction to halt all demonstrations against the company in this territory.

The Paramount brief points out that the circulars and bulletins of the exhibitor defendants cite two primary grievances against the company. They are that Paramount has breached its contracts with exhibitors in failing to deliver six pictures on the 1936-'37 schedule, and that the company's sales policy for the new season is "harsh and unreasonable."

Answering the first charge, Paramount denies that a failure to deliver the six specified pictures is a breach of its contract, as the company contends that it "licensed only the pictures which would be 'generally released' during the 12 months ending

Minneapolis Para. Hearing Is Delayed

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—The adjourned hearing on Paramount's application for a permanent injunction to restrain exhibitors in this territory from continuing with their "buyers' strike" against the company was postponed to Aug. 26 by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye here today.

The postponement was granted at the request of the defendants because of the illness of one of their attorneys. No objection to the postponement was voiced by Paramount's counsel. The temporary restraining order against the exhibitors continues in force.

Fish Story

Omaha, Aug. 19. — They're telling this one about Sam Epstein, local theatre man.

It seems he was fishing at Lake Okoboji recently, and the first six days he didn't get a bite. The seventh day he landed 30 and the next day 40. They say that on the seventh day he started yelling Bank Night every time he threw in his hook.

Marcus to Transfer
Office to Hong Kong

Morey Marcus, general manager for M-G-M in China, is aboard the Normandie en route to Naples, where he will sail on the Conti Rosso for Hong Kong. Due to the disturbance in Shanghai, Marcus will make his temporary headquarters at Hong Kong. He had been here about two months.

Burger in South Africa

DURBAN, So. Africa, Aug. 19.—Sam Burger, M-G-M foreign field representative, is here from New York. He supervised the opening last week of the new Metro in this city.

Wm. Fait Dies in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 19.—William Fait, prominently identified with film distribution in Brazil until a few years ago, committed suicide here yesterday.

William Fait, who died yesterday in Rio de Janeiro, had been manager in that territory for First National until three years ago when he resigned because of ill health. Prior to his acceptance of the South American post he had been associated here with David Howells, First National franchise holder.

Some 15 years ago, Fait was engaged in theatre management in New York, Baltimore and Rochester where he opened the Eastman Theatre.

Four Weeks for "Artists"

The Paramount will hold "Artists and Models" for four weeks. It will be the first feature to play a four-week engagement at the theatre since "The Big Broadcast of 1937," another Jack Benny opus, stayed four weeks at the house in October, 1936.

Safran Returns to L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. — Jerome Safran, western division sales manager for Columbia, has returned from a tour of exchanges under his supervision.

LOU LIFTON leaves today for a 10-day vacation at East Sautucket, L. I.

DAVID LOEW has put off his departure for the coast until next week.

H. M. ADDISON of Loew's in Boston was in town yesterday.

ARTHUR KELLY is having trouble with his hearing.

G. SCHIRMER flew to the coast yesterday.

Report "Zola" Sale
$2,000 at Rockaway

RKO executives yesterday reported a $2,000 advance sale for the two-day showings of "The Life of Emile Zola" at the Strand, Far Rockaway, L. I. The picture opens at the RKO house next Tuesday, and according to the circuit, it is expected to do better than "The Great Ziegfeld."

Although the picture has been booked for one week, it is likely that it will be brought back again later in the season, RKO men said. The Laurel, Long Beach, a Rugoff & Becker unit, has "The Life of Emile Zola" booked day-and-date with the RKO house.

Uncensored Showing
Charged in Yonkers

United Artists, Walt Disney Prod., Universal and Big-U Film Exchange filed suit in U. S. District court yesterday against Weinberg Enterprises, Inc., and Joseph Weinberg, operator of the Cameo, Yonkers, for alleged uncensored exhibition of films.

It is charged that "Who Killed Cock Robin?," "On Ice," and episodes from "Frank Merriwell," "Flash Gordon" and "Phantom Riders" were exhibited without licenses between May and September, 1936. A permanent injunction and damages of $250 for each alleged uncensored showing are asked.

Wanger Entertains

Walter Wanger was host last night at the Music Hall pent house to a large group of film and society notables in honor of the opening of his "Vogues of 1938."

Among the film luminaries in attendance were: Joan Bennett, John Hay Whitney, Rosamond Pinchoy, Samuel and Mrs. Spewack, J. Cheever Cowdin, Arthur and Mrs. Kelly and W. G. Van Schmus.

The evening closed with all the guests attending a showing of the film.

Briggs Going to Coast

O. Henry Briggs, president of Pathe, will leave for the coast Aug. 27. He expects to be gone a week or 10 days.

Arthur Miller, plant superintendent at the Bound Brook laboratories, returned yesterday on the Washington after a six-week visit to the Alexander Korda studios at Denham.

Skouras Meet Closes

District managers of Skouras Theatres will meet today at the circuit's headquarters to discuss budgets for the new season. A three-day meeting of approximately 100 managers, assistant managers and home office personnel was concluded yesterday at the St. Moritz. George Skouras presided at the sessions.

Sets Hungarian Film

"Blame It on Love," first of 16 features imported from Hungary by Eugene J. Lang of Danubia Pictures, will open Sept. 3 at the Modern Playhouse. The picture is the 50th sound film produced in Hungary. Danubia has opened an office in Los Angeles with Zoltan V. Sabados in charge.

Last Cullman Report
Now Being Prepared

Rose, Proskauer & Paskus, attorneys for Howard S. Cullman, trustee for the Roxy, are now working on a complete report of his activities during his five-year supervision as representative of the court.

Cullman, who will step out of the theatre on Sept. 2, may not have the report ready for filing by the time his trusteeship ends. In that event, it will be filed later with Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey. Under the reorganization plans for the Roxy approved by the court, 20th Century-Fox on Sept. 1 takes over the house on a 20-year lease and at the same time will give the new operating company a product franchise for the like duration.

Goetz, Gordon to Coast

Harry Goetz and Max Gordon will leave for Hollywood next Monday to confer on production plans for "The Women" and also to make distribution arrangements. Several deals have been discussed and it is expected Goetz and Gordon will consummate negotiations while on the coast.

second Tuesday in December. No changes are contemplated either in the executive lineup or the directorate.

Nicholas M. Schenck, president, and Leopold Friedman, general counsel and secretary, will return Monday from short vacations. J. Robert Rubin, vice-president and chief counsel, recently returned from an extended vacation abroad. David Bernstein, treasurer of Loew's, is scheduled to return from Carlsbad and England on Sept. 9. Al Lichtman, vice-president, is on the coast and is not due back for several weeks.

The next meeting of the board is slated for Sept. 1 when action on new dividends is slated to come up.

Report SEC Opening Technicolor Inquiry

was coincident with the revelation of the company's plans for expansion necessitating the issuance of additional capital stock.

Brokers were reported in possession of questionnaires, signed by Ernest Angell, regional administrator for the S. E. C. in this district, requesting detailed information on trading in Technicolor stock from May 15, last, to Aug. 14, inclusive.

The stock has ranged from a low of 18½, in February, to 33½, reached last week. The stock was especially active in the week of May 15 to May 21, with a turnover of 96,600 shares, ranging from 22½ to 31. The company has an authorized capitalization of 1,000,000 shares of no par common stock, of which latest figures show 745,372 shares outstanding. Of the latter amount, 120,000 shares are under option to Pioneer Pictures, and additional 19,000 shares to former associates of Atlas Corp., and 10,000 shares to executives as compensation.

SEC Officials Reticent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Officials of the Securities and Exchange Commission tonight refused to discuss reports that they are investigating the recent rise in the market quotations on Technicolor stock other than to say that they are at all times watching the course of prices of securities which are registered under the Securities and Exchange Act.

The commission's more or less constant scrutiny of the stock market is carried on under provisions of the law which ban "corners," "market rigging," manipulation of stocks and like practices.

In informal discussions it was learned that while SEC agents study the movement of a number of stocks from time to time, in most instances it develops that the movement is entirely a natural one.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce today agreed to make a favorable report on the nomination of Frank R. McNinch as a member of the Federal Communications Commission.

Looking 'Em Over

"Outer Gate"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—There is strong drama in this picture, although it is an unpretentious offering. It should be satisfactory entertainment of a serious nature, perhaps more suitable to dual featuring, since it appears hardly strong enough, either in production values or cast names, to stand alone.

It has been adapted from a novel by Octavus Roy Cohen, and was directed by Ray Cannon from a screenplay by Laurie Brizee. The cast, which is very short, features Ralph Morgan, Kay Linaker and Ben Alexander, young player who gives a measure of promise.

Morgan, wealthy manufacturer, becomes friendly with a young employe, Alexander, while his daughter, Miss Linaker, also is attracted to the young man. But when, through another employe's criminal act, Alexander is accused of a shortage of funds, Morgan, with a strong sense of duty, causes the young man to be sentenced to 15 years in prison. Five years later the guilty employe, dying, clears Alexander and he is freed, with Morgan offering him a place in his home as a means of righting the wrong he had done him.

Alexander accepts, but with the intention of getting even. His sense of right finally comes to the fore, however, and a happy reconciliation and romance concludes the film.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"The Dead March"

(Imperial)

This film is not entertainment. It is a carefully culled arrangement of war scenes, interspersed with special effects, illustrating the horrors of war. It is not particularly well done. There have been better anti-war celluloid preachments. Its message is not quite clear either. The accompanying narrative is by Boake Carter. For its effect the ghostly apparitions of unknown soldiers are seen and each nation—Germany, France, Italy, Great Britain—through the soldiers, offers a jingoistic account of its wartime activities.

Almost the entire film is composed of stock shots that by now should be quite familiar to audiences which attended the series of anti-war films of a few years ago. The idea introduced at the outset is logical, but the concluding sequences seem to contradict the original thought.

Briefly it covers the current strife in specific countries. There are scenes of the Italo-Ethiopian campaign, the Japanese invasion of China, civil war in Spain and the Chaco dispute in South America. This changes to scenes of the various well known dictators, then to the various countries' armaments. The World War half of the film follows.

Running time, 73 minutes. "G."

U. A. Takes Foreign Sales on 33 Shorts

Foreign distribution rights for 33 short features made by three producers have been obtained by United Artists, Arthur W. Kelly, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution stated yesterday.

Of the films contracted for, five travelogues were produced by Russell Spaulding; four one-reelers in color were made by World Pictures Corp., and 23 Comicolor Cartoons are from Celebrity Prod.

The United Artists coverage includes the Far Eastern territories of China, Japan, Straits Settlements, Malaya, India, Burma, Siam, New Zealand and the Philippines.

Managers Transferred

CANTON, O., Aug. 19.—George A. Delis, district manager for A. G. Constant circuit in eastern Ohio and the upper Ohio valley, with headquarters here, has appointed Ellwood Robinson as manager of the Yorkville at Yorkville and Albert Toth as manager of the Palace at Tiltonsville, O. Both houses are recent acquisitions to the Constant group.

Ten Shorts Finished On M-G-M's Program

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Jack Chertok, M-G-M shorts department head, today announced completion of 10 short subjects for the 1937-'38 period. They are: Four Pete Smith specialties, "Equestrian Acrobatics," "Romance of Radium," "Decathlon Champion," and "Jungle Juveniles"; two Robert Benchleys, "How to Start the Day" and "How to Figure Income Tax"; one "Crime Does Not Pay" miniature, "Give Till It Hurts"; "The Uncrowned King," first of the historical mystery series, and two Lewis Lewyn musicals.

543 "Saratoga" Holdovers

"Saratoga" has been held for extended playing time in 543 out of the 673 houses in which the film has been shown, a checkup by M-G-M reveals.

Skouras Wins Pennant

Skouras Theatres, by defeating Columbia, 5 to 2, has won the championship of the M. P. Baseball League, finishing the season with a record of 12 wins in 14 starts for a percentage of .857.

Short Subjects

"S O S Coast Guard"

(Republic)

There is plenty of action of the kind the youngsters, of many ages, like in this 12-chapter serial. The first episode gives considerable promise and if the remaining episodes maintain the same pace, there can be little doubt that the serial fans will be looking for the succeeding installments. Ralph Byrd has the leading role, as the Coast Guard officer, supported by Maxine Doyle as the young newspaper reporter with whom he is in love, and Bela Lugosi, as the menace, and guardian of a secret formula for a new war gas which he is trying to smuggle out of the country. The first episode serves to set the scene and ends, of course, with the expected danger of approaching destruction for the hero and heroine.

William Whitney and Alan James directed from a screenplay by Barry Shipman and Franklyn Adams.

Running time, first episode, 28 mins. "G."

"Rhythm in a Night Court"

(Nu-Atlas-Radio)

There is real and distinctive novelty in this one reel musical. The material is cleverly presented and highly entertaining. The best bit is a series of impersonations of Charles Laughton, Groucho Marx and W. C. Fields, by Al Bernie. There also is Harry Rose, Sylvia Manon and company, Frances McCoy, Sid Marion and Jeannie Parrillo. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Hawaiian Holiday"

(Disney-Radio)

Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, the Goof and Pluto do their stuff in a Hawaiian setting here. There are cleverly conceived, humorous sequences involving starfish, crabs and surf boards, all done with that well known Disney touch. An hors d'oeuvre for any program. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"The Clock Cleaners"

(Disney-Radio)

Walt Disney's troupe, headed by Mickey, get themselves involved with the inner workings of a tower clock. It is quite needless to say that the brilliantly executed animation will hold the attention of audiences and hand them laugh after laugh. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Staub Seeks Release Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Ralph Staub has gone to New York to arrange a releasing deal for the first of a series of contemplated short subjects which he and Jimmy Fidler, NBC film gossip columnist, are co-producing from Staub's film library.

The first of the shorts, already produced, was previewed in Hollywood last week. It is a three-reel subject of old time film favorites, showing them in various vehicles in their heyday.

It wound up with a cinematic tribute to the recently deceased members of the film colony.

Chicago; Gayety, Milwaukee; Garlick, St. Louis; Keith's, Indianapolis; National, Louisville; Gayety, Cincinnati; Gayety, Detroit; Capitol, Toledo; Roxy, Cleveland; Casino, Pittsburgh; Gayety, Baltimore, and Gayety, Washington.

In addition, 14 New York houses will use vaudeville this year, Whitehead said, naming Loew's State, Paramount, Roxy, Music Hall, Eltinge, Irving Place, Apollo, Oriental, Gaiety, Republic, Oxford, Century, Casino and Uptown Apollo. Characterizing the developments as a "revival of vaudeville," Whitehead said that the A. F. of A. would be strengthened, as a result, for its participation in the "concerted drive by A. F. of L. unions to organize the entire theatrical field." The A. F. of A. will undertake the organizing of night club performers in the drive.

Walsh, who flew here from Chicago, where he had been handling labor board cases, said on his arrival that he would conduct several informal hearings on the questions before setting any formal hearing.

Pressure of other labor difficulties on the office of Dr. Towne Nylander, regional director, caused the appointment.

Agreement Reached On N. Y. Exchanges

ritories have been reached. No meetings have been set to discuss the two remaining key situations. A session is expected to be held following the I. A. T. S. E. convention in Seattle, which started last Sunday.

As soon as remaining situations are cleaned up, I. A. T. S. E. and major distributor representatives will sit down and draft a uniform agreement.

Accept New Rates in N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19.—With exchange managers here refusing absolutely to advance wages beyond the small increases which recently they offered their employees, the union has accepted the new scale, which will go into effect next week.

Increased rates established are: Shippers, $28; postermen, $23; head inspectresses, $20, and inspectresses, $17.50.

Ohio Union Asks Boost

ALLIANCE, O., Aug. 19.—Union projectionists here have requested a 10 per cent increase in pay, effective Sept. 1, when the present contract with the three theatres here expires. Present pay of projectionists is an average of $42.50 a week. Only one man at a time is required in a booth.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Having a production lull, Grand National has leased all available shooting space until the end of the month to three outside companies. BCM Pictures has moved in to shoot "Assassin of Youth," anti-dope picture to be produced by LEO J. MCCARTHY and directed by ELMER CLIFTON. Principal will shoot interiors on "Boots and Saddles," SMITH BALLEW film for 20th Century-Fox release and HARRY SHERMAN will make his next Hopalong Cassidy indoor shots there. . . . Emerson's Mountaineers, hill billy sextet, arrived this week for Grand National's "Tex Rides with the Boy Scouts."

FRANKIE THOMAS, juvenile, goes to Universal for the title role of the serial, "Tim Tyler's Luck," from the newspaper comic strip. . . . M-G-M will star ROBERT MONTGOMERY in another dramatic role in "Under the Flag," magazine story by EDWARD HOPE of the effect of the World War upon the future lives of its survivors. EDWARD BUZZELL is at the lot on a one-picture deal to direct it, having left Universal last week.

ANDY HERVEY, M-G-M publicity man, is in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for observation. . . . EDWARD ARNOLD for the first time in his acting career will sing. He will render two songs in B. P. Schulberg-Paramount's "Blossoms on Broadway." . . . JOHN BARRYMORE's third successive film role at Paramount places him in "City Hall Scandal," which RALPH MURPHY will direct. BARRYMORE is now in "Bulldog Drummond's Revenge." . . . DOROTHY LAMOUR goes into Paramount's "Thrill of a Lifetime," in which VICTOR YOUNG makes his debut as an actor.

Five old time silent favorites, CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG, EVA NOVAK, JEAN ACKER, PAULINE GARON and DOUGLAS GERRARD, have been cast by 20th Century-Fox in its "Dangerously Yours" . . . The studio will star CESAR ROMERO in "Hawk of the Desert," novel by ALBERT TREYNOR, as the first vehicle under his new contract . . . Columbia has changed the title of Frances Marion's first there, "Winning of the West," to "The Pioneers." . . . COURTNEY RILEY COOPER and FRANK ADAMS are doing the screenplay . . . SPRING BYINGTON has been borrowed from M-G-M for Paramount's "The Buccaneer" for the role of DOLLY MADISON . . . JOHN MACK BROWN, JOHN WAYNE, MARSHA HUNT and JOHN PATTERSON will head the cast of Paramount's "Born to the West" from the ZANE GREY story.

The WALT DISNEY staff has added a night shift to complete "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in time for the Christmas holiday week release . . . WALLY VERNON has been signed to a contract at 20th Century-Fox and will go into "Love and Hisses" . . . THOMAS BECK, given a new contract at 20th Century-Fox, begins his fourth year there by going into "45 Fathers."

GRANT MITCHELL and PAUL IRVING in "Hollywood Hotel," Warners . . . WARNER RICHMOND in "Stars Over Arizona," JACK RANDALL musical western for Monogram . . .

Casting—FRANK CRAVEN in "Blossoms on Broadway," Schulberg-Paramount. . . . FRED KOHLER, Sr., and ROBERT BARRAT in "The Buccaneer," Paramount. . . . JOSE CRESPO, MIGUEL LIGERO and BLANCA POSA to "La Vida Bohemia," Cantabria. . . . OSCAR O'SHEA, RICHARD TUCKER and PIERRE WATKIN in "Rosalei," M-G-M. . . . THOMAS MITCHELL and PATRICIA FARR in "I Married An Artist," Columbia.

CHARLES KULLMAN, Metropolitan tenor, has been signed for "The Goldwyn Follies." . . . ESTHER MUIR goes into Major-Paramount's "Love on Toast." . . . SAMUEL S. HINDS and HOBART CAVANAUGH in Universal's "Mightier Than the Sword." . . . TOM BROWN in "Navy Blue and Gold," M-G-M.

Writers—HARRY MYERS signed to do the script of "Dream of Love," Paramount. . . . ARTHUR CAESAR on "Show Business," and JACK NATTEFORD to "Born to the West," same lot. . . . ABEN KANDEL doing additional dialog on Grand National's "Face the Facts." . . . EDMUND KELSO's pact with Grand National has been extended.

ARTHUR S. KANE and MAX MILLER have completed the first story draft of Paramount's "Ruler of the Seas," which will depict the growth of the Cunard-White Star steamship line.

Directors—RAYMOND CANNON has been signed to direct the first of the four pictures DAVE DIAMOND will produce for Grand National.

AL ROGELL has been assigned to direct Columbia's big musical, "Freshmen Follies."

Fields Is Cantor Aide

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Sidney Fields has been selected by Eddie Cantor to assist him on the screenplay of "Sing While You Sleep," Cantor's next for 20th Century-Fox. Fields formerly was associated with Eddie Davis, Cantor radio script writer.

RKO to Reopen Roosevelt

RKO will reopen the Roosevelt, Harlem, which was recently acquired from Leo Brecher, next Wednesday. The house has been remodeled. The Republic in Brooklyn will be taken over from Randforce on Sept. 1. Both units will have RKO in the names.

"U" List to Harris

Harris Amusement Co. of Pittsburgh has closed with James R. Grainger, Universal's general manager of distribution, for the showing of Universal features, shorts and newsreels in the circuits 16 houses in and around the Smoky City.

"Courageous" at $25,000

"Captains Courageous," in its second week at the Capitol, garnered about $25,000. "Topper" opened there yesterday. Next Thursday the theatre will be closed for alterations and will be reopened Sept. 2 with "The Broadway Melody of 1938."

Production Falls; Only 36 Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Production dropped this week with only 36 pictures before the camera, as compared to 41 last week. Twelve were finished and only seven were started. Eighteen are being prepared and 80 are being edited.

The starts were: Columbia, "I Married an Artist," "All American Sweetheart" and "Smoking Six Guns"; Paramount, "City Hall Scandal"; Republic, "Trigger Trio"; Universal, "Boss of Lonely Valley," and Warners, "Larger Than Life."

The tally by studios:

Columbia, finished three, shooting five, preparing one, editing five; Goldwyn, zero, two, one, zero; Grand National, zero, zero, zero, four; M-G-M, one two, three, five; Monogram, one, zero, three, two; Paramount, two, six, three, 13; Principal, zero, zero, one, two; Republic, two, two, one, six; RKO, one, three, two, eight; Roach, zero, zero, zero, zero; Selznick International, zero, one, zero, zero; 20th Century-Fox, one, five, two, seven; Universal, zero, four, zero, seven; Wanger, zero, zero, zero, three; Warners, one, six, one, 24.

Five short subjects were finished during the week, and two, still shooting, were started. M-G-M finished two, started one; RKO finished two, and Warners, one. Four are preparing, and 14 are being edited.

Foy to Do "Movie Guide"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Bryan Foy will produce "Movie Guide," a mystery story centering on the tours conducted among the residential districts in which stars live.

This summer has seen an amazing growth of tour agencies which have plastered signs on virtually all the main thoroughfares.

"Robbery" Title Changed

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Twentieth Century-Fox has chosen "Dangerously Yours" as the final title for the film formerly called "The Great Diamond Robbery." Cesar Romero, Phyllis Brooks, Jane Darwell, Alan Dinehart and Douglas Woods are included in the cast.

Miss Faye for "Fancy"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—Universal, through a special arrangement with 20th Century-Fox, has signed Alice Faye to star in "A Young Man's Fancy," which B. G. De Sylva will produce as his second feature for "U." David Butler has been borrowed by Universal to direct.

B. N. Operator Enjoined

ALBION, Neb., Aug. 19.—Manager Maynard Nelson of the Alex, only Boone County theatre using Bank Night, today was ordered by County Attorney William Keeshan to suspend the gifts and clean up all remaining funds by Aug. 28.

Games Fate Uncertain

Games in the Greater New York RKO circuit are now on a week-to-week basis. The reason for this was said to be that executives may decide to eliminate the practice on a moment's notice.

July 31, 1937," and that as the six specified pictures were not generally released during that period "the defendants are not entitled to delivery thereof under their 1936-'37 contracts."

The Paramount brief also emphasizes that the company's contract is not on trial in the injunction action, and declares that even if the company had breached its contracts with exhibitors that would not entitle the defendants to "take the law into their own hands and violate the Sherman Act. If they want to redress any alleged grievance on this score, they should bring an appropriate action to determine their rights to these pictures," the company's brief observes.

Hits Concerted Action

Answering the second grievance, the brief points out that if the sales terms are unsatisfactory "no exhibitor is obliged to deal with the complainant, but exhibitors may not attempt by concerted action and conspiracy to force the complainant to make contracts with the exhibitors upon terms which the group, acting in concert, demand."

The brief also attacks the exhibitors' reported plans for carrying on the "buyers' strike" by "individual action" and "peaceful persuasion." The company charges that the campaign planned by the exhibitors "will carry with it the same threat of economic loss to the exhibitor who shuns the boycott as was carried by the threat to picket the exhibitor's theatre." The brief concludes with the charge that any continuance of the measures planned against the company by exhibitors in this territory would constitute a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

The defendant exhibitors' reply brief is to be filed tomorrow. The temporary injunction obtained by Paramount continues in effect.

Sues on "Rolling Stone"

Walter O'Keefe, radio performer, RKO, and Hess & McCaffrey, agency, are named defendants in an injunction suit filed in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Maxwell Hawkins, radio script writer. The plaintiff alleges that he prepared a script for radio use for O'Keefe which was to be called "The Rolling Stone."

The story dealt with automobile trailer life. O'Keefe, it is alleged, tried in vain to sell the story to Procter & Gamble and then, despite the plaintiff's protest sold it to RKO for film use. Hawkins not only wants RKO enjoined from using the script but also wants an accounting of any profits which "The Rolling Stone" may already have produced.

Delay House Foreclosure

UHRICHVILLE, O., Aug. 19.—A moratorium saving the State here from sale in a foreclosure proceeding brought several months ago by Charles Schwendiman of Gadenhutten has been granted by Judge Robert B. Putnam, in Common Pleas Court. The extension is until April 1, 1938.

under which $50,000 of the notes are redeemed every month. The notes are held by the Bank of America Nat'l Ass'n and the final payment under the court agreement becomes due on May 1, 1938.

Although Irving Trust Co., RKO trustee, filed a petition with the Federal court here a year ago to obtain authority to pay off notes then outstanding, amounting to $800,000 at the time, the court has taken no action on the petition and attorneys appear to be agreed that none is in prospect. Thus, barring action by the court on the trustee's petition, the principal RKO creditors feel that there is every reason to believe that the company's reorganization will have been completed by the early part of next year, several months before the last of the payments on the gold notes falls due. In such an event, the issue involving the secured position of the debentures probably would not arise to plague the reorganizers and indefinitely delay completion of the RKO rehabilitation proceedings.

Atlas Against Retirement

The Atlas Corp., proponent of the RKO reorganization plan, opposed the trustee's petition to retire the notes at the court hearing last fall on the primary ground that the payment would unnecessarily deplete the company's cash on hand. The trustee petitioned the pay-off on the ground that it would make possible an appreciable saving in interest on the notes.

Indications are that the RKO reorganization plan, with the report and recommendations of the special master, will go to the Federal District Court for final hearings about November. Completion of the reorganization within two to three months thereafter is likely.

Shift W. B. Canada Dates

Warners' national trade exhibit scheduled to be held in 31 cities throughout the country on Monday and Tuesday will be held in Canadian situations on later dates because of a shortage of prints. Following is the schedule of the exhibit and the theatres selected to play the features in Canada:

Toronto, Village, Aug. 23 and 24; His Majesty's, Montreal, Aug. 25 and 26; Strand, St. John, Aug. 30-31; Garrick, Winnipeg, Sept. 7 and 8; Tivoli, Calgary, Sept. 9 and 10, and Stanley, Vancouver, Sept. 13 and 14.

Denies New Theatre Plan

PARIS, Aug. 19.—Reports that M-G-M was considering another theatre to replace the Olympia, which the company gave up last January when the lease expired, are denied. The organization neither plans to build or take over a local theatre, it was stated.

Farnsworth Quits Post

William P. Farnsworth has resigned as New York administrative officer of the Federal Theatre Project, a post he has held since last March.

theatres Skouras will acquire on Labor Day from the estate of the late Jack W. Springer. According to a standing agreement, RKO has the privilege of purchasing a 20 per cent interest in new theatres acquired by Skouras. The major circuit now holds a 20 per cent interest in Metropolitan Playhouses, which includes approximately 100 theatres operated by Randforce and Skouras.

Skouras to Be Host At Coast Gathering

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19.—Charles D. Skouras, operating head of Fox West Coast, will be host to all National Theatres' executives and home office and field representatives when the 1938 convention is held at Del Monte.

Skouras and his men returned Monday from Colorado Springs after a four-day meeting. The Del Monte site for the convention next year was decided upon before the men left Colorado.

Meanwhile, no successor has been named to succeed Al Hanson, who will retire Sept. 1 as assistant to Skouras. Hanson has decided to devote more time to his own theatre interests. F. W. C. has 51 per cent of the two Compton houses. Whether the circuit is interested in the latest theatre Skouras is building is not known.

Sunday Petitions Void

JACKSON, TENN., Aug. 19.—Ruling that the petition for Sunday films presented to the city commissioners Aug. 4, was void, City Recorder D. W. Luckey recently returned the petition to those who had circulated it.

Luckey stated that many whose names were on the petition did not live in the city, some were minors and only a few had property listed as required by the referendum clause in the city charter.

E. L. Drake, local theater operator, said "the petition would be re-submitted."

Wisconsin Network To Start on Sept. 1

GREEN BAY, WIS., Aug. 19.—Formation of The Wisconsin Broadcasting System, a mutual organization, with three Wisconsin stations, WHBY, KFIZ, and WIBU, as members, has been effected, and network programs are scheduled to start Sept. 1, with programs originating in Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Poynette, Beaver Dam, Portage and Madison.

The network is unique in that there are no officers but a directing body composed of Rev. James A. Wagner, manager of WHBY; Emory Martin, manager of KFIZ, and William Forrest, manager of WIBU, will act as a managing group to take charge of the network's activities. Press relations are to be handled out of the Green Bay office, while a program clearing house will be established at Fond du Lac. Plans call for united network programs both of a commercial and sustaining nature, and the use of talent from throughout the state.

Sims, a division of Siems Bros., Inc., St. Paul, Minn., will become the first commercial account of the network and a daily program for Sims Malt-O-Wheat will begin over the chain at 8 o'clock in the morning on Sept. 1.

WOR to Inaugurate Interviews

"Microphone of the Sky," a new series of sustaining interview programs, will begin a stay on WOR Monday, and daily except Sunday thereafter from 1 to 1:15 P. M. The broadcasts will originate from the Empire State tower. Earle Harper will handle the program.

Shoe Program to Begin 7th Year

The Coward Shoe Co. will commence on Aug. 23, its seventh year of Jewish broadcasting over WLTH. It will continue with the "House Friend" or the Jewish Voice of Experience that recently received 1,286 responses for a single program.

Change Racing Program

Barney's, Inc., has dropped its program on WMCA, "Joe Lee, Racing Previews," and instead will sponsor Bob Carter's program titled "Today's Winners." The series is broadcast Monday through Saturday from 6 to 6:15 P. M.

Tex., change frequency from 1,310 to 1,450 kilocycles and increase power from 250 to 500 watts; KTBS, Shreveport, La., change frequency from 1,450 to 620 kilocycles; WKBZ, Muskegon, Mich., change frequency from 1,500 to 1,200 kilocycles; KVEC, San Luis Obispo, Cal., increase power from 100 to 250 watts.

Apply for Station in Madison

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Application for a new broadcasting station at Madison, Wis., to operate on 1,450 kilocycles with 250 watts power, has been filed with the F.C.C. by the Madison Broadcasting Co.

Also submitted were applications from KMED, Medford, Ore., for increase of power from 250 to 1,000 watts; WSIX, Nashville, Tenn., for increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts; and KAST, Astoria, Ore., for increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts and change of frequency from 1,370 to 1,200 kilocycles.

To Talk from China

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—By short wave from China, CBS will present Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the Chinese generalissimo, in a discussion of China's position in the China-Japanese hostilities Monday from 3:30 to 3:45 P. M., P.S.T.

Her talk will be titled "Facing the North China Crisis."

CBS Will Broadcast Gershwin Memorial

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19.—CBS will broadcast coast-to-coast and internationally the George Gershwin memorial concert to be given Sept. 8 in the Hollywood Bowl. The program, which will last two and a half hours, will begin at 8:30 P. M., P. S. T.

Already scheduled for the program are: Irene Dunne, Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire, Al Jolson, Helen Jepson, Jose Iturbi, the Los Angeles Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra conducted by Otto Klemperer, Oscar Levant and the Hall Johnson Choir.

It was announced that the services of the musicians and artists would be contributed and that the proceeds will be used to forward the non-profit work of the Bowl Ass'n, which yearly presents eight weeks of "Symphonies Under the Stars."

The Columbia broadcast, a sustaining program, will be piped abroad through the company's subsidiaries.

Court Upholds Free Speech in Broadcast

Durkin, convicted murderer. The decision was handed down by Federal Judge LeRoy J. Adair, who ruled that sponsored radio programs have the same privilege as newspapers in naming persons and telling facts, whether the events related took place a day or years before the broadcast time.

Martin Durkin was the plaintiff in the action, with CBS, Phil Lord, and the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. named as defendants. Durkin, now serving sentence for a murder, objected to the dramatization because he felt that the broadcast might jeopardize his chances of obtaining parole.

Mar-O-Oil Series Renewed

The J. W. Marrow Mfg. Co., for Mar-O-Oil shampoo, has renewed Henry Busse and orchestra for an additional 10 weeks, beginning Sept. 26. The program is heard each Sunday from 11:45 A. M. to 12 noon on the NBC-Red network. The agency is Baggaley, Horton & Hoyt, Inc., Chicago.

Resuming for 30 weeks on the NBC-Red is the serial sponsored by General Mills, Inc., titled "Jack Armstrong." The program will return Sept. 27. The agency is Blackett-Sample-Hummert.

Rosalind Russell Signed

Rosalind Russell has been signed to headline the first four weeks of the new Sunday afternoon program, "Silver Theatre," which will be inaugurated over CBS Oct. 3, from 5 to 5:30 P. M.

Nebraska Asks End Of Ascap's Action

OMAHA, Aug. 20.—A motion has been filed in U. S. District Court at Lincoln by the state Attorney General's office seeking dismissal of the Ascap suit attacking validity of the last legislature's statute outlawing the organization in Nebraska. A three-judge Federal Court is to hear the Ascap suit in Omaha Sept. 11 unless the Attorney General's motion is granted.

Wanger Gets Medal

Joan Bennett received a plaque from the professional models the other day in the sunken plaza of Rockefeller Center. Walter Wanger received a gold medal of merit yesterday from the Fashion Academy.

According to Myer P. Beck of the U. A. exploitation department, the Fashion Academy is one of the leading schools for designers and it was—or is—pleased because Wanger presented "the first authentic fashions in gowns, furs and millinery" in the current "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938."

Timely Topics

Max A. Cohen will give up the Selwyn on Aug. 31. The last picture which will be shown at the theatre under his management will be "Mr. Cohen Takes a Walk."

Question Craven on His Radio Holdings

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Members of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today questioned I. A. M. Craven, nominated by President Roosevelt to be a member of the F. C. C. regarding his ownership of corporation stocks in the radio and electrical industries.

Information was filed with the committee that Craven, in private practice before joining the F. C. C., represented various corporations in which he took stock in payment for his services.

Craven's alleged stock interest in broadcasting corporations was also attacked yesterday on the floor of the House by Representative Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, who on Wednesday introduced a resolution that no member of the commission or person in its employ should be financially interested in the manufacture or sale

55th St. Playhouse Signs After Sitdown

An eight-minute sitdown strike staged by projectionists at the 55th St. Playhouse yesterday brought about the signing of a new union contract with the house which materially reduced working hours and increases the wage scale 100 per cent, Local 306 reported yesterday.

Although the projectionists at the house were members of Empire State Operators' Union, in a recent collective bargaining election they chose

Wanger's "Vogues" $15,000 First Day

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" tallied approximately $15,000 on the opening day at the Music Hall. Up to 1 P. M. yesterday, the gross was within $100 of Thursday's figure at the same time.

At the Apollo, Atlantic City, the picture opened Thursday to a new record, according to U. A. "Stella Dallas" previously held the high gross mark.

At 4 P. M. the figure yesterday was $158 in excess of that at the same time the day previous.

Price-Fixing Law Does Not Affect Films

Observers Declare Only Actual Sales Covered

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Price maintenance legislation unwillingly approved by President Roosevelt this week as a rider to a District of Columbia tax act will have no application to the film industry, it was said today at authoritative sources.

It was pointed out that the measure refers to sales of goods, wares and merchandise and that it merely makes legal contracts between manufacturers or distributors and retailers in which the prices to be charged by the latter are stipulated, in states which have laws approving such action.

In the case of the film industry, it was explained, the pictures are leased and not sold and, so far as is known, none of the state laws intended to be supported by the Federal act, deals with anything but sales.

Accordingly, it was believed, the measure will have no effect upon the film industry or upon any of the Federal anti-trust cases involving exhibition contracts.

"Strike" Defended In UMPTO's Brief

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Citing numerous decisions in previous law cases involving violations of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, Benjamin N. Golder and Otto Kraus, Jr., counsel for the U.M.P.T.O. of Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey and Delaware, defendants in the case arising from the distributor "buyers' strike" against the taking of Paramount product because of alleged booking injustices, contended

British Quota Plans Shaped By 5 Majors

Paramount and Columbia Discussing Details

All major producing and distributing companies with the exception of Paramount and Columbia have formulated their plans for handling their British production requirements under the proposed quota legislation, it was revealed by inquiries made at home offices here yesterday.

Warners and M-G-M will produce their own pictures in England. United Artists, 20th Century-Fox and Universal will have their quota requirements handled by production organizations in England allied with the American company. Alexander Korda will supply the United Artists quota requirements. Robert Kane and possibly other producers working directly for the company will handle 20th Century-Fox's British production, while the C. M. Woolf interests, a Universal affiliate, will provide that company's quota.

Present indications are that RKO's

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Life of the Party"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 20.—Here is as mad and as merry a potpourri of melodies, personalities, forthright foolishness and miscellaneous amusement as has come from a carefree camera to enliven the cinema calendar in ready memory. The picture has a plot and the players work it out without sacrificing the identities they have established nationally as themselves.

Parkyakarkus, for instance, is cast as a house detective named Parkyakarkus, and plays both the role and himself. Joe Penner is cast as Joe Penner of the Park Avenue Penners, and that is simply that. Gene Raymond and Harriet Hilliard, as the boy and girl of the story, step in and out of the character at will and with excellent result, while Victor Moore and Helen Broderick are their screen and radio selves in roles tailored to their measure.

Out of all this comes a tremendous lot of sheer entertainment and by some strange alchemy the story is kept rolling along fresh grooves to a satisfying conclusion.

A preview audience at the Dome theatre in ribald Ocean Park laughed its head off and went out trying to whistle "Chirp a Little" and the title song, either or both of which have hit possibilities.

William A. Seiter directed the Edward Kaufman production from a screenplay whipped up by Bert Kalmar, Harry Ruby and Viola Brothers Shore from a story by Joseph Santley. Five of the songs are by Herbert Magidson and Allie Wrubel and a sixth is by Magidson, George Jessel and Ben Oakland.

Gene Raymond is at his best in the light lead and Joe Penner is in the pink throughout. Billy Gilbert, Franklin Pangborn and Ann Miller stand out in the support.

The story is about a romantic young millionaire and a socialite with stage ambitions. But the ways and means of their getting together to the required clinch are different and do not include, the world will be glad to hear, the heroic raising of funds to back a show. There is every reason to believe that exploitation concentrated on names and a general promise of assorted amusement will pack 'em in and send 'em away happy.

Running time, 79 minutes. "G."

Century's Directors
Avoid Heat on Yacht

Century Circuit's board of directors solved the heat problem Thursday when they got together for their regular meeting. Instead of holding the session at the company's headquarters in the RCA Bldg., the men convened on a yacht owned by one of the directors and anchored at Port Washington.

Routine business was discussed. It is understood the quarterly dividend was passed up because of poor business. The last dividend was declared in July.

A. H. Schwartz, operating head of the circuit, came in from Lake Placid to attend the meeting and returned to his country home the same night. He was accompanied by his son, Leslie, short subjects booker. Both are scheduled to be back at his office Monday or Tuesday.

Purely
Personal

HELEN O'TOOLE, New York, secretary to Ed KUYKENDALL, will be married today to RICHARD F. DALY, Staten Island attorney. The couple will honeymoon in Bermuda. Miss O'Toole is the daughter of M. J. O'Toole, former national secretary of M.P.T.O.A., and now associated with the Comerford Circuit at Scranton, Pa.

ROBERT TAYLOR, MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN, HAL ROSSON, JACK CONWAY, MARGARET BOOTH and JOSEPH NEWMAN sail today on the Berengaria. They will make "A Yank at Oxford," in England.

EDMUND MANTELL celebrated his 30th wedding anniversary the other day at his country home at Monroe, N. Y. Five years ago, he held his silver wedding anniversary celebration in Vienna.

ADOLPH POLLAK, general sales manager for Theatre Trailer Service, will leave Sept. 3 for a two-week tour of important key centers. About 10 days after he returns, he will sail for Europe.

J. J. ALLEN, who operates 23 theatres in Canada and also has the Columbia franchise for his territory, is visiting here for a few days.

MYER P. BECK doesn't mind the hot weather while he's handling publicity for "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" at the Music Hall.

A. W. SMITH, Jr., general sales manager for U. A., has returned from the south where he spent several weeks on business.

ROBERT MOCHRIE, southern district manager for U. A., with headquarters in Atlanta, is in town.

MILTON KUSELL will return Monday from a trip to Albany and Gloversville.

F. P. Canadian Meet
To Open on Monday

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—The annual eastern managers' convention of Famous Players Canadian Corp. will be held at the King Edward Hotel here next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

For the meeting the eastern theatres have been divided into three groups, as well as a group from the home office, from the maintenance and operating departments. From the home office will be R. W. Bolstad, N. G. Barrow, L. Geering, J. A. Troyer, A. MacCunn, R. Darby, F. Justin and W. Kerr. The three groups will be split into individual sessions. Each group will hold a separate session on main office, operating and maintenance.

A general meeting will open the convention Monday morning and a second such session will be held Wednesday morning. The picnic will be held Wednesday afternoon. The meeting will be featured by the annual award of bonuses.

British production requirements will be supplied by Herbert Wilcox, although a deal has not been signed yet. The company has no producer affiliation abroad and is not likely to establish its own studio in England, leaving an outside deal of the sort discussed with Wilcox as the logical procedure. Columbia is in the same position as RKO, but has negotiated no deal with an English producer yet. Its most recent British importation was the Edward G. Robinson picture, "Thunder in the City," produced by Atlantic Films. A quota production arrangement between the two companies for the future is not improbable.

Paramount's British plans have not taken definite shape yet. There is a possibility that the company may set up its own producing organization in England, similar to Warners and Metro's. There is also a possibility that the company's British production will be handled by an outstanding English studio, such as London Films. In this case, the studio would receive technical and cast assistance from Paramount. However, no final decision is likely until Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee, who is now in England, and Adolph Zukor, who sails for England next Wednesday, have made their reports and recommendations to the Paramount management and board of directors.

Warners Enter Denial

Warners filed a general denial in U. S. District Court yesterday in answer to the $500,000 libel action brought by Casino Prod. and Yermi Stern. The action originated in the N. Y. Supreme Court and was transferred to the Federal Court because of diversity of citizenship. The complaint charges the reputation of the plaintiffs was damaged in the Warner film, "Go Into Your Dance."

Hold Denver Picnic

DENVER, Aug. 20.—Eating under the stars in the mountains near Denver was enjoyed by Civic Theatres employees, who held their annual picnic at the end of the day. Most of the gang were late for work the next morning, but the planning committee of Frank Ross, Walter Crelly, Tim Curigan and Fred Eisle deserved the credit for the good time had by all.

"Horizon" Big in Denver

DENVER, Aug. 20.—"Lost Horizon" opened at Denver yesterday for the first time at popular prices. According to Harry Huffman, the opening day's take beat any previous film by 20 per cent.

that the exhibitors could organize and refuse to deal with Paramount in the brief submitted to Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, who is holding under advisement his opinion in the suit by which Paramount would permanently restrain the boycotting campaign.

The points of law present arguments to the effect that such action by the exhibitors is not a violation of the anti-trust laws, declaring that under the spirit of the acts, only when there is undue restraint of competition would the intent of the exhibitors be illegal. The brief holds that persons may combine for their own interest and protection "and acting in concert to suspend or abandon entirely in a quiet, orderly way their business relations with any other person, although such action may work serious injury to the other person."

If the court rules otherwise, the brief charges "then every cooperative buying organization must meet the same denunciation whenever it refuses to buy from a vendor whose terms are thought to be unacceptable."

Claim Propaganda Right

The defendants also claim the right to present their dispute to the public and carry on their boycott, admitting that the only possible illegal angle in their proposed campaign is the use of a sound truck which would invite the public not to patronize a theatre showing Paramount's product.

A further argument is advanced to the effect that Paramount is entitled to no remedy for cancellation of the contracts during August on the allegations that Paramount has breached its contracts with the exhibitors in that they failed to deliver promised pictures, the contract being unenforceable because of lack of mutuality since the exhibitor can only get pictures when they are declared "available" and there is no duty on Paramount which the exhibitors could enforce to declare pictures available; that the contracts are further of an illegal nature because they fail to carry the double feature prohibition clause.

New Yorkers in Dark On Strike Meeting

plans for the holding of such a meeting. The Philadelphia reports were that P. J. Wood of the Ohio I. T. O. had issued the call for the session. Wood has been visiting in New Jersey with his son, who is employed at the RCA Camden plant, but left there several days ago with plans for visits in Philadelphia, Washington and New York. Efforts to discover his present whereabouts for questioning on the Philadelphia rumors and reports were unavailing.

It was pointed out here that the participation of any of the Philadelphia "strike" leaders in such a meeting as that reported to have been called by Wood might jeopardize the Philadelphia exhibitors' position in refuting the conspiracy charge made by Paramount in its application for a permanent injunction in the Philadelphia territory. That application is now before the Federal court there.

Ridgefield May Get A Theatre After All

RIDGEFIELD, Conn., Aug. 20.—A move to establish a $60,000 film theatre in this village is underway, according to Arthur J. Carnall, a real estate agent. Carnall refused to divulge the name of the person sponsoring the negotiations, but said the plan has the backing of a well known theatre executive.

Several independent Connecticut operators have been studying the possibilities of building a theatre in the village during the past year. The site now under consideration is near the center of the village. Last winter several wealthy residents discussed a plan of forming a company and erecting a theatre. The Parent-Teacher Ass'n which has been a strong factor in seeking a theatre for the town, did obtain permission for films once a week in the Town Hall.

Seldes Heads Work of CBS In Television

of a complete television unit operating under conditions of actual daily television production schedules. The studio will operate in conjunction with the CBS television transmitter in the Chrysler Tower, now under construction, to which it will be linked by coaxial cable.

Seldes is scheduled to begin his television program work Sept. 1. The mode of operation outlined for Seldes is "to make as many experiments as possible in order to make as many errors as possible in advance." His function will be to direct these "experiments" and "errors in advance" as a means of establishing television on the same standard of entertainment value as other mature arts.

Actual construction on the studios at Grand Central is scheduled to begin early this fall, and major details of design and equipment have already been worked out by CBS engineers. The central studio will measure 225 feet in length, 60 feet in width, and 40 feet from floor to ceiling, and will be located directly above the Grand Central waiting room, overlooking 42nd St. It will contain dressing rooms, rehearsal chambers, a carpentry shop for set construction and a television laboratory. Provision has also been made for the cutting, editing and scanning of motion picture films.

Columbia's new television development is in line with a statement made some while back by William S. Paley, president, who disclosed in testimony before the F. C. C. that the network had set aside the sum of $2,000,000 for carrying out this final phase of its experiments in television.

Navy News on Air

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 20.—KFSD, local NBC-Blue outlet, has contracted the Keystone Clothery for sponsorship of a 15-minute program of Navy news, prepared by the editor of Navy News magazine. Dick Cutting, former Shakespearean player and now staff announcer, will handle the narration. Fridays at 5 P.M.

Shanghai Described By Mrs. Roosevelt

The first eye witness description of the fighting in Shanghai between Chinese and Japanese forces was given to American radio listeners yesterday in an exclusive broadcast by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., on NBC. Mrs. Roosevelt's description of the fighting was the culmination of days of feverish effort on the part of broadcasters to get a word picture of the Shanghai fighting to listeners here.

Communication facilities at Shanghai had been broken down since the first day of the battle. Baffled in this direction, NBC immediately checked the lists of refugee ships and found that the President Jefferson would be the first to reach Manila, and arranged for Mrs. Roosevelt's talk. Contact was made with KZRM, Manila, for the transmission of the program, which was relayed by short-wave through RCA facilities from Manila to Point Reyes, Cal., and fed into the NBC network at San Francisco.

of communications apparatus or in any broadcasting or telegraph or telephone company, and calling upon the commission to furnish information regarding any of its members or employees now having such interests. Wigglesworth also attacked the House Rules Committee for its failure to grant right of way to any of the broadcasting investigation resolutions, declaring that the committee is suffering from "sleeping sickness."

The committee was defended by Representative Sabath of Illinois, who explained that it had at least a dozen important resolutions which the committee has pigeonholed because "they feel that the House and some of the leaders in the House are opposed to any and all investigations. Invariably," he added, "when a resolution to investigate is brought forward by the Rules Committee it fails of passage."

Form Frontier Broadcasting

FORT WORTH, Aug. 20.—A charter has been granted the Frontier Broadcasting Co., Inc., of this city, with capital stock of $10,000 for operation of radio stations in this state.

Broadcast Ads In Six Months $65,426,432

Is Gain of 28.7% Over Same Period in 1936

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The National Ass'n of Broadcasters has reported broadcast advertising for the first six months of the current year amounted to $65,426,432, as compared to $50,802,179 in the corresponding period last year, making a gain of 28.7 per cent.

Radio broadcasting during the first half year showed the greatest relative increase of any major medium.

The total non-network advertising

Craven Wins Senate Approval for F. C. C.

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—Final session of the Senate today was marked by the confirmation of T. A. M. Craven to be a member of the Federal Communications Commission. The nomination of Frank R. McNinch was approved last night.

All barriers to Craven's confirmation collapsed at a hearing before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday, at which he explained he had divested himself of all interests in commercial radio projects before joining the commission as a member of its engineering staff. It had been

Washington, Aug. 22.—The Senate investigation of the F.C.C., authorized by the White resolution, will be delayed at least until the next session, due to the failure of the Senate Audit and Control Committee to recommend an expenditure for an inquiry.

Big Pictures Halt Decline In Nation's First Run Takes

Big pictures turned the tide in the mid-August slump in 16 of the 24 key cities reporting first run grosses to MOTION PICTURE DAILY for the week ending Aug. 13-14 and rolled up a total of $1,498,561, an increase of $74,439 over the gross obtained during the previous week.

This was the best showing since the week ending May 21-22, when the total was $1,527,579.

Not in recent years have there been so many outstanding attractions during the hottest part of the vacation season, and not in years have they pulled so strongly.

Included in the list of big grosses in general circulation are: "The Good Earth," "Saratoga," "Stella Dallas," "Ever Since Eve," "Artists and Models," "The Toast of New York," "Wee Winnie Winkie," "You Can't Have Everything" and "The Road Back."

Only 10% of Hearers Name Air Product Local Boards Would Avoid Suits—MPTO

Fewer than 10 per cent of radio listeners questioned in a radio survey could identify the product advertised in the programs to which their radio sets were tuned, according to a report by Royal H. Ray, a student of advertising at Columbia University summer session. Ray, formerly a member of the journalism faculty of Ohio University, conducted the survey at Athens, O.

The hours chosen for the survey were from 9:30 P.M. to 10:30 P.M., Saturday, and from 9 to 10 P.M. on Monday.

Ray made 145 telephone calls to numbers selected at random from telephone directories. Of the total number of calls attempted, 111 were completed. In these homes, 106, or 95 per cent, owned radios, although only 42 families, or 40 per cent of the set owners, had their sets tuned on.

Thirty-four, or approximately 80 per cent, answered correctly to the question: "To what station are you

Establishment of local conciliation boards for the adjudication of industry complaints would preclude Government and individual exhibitor litigation, Ed Kuykendall, president of the M.P.T.O.A., states in his latest bulletin.

"The proposal for local boards of conciliation to adjust disputes in connection with charges of unfair 'overbuying' and unfair clearance, as well as other matters that require an informed but disinterested local fact-finding agency to adjust intelligently, we regard as of vital importance to the entire industry," Kuykendall says.

Criticizing the refusal by major companies to adopt his plan, the M.P.T.O.A. head adds: "The stubborn unyielding attitude of the distributors towards this proposal, which is the only practical plan that has been advanced by anyone to provide any sort of machinery within the industry to adjust trade disputes before they develop into expensive litigation, is

Century Signs Deals With U. A., 20th-Fox

Century Circuit has closed with United Artists and 20th Century-Fox on next season's product and negotiations are under way with Paramount. Sitting in on the Paramount deal are Fred Schwartz and Myron Seigel, representing the circuit, and Henry Randel, for the distributor.

Clearances in the two deals set are now being worked out, it is understood. The circuit is reported to be behind the complaint being informally investigated by Assistant U. S. Attorney Leo Hickey in Brooklyn.

Films, Radio Unscathed as Congress Ends

Familiar Measures Up, But None Passed

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Leaving unconsidered a number of film and radio measures, Congress has adjourned, marking the first time in a number of years in which the film industry has got through a session without being a target for Congressional headline hunters.

Although all of the old standby picture measures and a few new ones were introduced, not a single one was taken up in committee in either House or Senate. Except for the general legislation enacted, including the extension of the admission and other "nuisance" levies, the industry came through the session unscathed.

Pictures were brought up directly in connection with but one bill, that of Representative Dickstein of New York to bar alien artists, which failed in committee.

However, all of the measures pending at the adjournment remain alive and may be taken up next session, if opportunity offers.

Included among the film measures introduced were bills providing for

The cities, theatres and opening dates are the Cass, Detroit, Aug. 26; Erlanger, Chicago, Aug. 29; American, St. Louis, Sept. 12; Nixon, Pittsburgh, Aug. 29; Royal Alexander, Toronto, Aug. 30; Colonial, Boston, Aug. 30; National, Washington, Aug. 26; St. Francis, San Francisco, Sept. 16.

Purely Personal

MAURICE CONN, who hopes to have an announcement ready this week on his new plans, says his studios on the coast have five pictures in the process of editing. He hasn't made up his mind when he will go back to the coast.

ROBERT TAYLOR, JOE NEWMAN, JACK CONWAY, HAL ROSSON and MARGARET BOOTH sailed Saturday on the Berengaria. MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN was not on the liner, having canceled at the last minute.

NATE B. and MRS. SPINGOLD are among the passengers due today on the Queen Mary. Others include SIR CEDRIC HARDWICKE, JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG and ALFRED HITCHCOCK.

LITA GREY CHAPLIN arrives today from the coast for a series of radio broadcasts and later to appear in a Broadway show.

LOWELL CALVERT will leave for the coast about Sept. 15. He plans to spend a few days at Culver City and then return east.

HARVEY DAY, business manager for TerryToons, Inc., will leave for a tour of 20th Century-Fox exchanges next month.

SAUL KRUGMAN is due back this week from a tour of Southern Grand National exchanges.

SOL EDWARDS, eastern division manager for Grand National, will return today from Albany.

A. H. SCHWARTZ and his son are due back today or tomorrow from Lake Placid.

JAMES CAGNEY is now vacationing at his summer home at Martha's Vineyard.

ARTHUR GOTTLIEB of Du Art Laboratories will leave today for Toronto.

EDWARD ALPERSON is slated to get back from the coast in about two weeks.

HARRY C. ARTHUR, JR., plans to leave for St. Louis by plane tomorrow.

SI FABIAN has returned from Albany where he spent several days.

J. P. O'LOGLIN is due to arrive from Toronto today.

NATE MANHEIM is on the coast.

20th-Fox to Build at N.H.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 22.—The local 20th Century-Fox negotiations for a new exchange site have culminated in the acquisition of an 80 x 130-foot site on Whiting St., close to the present film district, and a new building will be constructed for December occupancy. The lease on the present exchange building, occupied for the past 11 years, will expire Dec. 1.

See Courts Relaxing Price Law Severity

The authors of a new book, just published by Prentice-Hall, "Business Under the New Price Laws," by Burton A. Zorn and George J. Feldman, make the prediction that court decisions progressively will relax the severity of price legislation, notably the Robinson-Patman Act. They go so far as to express the belief that it is possible the legislation may have the paradoxical result of completely reversing the avowed purpose of the laws to suppress the chain store.

Zorn is general counsel for the N. Y. State Labor Relations Board, and formerly was connected with NRA, while Feldman, Washington attorney, was formerly with the Federal Trade Commission. They characterized the Robinson-Patman Act as legislation that "combines breadth of application with minuteness of control and vagueness of implication." It is disputable, they declare, whether the "avowed purpose of the act can be achieved, or whether, in terms of actual operation, it will not further weaken the position of the independent and increase the power of the chain."

Abandoning Deal for Leff-Meyers Houses

Negotiations for the purchase of seven Leff-Meyers theatres by Sam Strassberg have been called off, it was learned over the weekend. The reason reported for the cessation of discussion was a disagreement over the price.

Abel Leff of Leff-Meyers previously had denied that negotiations were under way. This circuit now operates 10 theatres in Manhattan and Bronx. Leff is also producing a group of Jewish talking pictures.

Raid Ohio Sweepstakes

MARION, O., Aug. 22.—Nine policemen led by Chief William E. Mark on Friday raided the Palace, a Southio unit, at the height of its Sweepstakes session and, after the announcement of the winners, arrested Manager George E. Planck, charging him with operating a gambling game. Three girl employees also were seized on minor charges. The Sweepstakes film and tickets were taken by the police as evidence which will be submitted to Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart, who expects to make this a test case in Municipal Court.

Renew Cash Awards

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 22.—Hamden, Meriden and Waterbury theatres have reopened cash award systems pending the decision of the new Connecticut Bank Night test case against the Palace, Middletown, although larger cities such as Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford, Stamford and Greenwich remain closed in accordance with the recent prohibition.

Cancel Nell Traxler Show

MCALISTER, Okla., Aug. 22.—Cancellation of the appearance of Nell Traxler, wife of the notorious Pete Traxler, was announced after Chief of Police Tom Abbott conferred with the management of the house in which she had made arrangements for an engagement.

Warner Zone Heads Convene Here Today

Warner theatre zone managers and home office executives will meet at the home office today to discuss plans for the coming season.

Among those attending the sessions will be: Clayton Bond, Ed Hinchey, Nat Fellman, Harry Goldberger, Stewart McDonald, Frank Phelps, Abel Vigard, Harry Rosenquest, Herman Maier and Frank Cahill.

The zone managers include: James Coston, Chicago; Nat Wolf, Cleveland; I. J. Hoffman, New Haven; Don Jacocks, Newark; Moe Silver, Albany; Ted Schlanger, Philadelphia; Harry Kalmine, Pittsburgh; John J. Payette, Washington; Herb Copelan, Atlantic City, and Howard Waugh, Memphis.

Transfer Warner Men

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 22.—James O'Laughlin, assistant at the Warner Palace, Lawrence, has been named manager of the Strand, Amesbury, by B. E. Hoffman, Warner zone manager. Joseph Liss will be transferred from Amesbury to the Strand, Clinton, and Christopher McHale will go from the latter house to Warners' Broadway, Lawrence.

Warner Trade Shows To Be Started Today

In 31 cities throughout the country today and tomorrow, Warners will hold advance previews for exhibitors on five of the new season's product.

In New York the screening will be held at the New Amsterdam Roof. The schedule provides for the showing of "That Certain Woman" this morning and "Varsity Show" in the afternoon. Tomorrow morning, "Back in Circulation" and "It's Love I'm After" are lined up with "The Life of Emile Zola" slated for the afternoon.

Legion Approves All Of 12 New Pictures

The National Legion of Decency in its list of new pictures for the current week, has approved all of the 12 new films reviewed, nine for general patronage and three for adults. The list of new pictures and their classification follow:

Class A-1, Unobjectionable for General Patronage—"Broadway Melody of 1938," "Feud of the Trail," "Gangway," "Hideout in the Alps," "Love Under Fire," "Mystery of the Hooded Horsemen," "Raw Timber," "Schberneck," "Wild and Woolly." Class A-2, Unobjectionable for Adults—"Double or Nothing," "She's No Lady," "That Certain Woman."

U. A. Plan Starts Today

United Artists exchanges today will inaugurate a new rental plan for accessories. Not all advertising material is included in the plan, but for material other than 24-sheets, window cards, heralds, slides and mats, saving of 35 to 50 per cent can be effected according to Harry D. Buckley, vice president.

"Love" at Roxy Friday

"Love Under Fire" will go into the Roxy Friday, following "Gangway." "Confession" will be held for a second week at the Strand, starting Wednesday.

Local Boards Would Avoid Suits—MPTO

bound to result sooner or later in a series of spectacular anti-trust law suits, both by the Government and by individual exhibitors, and other unnecessary and avoidable litigation."

Decisions by the courts, Kuykendall continues, will no doubt be erratic and impractical, but will be enforced under severe penalties. He also sees loss of public good will and legislative investigations as inevitable.

"We have exhausted every resource to convince the producers and distributors that they should cooperate with responsible exhibitors and with each other to provide a practical means within the industry of adjusting trade disputes, prevent abuses, excesses and injustices before they develop into litigation and legislation, just as a matter of good business, for their own benefit as well as our own.

Cites Lack of Cooperation

"By their response to our proposals they have made it rather plain that they are determined to do nothing about it until they are forced into it by the courts or by the Government. This defiant and unyielding attitude is an insurmountable barrier, for the time being, to further progress on the M.P.T.O.A. proposals. No alternate plan is offered."

Wary of an active fall season, Kuykendall states that "maybe it will soon be too late to establish voluntary self-regulation as the M.P.T.O.A. proposed. There seems to be every indication of a heavy barrage of motion picture litigation this fall."

Discussing exhibitor strike activities against Paramount, the bulletin continues: "Whether the local outbreak of strike activities against Paramount seeking adjustments on last season's contracts succeeds or fails, it does sharply call attention to one practice indulged in by all of the companies that is susceptible of grave abuses. This is the practice of not identifying any of the pictures on the exhibition contract, requiring that the distributor can arbitrarily assign the pictures to price groups as they please after the bargain is made and the contract is executed, and giving the exhibitor no voice in the matter whatever. This opens the door to and invites a number of abuses."

Discusses Paramount Situation

Reviewing radio from a competitive standpoint, Kuykendall says that "while the committee is not at liberty to disclose all of their activities, there has clearly been some improvement in the presentation of movie stars on the air, and there is reason to believe that the improvement in presentation from this point of view will continue."

The M.P.T.O.A. also goes into detail on the credit extension plan by film carriers and the fight conducted by the exhibitor organization to continue the weekly payment system which has been in effect for years. Although other industries using motor service will revise billing plans beginning Oct. 1, the film carriers will continue their present custom and practice without interference.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Thin Ice"

(Twentieth Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—This is the kind of picture exhibitors like to think they would make if they were producers and producers would make nothing else but, if they could. It has what is commonly known as everything. There is the sparkling precedent of "One in a Million" and here is Sonja Henie, who skates not only as well but better and has learned a good deal about acting and the language in the interim.

Opposite her is Tyrone Power, whose box-office name has been linked with hers in romantic publicity and both do, or at least will get credit for doing, a lot of plain and fancy skiing between alternately comic, musical and spectacular episodes with which the picture bristles. If the production doesn't equal or surpass its predecessor as a money maker, Hollywood can throw away its statistics and get a ouija board.

Miss Henie's skating is, of course, the utterly perfect thing around which the picture is built and this time she has in three major production numbers the support of an ice ballet of possibly 150 almost as flawless on runners as the Music Hall Rockettes in shoe leather. These production spectacles backgrounding Miss Henie's incredible solos set a new high in screencraft, and at no sacrifice of stellar glory.

Joan Davis stops the show and steals the picture with two comedy songs, "Olga from the Volga" and "My Swiss Hillbilly." Leah Ray is also given time to sing and there are both time and crisp lines for Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn and Alan Hale to do themselves proud in the humor department. The screenplay by Boris Ingster and Milton Sperling from a play by Attila Orbok sets forth with unfamiliar variations the familiar predicament of the prince who would marry the commoner and in this case does in spite of his prime minister and under circumstances which are not only pleasant but logical. Associate Producer Raymond Griffith and Director Sidney Lanfield have earned public and professional tribute for demonstrating at long last how to make the traditional royal dilemma work out both right and happily.

Three of the four songs are by Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell and the other which scored the biggest hit at a mixed preview is by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel. The dances and presumably the ice ballets are by Harry Losee. Louis Silver's musical scoring is a separate triumph and the photography by Robert Blanck and Edward Cronjager is as distinctive as the subject matter.

Running time, 79 minutes. "G."

Cohen on Saturday would neither confirm nor deny that negotiations are under way for the New Jersey group.

The most recent acquisition by Cinema Circuit was the New Amsterdam, which has been sought by Loew's, RKO, Consolidated Amusements, B. S. Moss and Harry Brandt. Cohen closed a deal for the theatre back in April, but announcement was held up until Decoration Day.

During the time he signed the contracts and issued an announcement, the exhibition interests mentioned had made offers for the property. He will bow out of the Selwyn on Aug. 31 and the following day Brandt will take it over.

Looking 'Em Over

"Spanish Earth"

(Prometheus Pictures)

There is a stark simplicity and the clear picture of utter truth in this view of the Spanish conflict, one which tells its poignant story with a striking minimum of fanfare and trumpets, even a minimum of accompanying narrative.

It is not the tumult and the shouting, but rather the sharply focused and highly significant picturization of the effect of such a war as this on the common people, the men, women and children who have been caught in the center of battle, and others who, freed of the landed proprietors, work to irrigate their long dry soil in a small village.

Actually, it must be said that the film tells but one side of the story, that of the Government forces in the conflict. Likely enough, there is another side, but that other, surely, has not had the experience of non-combatants slaughtered and living in constant dread of the next bomb or shell.

Joris Ivens produced the film, which is offered under the sponsorship of Contemporary Historians, Inc. Ernest Hemingway prepared the narrative and delivers the commentary, and it is an achievement of startling effectiveness in its simplicity and incisiveness. John Ferno merits credit for the photography, and Archibald MacLeish and Lillian Hellman assisted in the preparation of the finished film.

Highlighting the production are the brilliant flashes, technically and photographically, as the camera catches the expression of worry, fear and resignation on the face of a Madrid woman, child in arms, after shells have torn into the city; the grim faces of soldiers moving into battle; the shell which strikes down small boys in a Madrid street searching for metal scraps in the wreckage caused by a previous shell. Contrasted is the simple activity of the farmers irrigating their land, the Spanish earth. It may lack complete objectivity in its account, but the film is a sharply etched picture of war, nonetheless.

Running time, 58 minutes. "A."

Dutch Federation in Conflict with Metro

By PHILIP de SCHAAPE

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 12.—A controversy between M-G-M and the Dutch M. P. Federation is threatened here, as a result of the expressed intention of the film company to build a theatre in this city.

In 1935 the Federation determined that permission must be obtained from it before the construction of a new theatre. At the time there was considerable opposition from distributor sources, but the Federation's general membership voted approval of the recommendation of the managing board despite the objections. The measure was designed to halt the serious competitive situation which had arisen within the industry.

The plan was extended in October, 1935, since exhibitors form a majority of the membership of the Federation. There are about 300 exhibitors and 30 distributors in Holland.

M-G-M has formed the N. V. Niger Co., with F. L. D. Strengholt, M-G-M manager in Holland, as its manager. M-G-M claims that the theatre has nothing to do with the film company.

The Federation management contends that M-G-M is attempting to drive through its plan to build the theatre, without regard to the regulations of the body. The Federation has declared further that M-G-M is the only company protesting the actions of the Federation.

The outcome of the controversy is still very much in doubt, with talk of a possible boycott against M-G-M being instituted by the Federation if the company persists in its present course.

Oklahoma Youth Put Back in "New Faces"

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22.—An employee of the RKO-Radio exchange here snipped the film "New Faces of 1937" and inserted a little coil of celluloid air-expressed to here from Hollywood.

Now Rene Stone from Purcell, Okla., whose scenes were cut from the film before it played here, will be seen in all the state theatres.

Stone, former Oklahoma University student, whose songs had been cut, is back in "New Faces" because Mrs. Pearl Dooley, manager of a theatre at Purcell, told the president of RKO-Radio pictures expressly what she wanted.

Rene had been publicized as one of the young actors who would get his first break in "New Faces." Mrs. Dooley, so far as publicity goes, went to town. No cabin along the river was without information about Purcell's Rene.

To Build at Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 22.—A building permit for a $15,000 theatre at 206 W. Rene Ave. has been issued to State Theatres, Inc. The theatre, to be built by the M. A. Swatek Construction Co., will be ready by Oct. 1, according to T. B. Noble, president of the theatre corporation. It will seat 500.

Reopen Ohio Theatre

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Aug. 22.—The Columbia, one of the oldest houses in the upper Ohio valley, has been reopened after complete modernization. The house had been dark for two weeks to permit improvements estimated to have cost $15,000.

"Winkie" Hits $9,250, High Seattle Gross

Bar Bridgeport House

BRIDGEPORT, Aug. 22.—The board of appeals on zoning has rejected three petitions for neighborhood theatres during the last two months. Latest request to be turned down was that of Nathan Bassett who sought to build a theatre in the North End. The site chosen by Bassett was the same as refused Walter Blank a few weeks ago. Blank is considering legal action to force permission. The board has announced it will not consider another application for the site for 12 months.

To Build at Charleston

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 22.—A general contract has been awarded for the construction of a new theatre on the site of the Academy of Music by Albert Sottile, president of the Pastime Amusement Co., operators of the Gloria, Garden, Victory and Majestic.

Work is to be started Aug. 30 and the contract calls for completion in 150 calendar days at an estimated total cost of $160,000.

Breakdown of Hoyts—Union Deal Foreseen

No Renewal Anticipated In Australia

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, Aug. 3 (By Air Mail via London).—Nothing official has been announced, but the industry here has enough to go on to take it for granted that the five-year partnership between Hoyts and Greater Union Theatres will not be extended at the end of December. This will mean a renewal of the lively competition between these two circuits which characterized their operations before the creation of the holding company, General Theatres Corp., nearly five years ago.

It is known that executives and staff of Greater Union have been told by the board that they will be independent of Hoyts in 1938. No such announcement has been made officially

Hitchcock Predicts Quality Quota Films

The new British quota regulations will result in the establishment in England of a new production branch of the American industry, Alfred Hitchcock, Gaumont British producer, said yesterday on his arrival here from London on the Queen Mary.

Hitchcock said that in his opinion the cost provisions of the proposed act make it impractical for American companies to continue the production of so-called "quota pictures," and that as a result all companies will make quality productions only.

The British producer said that there is still a possibility that Gaumont British will continue to produce its own pictures in addition to the output of Gainsborough, its subsidiary. At present, however, Hitchcock is the only producer still under contract to Gaumont, he said. His contract expires

K. C. Revives Move to Raise Theatre Rates

Women Are Charged for Giveaway Tickets

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—Talk of raising admissions has been revived by individual exhibitors here. Many of the independents feel that a hike in prices is overdue, and some of them here are moving independently in that direction.

C. H. Potter, who operates the Baltis, Murray and Admiral, has increased the Baltis admission from 15 to 20 cents on Sundays. Although he did not gain in revenue, which indicates that the number of patrons decreased slightly, he has accomplished the increase without loss during the worst box-office season, and expects to show revenue gains when business picks up in September.

Only one or two theatres in Kansas City, Mo., do not give premiums or money, or both. Some exhibitors

Twenty Warner Zone Managers Meet Here

About 20 zone managers yesterday met with Joseph Bernhard, general manager of Warner theatres, summarized business during the past three months and discussed the outlook for the next 90 days. Many men stayed over and will spend today on film deals, bookings and negotiating stage show talent.

There will be no general move to increase prices, it was stated following the meeting. The circuit has been hiking admissions where desirable in the past three years and zone managers individually decide on boosting scales after studying local conditions, it was said.

Canadian Managers Convene at Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Managers of 73 theatres located in eastern Canada attended the first session of the three-day annual Famous Players Canadian convention which opened today at the King Edward Hotel. After a general welcome and instructions, the delegates were divided into three pre-arranged groups to hold round table discussions.

The discussions were divided into three topics: Head office direction; maintenance, which includes, projection, sound and ventilation, and op-

Change Makeup

Hollywood, Aug. 23.—Charlie McCarthy failed in his first Technicolor test for "The Goldwyn Follies."

He has to have his face repainted because it is too ruddy for color photography. The new coloring will be a removable paint job.

Circuit Talks Start On Operators' Scale

Major circuit operating heads and Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, and a committee of eight, yesterday held their first meeting at C. C. Moskowitz's office to discuss terms for projectionists for the next two years.

Under the 10-year master contract signed two years ago, provision was made to setting up new scales every two years. In the event of a deadlock, three arbitrators are to be called in to settle disputed points.

Another meeting is scheduled to be held later in the week. However, it was stated that no definite agreement is expected for several weeks.

Contract Is Signed For N. Y. Exchanges

The Film Exchange Employees' Union, Local B-51 of the I.A.T.S.E., yesterday signed a contract stipulating wage terms for the employees of all eight major companies' New York exchanges. The union claims a membership of 400 and declared yesterday that the contract represents wage increases for its members of from 10 to 45 per cent.

The signing of the contract followed weeks of negotiation. Lew Johnson is president of the union, which was represented in the negotiations by Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, the projectionists' union; Frank Ruddock, vice-president of 306, and John Gately, representative of the I. A. T. S. E. All employees in the

Rules All Drawings In Missouri Illegal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 23.—Assistant Attorney General Franklin E. Reagan has ruled that "surprise nights and similar schemes," which involve a drawing and the award of a prize on the basis of the drawing, are in violation of Missouri lottery laws.

Ruling on the issue at the request of W. G. Stillwell, prosecutor of Marion County, Reagan said he thought the requirement that the participant go to the theatre to register was enough consideration to make the scheme a lottery.

Clearance Not Being Changed In N. Y. Area

Deny Roxy Seeks 50-Mile Radius of Protection

Clearances in the first and subsequent run situations in Greater New York are not being disturbed in the new product deals being made by major companies, it was learned yesterday.

Several requests to change the first runs in neighborhoods are understood to have been made, but exchanges are reported in favor of keeping present schedules.

In the deals completed by Century Circuit with United Artists and 20th Century-Fox, no changes in clearances are being effected. The same circuit has negotiations under way with Paramount for next season's output, but as yet the clearance situation hasn't come up.

Although the Roxy was said to be demanding a 50-mile clearance on all 20th Century-Fox product, this is denied by interests involved. The Music Hall is the only theatre given this kind of protection.

Pettengill Quitting As Congress Member

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Representative Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana, author of anti-block booking legislation and last year chairman at lengthy hearings on the subject, says that when his present term in Congress expires he will not run for reelection, but will return to the active practice of law.

Pettengill, who has served continuously since 1931, has been a prominent member of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, and has made exhaustive

Si Fabian's Deal on Brooklyn Strand Set

Si Fabian has set his deal with Warners to continue the Strand, Brooklyn, in the three-theatre pool which includes the Paramount and Fox. Negotiations were recently completed with Y. Frank Freeman for the Paramount. Both are one-year extensions of present agreements.

No change in policies for the Brooklyn houses are contemplated and there are no plans for reviving vaudeville, although timely stage attractions may be booked from time to time.

One Out of Four

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 23.—"Artists and Models," in its opening day at the Paramount here, is said to have set a new first day record, drawing 4,000 people, in a town with a population of 17,000. It figures to about one out of every four persons.

Typing All Players For Col. Musicals

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Columbia has started a canvass of its entire player list of 68 contract people to retype them according to their possibilities in forthcoming musicals. They will be given auditions and rated as to suitability for singing roles by a board composed of Bobby Mayo, casting director; Morris Stoloff, music head, and his aides, Ben Oakland, Paul Mertz and Mario Silva.

The musicals on Columbia's list include "All-American Sweetheart," "Freshmen Follies" and "Paris on Broadway," the last to be the Dolly Haas American debut.

"Horizon" Book Out

Columbia's pressbook on "Lost Horizon" is now in distribution. The cover, which is printed in colonial blue and gold, opens to reveal an impressive double-page illustration of the huge set depicting Shangri-La, legendary lamasary in the interior of Tibet.

This is followed by 40 pages describing the picture, the plot of the James Hilton novel from which it was adapted, the players, technicians, excerpts from reviews in all the principal countries of the world, descriptions of various roadshow campaigns, marquee photos, advertisement mats with key numbers, and finally, in the form of an insert, an outline of Columbia's cooperative publicity campaign.

Default Decrees Given

Default decrees were granted by Federal Judge Samuel Mandelbaum in the U. S. District Court yesterday to the RKO Distributing Corp., the Van Beuren Corp. and 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. against the Amusement Parkway, Inc., Isidore Liebman and Edward Stiegel, operators of the Parkway, for alleged unauthorized exhibition of the plaintiffs' pictures. Judge Mandelbaum awarded RKO and Van Beuren $500 damages with costs and 20th Century-Fox $250 damages and $100 for attorney fees with costs.

Hickey on Vacation

Leo Hickey, U. S. District Attorney for the eastern district, is vacationing at Southampton, L. I., and will not return to his Brooklyn headquarters until tomorrow. Meanwhile, informal inquiries into the Brooklyn and Jamaica clearance situations have been suspended.

"Dead End" Tonight

Samuel Goldwyn's "Dead End" will open tonight at the Rivoli. The first night audience will include Sylvia Sidney, star of the film, and a group of notables.

Theatre Group Talks
Aids for the Stage

Plans in furtherance of the program developed at the national convention of the American Theatre Council for the aid of the legitimate stage were discussed yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Astor attended by about 40 representatives of actors', producing managers' and theatre labor organizations.

Committees were appointed to prepare plans for a national theatre festival to be held here next August and to develop arrangements to facilitate theatre attendance. Among the arrangements to be worked out are the establishment of ticket agencies in suburbs, "early curtain nights" for commuters and special theatre trains for outlying suburbs.

Louise Sillcox, executive secretary of the Dramatists' Guild, reported on a fellowship to be made available by John Golden to encourage new playwrights. Additional fellowships are expected to be established by the theatre council later.

Approximately 500
At Warner Showing

Approximately 500 local exhibitors, their families and friends yesterday attended the first of a two-day Warner trade showing at the New Amsterdam roof. Features shown included "Varsity Show" and "That Certain Woman." There were also a number of shorts on the program. The showings end today with "The Life of Emile Zola," "Back in Circulation" and "It's Love I'm After" on the schedule.

Other trade shows are being held in 30 key cities.

Indiana Show Attended by 350

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 23.—About 350 exhibitors from Indiana and part of Kentucky attended the first day of the Warner Bros. national exhibit at the Ritz here today when features and shorts were shown. The exhibit will continue tomorrow. Fred Greenberg, Vitagraph branch manager, is in charge of arrangements.

Mayor to Open Showing

VANCOUVER, Aug. 23.—Mayor G. C. Miller will officially open the two-day Warner showings at the Stanley Sept. 13-14. The Canadian showings have been delayed until next month due to a shortage of prints at the present time.

J. J. Sullivan Gaining

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer who became ill while attending the four-day National Theatres convention in Colorado Springs, is recuperating at his home. He is scheduled to return to New York again to complete a number of film deals, but may call it off.

Meanwhile, no successor has been appointed to fill Al Hanson's post as assistant to Charles P. Skouras.

G. B. Picks Release Title

"The Girl Was Young" has been chosen by G. B. as the final title for the Alfred Hitchcock production starring Nova Pilbeam. The film is based on Josephine Tey's novel, "Shillings for Candles." Percy Marmont is also featured.

"Can't Have," Duchin Loop's Hit, $59,000

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—"You Can't Have Everything" on the screen and Eddie Duchin and orchestra on the stage gave the Chicago plenty of box-office material last week and the house scored a terrific $59,000 gross, which was $27,000 above average.

The Garrick with "Wee Willie Winkie" took in $7,000 for the week to beat par by $500 and the return of "The Good Earth" to the Loop at popular prices gave the United Artists $18,000, which was $3,000 better than normal. The State-Lake, with "Border Cafe," was in the money with a $14,300 gross, or $1,300 better than average.

Total first run business was $155,000. Average is $128,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 19:

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING" (20th-Fox)

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Bad Boy"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Produced and presented without ostentation, this Tom Reed production, directed by Edward Cahn, offers Bruce Cabot in a characteristic role and lets the story, which is in the nature of "born-to-do-wrong" proof that heredity is stronger than environment, bear the burden of entertainment. Although well integrated and coordinated, the picture probably will take secondary position on most double bills that include it.

The story concerns foster brothers, played by Cabot and Edward Norris, employed as trouble shooters by an electric company. Cabot kills a man and is sentenced to death, but has his sentence commuted to life imprisonment and is released on parole. Norris strives to reform him, but Cabot is unregenerate and returns to jail. Norris aids him in escaping, they are pursued by police, and Cabot meets death accidentally when he comes in contact with a high tension wire. Virginia Grey plays the girl with whom Norris is in love and whom Cabot covets. Cliff Edwards, Warren Hymer and Charley Grapewin provide substantial support.

The screen play is by Earl Felton and Harry Ruskin, based on a story by J. Robert Bren, Kathleen Shepard and Hal Long. A good deal of incidental content having to do with electrical apparatus is independently interesting.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

"All Over Town"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Olsen and Johnson are hilarious on the stage and they have many house attendance records to their credit. Unfortunately, their brand of humor fails to congeal in a well defined film style for "All Over Town," but it will, nevertheless, satisfy their fans who desire to see them in films, as well as on the stage. For territories where the pair's pull is not great, "All Over Town" probably will take position on the bottom half of a dual bill. The preview audience at the Fairfax here, judging by the scarcity of applause, apparently didn't like the production.

The story is a hodge podge of gags, antics of a trained seal—pet of Olsen and Johnson, mistaken identity, a murder, a stage show, a radio broadcast, and a gunfight between the murderer and the police. It is Variation 3CZ of Filmusical Plot No. 1, which is best described as telling of the efforts of an impecunious producer, with a lot of talent available, who is trying to produce a show.

James Horne directed the Jack Townley-Jerome Chodorov adaptation of the Richard English original. Leonard Fields produced. The production marks the inauguration of the studio's new sound equipment, and the mechanical arrangements have provided a sound track comparable to the best.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Frudenberg in Dark

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23.—Although expressing himself as welcoming any news indicating the revival of vaudeville, Arthur M. Frudenberg, division manager RKO Midwest, stated he had no information from his New York headquarters of any connection of his division with the new Hirst circuit, in which eastern dispatches said Cincinnati would be included.

The RKO Shubert is scheduled to resume vaudeville early in October, but nothing has been announced as to the source from which the acts will be supplied.

Session in N. H. Ends

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—The New Hampshire legislature has closed following a hot 33-week session, eight weeks longer than New Hampshire's record of last year and longer than any other sitting in the country this year. An early Sunday opening bill failed to pass, while a bill favoring statewide use of daylight saving time was approved.

Set Tri-State Sessions

DES MOINES, Aug. 23.—G. Ralph Branton, general manager of the Tri-State Theatres Corp., has set the dates of three district meetings for Tri-State managers. The first will be held in Des Moines Aug. 25. A. G. Stolte is manager of the Des Moines district. The second district meeting is to be in Omaha Aug. 27, with Evert R. Cummings, district manager, and the third in Davenport, Aug. 30 with Joe Kinsky, district manager, in charge.

Exhibitors Meet Aug. 30-31

DENVER, Aug. 23.—The Theatre Owners and Managers of the Rocky Mountain Region, Inc., will hold its second annual convention at the Cosmopolitan Hotel here Aug. 30 and 31. The second day will be devoted to a special outing at the Cherry Hills Country Club. Gerald Whitney is chairman of the arrangements committee. A. P. Archer is president of the organization.

spend more on premiums than on film. Inasmuch as premiums are worth at least five cents and as much as 10 and 11 cents, the effect on admission so far as the exhibitor's net is concerned can readily be seen.

Potter has gone a long way to solve the problem by charging an extra five cents at the Baltis and Murray to those women who want the premiums. Gross receipts have not declined on giveaway nights, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, but his actual outlay on premiums (at eight to eight and a half cents apiece) is about 35 per cent less. Only women who want premiums now are getting them; they are helping to pay for them, and Potter saves the difference. That difference has put the two houses in the black on those nights; they were in the red. Competitive theatres near each of the houses still are giving premiums at regular admissions.

Men Placated

Men formerly complained about paying a higher admission than women since the latter were getting dishes in addition to the show. Potter's idea has eliminated these complaints.

Homer Pautz, who operates the Sun, another independent suburban house, also is charging an extra five cents admission for silverware premiums, and has had good results from the practice.

The outgo for theatres is increasing. Distributors are making bigger pictures for which they are asking more money. Nearly every theatre in Kansas City, Mo., plays doubles. Although a contract has not yet been negotiated with the Theatre Employees local, I. A. T. S. E. affiliate, increased operating costs are almost inevitable.

The key to the situation lies with the first runs. Subsequent run exhibitors are not expected to move until the 25 cents night, Sunday and holiday balcony-prices are increased. All five first runs now are on that basis.

Admissions Low

Kansas City admissions are well below those of the national average. On the basis of seating capacity, the average for Kansas City, Mo., is slightly over 18 cents. The average for subsequent runs is 16 cents. This does not take into consideration giveaways of all kinds.

Almost one-half of the approximately 57,000 seats in Kansas City, Mo., sell for 15 cents or less.

In Kansas City, Kan., 11,443 seats sell for an average of 15½ cents apiece. The average for subsequent runs in Kansas City, Kan., is between 13½ and 14 cents, although in general they play ahead of theatres in Kansas City, Mo., in the same admission spot.

This is lower than a year ago, because in the intervening period Kansas City, Mo., first runs all have gone to 25-cent balcony scales.

SANTA BARBARA, CAL., Aug. 23.—Anne Shirley, actress, and John Howard Payne were married here yesterday.

Your Customers!

ARE YOU GIVING THEM THE LIGHT THEY MERIT?

The response of theatre patrons is ample justification for securing the best feature pictures obtainable. It proves that the theatre-going public seeks out the best. But the theatre patron is critical and is not satisfied with a good picture, poorly screened. Expensive features merit the best light.

The best projection is provided by a steady, snow-white light of sufficient intensity on the screen for clear definition in the presence of a comfortable level of supplementary illumination. This means High Intensity Projection.

Give your expensive feature the advantage of the best possible lighting,

HIGH INTENSITY LIGHT

*It costs little but adds much to the satisfaction

Single Bills Score In Des Moines Test

DES MOINES, Aug. 23.—Tri-State Theatres' test, started in April in two of their better class theatres here to determine the preference of the public for single or double features, as shown by the box-office, has ended, with single bills scoring the victory.

The Roosevelt, a suburban theatre in a high class neighborhood, continued to use the single feature and the Des Moines, a downtown theatre, has been presenting the same high class feature as shown at the Roosevelt with an additional selected feature.

It was found that families taking their children went to the Roosevelt, showing the single feature and that persons downtown, who wanted to see that feature, went to the double picture at the Des Moines. A. G. Stolte, district manager for Des Moines, said they found the public will not refuse to go to a double feature house for a picture they want to see but will complain about the extra feature. Starting Aug. 19, both the Des Moines and Roosevelt went back to the policy of showing the same single feature accompanied by shorts, and will keep it so, as they felt the test decided that the Des Moines public prefers outstanding shows as single features accompanied by shorts.

Release N. O. Tax Total

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—City officials had steadfastly refused to make public receipts from the tax on film theatres on the ground that "it might hurt the theatres" until last week when Richard R. Foster, director of public welfare, was forced to give figures to the public to offset charges that the cost of administration (salaries of workers, etc.) was 80 per cent of collections.

Foster stated that the tax of two per cent netted the city $42,252.39 for the first six months of 1936. The cost of maintaining the welfare body, not relief, for the same period was $126,672.49.

erating problems, including booking policies and advertising.

Those leading the discussions included R. W. Bolstad, R. Darby, J. A. Troyer, C. A. Dentelbeck, B. Geldsaler, James Nairn, Ben Cronk, B. Whitham, R. Dale and others.

The convention will continue through Tuesday and will close with a picnic at Charlie Mavety's Circle B. ranch at Kleinburg.

It was announced at the convention that Leonard Bishop had been appointed manager of the Capitol, Halifax, instead of Loew's, Montreal, and that Howard Knevels, formerly at the Regent, Ottawa, would go to Loew's Montreal.

Monogram Seeks Singer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23.—Monogram plans to conduct a nationwide search for a young baritone to play the role opposite Movita in "Land of the Sky Blue Water," in which will be featured the melodies of Charles Wakefield Cadman. It will be Monogram's first musical.

Five New Spots Open Soon Near St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23.—Five new theatres will shortly open in the nearby territory. Construction work and alterations are being rushed in anticipation of the approaching season.

The Webster Groves Theatre Corp. is erecting a new house in Webster Groves, Mo. The other four theatres are being built in adjoining Illinois. At Charleston, Ill., a 1,200-seater is under construction. It is due to open Dec. 1. The State in Princeton, Ill., will be reopened next month by the Alger Circuit. It has been closed for five years. Dominic Frisina is opening his second house at Greenville, Ill. The Joe Goldberg Co. of Chicago, has been engaged for the construction of a 650-seater in Morton, Ill., and the Frisina interests will build another new house on the site of the old Capitol in Springfield, Ill.

New Firm Acquires Orpheum in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Aug. 23.—A new local company known as the Tri-State Amusement Co., will take over the Orpheum, closed since late May, and reopen it Sept. 19 with a combination stage and film policy.

Chalmers Cullins, stage manager at the Orpheum as well as a producer and booking agent, will have charge of the operation. He is one of the incorporators along with K. G. Kinkle, L. G. Bender and Hugh Stanton. The latter, a prominent attorney, will serve as president of the company.

The Orpheum, a local white elephant since it was given back to Memphis bondholders following the RKO Orpheum circuit receivership, has gone through many operations in the past several years, all successful in early stages, but failing to hold up over a long period.

Pathe Renews Lease On House in Denver

DENVER, Aug. 22.—Pathe has renewed its lease on the Pathe Theatre here for 12 years. The contract was recently negotiated by Robert Benjamin of the Phillips & Nizer office in New York. Benjamin stopped over on his way to the coast on the deal.

M. Briggs is manager of the house. He is no relation to O. Henry Briggs, president of Pathe.

Fox Midwest Building

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 23.—November 1 has been set tentatively by Fox Midwest for opening of its new 1200-seat Granada at Mt. Vernon, Ill. Construction has just been started. This house will give the circuit three in the town. It already operates the Royal and the Plaza.

Fox Midwest expects to open the Grand at Centralia, Ill., about the same time. This theatre has been dark for some time, and now is being remodeled, with new seats and equipment.

Pathe Seeks New Lens

Pathe is understood negotiating for the purchase of a special type lens and patents which can be used for photographing objects in miniature size and reproducing them in normal size. The lens and patents are owned by Courtland Smith, former president of Pathe News.

Lou Small, Orange Network business commentator, Wednesday will describe the growth of correspondence schools on his "Business on Parade."

CBS Increases Base Rate for Louisville

The major change on the new CBS rate card now in the mails, which will be effective Sept. 1, is an increase in the rate for Louisville on the basic network. The new one-hour rate for night spots is $450, compared with $400. Day rates are $225, compared with $200. Split periods have been increased in proportion.

Other changes in the basic supplementary network consist of the addition of Evansville, Ill., and Scranton, to the basic supplementary group, making a total of 16. The southeastern division has been enlarged by the addition of five cities. The south central division now has 12 stations compared with 10 in the previous listing. New additions are Knoxville, Tenn., and Meridian, Miss. The southwestern group declined from 10 to eight cities due to Little Rock being listed in the south central group and the combination of Austin and San Antonio.

The Florida, Canadian, northwestern, mountain, Hawaiian and Pacific coast groups remain as they were.

Sign George Marion, Jr.

George Marion, Jr., screen author who has been responsible for the Jack Oakie film stories, has been signed by R. J. Reynolds to write the scripts for the "Camel Caravan" program, which stars Oakie. The William Esty agency handles the account, and was responsible for the pact.

Renew Campana Program

The Campana Sales Corp.'s "First Nighter," presented in the interest of Italian Balm hand lotion, has been renewed for an additional 52 weeks, beginning Sept. 3. "First Nighter" is presented over the NBC-Red network Fridays at 10 P. M. Aubrey, Moore & Wallace, Chicago, is the agency.

Both NBC Networks Now in Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 23.—Full time coverage by both of its nationwide networks will be established in Birmingham by NBC Jan. 1, 1938, when WBRC becomes the Birmingham outlet of the NBC-Red network. WBRC will replace WAPI, which operates part time.

The addition of WBRC will provide radio listeners in the Birmingham area with a choice of two full-time services over separate NBC-Red network and NBC-Blue network stations. WSGN became the Birmingham outlet of the NBC-Blue network Aug. 1.

This arrangement for WBRC and WSGN on the NBC networks leaves WAPI in a position to switch over to CBS Jan. 1.

New Hecker Series Will Start Aug. 31

The new Hecker Products Corp. Mutual series, which will feature the King Features newspaper attraction, Beatrice Fairfax, in a program titled "Advice to the Lovelorn," will be heard Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays from 2:45 to 3 P. M., starting Aug. 31.

The stations which will carry the series comprise WOR, New York; WGR, Buffalo; WGAR, Cleveland; WHKC, Columbus; WIRE, Indianapolis; CKLW, Detroit; WGN, Chicago; KWK, St. Louis; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WBAL, Baltimore; WFIL, Philadelphia.

The program also will be offered at time as not yet determined on over stations WTIC, Bridgeport; WTAG, Worcester; WNAC, Boston, and WEAN, Providence.

The scripts will follow closely the column syndicated by King Features, and will consist of advice and dramatized problems. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn is the agency.

adopted to bring about a re-employment of union musicians in the industry.

Newspapermen present at the meeting were advised to leave the chamber due to the independent broadcasters' desire for privacy, with the promise made that a definite statement of policy would be given after the session of this afternoon.

It was learned, however, that Mark Etheridge, of the Louisville Courier, which operates WHAS, was elected chairman of the meeting. Major development of the meeting, it is understood, was the election of a committee which will represent the independent broadcasters in conferences with Joseph Weber, president of the A. F. of M.

Radio Artists Fail To Name Secretary

Officers of the American Federation of Radio Artists were unable to agree on the selection of a national executive secretary for the organization at their first meeting, held at Actors' Equity Ass'n headquarters yesterday. Although no official statement was issued following the meeting, it was learned from some of those who attended that several candidates were proposed for the post. The appointment is being deferred until a later meeting of the organization.

National organizing plans were discussed at the meeting as well as several proposals for inclusion in a program to be submitted to networks and advertising agencies for negotiation later.

Texas Station Joins Merchant Promotion

LONGVIEW, Tex., Aug. 23.—In an effort to bring more business to Longview, KFRO is presenting a program "We're In the Money," promoting a "buck" sale sponsored by local merchants. The merchants give out "bucks," an equal amount in "bucks" to the amount each customer purchases. These "bucks" will be of value in bidding on merchandise to be contributed by the participating firms which will be sold at auction late in October. Only "buck" may be used at this auction.

The program will be carried over KFRO for the next 10 weeks.

Stuhler Talent Head At Young & Rubicam

William R. Stuhler, in addition to his duties as director of the Young & Rubicam radio department, will take over complete responsibility for all talent buying for the agency, with Therese Lewis buying for the agency in New York and Joseph Stauffer handling the same assignment in Hollywood. Stuhler will maintain offices both in New York and California.

Clarence Olmstead has been made manager of the radio department with offices in New York. He will be assisted by Fred Wile, Jr. Wile, however, will not relinquish his post as director of radio publicity.

Tom Harrington will continue to be manager of the Young & Rubicam offices in Hollywood.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 23.—Gayle Grubb, manager of WKY and Neal Barrett, manager of KOMA, local station, have been named to a public relations committee in an intensified drive of the Oklahoma City Better Business Bureau against unscrupulous trade practices.

Herbert Lateau to KARK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 23.—KARK has added Herbert Lateau, newscaster of Oklahoma City, to its announcing staff. Lateau will join KARK Sept. 1 with full charge of news and dramatic broadcasts.

Lubs Joins Luckey Bowman

John H. Lubs has joined Lucky Bowman as account executive. Lubs operated his own agency for several years, and recently resigned from the U. S. Advertising Corp., New York office.

Charter Bay Broadcasting

DOVER, Aug. 23.—Bay Broadcasting Co. has been formed here to do an advertising business with a capital stock of 5,000 shares. Incorporators are Arthur M. Kriedmann, D. E. Newman and J. A. Hayes of New York.

Philco to Start New Contests on Sept. 6

A $50,000 cash radio mystery contest to be conducted through 200 stations will be launched the week of Sept. 6 by Philco Radio & Television Corp. on behalf of its radio tube division. The contest, called "Phyl Coe Radio Mysteries," will run 16 weeks, with one complete mystery presented weekly in a 15-minute broadcast.

A total of 2,016 cash prizes will be awarded weekly winners, with 51 grand prizes, also cash, at the conclusion of the series. The first grand prize will be $5,000.

Philco estimates the total cost of the radio campaign for the contest will be more than $500,000. Arthur P. L'Hommedieu, eastern sales manager of Philco's tube division, has been appointed contest manager. Material and advertising for the contest has been prepared by the Geare-Marston advertising agency, Philadelphia. The broadcasting will be done by transcriptions.

Philco to Test Program

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—Philco Radio & Television Corp. has planned a test spot series on WIP starting Sept. 7. It will be a transcribed mystery story script once weekly for 15 minutes. The account is handled by the local Julian Pollock Agency and placed for 16 weeks.

KMED Will Become 137th NBC Station

KMED, Medford, Ore., will become the 137th station in the NBC link, joining Sept. 15 as an optional member of either the Pacific Red or Pacific Blue networks.

KMED has a power of 250 watts, full time, and is owned by Mrs. Blanche Virgin. It is the only station in the Rogue River Valley area, and the nearest network stations to it are at Portland, Ore., and at San Francisco. The station was established in 1922.

To Broadcast at Iowa Fair

DES MOINES, Aug. 23.—WHO is decorating the Crystal studios in the varied industries building at the Iowa State fair grounds and will broadcast all of the daytime studio productions from there during the fair, including Sunday afternoon, Aug. 29. All of the announcers will be on duty at the Crystal studio from time to time. A daily review of special attractions will be broadcast each morning and a review of the day's happenings and prize winners each afternoon.

Coffey Goes to WELI

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 23.—Jay Coffey, WELI announcer and continuity writer, will join the continuity staff of WBRY, Waterbury, Sept. 1, replacing Maybelle Hinton, resigned. Succeeding Coffey at WELI will be Bill Farley, who has been on relief duty up to this time. Sid Goluboff, roving reporter of WELI, has been put in charge of press relations.

within the Hoyts ranks, but nevertheless each company is making preparations to be ready for the break in December.

The most vital issue at the moment lies in the outcome of each company's negotiations for film supplies. It is common gossip that during the recent visit to New York, Charles E. Munro, Hoyts' chief, received assurances from the major producing companies that they would sell to Hoyts, but whether these assurances went as far as the dotted line has not been stated. Hoyts, however, would definitely have 20th Century-Fox and United Artists. It is believed also that Hoyts will sign with RKO and Universal. Columbia is doubtful, but Union executives expect to close with Warners. Metro and Paramount have key situations of their own in the cities and would not be in a position to sell their top flight films either to Hoyts or Union. The latter company would likely take all the British product available with the exception of Gaumont British and anything turned out by its affiliated producing unit, Cinesound.

Thus it seems that with 20th Century-Fox, United Artists, RKO and Universal, Hoyts would only have to obtain either Warners of Columbia to be in a most advantageous position.

Wait Jack Warner to Approve London Plan

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Jack Warner will arrive here on Oct. 1 to give final approval to plans for the extension of the Warner-First National studio, Teddington, by two stages and the inauguration of big picture production by Warners in England.

A probability is that Warners, who made 15 pictures last year and have 20 scheduled for this, will make from 12 to 15 on a much more ambitious scale in 1938, releasing the majority in the United States.

British Lion's Loss For Year Is £14,016

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Aug. 23.—British Lion Film Corp., Ltd., has reported a loss for the year of £14,016, which compares with a profit last year of £12,093. Cash on hand for the year amounted to £236, comparing with £29,977 last year.

Films are valued at £77,017, against £117,813. Cash has been deposited in New York to cover the company's Republic contract to the amount of £50,457.

Attack Sunday Film Plan

MEMPHIS, Aug. 23.—The movement for Sunday films under the state local option law in Jackson, largest west Tennessee city next to Memphis, has met with vigorous opposition from ministers and church organizations of the municipality.

next May and he will make two pictures, both starring Nova Pilbeam, in the meantime. The company will have a minimum of 12 features for the new season for release in America by G. B., he said. Of these, 10 will be Gaumont productions and two will be from Gainsborough.

Hitchcock is here on a vacation trip and plans to remain in New York about 10 days before returning to England. He is accompanied by his wife, Alma Reville, who is a scenarist; their daughter, and Joan Harrison, his production assistant. Hitchcock said he would devote most of his time while here to seeing plays and looking for a new type of story for Miss Pilbeam's next pictures.

Maxwell Sees Value In New Legislation

LONDON, Aug. 13.—John Maxwell, at the annual meeting of Associated British Pictures, referred to the Government's proposals for new film legislation, saying: "I have no doubt that the legislation which will finally be passed will be such as will both strengthen the competitive power of the film production side of the business and enhance the quality of the entertainment provided."

Referring to recent film failures Maxwell said: "The last few years in film production have been disturbing arising from the fact . . . that the practically unlimited flow of easy money into the hands of inexperienced producers would lead to considerable difficulties . . . the belief which I indicated last year that these feverish and unhealthy conditions were passing away has been strengthened by recent experience."

exchanges except the management are said to be included.

The agreement, effective immediately, calls for a minimum wage of $24 for day workers and $26 for night workers. It was indicated yesterday that a drive will be started shortly to reach an agreement with the independent New York exchanges.

Expect New Boston Union

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—A union for theatre management staffs looms as the fourth new A. F. of L. local in the Boston industry. Exchange worker and theatre worker locals have already been formed, while organization of exchange office workers is soon to be started. Managers are known to be strong for organization in many instances, in the hope it will increase wages and shorten hours.

Stress Para. Strike

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23.—The I. T. O. of Ohio has mailed to all members postcards urging them to cancel existing playdates on Paramount product and to sign no Paramount contracts for 1937-'38. The members are reminded of "Paramount Week," Sept. 5-11, and urged to make cancellations during that period.

Ascap Lists 25,000 Songs for Air Users

An index of 25,000 song titles in use currently in broadcasting programs has been compiled by Ascap for distribution to all stations licensed by the organization. E. C. Mills, chairman of the Ascap administrative committee, said yesterday.

The initial 25,000 titles will be supplemented from time to time by others, both old and new, it was said. The titles are arranged in alphabetical order, together with the names of the composer, author and publisher and the year of copyright, if the listed composition has been copyrighted. The list also states whether or not

Guild Studio Scales Start Upon Notice

Expected to Begin Here
After September 1

Present indications are that the guild shop will be declared in effect in the east on 24 to 36 hours notice shortly after Sept. 1, it was stated at local headquarters of the Screen Actors' Guild yesterday.

Commercial producers here informed the guild office yesterday that they would sign contracts with the organization at once, and with major producers already signed up the guild is prepared to declare a "closed shop" in local studios on short notice. No agreements have been reached yet, however, with Educational or The March of Time. Sept. 1 has already been set as the deadline for signing of smaller independent producers here.

The guild office yesterday received checks from Republic to cover wage deficiencies for approximately 150 persons used in "Manhattan Merry-Go-Round" sequences filmed at the Biograph studio several weeks ago. Due to a misunderstanding amicably settled with the guild later, Republic paid off the players on the old instead of the new eastern studio wage scale.

National Booking Legitimate Shows

National Theatres has inaugurated a new policy of booking legitimate shows and concerts with Aubrey Schenck, assistant to William T. Powers, film buyer, in charge of the department. The move was decided upon following a successful trial by Al Finkelstein in the Portland group of theatres last year.

A. W. Smith to Be Queried in Probe

A. W. Smith, Jr., general sales manager for United Artists, is reported as scheduled to be the next sales executive to be called for informal questioning by Leo Hickey, U. S. District Attorney for the eastern district, in the reported complaint by Century Circuit on clearances in Brooklyn and Long Island.

Both Hickey and Smith have been out of town, the former on vacation and due back today, and the latter touring southern exchanges on business. According to U. A. attorneys, no notification has been received for Smith's appearance at Hickey's office.

Although Smith has been with United Artists for more than a year, Hickey, it was reported, is anxious to query him in regard to a deal Warners made with Century Circuit when the distributor sold away from RKO in a number of first run spots in Greater New York.

At the time the deal between Warners and Century was made, Smith was eastern and Canadian sales head for the distributing company, a post now held by Roy H. Haines. Haines then was metropolitan district manager. He has already been questioned by Hickey and may be called again

Para. Theatre Law Suit Due This Week

Indications are that Paramount's application for an injunction to restrain the state of North Dakota from enforcing its affiliated theatre divorce law will be filed some time this week, it was stated at Paramount yesterday. The completed legal papers were forwarded to North Dakota from here yesterday and will be made public as soon as they have been received and filed in the Federal court there.

The action includes a test of the constitutionality of the state law in that the application for the injunction will be based upon the contention that the North Dakota law violates the due process clause and other provisions of the Constitution.

Wilby-Kincey Pact Talks Are Resumed

Negotiations for an extension of the operating agreement for the Wilby-Kincey circuit will be resumed with Paramount during the current visit here of R. B. Wilby and H. F. Kincey, it was stated at Paramount yesterday.

Discussions were begun in June by Wilby and Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, but were not concluded at that time. They were to have been resumed early in July, but other

Operators Ask 35-45% Raises From Circuits

De Luxe Projectionists
Want $2.55 an Hour

Increases ranging from 35 to 45 per cent are being sought by Local 306 at conferences now under way among major circuit heads and operators on a new wage scale for the next two years. Projectionists in de luxe theatres are now getting $1.86 an hour and under the new proposal seek to increase this to $2.55.

Joseph D. Basson, president of Local 306, and a committee of eight met with circuit heads Monday at C. C. Moskowitz's office, at Loew's, at which time they presented their demands. The union men based their demands on the fact that on two previous occasions operators were cut 10 per cent and then at a later date 25 per cent.

Union representatives contend that their demands not only will make up for the cuts but also will increase salaries slightly above the original scale.

Another meeting is scheduled this week, but no scale is expected to be worked out for several weeks. Unless a compromise is reached shortly, the matter will go before an arbitration committee as provided under the 10-year master agreement.

F. P. Canadian May Form Sound Service

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—Intimation that Famous Players Canadian will establish its own sound service department was noted today at the second day of the company convention being held here. Indications are that the company will open servicing offices in key centers equipped for inspection and maintenance and completely stocked with a supply of parts.

Delegates to the convention here include managers from Halifax to Winnipeg who are delving continually into

Universal to Show
Shanghai Bombings

Universal has decided to use the newsreel scenes taken of the Sino-Nipponese hostilities at Shanghai. Howard Winner, who was sent from the New York office to China, and George Krainukov, Far Eastern cameraman from Universal Newsreel, photographed many of the bombings and have escaped death several times. The film is now en route to Manila, where it will be placed on the China Clipper, bound for San Francisco.

Because of the brutality pictured in portions of the reel, Universal executives have decided to use a foreword in presenting the scenes. The foreword will read: "You are going to be shocked, but this is war."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Make A Wish"

(Lesser-RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—The latest starring vehicle for Bobby Breen is thoroughly enjoyable entertainment, which serves to make the singing youngster a real boy, and which should be eminently satisfactory film fare for the entire family. It has been done in unpretentious fashion, but has much of production value, and the name of young Breen and a supporting cast of popular names to sell.

The boy has an ingratiating personality, and one which draws the sympathy of the audience throughout. Basil Rathbone, as the composer of operettas who forms a warm friendship for the youngster and through whom he overcomes a growing staleness, plays a sympathetic role in his usual finished style. Marion Claire, as the boy's mother, is a recruit from the Chicago Civic Opera, and although her performance could stand a bit of polishing, she has a beautiful voice and an attractive personality.

For incidental comedy, supplied in dialogue by the late Al Boasberg, are Henry Armetta, Donald Meek and Leon Errol, while Ralph Forbes, as the stodgy fiancé of Miss Claire, presents what menace there is. The music is attractive and tuneful, with Oscar Straus as composer and Louis Alter and Paul Webster responsible for the lyrics.

The story, from an original by Gertrude Berg, who collaborated with Bernard Schubert and Earle Snell on the screenplay, finds young Breen at a boys' camp in Maine, there meeting Rathbone, composer trying to do a new operetta. Miss Claire, former singer, comes to see her son, and with her is Forbes. Rathbone meets and falls in love with Miss Claire, but she refuses his offer to be his prima donna, knowing it will mean the loss of Forbes. There is real entertainment in the scenes of the boys at camp, with Bobby doing considerable singing.

Rathbone goes off by himself, Meek, with Errol and Armetta, attempt to replace a lost third act, and everything seems hopeless until Bobby invades the producer's office, and with his mother supplies the music for the third act from memory, and Miss Claire triumphs, Forbes is out of the way, and Bobby is happy as his mother and Rathbone are together again.

Running time, 76 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Black Aces"

With this film Buck Jones delivers another western that should prove highly satisfactory to its proper audience. It rates among the best of this type with an exciting and well-handled story, plenty of stirring riding scenes, gun and fist fights, the whole set against beautifully filmed scenic backgrounds. The story is well paced and is plausible.

The community where Jones has his ranch is threatened by the delivery to various residents, of the ace of spades along with a demand for $10,000. Jones is something of a dumb hill-billy at the outset but after he loses his ranch in a card game and a man is murdered on his property right under his nose he decides to act. Aided by a neighboring rancher, he sets about hunting clues and eventually locates the crooks. A noisy bit of action ensues and the culprits are deposited in the sheriff's arms. Jones decides to give up his lackadaisical air, marry Miss Linaker and devote himself to the business of raising beef.

Miss Linaker does exceptionally well in a part that demands more of the heroine than the run-of-the-mill western. The support includes Fred Mackaye, W. E. Laurence, Robert Frazer, Raymond Brown, Charles Le Moyne and Charles King, the last named playing on the right side of the law for a change. The original story is by Steven Payne.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Approximately 125 members of the Universal Club will go to Jones Beach tomorrow for the organization's annual summer outing. The company's offices will remain open for the day although any employee who wishes may attend the affair.

Close Canadian Houses

TORONTO, Aug. 24.—Because of the spread of infantile paralysis, medical authorities here issued orders prohibiting admission of juveniles to theatres in London and Barrie, Ontario, and also have decided not to open schools Sept. 1 throughout the province.

Rocky Mountain Men
Convene Aug. 30-31

DENVER, Aug. 24.—The second annual convention of the Theater Owners and Managers of the Rocky Mountain Region will be held Aug. 30 and 31. Business sessions will occupy the opening day with the second day given over to the Screen Club picnic to be held at the Cherry Hills Country Club.

A. P. Archer, president, will preside. The subjects to be discussed and the speakers are: "The Future of the Theatre Industry," Rick Ricketson; "National Sales Policy," Louis Finske; "Purposes of National and Regional Theatre Organizations," B. P. McCormick; "Theatre Exploitation," Howard Federer; "Non-Theatrical Competition," Charles R. Gilmour; "Legislation," Harry Huffman; "Percentage Pictures and Preferred Time," Dave Cockrill, and "New Trends in Theatre Decoration," Cy Pennie.

More than 100 are expected at the regional Fox Intermountain convention to be held at the Park Lane Hotel, Aug. 31-Sept. 2. The sessions will be adjourned early on the opening day to give the men a chance to attend the Screen Club picnic. The following two days will be given over to business sessions under the direction of Rick Ricketson, division manager.

Gibraltar Enterprise, Inc., will hold its annual convention here at the Park Lane Hotel this week. Sessions are presided over by Charles R. Gilmour, president.

Jersey Allied Meet
Called Off by Rain

Allied of New Jersey yesterday called off its regular meeting at the Lincoln Hotel because of rain. The annual convention at Atlantic City, Sept. 22-4, was scheduled to be discussed, but this will come up next week.

Nathan Yamins, president of the national Allied organization, and Arthur K. Howard, business manager for Independent Exhibitors, Inc., of New England, are expected to arrive tomorrow to discuss the Paramount strike situation.

I.A.T.S.E. to Set Next Meet

The time and place for next year's annual convention of the I.A.T.S.E. will be decided in January, when directors of the international meet for this purpose. The organization recently held a 10-day meeting at Seattle during which Lou Krouse, assistant to George E. Browne, president, was named secretary and treasurer, succeeding the late Fred J. Dempsey. Krouse's new duties are in addition to his former post.

Russian Industry Is Scored for Failures

MOSCOW, Aug. 24.—The Russian film industry was attacked yesterday in Izvestia, Government newspaper, for the inadequacies in quantity and quality of the work turned out by the Russian studios. Chief object of the attack was Boris Shumiatsky, head of the industry, blamed for extravagance, misleading reports and mediocre films.

The paper noted the industry's changing production policy, from a plan based on fewer and better pictures, to a schedule of 800 features a year after Shumiatsky's return from a visit to the United States in 1936. Now, it is said, the industry plans only 156 films in 1942 under the third five-year plan. The newspaper leveled criticism, as well, on the industry's plan for a Russian Hollywood, declaring it would be a waste, since facilities are not available to make it a success.

Deny Talk Cinesound Will End Operations

SYDNEY, Aug. 4. (By Air Mail via London).—Refuting rumors that with Stuart F. Doyle's resignation, Cinesound, Australia's almost lone producing organization, would cease operations, Norman B. Rydge, chairman of directors of Greater Union Theatres and its affiliated companies, states that on the contrary the company will continue a regular production schedule and carry out its program.

"Tall Timbers," the company's latest enterprise, was well received at its preview, 200 exhibitors giving it rousing cheers at its conclusion.

RKO List to L. & J.

The 40 Georgia houses of Lucas & Jenkins have contracted for RKO's 1937-'38 product, Jules Levy, RKO general sales manager, stated yesterday. The deal, said Levy, was consummated by J. H. MacIntyre, southern district manager, and H. M. Lyons, Atlanta branch head.

St. Louis House Test Favors Double Bills

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24.—Audiences here favor double feature film programs, it is indicated by the reaction at the 5,000-seat Fox here in a test just completed. Theatre executives undertook to give the patrons both single and double bills on the same day and checked on the results.

The experiment was undertaken on Sunday, with two features shown at the first and last shows and only one during the day. Newsreels, cartoons and shorts also were used. The first showing, with the dual bill, went well, but on the single, there were strenuous objections on the part of many of the patrons.

"Artists" Is Kansas City's Top, $12,400

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24.—"Artists and Models" made the best comparative showing in a fair week for first runs, taking $12,400, $4,400 over the line, with "The Big Shot" at the Mainstreet. The second feature was dropped in the move to the Newman for a second week. Hot weather ended the last evening of the week.

Big money went to "Stella Dallas" and "The Devil Is Driving" at the Midland, where they took $13,800, $2,300 better than par. The Tower inched $200 over $7,000 average with "One Mile from Heaven" and a stage show, but $4,800 average for nine days, was considered good for a long second week of "You Can't Have Everything" at the Uptown. "Exclusive" and "Hoosier Schoolboy" took a disappointing $4,300 at the Newman where $7,000 is average.

Total first run business (exclusive of the Empress) was $42,200. Average is $38,300.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 19:

UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 9 days, 2nd week. Gross: $4,800. (Average, 9 days, $4,800)

"Topper" Beats Out Buffalo Heat Wave

BUFFALO, Aug. 24.—In spite of a heat wave that affected business generally, "Topper" pulled $15,000 at the Buffalo. This was $3,200 over normal.

The only other first run to make the grade was the Lafayette with "Trouble in Morocco" and "It Can't Last Forever" which took a par $5,000.

Total first run business was $38,000. Average is $37,200.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 21:

"TOPPER" (M-G-M)
BUFFALO—(3,600), 30c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $15,000. (Average, $11,800)

Looking 'Em Over

"A Fight to the Finish"

(Columbia)

An active, melodramatic type of yarn, this picture should prove satisfactory to the action fans as the lesser half of a double bill.

Containing little that is outstanding either in cast names or production, the picture relies on action and a somewhat familiar theme for its draw. It tells of a war between two rival groups in the taxi business in a large city and interlaces as much active material as possible, and a measure of romance.

The film is from an original by Harold Shumate, Columbia's specialist in this type of production, and the direction was in the hands of C. C. Coleman, who has maintained the pace creditably. Don Terry, in the lead, is supported by Rosalind Keith. Terry, taxi fleet superintendent, accidentally kills a man in a fight. Through the deliberate testimony of Ward Bond, his assistant, Terry is jailed for manslaughter, then paroled, while Bond gets his job.

Then, as Terry organizes the independents into a second company, the war starts, and he meets Miss Keith, a nurse, at the scene of an "accident" to one of his drivers. Against her advice, he permits Bond to trap him into a fight, with parole officers present, and becomes a fugitive when he escapes from them. But with the help of Miss Keith a trap is rigged for Bond, he is forced to confess to the murder for which Terry fought him, and the romance completes the film.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Backstage"

(Wilcox-G. B.)

An interesting and entertaining though not unusual treatment of the well known backstage romance idea is offered in this English production. Its chief selling features are Anna Neagle and Arthur Tracy, the "Street Singer." Jack Buchanan and Tilly Losch are also seen briefly. It is a well turned out musical that should find favor with most audiences.

Miss Neagle is a hoover in a musical show. On the opening night the featured tenor loses his voice. Miss Neagle hears Tracy doing his stuff outside the stage door and calls him in. In 20 minutes he learns a few songs and goes on to "wow" them. There follows the usual misunderstandings that arise from his spectacular success. He is taken around by a titled patroness and introduced to high society, to the envy and neglect of Miss Neagle, who has fallen in love with him. After a period with the show in London he goes on a continental tour. On his return there are further misunderstandings. Miss Neagle, meanwhile, has been given her chance with a featured part and the night she goes on her nervous aggravation tends to spoil things. But Tracy saves the show and explains away his actions.

The atmosphere connected with the title is present in generous and realistic quantities. Miss Neagle, in a rather hackneyed role, is altogether pleasing. Tracy's singing is familiar to all who have a radio. His acting could be greatly improved. Herbert Wilcox directed.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Randforce Men Shifted

In a shift of Randforce managers, Paul Binstock, formerly of the Republic, Brooklyn, is now at the Marlboro with Louis Shapiro assisting him. Herman Semel of the Marlboro is now at the Benson. Joseph Reisner, former assistant at the Marlboro, has been transferred to the Benson. Murray Alper also has been switched from the Marlboro to the Benson. Don Williams, who was at the Colonial, is now at the Carlton and Harry Margolesky has moved from the Carlton to the Leader.

McManus on Committee

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 24.—John McManus, manager of Loew's Midland, has been named a member of the publicity and promotion committee for the National Safety Congress, Oct. 11-15, which will bring 7,000 delegates here. McManus also is chairman of the subcommittee on theatres for the convention.

Ford to Make Short

Charles Ford will leave for the coast in two weeks to begin work on a short subject dealing with a tourist's viewpoint of Hollywood. The subject will be one of the "Going Places" series.

William Miller next week will begin shooting background material in New York for the next Deanna Durbin feature. He will take from two to three weeks to make the necessary shots.

Brandt in Knoble Chain

After several weeks of negotiations Harry Brandt yesterday signed contracts for the acquisition of a 50 per cent interest in the Ben Knoble circuit of eight theatres. Brandt continues to handle the booking and buying for the group, which includes the Embassy and Plaza, Mt. Vernon; Decatur and Bedford, Bronx; Schulyer and Greenwich, Manhattan; Liberty and Playhouse, Poughkeepsie.

has been booked in the Fox Inter-mountain group of theatres starting in November. Towns selected include Billings, Butte and Great Falls, Mont., which are under the supervision of Bill Steege.

The Grand, Topeka, will put on "Anthony and Cleopatra," starring Tallulah Bankhead, Nov. 26. It is a one-day booking. "Room Service" will be dated at Portland shortly and "Ziegfeld Follies" will start an engagement at Spokane Jan. 4.

All negotiations are being conducted with United Booking Offices here. In commenting on the plan Schenck said yesterday: "We are trying to give the public what it wants in the form of entertainment."

Report Saengers to Buy C. & C. Circuit

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—Persistent rumors here are to the effect that the Saenger interests will buy the C. & C. Enterprises operating 15 houses with headquarters in Shreveport. Executives of the two circuits could not be reached today for statements.

The report stated that C. & C. will be given the choice of selling or fighting.

Buys Mooresville House

MOORESVILLE, N. C., Aug. 24.—The Moor, which has been operated for the past few years by Walter Griffith, has been purchased by T. A. Little of Charlotte.

Dullzell to Direct Equity's Activities

Paul Dullzell, executive secretary of Actors' Equity Ass'n for many years, yesterday was designated to become the active administrative head of Equity upon the withdrawal of Frank Gillmore, Equity president, to head the reorganized Associated Actors & Artists of America.

Gillmore, who has held the dual posts of president of Equity and of the Four A's, which is the parent A. F. of L. organization for the theatrical field, will relinquish virtually all of his administrative duties at Equity about Nov. 1. The Equity counsel stated, following its meeting yesterday, that Dullzell was designated at this time "to eliminate confusion because of published reports as to the status of the administrative affairs of Equity."

Dullzell will retain his present title after assuming Gillmore's duties, the council said.

Would Halt Foreclosure

A suit to enjoin Producers Laboratories, Inc., from bringing foreclosure proceedings on the assets of the Academy Pictures Corp. was filed yesterday in the N. Y. Supreme Court. Today counsel for Victor Halperin, president of Academy, will ask Justice Ferdinand Pecora for an order temporarily restraining the proceedings pending trial of the action for a permanent injunction. Producers allege that they hold a lien on several of the Academy pictures and that steps already had been taken to auction them off in behalf of Producers. Academy argued that the liens in question have been repaid in full.

Vitaphone Fights Suit

Vitaphone Corp. will ask permission of Justice Ferdinand Pecora in the N. Y. Supreme Court today to examine before trial Sanford Green, composer, suing for $5,250. The plaintiff asserts that on Oct. 21 last Vitaphone gave him a contract insuring him a minimum of 44 weeks' work at $150 a week for the year beginning Nov. 14, 1936. On that date, Green alleges, he began his employment and on Jan. 15 after only nine weeks' work he was discharged in violation of the contract. In its answer Vitaphone sets forth that Green breached the contract.

Quashes Columbia Subpoena

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell quashed service of a subpoena on the Columbia Pictures Corp. of California, Ltd., in the infringement suit brought by Plain Talk Magazine, Inc., against it, Columbia Pictures Corp. and Screen Classics, Inc., in the U. S. District Court here yesterday. Justice Leibell ruled that service upon Jack Cohn, vice-president of Columbia, in New York, was improper because it was shown that the California corporation had no offices in New York. The plaintiff alleges that the short, "Norton, I, Emperor of America," was an infringement of its copyright. A permanent injunction, damages and an accounting of the profits were asked.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 24.—Harry S. McLeod once again has been named manager of the St. Charles here. N. D. Smith, formerly manager of the Liberty, is his assistant.

"Zola" Take $41,000 For 1st Eleven Days

"The Life of Emile Zola" grossed approximately $41,000 in the first 11 days on a two-a-day policy at the Hollywood. For the first four days the take was $15,137, and for the following seven days $25,620. The picture continues to do capacity business at all showings.

"You Can't Have Everything" finished a third week at the Rivoli yesterday with $18,000. "Dead End" opened last night for an indefinite run.

The Music Hall is aiming for a $100,000 gross on the first week of "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938." The figure for five days was $77,528 and indications last night were that the sixth day would add $13,000 to the total.

"Confession" ended its first week at the Strand last night with $16,000. The film is being held a second stanza, following which "Varsity Show" will start a three-week engagement.

"The Road Back" concluded a seven-day run at the Roxy with $41,000. "Gangway" will probably end tomorrow night with $26,000. The Astor, with "High, Wide and Handsome," took in approximately $5,000 last week. "Souls at Sea" in its second week at the Globe tallied $11,000.

A. F. M. Asks $5,500,000 More Salary

the committee by unanimous vote of those present.

Nearly five hours were devoted to the discussion of the questions involved. Weber is understood to have asked that the individual stations appropriate each for musicians' salaries three and one-half times the station's basic quarter hour rate. For instance, if the basic quarter-hour rate for a station is published as being $100, then the station would appropriate three and one-half times that amount, or $350 per week for musicians' salaries. This plan as outlined by Weber would bring about the reemployment of approximately 3,000 union musicians throughout America.

The committee returned to the main body of broadcasters who have been meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria since Monday morning and reported Weber's motion. What reaction this news caused from the 150 station owners is unknown, the members refusing to discuss the matter with the trade press at the close of the meeting late last night. Last night's session ended the broadcasters' convention. The committee however will remain in New York and will meet intermittently with Weber and the executive committee of the A.F.M. until the question is brought up for final settlement in mid-September. The broadcasters' committee has been voted the power to act officially in the matter.

WKBW, Buffalo, Ask For Power Increase

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Authority to increase power from 5,000 to 10,000 watts was asked today of the F.C.C. by WKBW, Buffalo.

The commission also received an amended application from the Great Western Broadcasting Co., seeking a new station at Omaha to operate on 1,500 kilocycles with 100 watts power.

Other applications filed with the commission included requests from KID, Idaho Falls, Ida., for increase of day power from 1,000 to 5,000 watts, and from KALB, Alexandria, La., for increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts.

Directors Hit Producer Plan On Agreements

Separate Bargaining Is Called Guild Threat

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—In a blunt letter to the producers' negotiating committee, Howard Hawks, Edward Sutherland and John Ford, representing the Screen Directors' Guild, yesterday charged that the producer offer to negotiate separately for bargaining agreements for directors and assistants, but not with one organization for both groups, was an attempt to force the dissolution of the guild.

Furthermore, the letter said, the board of directors of the guild is of the firm opinion that the guild should coordinate its activities, in the manner laid out in the bylaws, and that a meeting of the membership will be held Monday night to "consider the

Iowa Grosses Off; Remodeling Gains

DES MOINES, Aug. 25.—The hot dry weather in Iowa last summer made theatres, especially the air conditioned ones, a mecca for all trying to escape the heat and grosses were unusually good all over the state. The cooler weather this summer has made outdoor attractions more popular and exhibitors say the shrinkage in business is from 25 to 30 per cent. This was reported at a recent meeting of the Allied Theatre Owners of Iowa.

A contributing factor is the fact that farmers are much busier in the fields

Educational May Distribute Hays-Approved School Film

Educational Pictures may undertake to acquire from other companies all of the film properties selected by the May-M.P.P.D.A. educational films committee as suitable for school use and set up a national distribution system through which the films would be handled as a separate activity of the company, E. W. Hammons, Educational president, revealed yesterday.

Hammons has been engaged in a comprehensive study of the educational film field and its possibilities during the past few months, the results of which, he said, appear to justify the special activity "providing we could enter upon it on a large enough scale."

Hammons, who is also a member of the M.P.P.D.A. educational films committee of which Harry M. Warner is chairman and Stanton Griffis of Paramount is the third member, estimated that there will be 600 or 700 individual films approved by the May committee as suitable for school use. The committee is nearing the

All Film Exchanges Closed in Shanghai

The branch offices of every American distributing company in Shanghai are completely closed, business there is at an absolute standstill, and no film shipments are entering the city, as a result of the Chinese-Japanese conflict raging in and about the Chinese city, a checkup of major company home offices revealed yesterday.

As far as can be learned up to this time, there have been no casualties among American film employees. Typical of the moves by major companies when the fighting grew serious about Shanghai were those of Warners. Cables were immediately sent

Producers in France Attack Stars' Exodus

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The French production branch of the General Confederation of the French Cinema has adopted a resolution which states that "cooperative measures will be taken against French stars and technicians working abroad," which obviously is aimed at Hollywood.

Declaring that the situation created by the "systematic departure for foreign countries of French players and technicians" is harmful to the French industry, that the interests of distributors and exhibitors are also at stake, that it is through the efforts of the three industry branches that the players attain distinction, and that the public, which makes player success possible, is justified in "considering itself as the holder of a trust," the producers have decided that steps will be taken with regard to players and technicians who do not conform to two basic principles.

The first is that such talent accept

Broadway Tax Total Down $80,000 in July

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—A drop of more than $80,000 in admission tax collections from the third (Broadway) New York district in July as compared with June was reported today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Total receipts for the month were $472,497, against $552,841 in the preceding period. As compared with July, 1936, collections were off almost exactly $50,000.

In only two categories were tax col-

Production in Britain Undecided, He Says

Paramount will spend approximately $30,000,000 on the 50 to 52 features scheduled for the 1937-38 season, Adolph Zukor, chairman of the board, stated yesterday just before sailing on the Queen Mary for a six-week pleasure and business trip to Paris, London and the Riviera.

Among the big pictures to be included are "The Buccaneer" and "Wells Fargo," which are now in production, he said.

Asked about Paramount's production plans in England, Zukor asserted that he will look into the situation and develop the company's plan while in London. He added that he will talk to Herbert Wilcox, but nothing is definite in the way of producer or the number of pictures to be made in that country.

While in England, he will attend the premieres of "High, Wide and Handsome," "Souls at Sea" and "Artists and Models."

"I am spending all of my time in Hollywood now," he said, "planning productions which will meet with public approval. There will be several color pictures on Paramount's new

Projector Company And Erpi Near Deal

A deal by which International Projector will be licensed by Erpi to manufacture a projector complete with sound head may be closed within the next few days, it was stated yesterday by Herbert Griffin, vice-president of International Projector.

The license would grant the manufacturer the right to use Erpi's sound head patents for its new equipment. Indications are, however, that a new

Pickets Win

Chicago, Aug. 25.—Forty male members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mel Roman Catholic Church picketed the Hamlin when "Ecstasy" was the attraction. Manager Morris Salkin changed films after Mgr. F. A. Purcell protested and the pickets were removed.

This is the first time any objection has been shown by demonstration against "Ecstasy" here.

Toronto, and well known here, is now answering his correspondence, thereby indicating that recent siege of illness is considerably behind him.

LAURENCE BOLOGNINO of Consolidated Amusements is planning a vacation in Europe.

FRANK DAVIS of M-G-M left yesterday for the studios via American Airlines.

ARTHUR GOTTLIEB of Du Art Laboratories, is due back today from Toronto.

NATE MANHEIM is now sending postcards from the coast.

AL LICHTMAN plans to leave for the coast tomorrow.

JULES LEVY finally has gotten rid of those tonsils.

HENRY FONDA is on from the coast, at the Warwick.

Gordon, Goetz on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Max Gordon and Harry Goetz arrived here today from New York to discuss production and distribution plans for "The Women."

Deny Loew Redemption

Reports current yesterday that Loew's was planning to redeem 136,722 shares of preferred stock at $105 a share were denied yesterday by Leopold Friedman, secretary and legal head of the company.

Pathe Declares Dividend

Pathe's board of directors yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the $7 convertible preferred stock, payable Oct. 1 to stockholders as of Sept. 23.

"Winkie" Is Herald Champion for July

"Wee Willie Winkie," 20th Century-Fox film, scored first in the Box-Office Champions for July, as published in Motion Picture Herald, out today.

The other five features which rated places in the month's compilation of high grossing films were, in the order of their rating: "Saratoga," M-G-M; "Captains Courageous," M-G-M; "Slave Ship," 20th Century-Fox; "The Singing Marine," Warners; "Mountain Music," Paramount.

File Suit Over "Races"

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25. — Henry Barsha and Dave Weissman, writers, have filed suit against M-G-M, the Marx Brothers, Loew's Inc., and others connected with the production of "A Day at the Races," seeking $150,000 damages for alleged plagiarism of their script.

The plaintiffs allege that "High Fever" was submitted to the studio in 1935 and rejected five months later, and that "A Day at the Races" contains portions of the material.

Also named as defendants in the Federal court action are Al Lewin, producer, and Robert Pirosh, George Seaton and George Oppenheimer, writers.

Reserves Plea Decision

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday reserved decision on the action brought by Academy Pictures for an order restraining Producers' Laboratories, Inc., from bringing foreclosure proceedings on the assets of Academy, pending trial of the action for a permanent injunction.

Vitaphone Decision Reserved

Decision was reserved in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Justice Ferdinand Pecora on the plea of the Vitaphone Corp. to examine before trial Sanford Green, composer, who is suing the company for $5,250 for an alleged failure to live up to a contract.

Finish Jewish Film

Collective Film Producers, Inc., has completed shooting on "Green Fields," a Jewish talking feature. The cast includes several well-known players of the Jewish stage, including Hershel Bernadi, 13-year-old prodigy; Isadore Cashier, Anna Appel, M. Vodni, Helen Beverly and three players of the Artef Group. Edgar G. Ulmer and Jacob Ben Ami co-directed with Bill Miller and J. Burgi Contner at the camera. Production will be released September 17.

Trailers Boost "Zola"

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Warners are running trailers in all their local theatres advertising for the road-showing of "The Life of Emile Zola" at the Erlanger starting Aug. 29 and the current showing of "Brother Rat" on the stage at the Harris.

Ritz, Sr., Very Ill

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Max Ritz, father of the Ritz Brothers, today was taken to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for a blood transfusion because of kidney ailment. His condition is said to be critical.

U. A. to Start Drive

Starting Aug. 29, 12 United Artists western exchanges will inaugurate a five-week sales drive in honor of L. Jack Schlaifer's 25th anniversary in the business. The sales forces will concentrate on a campaign to double the business of last year at the same time. The drive will end Oct. 2. No prizes will be awarded, the drive being in the form of a testimonial in appreciation for the western division sales head. Schlaifer is now in Chicago and is due back in two weeks.

Halts Game Insurance

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—Assistant Police Prosecutor David C. Meck has ordered abandonment of the Dependable Pay Plan, recently introduced in Cleveland as Bank Night insurance. Prosecutor Meck labelled the scheme a lottery. Promoters, he warned, must either cease all operations or face warrants charging them with promoting a scheme of chance.

program. One will be "Man on Wings," which he described as the first air picture in color. William Wellman will direct.

Discussing musicals, Zukor stated that these are more difficult to make than dramatic productions. "Paramount pioneered in musical production about six years ago when Maurice Chevalier starred in "The Smiling Lieutenant." He plans to return the first week in October.

Sol A. Rosenblatt, former NRA administrator for the amusement industries, also was a passenger on the boat. He said he didn't see a prospect of a revival of the NRA at this time, but "I think it was a marvelous thing for the industry. All interests connected with the industry will admit that." He plans to be away three weeks on film, television and broadcasting matters. He said that while abroad he will discuss business for Transamerica Broadcasting Co., a Warner subsidiary. He would not discuss the nature of any of the deals. He will visit England and France.

Howard for Lawrence Role

Leslie Howard is en route to England to do a play and appear in "Lawrence of Arabia" for Alexander Korda on a loan from Warners. He said he didn't know when he would start working in the picture and that he hoped the play he will do in England will be brought to Broadway. He will be gone six months.

Raymond Massey made the boat just in time. He arrived yesterday morning by plane from the coast after finishing a scene Tuesday in "Hurricane" for Samuel Goldwyn. He said he will appear in two Korda films, one of which will be "Lawrence of Arabia."

Commenting on English production, Massey declared that British pictures will always have an individuality of their own. Producers in England turn out pictures with a tempo that is slower than American films, but they are of a type that needs "getting used to."

Stock Registration Filed by Ambassador

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Ambassador Pictures, Inc., yesterday filed with the S.E.C. here a registration statement covering 1,176,000 shares of $1 par capital stock.

Of the total, 600,000 shares will be publicly offered by C. B. Ewart & Co., Inc., as principal underwriters. Net proceeds from the sale of the stock, together with proceeds from the distribution agreements to be made and income expected from the pictures already released, will be used in the financing of the 1937-'38 product, the schedule of which calls for 36 features. Authorized capitalization of the company consists of 2,000,000 shares of $1 par value capital stock, of which 751,000 shares will be outstanding upon completion of the proposed sale of stock.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Big City"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—In "Big City," in addition to such personalities as Spencer Tracy, Luise Rainer, Charley Grapewin, Eddie Quillan, Guinn Williams and Regis Toomey, are Jack Dempsey, Jim Jeffries, Jimmy McLarnin, Jim Thorpe, Man Mountain Dean, Gus Sonnenberg, Jackie Fields, Joe Rivers and many more veterans of the squared circle who not only appear but act and fight in the picture. With all these it would appear that Norman Krasna's first offering as an M-G-M producer is pretty well qualified to take care of itself at the gate. Krasna also wrote the original from which Dore Schary and Hugo Butler extracted a distinctly unusual screenplay directed with deep understanding and extraordinary change of pace by Frank Borzage.

The city of the title is New York. Tracy is cast as an independent taxi driver whose immigrant wife, Miss Rainer, is framed by racketeers engaged in mulcting a major company by means of sluggers and sabotage. City authorities seek to outwit the racketeers by deporting the expectant mother, but Tracy discovers exonerating evidence as the boat is about to sail and, appealing to the mayor at a ring veteran's banquet in Dempsey's restaurant, brings all hands pell mell to the dock where the professionals beat up the thugs as the couple's baby is born in an ambulance.

That portion of the picture leading up to the somewhat Keystoney foray of the pugilists is a well-done cross-sectioning of lower middle class metropolitan existence. The remainder is broad gauge hokum without apology. The leads get in quite a bit of excellent acting before the break comes.

Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

Looking 'Em Over

"Motor Madness"

(Columbia)

There is the usual attempt to install as much action as possible in "Motor Madness," but it emerges at best as a weak second in a double bill program. Performances by relatively unknown players which never climb above the mediocre in quality, a story with the usual complications and little substance and a prosaic production in general serve to keep the film in the second rank.

Grace Neville and Fred Niblo, Jr., are credited with the story, and D. Ross Lederman, who handles many of Columbia's action films, did his best with the story and material at his disposal.

Allan Brook, Rosalind Keith and J. M. Kerrigan are the principal players in the film, which centers about the efforts of a small company head, Kerrigan, to gain a reputation for his outboard motors. Brook, his mechanic, and in love with Miss Keith, Kerrigan's daughter, provides the love interest. Mixed into the plot are the expected difficulties encountered by Brook, as a gambler attempts to bribe him so that his own boat may win the race, and when that fails, tries to put him out of the way by other means. Brook gets in and out of jams until, of course, he comes through to win the race, and eventually, as is to be expected, the girl.

Running time, 61 minutes. "G."

Press Men May Organize

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—There is talk here of forming a free lance publicity agents' association, in order to draw up a code of ethics to prevent stealing of one another's clients. The conversations were started, because one press agent was accused of taking three clients from another.

Seltzer Joins Hal Roach

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Frank Seltzer, formerly associated with Pathe, has been named publicity director at the Hal Roach studios.

Reliance Will Make One Film with Donat

Edward Small, who arrived on the Ile de France Tuesday, said Reliance will make one picture with Robert Donat. No decision has been made as to where the film will be produced or through what company it will be released. Small hopes to complete these plans in a week. He will remain here several weeks, he said, before returning to the coast. He recently concluded an arrangement as producer for RKO.

W. B. Trade Showings Seen by Over 20,000

Trade showings of Warners' new season product in 31 key cities were viewed and judged by more than 20,000 exhibitors and representatives of civic, church and educational organizations on Monday and Tuesday. The response was highly gratifying to Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager for Warners who said that "a cross-section of the public should be given an opportunity not only to have an advance showing of the industry's forthcoming films but also to make suggestions for future productions as well."

The features shown were: "The Life of Emile Zola," "That Certain Woman," "Confession," "Varsity Show" and "It's Love I'm After." The exhibitions were held in Albany, Boston, Buffalo, New Haven, New York, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, D. C., Chicago, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha and St. Louis.

Mullins & Pinanski Signed

Warner Bros. have signed with the Mullins & Pinanski Circuit in New England for the showing of all Warner-First National features as well as Vitaphone shorts and trailers for the season of 1937-'38.

Harkins for W. B. Publicity

John Harkins, formerly dramatic editor of the Herald-Tribune, has joined the Warner home office publicity department, S. Charles Einfeld, director of advertising and publicity, stated yesterday.

Pax Acquires One

I. E. Lopert, president of Pax Film, has purchased the American rights to "Princess Tarakonova," starring Francoise Rosay, who was last seen in "Carnival in Flanders." The picture was produced by Nero Films, producers of "Mayerling," which Pax Film will release in the United States on Sept. 14, and which will play the Film Art Theatre here. "Princess Tarakonova" will be released early in January.

as the drought last year left them little work to do, and they are also not receiving so many Federal benefits.

Theatre owners agree that air-cooled houses are a big help and the majority of houses are being remodeled in some way.

The Wellman at Wellman, Ia., owned by Marvin Fosse has just been modernized, with a cooling system; the Princess at Mount Ayr has reopened following a remodeling; the Palace at Waverly is being remodeled and the name will be changed to the Waverly, when the work is completed.

A new theatre to be called the Bremer after the county is also being built at Waverly. This theatre has a perfect circle lobby, said to be the only one of the kind in the state; the Town, a $50,000 structure, is being erected in Waukon to be opened about Sept. 15; Clifford Anderson, operators of the LoMar in Lohrville, has started a new theatre; E. W. Hageman, operator of the Grand in Independence, is modernizing; the Wampus at Keosauqua is closed for enlargement and remodeling, and L. F. Wollcott's remodeled New Grand at Eldora has a black glass and chromium front newly installed.

Managing N. O. House

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25.—Robert J. Haley, formerly connected with Mort H. Singer theatres in Minneapolis and Marshallton, Ia., has been named manager of the Liberty here, following the resignation of Noel D. Smith. Other changes in the personnel of the Liberty and Orpheum include the appointment of Asa Booksh, former treasurer of the Orpheum, as treasurer of the Liberty, and the naming of R. L. McIlvaine, formerly of the Brandeis, Omaha, to Booksh's post at the Orpheum. There will be no change in the operating policy of the two theatres.

Flannery Goes Host

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Tom Flannery of the Whiteway Sign Co. plays host Tuesday to Aaron Saperstein and his Allied organization members with a day's free outing at Nippersink Golf and Country Club. The affair is expected to draw more than 300 independent exhibitors.

Change G. N. Titles

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Grand National has been informed that A. B. F. D. heads, who distribute Grand National product in England, have changed the title of "Great Guy" to "Pluck of the Irish" and "Songs of the Gringo" to "Old Corral."

Retitle Mae West Film

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Mae West's next, "Sapphire Sal," has been retitled "Every Day's a Holiday." Edmund Lowe has been signed for the top masculine role.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Richard A. Rowland has succeeded Sam Arnoff as talent scout for Republic.

National Screen to Make M-G-M Display

National Screen Accessories will make special lobby displays for M-G-M pictures during the new season, it was revealed at a meeting of eastern managers and salesmen of National Screen Service at the Park Central yesterday. Details of the deal and plans for the displays were outlined to the meeting by William F. Rodgers, M-G-M general sales manager. Indications are that similar deals may be closed with other distribution companies in the near future.

In addition to Rodgers, speakers at the meeting included William B. Brenner, general executive of National Screen Service; George Dembow and Charles Casanave. About 50 men from the company's eastern offices attended the two-day session, which ended yesterday. A meeting for the central and western branch men will open tomorrow at the Drake Hotel in Chicago and continue through Saturday.

Reopens at Belmar

Lee Newbury, president of Allied of New Jersey, has reopened the Rivoli, Belmar, which burned some time ago.

Matty Kutinsky and Harold Freedman have taken over the Warburton, Yonkers.

Negotiations by Rapf & Rudin for the Hawthorne, Hawthorne, N. J., have been called off. William Herman will continue to operate.

Harry Brandt has acquired the Garden, Brooklyn.

Geller Takes Filmarte

Louis Geller and associates have taken over the Filmarte in Baltimore and are negotiating for three other theatres in the east for the showing of unusual pictures. The Baltimore house will be reopened after Labor Day. Alterations are being made. Pat O'Brien will be the manager.

Goldwyn Signs Aviator

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—William Van Deusen, long connected with the Pan-American Airlines, has been signed by Samuel Goldwyn to collaborate with Sidney Howard on the screenplay of "Transatlantic Flight" to star Gary Cooper and Joel McCrea.

The picture is expected to be completed in time to have its release coincide with the first official passenger flights across the Atlantic to be undertaken on regular schedule next year. Van Deusen has been given a leave of absence by the airline.

Gallagher Is Signed

LONDON, Aug. 25. — Skeets Gallagher, on holiday in London, has been signed by Irving Asher for a part in "Dr. Satan" at the Warner-First National studio at Teddington.

"Under Fire," Bowes Troupe Denver Smash

DENVER, Aug. 25.—"Love Under Fire," with a Major Bowes unit on the stage, broke a record of several years standing at the Denver with a take of $17,000. Normal is $7,500. The film was moved to the Aladdin.

"The Good Earth" stood them up for a second week at the Orpheum and the gross was exactly double normal at $12,000. "You Can't Have Everything" also was in the money with a take of $4,000 at the Aladdin.

Total first run business was $44,500. Average is $27,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 18:

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING" (20-Fox)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days, following a week at the Denver. Gross: $4,000. (Average, $3,000)

"MEN ARE NOT GODS" (U. A.)
"DREAMING LIPS" (U. A.)

"Toast" Milwaukee Leader at $8,000

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 25.—"The Toast of New York" and "Wings Over Honolulu" copped the cake this week with an $8,000 take at the Warner, just $3,000 to the good.

Second money went to "The Good Earth" and "Blonde Trouble," which grossed $10,000 at Fox's Wisconsin, $2,000 above average. "Artists and Models" and "Under the Red Robe" were good for $6,500 in a second week at the Palace, doing $1,500 above par. The combination has been shifted to the Strand for a third week.

The circus, attracting some 50,000 people over the weekend, slowed business, and receipts at other houses were just average.

Total first run business was $33,000. Average is $26,500.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 19:

Addresses Conclude F. P. Canada Meet

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—The managers' convention of Famous Players Canadian Corp. today concluded its three-day session at the King Edward Hotel with an outburst of enthusiasm following calls to arms by President N. L. Nathanson, Vice-President J. J. Fitzgibbons, Supervisor Clarence Robson, District Manager R. S. Roddick and Morris Stein. The managers were asked to bend every effort to make "Nathanson year a big year" by securing increased attendance to offset rising costs in every department.

The managers were further urged to take the utmost care in presenting screen shows so that the proverbial million-dollar production would be offered as the studio intended and to keep in mind that such a thing exists as showmanship in sound.

Following the final rally at which managers received bonus cheques and heard a pep talk by A-Mike Vogel, all Famous Players people, managers and employees of film exchanges and visitors proceeded to Charles Mavety's dude ranch at Kleinberg for an afternoon of outdoor fun and refreshments, after which the theatre managers left for home.

Roster of Visitors Large

Among the prominent visitors from New York for the final rally were J. R. Grainger of Universal, Arthur Lee of G. B., H. M. Masters of United Artists, Carl Leserman, Norman Moray and Roy Haynes of Warner Bros., Ralph Poucher of Republic and Martin Gottlieb of Film Laboratories. Canadian executives present included President George Ganetals of United Amusements, Ltd., Montreal, and President Arthur Hirsch of Confederation Theatres, Ltd., Montreal. One who turned up at the picnic for his first public appearance in months was Oscar R. Hanson, president of Empire Films, Ltd., looking the picture of health after an illness of 11 months.

During the convention many special attractions were privately screened, notably "The Life of Emile Zola," "Souls at Sea," "That Certain Woman," "The Road Back" and "Varsity Show."

sound head will be assembled which will differ somewhat from the Western Electric unit. The Erpi horn and amplification units are not involved in the deal, it is understood.

Aside from confirming the reports that the negotiations were nearing their conclusion, Griffin declined to disclose details of the new licensing arrangement. He said that a statement covering the deal would be issued if and when one was closed. Erpi officials declined to comment on the reports.

International Projector has been manufacturing a projector complete with sound head for RCA Photophone for some time past under a license from that company.

position taken by the studios you represent and enable the guild to take such action as may seem necessary and desirable under the circumstances."

Quoting the National Labor Relations Act, the directors said: "The board of directors believe your position untenable. There are no conditions on our right to self-organization. We may bargain collectively or otherwise engage in concerted activities through representatives of our own choosing, and neither directors nor assistants and unit managers may be prevented from joining a particular organization or be penalized in any way if they do. It may be helpful in this regard if attention is called to the broad language of the Labor Act."

Defends Collective Action

Pointing out the producer contention that directors are not employees under the Wagner Act, the guild spokesmen said that with or without that act they are fully able, in an organization of this sort, to protect their interests by mutual and collective action.

The letter pointed out that two programs, one for directors and one for assistants and unit managers, were submitted to the producers on working conditions, and that the guild is not opposed to discussing them separately. The letter also said that the majority of the guild board of directors are former assistant directors, as proof that the directors' and assistants' interests are in the same field.

Local 306 Talks to Be Resumed Monday

Another meeting, the second, between major circuit heads and Local 306 to discuss terms for a new two-year contract will be held at C. C. Moskowitz's office Monday. A 10-year deal signed two years ago provides for new negotiations every two years and in the event of a deadlock the disputed points are to be settled by arbitration.

Local 306 is understood demanding increases ranging from 35 to 45 per cent in all theatres. Several years ago the operators took two cuts. The new demands will bring the wage scale up to its original schedule, it was said.

Meanwhile, independent exhibitors in the local area are meeting with sit down strikes. Of the three local houses, one, the Heights, has signed up with the union. Two others, the Kameo and Granada, still hold out.

Discussions with representatives of Local 1 of the stagehands' union on a new contract for circuit houses are expected to get under way shortly. No meetings have been set, but one is scheduled to be called as soon as conferences on the new operators' scale are concluded.

Dallas," in its second week at this theatre, garnered $85,000.

The Capitol closed last night for a week during which time the theatre will undergo extensive alterations. "Topper" finished a seven-day run with $26,000. Paramount will close "High, Wide and Handsome" at the Astor next Monday.

"Artists and Models" and a stage show at the Paramount took in $33,000 for the third week. "She's No Lady" at the Criterion tallied about $5,000. The Rialto garnered $6,400 on "London By Night."

"Make a Wish" Set for Rivoli

"Make a Wish," latest Bobby Breen picture, will go into the Rivoli following the run of "Dead End," according to Louis Hyman, general sales manager for Sol Lesser. Hyman plans to spend about three weeks here conferring with RKO and 20th Century-Fox.

"Dead March" Run Set

Imperial will show "The Dead March" on Broadway coincidentally with the American Legion convention here, beginning Sept. 20. It is a Bud Pollard production.

Loew-Fay Pact Starts

Loew's partnership arrangement with Ed Fay in Providence is now in effect. "Stella Dallas," the first picture to be shown under the deal, is at the Carlton, having been moved over from Loew's State. There is no change in prices for the moveover run. Fay's Majestic is the third house included in the pact.

Col. Long Tendered Luncheon

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—The staffs of the Loew theatres in Cleveland and Toledo yesterday tendered a luncheon at the Mayfair Casino in honor of Col. Harry E. Long, Loew division manager, to celebrate his 47th birthday.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Paramount had a real mutiny on "The Buccaneer" location trip to Catalina Island. About 50 extras hired as pirates protested against being housed in tents and demanded of CECIL B. DEMILLE and his business manager, GENE HORNBOSTEL, that they be provided better living quarters in Avalan. They left the tent city and couldn't find any available hotel room. Coming back to the camp, they found themselves locked out. After spending all night on the beach, they apologized to DEMILLE and HORNBOSTEL and returned to their tents.

"U" Finds Dudoff

Universal during the past few days has spent about $150 on radiograms trying to locate Harold Dudoff, manager of the Tientsin, China, office. No one in the home office has heard from the sales executive for some time and efforts to secure information regarding his presence from the State Dept. and in China have proved unavailable.

Finally, Charles Ford, head of the company's newsreel, radioed his cameraman for information and then it was discovered that Dudoff had been working in his office all along. It developed that no one but the cameraman had tried to get in touch with him there.

from New York, intended to safeguard first the lives of all employees in the war zone. Harold Dunn, manager for Warners in China and Japan, whose offices are in Shanghai, left for Manila several days ago, while S. Caplan moved to Hong Kong, which is further south and under English protection. Columbia ordered Prouse Knox from Shanghai to Hong Kong to attempt to consolidate Chinese activities of the company.

Business is being continued in Hong Kong, and presumably in much of south China, it was indicated, although advices to the home offices, beyond the assurance of the safety of employees, are sporadic. Shipments of film were stopped into Shanghai a week ago. There are understood to be few, if any, theatres open in the city, since with the exchanges closed, they could not obtain a supply of product, even if people were to venture to attend them.

Hammons Aim To Take Over School Films

end of its work of viewing and selecting from several thousand films from the vaults of all companies and will make its report to the M.P.P.D.A. late next month on the amount of material it has approved as being of educational significance.

Pointing out that it would hardly be worth while for individual companies to set up separate departments to market 50 to 100 subjects from their own vaults which may be approved by the committee, Hammons said that the logical move would involve the acquisition of the approved films by a single company which would undertake their distribution to educational institutions. His company, he said, was interested in such a project both because of its present name and also because the production and distribution of educational subjects was an original objective of the company.

"To return to it at this time," he said, "would be merely a resumption of one of Educational's first aims."

Sees Two-Year Supply on Hand

Hammons said that if acceptable arrangements could be made for the acquisition of the educational film matter of all of the companies the 600 to 700 subjects involved would be sufficient to supply educational institutions with film for the next two years, on the basis of a maximum use of 10 films per week for the 36-week school year. During this two-year period, he pointed out, the actual school market for films and the required amount of production to supply it could be gauged with dependable accuracy. The two-year film supply, he feels, would also encourage many educational institutions to install projection equipment which have not done so because of an insufficient film supply in the past.

Distribution of the films could be established on an economical plane, Hammons believes, as the non-inflammable 16mm. subjects would not require storage or office space in high rent "film row" localities and could be sent by mail for long distances.

Actual overtures for the acquisition of the film from other companies are still some weeks away, Hammons indicated.

Transradio's Recorded News To Start Soon

Its plan to move into the transcription field with a new service of on-the-spot news platters now nearing completion, Transradio has leased new space in the RCA Bldg. for occupancy next month, it was learned yesterday. A subsidiary corporation is now being formed, or will be formed in the immediate future.

While Transradio officials decline to discuss the matter, it has been ascertained that the organization has abandoned the idea of associating itself with one of the established transcription companies, and instead has placed an order to purchase its own recording equipment. It is not known how much money will be expended for the equipment, but there is no question that it will run to a considerable sum, the prices for recording and transcribing machinery being what they are.

Transradio, in preparation for its move into the new field, has also amassed a considerable voice and music library, it is learned. Voices of many of the leading foreign personages usually found in the news were obtained by W. G. Quisenberry of Transradio during his recent six-month sojourn on the Continent and others, here and across the sea, are being filed daily.

A rate structure for stations wishing to subscribe for the spot news platters is now being evolved.

Cully, Hobart Moved To NBC, Hollywood

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25.—L. D. Cully and S. C. Hobart of the NBC plant department here have been transferred to Hollywood, where they will act as control supervisors.

P. A. Sugg, formerly studio engineer, replaces Hobart as control supervisor here, and T. B. Palmer will act as control relief supervisor. Recently added to the San Francisco technical staff by Western Division Engineer A. H. Sexton are: J. E. Burrell, H. N. Jacobs and F. L. Fullaway, studio engineers; R. T. Parker and M. D. Case, who have been stationed at the KGO transmitter in Oakland, and R. B. Barnes and M. S. Brewer, assigned to the KPO transmitter at Belmont.

Breen Is Signed to NBC Radio Contract

Bobby Breen has been signed under exclusive NBC artist bureau management for radio and will arrive here Sunday from Hollywood to audition a new script program titled "The Singing Kid," a Gertrude Berg creation.

All the facts contained in the above paragraph were reported exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY several months ago, but after publication NBC, Sol Lesser, who represents the youngster in films, and Eddie Cantor, on whose program Breen first received his opportunity, insisted the story was in error and asked for a retraction, which was granted.

AGRAP Negotiates For WJSV Members

The American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers, in addition to signing the sound effects crews of WEA, WJZ and NBC, has successfully negotiated with the owners of WJSV in Washington for the announcers and producers of that station, who have joined the Guild, it is reliably learned. The announcing and producing staffs of WBT in Charlotte, and WORC, Worcester, also have been taken in as AGRAP members, and recognition from the station owners is expected momentarily. Gerald Dickler, attorney for the Guild, is now in Worcester concluding negotiations there, and Roy S. Langham, president of the Guild, has been in Charlotte and Worcester on several occasions the past few weeks conferring with the owners of the aforementioned stations.

WOR Takes F. & M's. "Twenty Years Ago"

"Twenty Years Ago—and Today," a new series dramatizing news of two decades back in contrast to news of today, has been sold to the Hearn Department Store through the Fanchon & Marco agency, and will be presented over WOR Mondays from 8 to 8:30 P. M., beginning Aug. 30. The sale marks Fanchon & Marco's entrance into the field of radio production.

The dramatic cast on the show will include John Holbrook, Katherine Renwick, Adele Ronson, Agnes Moorehead, Jean Colbert, Ted di Corsia, Ted Jewett, Ed Jerome and Ken Delmar, most of whom are heard regularly on the "March of Time."

Robert Lewis Shayon, brother of Sen Shayon, who heads the Fanchon & Marco radio department, is author and producer of the series.

New Comedy Series To Start Over NBC

"Aunt Jemima on the Air," a new program of comedy and song, will be offered over WJZ and four other NBC stations daily except Sunday and Monday beginning Aug. 31 from 9:45 to 10 A. M. The other stations are WMAQ, Chicago; WBZ-WBZA, Boston; KDKA, Pittsburgh, and WXYZ, Detroit. Quaker Oats will sponsor.

Harriette Widmer will play the title role in the series. Roy Brower will be the male soloist, and the comedy will be supplied by a blackface team, "Buck and Wheat," who are Forrest Lewis and Vance McClune. A mixed chorus and a negro instrumental group will complete the talent. Lord & Thomas is the agency. The series will originate in Chicago.

Craven Sworn in as Member of the FCC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—T. A. M. Craven, former chief engineer of the F.C.C., today took the oath of office as a member of the commission, to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Irvin Stewart. He was sworn in by a notary in the secretary's office.

Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Commissioner Anning S. Prall, will not take over his new position until Sept. 10 to 15.

Gordon Baking Keeps "Ranger" for a Year

Gordon Baking Co. has renewed "Lone Ranger" on Mutual for an additional 52 weeks of broadcasting. The series is broadcast Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7:30 to 8 P.M. The renewal becomes effective Sept. 27. Brooke, Smith and French is the agency.

"Lone Ranger" has been on the air since 1933, and has been a phenomenally successful program in other respects. It is Mutual's best mail producer, has been sold as a serial picture to Republic, and recently the sponsor sold the title rights to a magazine publisher. The series is written by Fran Striker, and is produced and broadcast from WXYZ, Detroit.

Holmes to Sound Reproductions

Harry S. Holmes, formerly of the Hammond Organ Co., has joined Sound Reproductions Corp., as executive in charge of sales, succeeding Walter W. Voss, resigned.

Vapex Takes WOR Sustainer

"Let's Play Games," WOR sustaining period, has been sold commercially to Vapex. The contract, for 13 weeks, is through the Small & Seiffer agency, and is to become effective Oct. 8. The series is aired Fridays from 8:45 to 9 P. M.

no business engagements abroad except for one film per year at most, and secondly, that they collaborate in at least one film made in France during each year.

The action of the producers is a sequel to the numerous recent Hollywood engagements of such stars as Charles Boyer, Simone Simon, Fernand Gravet, Jean Gabin, Annabella and others.

French producers are distinctly disturbed by the situation, since the best of the players go to Hollywood, and native producers cannot hope to equal the compensation offered by Hollywood for the best talent. They are beginning to wonder where they can turn for acceptable players. French stars playing in American films seem to be entirely lost for French audiences, as most of the product reaching this country has to be dubbed for the majority of the French patrons.

There is some speculation, as well, as to whether or not the measures indicated by the confederation can really be applied effectively. It is the general belief that the best way of at least slowing the exodus would be to give annual contracts to players for a few years, instead of leaving them without work for several months of each year.

Mayer, Burstyn Take Eight Foreign Films

Arthur Mayer and Joseph Burstyn have acquired the American release rights to eight foreign films. The films will be offered during the first half of the 1937-'38 season.

The titles of six of the eight films are: "The Lower Depths," "Girls' Club," "Whirlpool," "Shadows of the Past," "War for Button" and "Sacred India."

Clara Bow Likely to Return to the Screen

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Clara Bow may return to films. A deal is being discussed between her and Dave Diamond, producing for Grand National, for her comeback in a series of four pictures opposite Wallace Ford.

No tests have been made of the former star yet, however, and the deal hinges, it is reported, entirely on the money angle. It is certain that Diamond and Grand National would like to have her on the contract roster, though.

Broadcasters Call Meeting Here Sept. 10

Decision on A. F. of M. Problem Is Aim

Reviewing the results of the broadcasters' meeting recently concluded here and calling upon stations to co-operate with it in solution of the broadcasters-A. F. of M. problem, the advisory committee representing the independent radio networks affiliates yesterday dispatched a letter to all owners of independent stations not affiliated with networks and extended an invitation to them to attend a meeting in New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel Sept. 10, at which time final settlement of the problem will have to be achieved if the broadcasters are to meet the A. F. of M.'s deadline, which has been set for Sept. 16.

The committee comprises William S. Hedges, chairman, WLW; Samuel

FWC Men Are Told Grosses Must Gain

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Addressing 200 F.W.C. zone, district and house managers at the Ambassador yesterday, Al Hanson, assistant to Charles P. Skouras, emphasized that the mounting costs of picture production make larger box-office returns imperative. He named some of the big pictures in work and the budgets.

Skouras also spoke on various angles of theatre operation.

Denying reports that he intended to resign, Hanson said that so long as he continues in circuit operation he will stay with F.W.C. and that this connection would only be severed if he should ever decide to go into business for himself.

"Artists" Is Held In Fourteen Cities

"Artists and Models" has been held over in the first 14 key city situations and is running ahead of the last Jack Benny picture, Neil F. Agnew, vice-president in charge of Paramount distribution, stated yesterday.

Cities and theatres where the film has been continued include the Paramount, New York, and Paramount,

Producers Proscribe CIO In Studio Union Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Producers, it was disclosed yesterday, have chosen to protect themselves against C. I. O. encroachments of the field now dominated by the American Federation of Labor organizations, in order to avoid any possible conflict in which the industry might be placed in the middle of the two labor groups.

This was revealed when it was learned that the basic agreement governing working conditions given the M. P. Painters' Local of the International Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, contains a final clause declaring that the provisions were predicated upon the International's being affiliated with the A. F. of L. and that the producers had the optional right of cancelling the contract should the allegiance change.

It also was apparent in the proposed contract between the Make-up Artists' Local of the Painters' International and the producers (signing

Warners Report Big Grosses for "Zola"

First tally on "Zola" roadshows has the Warner organization in tremors of delight. The company reported these yesterday:

First week at the St. James, Asbury Park, N. J., $9,500.

First two days at the Strand, Far Rockaway, L. I., $4,700, with an advance sale of $5,500.

First two days at the Laurel, Long Beach, L. I., $4,623 with an advance sale of $3,500.

Second week at the Hollywood, New York, $26,300.

This, declared Warners, compared with $25,300 for the first week.

Heat Wave Cuts Takes Only Slightly; Total $1,483,069

Even the heat wave which started in the midwest and worked its way across the country to the Atlantic seaboard failed to put a deep dent in first run grosses for the week ending Aug. 20-21. This is usually one of the worst weeks of the year, coming as it does at the height of the vacation season.

The take for 143 first run houses in 24 cities was $1,483,069. This was What?

Max A. Cohen, who recently booked "Mr. Cohen Takes a Walk" as one of the final pictures to play the Selwyn before Harry Brandt takes over the house next Wednesday, has dated "You May Be Next" as the companion feature.

On the marquee today, a banner line under the second picture reads: "A hysterical travesty of supposed big shots of today."

Harmon Production Code Head in East

Francis S. Harmon, who joined the M.P.P.D.A. last March, has been named eastern head of the Production Code Administration here, it was learned yesterday. Vincent G. Hart, who established the eastern department several years ago, continues in that office as assistant to Harmon.

The new appointee returned this

"Vogues" Take Hits $106,135 1st Week

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" tallied $106,135 in the first week at the Music Hall. The film is being held a second week and may continue for a third.

"Dead End" garnered approximately $8,000 on the opening day at the Rivoli. The gross is second to "Modern Times."

May Fight All Trust Actions To Decisions

Seen as Ending Use of Consent Decrees

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Future anti-trust prosecutions against film concerns may be fought to decisions, and consent decrees may no longer be accepted by the Dep't. of Justice, it was indicated here today.

Adoption of the new policy was seen as determined upon by publication by Representative John M. Coffee of Washington of a letter to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, commending abandonment of the consent-decree practice.

No statements have been forthcoming from department officials on the subject, but Coffee's letter indicated his knowledge that consent decrees are "out" in the case of the oil industry and, presumably, other suits which the Government plans.

At the same time, it was again reported that the department is preparing for an ambitious anti-trust

Hickey Away; U. S. Probe Is Set Back

With Leo Hickey, U. S. district attorney for the Eastern District out of the city and not due back until Monday, the informal investigation being conducted as a result of the reported complaint by the Century Circuit is at a standstill.

None of the Paramount, Warner and former Warner sales executives scheduled to be called has received notification to appear before Hickey next week. Two weeks have passed without a local branch manager or home office sales executive being

Again Delay Hearing On Minneapolis Stay

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—A hearing scheduled for today on Paramount's application for an injunction restraining exhibitors in this territory from carrying out the proposed "buyers' strike" against the company was postponed until next Wednesday by Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye on the petition of the defendant exhibitors who pleaded the illness of their chief attorney. This was the second postponement of the hearing and was granted by the court on the condition that no further delays will be sought.

"Melody" Big Coast Grosser In Two Houses

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—"Broadway Melody of 1938," on a dual with "Think Fast, Mr. Moto," was a smash hit in two spots. It piled up $17,977, over normal by $5,477, at the Chinese and took $21,542, up by $7,542, at Loew's State.

No Spaghetti

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Italian censors forbid the showing of spaghetti-eating in comedy scenes in films, so Archie Mayo has to make a new scene for "The Adventures of Marco Polo" especially for Italian distribution.

The comedy scene will be just about the English version shots, but the spaghetti will be called noodles.

"Can't Have" $15,500 Top In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—"You Can't Have Everything" was outstanding at Warners' Hippodrome during a week of the hottest weather of the summer, going $5,500 over par to a take of $15,500. Average is $10,000. It was moved to the Allen.

"Stella Dallas" finished in second place with a gross of $16,000 at Loew's State. This is $4,000 better than par. It moved to the Stillman for a second week.

"Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" at the RKO Palace, with a stage show headed by Herman Bing, broke even with a $15,000 take.

"The Toast of New York," playing a second week downtown at Loew's Stillman following a big opening week at Loew's State, grossed $4,500. This was $500 shy of average.

Ringling Circus Is Making Theatre Tieup with Films

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Through the General Film Co. here the Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey circus is working out a plan that ties up with all the theatres in the towns in which they show. This is how it works:

The advance man approaches the theatre manager and presents a trailer advertising the circus. This trailer also announces the circus carries a cameraman who will take pictures of the crowd at the circus and a week following the circus playdate the films will be shown at the theatre. This idea, according to the circus people, has proven acceptable with the theatremen as they are able in some cases to make up for the loss of business as the result of circus competition. The circus has made it a policy to shoot at least 300 feet of film for the theatre. This footage is shown at the theatres which cooperate with the circus by running an advance trailer.

Brisbane to Study Zoning of Theatres

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, Aug. 4 (By Air Mail via London).—The Brisbane City Council has called for a report on the number of city and suburban theatres which it is thought the population can properly support. "I believe those who have spent money on city and suburban theatres deserve some measure of protection," the Lord Mayor stated. "If the council indiscriminately allows theatres to be built too closely together, four or five concerns might be unsuccessful. Better to have one successful person than several in a state of semi-starvation."

Commenting on the Mayor's statement, a spokesman for the Queensland Exhibitors Ass'n said, "The Lord Mayor's efforts to institute a much-desired zoning system for theatres will confer a civic benefit on our city."

Meanwhile in Sydney and Melbourne the erection of new suburban theatres and the renovation of existing ones continues at a pace that is making the industry wonder whether such a thing as a saturation point is not just a myth. And as each new house goes up, city managements ask themselves how much longer suburban residents—who are now catered to on a standard almost beyond criticism—will continue to place their local theatres second and stand the nuisance of parking problems, rail and tram fares, higher prices and long journeys on winter nights, to patronize the city theatres.

To Discuss Premiums

Varied angles of the premium situation will be discussed at round table meetings of the Atlantic Coast Premium Exposition to be held at the Hotel Astor Sept. 28-30. Howard W. Dunk is secretary.

Among the speakers will be: Prof. Howard T. Hovde, Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of Home Economics Research and professor of textile chemistry, Pennsylvania State College, and Jules Dundes of the CBS sales promotion staff.

Very Modern

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—The Ozark, Tom Edward's theatre at Eldon, Mo., gets a good deal of summer tourist trade from around the nearby Lake of the Ozarks. The other evening a car drove up and honked. Tommy Edwards, Jr., 14, who is a chip off the old block, left the popcorn stand which he was tending to see what was desired.

"Do you have talking pictures?" was the query.

"Yes, sir," replied Tommy, "and inside toilets, too, sir."

Commonwealth Sets Managers' Meeting

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Managers of Commonwealth Amusement Corp.'s 28 theatres in Kansas, Missouri and Iowa will hold their annual fall meeting at the Osage Beach Hotel, on the Lake of the Ozarks, Sept. 15 and 16. The convention is in celebration, each year, of the company's summer promotion campaign, the "King of the Sun" contest.

Managers and executives of the circuit, including C. A. Schultz, executive head, and O. K. Mason, secretary-treasurer, will spend the first day at the lake discussing plans for a fall drive for business, and the second day boating, swimming, fishing and the like.

Midwest Managers to Meet

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Fox Midwest managers met here today to make plans for the annual managers' convention of the circuit, to be held at the Hotel President Sept. 9 and 10. District managers who are outlining the program with circuit executives are Fred Souttar, H. E. Jameyson, Harry McClure, Ed Haas and Martin Finkelstein.

House to Commonwealth

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—Commonwealth Amusement Corp. will take over the Owen at Branson, Mo., on Sept. 5, according to Clarence A. Schultz, executive head of Commonwealth. James Owen, who built the house more than a year ago to replace the theatre he had been operating there, will continue as manager.

Seeks Sound Standard

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—The Research Council of the Academy has submitted recommendations for standardizing the adjustment of sound equipment in 44 theatres used by the major studios for previews. The move is part of the council's plan for coordination of studio and theatre sound.

RKO Borrows Milland

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Ray Milland was borrowed today from Paramount by RKO for the lead opposite Miriam Hopkins in "The Female of the Species."

"Dallas" Big In Pittsburgh With $21,000

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—Smash business of the week went to "Stella Dallas" at Loew's, where a $21,000 gross, over par by $10,000 far exceeded expectations of most guessers. Matinees were dynamite and night business built up nicely. The total resulted in a second week holdover at the Warner.

Also cheerful, and resulting in a holdover, was "You Can't Have Everything" at the Alvin, which hit $7,500, over average by $2,000. The Stanley slipped under with "New Faces" and Mal Hallet, and the Fulton also was weak with a double bill.

Total first run business was $53,200. Average is $44,000.

Circuit, Actor Unit Settle English Tilt

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The dispute between the Variety Artists Federation and Union Cinemas has been settled. The V. A. F. bars the "doubling" of turns—one act playing more than two theatres in the same town. The circuit cut out variety, on the ground of expense, when this rule was invoked against them. Now the matter is to be referred to a secret ballot of V. A. F. members. The majority result, whether for or against doubling, will govern future contracts with artists made by Union. "Doubling" is at present permitted in London only.

Union is currently discussing labor disputes, which recently threatened to close over 100 of its theatres, in conference with officials of the National Ass'n of Theatrical Employees, under the chairmanship of a Ministry of Labor nominee.

Seattle Houses Face Closing on Sundays

SEATTLE, Aug. 26.—Seattle theatres and other places of amusement will be closed on Sundays, if beer parlor operators are successful in a legal action instituted here.

Incensed because a 1909 "blue law" ordinance prohibiting the sale of beer on Sunday has been invoked against them, the tavern proprietors are attempting to force closing of every type of business and amusement enterprise on the same grounds.

They are asking an injunction prohibiting the operation of theatres and drug stores, pending court action. Prosecuting Attorney B. Gray War-

'Dead End' Film a Vivid Indictment of the Slums

By WILLIAM BOEHNEL.

The simple fact first:—The screen version of Sidney Kingsley's "Dead End," at the Rivoli Theatre, is a great and powerful motion picture which blends its indignant protest against the sordidness and crime-breeding of the slums with theatrical excitement in such a brilliant manner it is deserving of rank among the talking pictures' finest achievements.

This is due to the superb direction of William Wyler, to the fine drama inherent in Mr. Kingsley's play, to the expert screen adaptation of Lillian Hellman and to the consistently splendid work of the cast.

Sylvia Sidney, Humphrey Bogart, Joel McCrea, Wendie Barrie, Claire Trevor, Allen Jenkins, Marjorie Main, Billy Halop, Huntz Hall, Bobby Jordan, Leo Gorcey, Gabriel Dell, Bernard Punsky, Charles Peck and the others all project from the screen a spirit of sincerity that makes their characterizations credible and vitally forceful.

William Boehnel

Plea for Slum Children.

An account in comedy and melodrama of how gangsters are made, "Dead End" nevertheless lashes out furiously and uncompromisingly at a society which allows such unbelievably foul housing conditions to exist that the kids of the poor who must of necessity inhabit these tenement incubators of crime are doomed from the very beginning. For "Dead End" is an especial plea for those youngsters whose sordid, ugly environment destroys not only the present but all hope of the future.

The film has been referred to as "an account in comedy and melodrama of how gangsters are made," and that, unquestionably, is what it is.

For no matter how firmly and courageously it shouts its complaint, it is also full of the stuff of first-rate melodrama, and it is this blending of excitement which comes from the assassination of a gunman and the comedy which springs from the earthy talk and hoodlum antics of its kids, with its preachment, that makes "Dead End" not only absorbing and compelling propaganda but also vivid and exciting entertainment. For to be effective a film with a message must also be entertaining. "Dead End" fulfills this requirement admirably.

Any number of themes run through the general plot line of "Dead End." There is the romance between the young architect who somehow managed to rise above the level of his tenement upbringing and the lovely mistress of the wealthy man who lives in the swanky waterfront apartment, a contrast in living conditions which is damagingly effective; the story of Drina, who loves the young architect, and who realizes that, whatever hardships it brings, the stake which will give her a few dollars extra each week will mean the possible saving of her brother, Tommy; the story of "Baby-Face" Martin, himself a product of the slums and now a notorious gangster, comes back to the old neighborhood with a longing to see his mother and his old sweetheart, and the more vital problem of what happens to the kids who inhabit the waterfront and the streets.

A Well-Constructed Plot.

Blended together, they result in a solid, well-constructed narrative that moves swiftly forward with eloquent touches as it shows the mistress of the wealthy man jilting the architect, young Tommy stabbing one of the tenants of the swanky apartment house, Martin being slapped across the face by his mother who will have none of him, his discovery that the girl he used to love has become a prostitute, and finally his death, after a realistic gun battle, at the hands of the architect, who then gives Tommy a break in life.

To single out any of the players would be unfair, since there isn't a perceptible weakness in any of them. But if some special mention must be made it must include all the kids, who are magnificent, Sylvia Sidney's Drina and Humphrey Bogart's "Baby-Face" Martin. They, and all the others, make "Dead End" one of those rare films that you may see over and over again and that reflects vast credit upon Samuel Goldwyn, its producer.

'DEAD END' AT RIVOLI MAGNIFICENT FILM

Cast in Drama Inspired

By Miss Johaneson

A MAGNIFICENT play has been made into a more magnificent movie. That is the screen version of Sidney Kingsley's stage hit and it is a handsome one. Rousing, stimulating, melodramatic, profoundly touching, "Dead End" is one of the indelible and memorable screen plays which appear too infrequently to be rated merely as another first-rate movie.

In the circumscribed limit of a single important set it describes the moulding of a juvenile gang. Manhattan, naturally, is its locale. A "dead end" Manhattan street, with its polyglot layout of tenement, wharf, swank flat, is its scene. The characters peopling it include the natural residents of such a bizarre section.

Cross sections of their lives constitute the picture's plot, a "plot" too broad to permit simple condensation. It involves an idealistic youth who watches the juveniles succumb to their environment; a young girl who suffers over her little brother's sorry destiny; a bad boy returned to the scene of his youth; a wretched girl who reaps the unvarying harvest of the streets; an heiress who is tender, a cop who is realistic.

Their lurid lives invoke the most stirring melodrama, as a man butchers the pal of his youth, a mother suffers the loss of her son, a girl agonizes over the lofty dreams of her earthbound beloved. Romance enters the story, and it is more stirring romance than the conventional "glamour" school. Pathos more genuine than that of the tear-jerker, melodrama more rousing than that of the conventional "action picture" are part of this vital, moving "Dead End."

The youngsters who appeared in the Broadway production assume their vivid roles in the screen play. Firm Hollywood favorites play with them. Humphrey Bogart, as the hapless "Baby Face Martin," gives the performance of his life, a film life punctuated with handsome performances. Joel McCrea, Sylvia Sydney, the remarkable Claire Trevor, Allen Jenkins, Wendy Barrie and the profoundly stirring Marjorie Main are in the adult cast.

"Dead End" is one of those films you mustn't miss. You will enjoy it, be stirred by it, and you will remember it. It is glamorous realism, and wildly exciting. It is a movie which is not lulling, but alive.

The tasteful Mr. Goldwyn did a daring job in its honest production, the skilled Mr. Wyler an imaginative one in its direction, the cast an inspired one in its acting. You will regret missing "Dead End," so don't do it.

'Dead End' Animates The Rivoli Screen

By KATE CAMERON.
"Dead End," Samuel Goldwyn production released by United Artists, directed by William Wyler, screen play by Lillian Hellman from play by Sidney Kingsley presented at the Rivoli Theatre.

When Hollywood took over "Dead End" for the cinema, choice roles were entrusted to Sylvia Sidney and Joel McCrea. Rivoli Theatre presents the drama.

It is an axiom of the moving picture business that when Samuel Goldwyn transfers a stage play to the screen he either betters the original or, when the original is so good it can't be topped, he turns out something just as good.

In transporting Sidney Kingsley's play, "Dead End," to films, Mr. Goldwyn has improved on the stage production in a variety of ways. The picture is as vital as the play, more alive with the ceaseless activity of a city's slum than the restricted stage set allowed, and it is acted for all it is worth by a cast that, in several vital spots, is superior to the first. The six boys who gave the play its life and breath are played by the same group of youngsters who made such a tremendous, collective hit on the stage when they played together throughout the long run of the play. They are Billy Halop, Huntz Hall, Bobby Jordan, Leo Gorcey, Gabriel Dell and Bernard Punsly, and they have all the assurance of cinema veterans in their initial appearance on the water. They are as natural as the water they wallow in and they easily swim away with the honors of the production.

The role of the gangster, Baby Face Martin, has been built up for the screen, giving the picture a stronger atmosphere of suspense and many more exciting moments than the play contained. Humphrey Bogart, as Baby Face, dominates the scene whenever he is present and, with Allen Jenkins, who plays his lieutenant, brings a dark, sinister note into the activities of the slum area that forms the background of the story.

Sylvia Sidney gives a sensitive performance of the girl, Drina, who tries to lift her younger brother out of the squalor and sordidness of their environment. She and Joel McCrea, the latter in the role of the dreamy architect created by Theodore Newton on the stage, represent the romantic interest and Wendy Barrie lends her beauty and glamour of her personality to the play, as the girl from the luxurious apartment adjacent to the slums.

Marjorie Main, from the original production, does an impressive bit in the role of the gangster's mother.

The film story is as gripping as the play and has a more realistic atmosphere. None of the social significance of the Kingsley drama has been lost in the transference and while a word has been deleted here and there to conform with the restrictions of the moving picture censors the lines have not lost their original humor nor lessened their impact on the audience.

William Wyler's direction is a masterly job, as he has kept the various episodes of the boys' quasi-vicious activities, the romantic inclinations of architect, the comings and goings of the fashionable residents of the apartment building, the sinister prowlings of Baby Face and his henchman and the pathetic efforts of Drina in behalf of her young, mischievous brother, flowing in a dramatic series of sequences that leads to a smashing climax ending in the spectacular death of Baby-Face.

'Dead End' Becomes a Film Distinguished for Photography and Acting.

By EILEEN CREELMAN.

This is not the first time Samuel Goldwyn has made a film more enjoyable than the play on which it is based. The Rivoli's "Dead End," as adapted by Lillian Hellman, differs only slightly from the Sidney Kingslev stage play. In those details of difference are also some essentials. The drama has lost its bitterness. It has gained, through the closeness of the camera study, in characterization and sympathy.

"Dead End" is a typical Goldwyn production in its perfection of detail. William Wyler has directed with a grim humor, letting the six small boys from New York play their old roles in their old spirit. The long stage run of "Dead End" has not dampened these youngsters' tough enthusiasm. Tommy, Dippy, Angel, Spit and Milty are as vivid on the screen. Their acting has, if anything, improved.

The drama still tells of that dead end street on the East River where an expensive apartment house towers high above the slums. Gregg Toland's camera, never before so effective, catches it all, the sordidness, the beauty and terror of the street in shadow, the comic as well as the tragic overtones. Photographically, the film is a dramatic triumph.

Since the emphasis is shifted to the problems of the grown-ups, the triangle of the architect, the bewildered sister of Tommy and the hard young woman in the penthouse is also built up. Sylvia Sidney, looking younger and softer than usual, is excellent as the worried helpless Drina. It is still the minor characters who are the most interesting, the horrible boys playing gangster tricks in the street, Marjorie Main as the bitter despairing mother of Baby Face, Claire Trevor as the gangster's first love, Humphrey Bogart as the murderer whose old illusions are shattered by a return to his home.

JOEL M'CREA

With Sylvia Sidney in "Dead End," at the Rivoli.

"Dead End" is no longer a social document. It is still a moving drama, filmed with a detailed vividness possible only in a motion picture. It would be remembered, if for nothing else, for that unexpected scene in which the old woman slyly steals the cracker from a baby.

The Rivoli's 'Dead End' Presents Anew a Prima Facie Case for Revision of the Social Scheme

Samuel Goldwyn's screen transcription of "Dead End," as it came to the Rivoli Theatre last night, deserves a place among the important motion pictures of 1937 for its stout and well-presented feiteration of the social protest that was the theme of the original Sidney Kingsley stage play.

As a picture of life in an East River dead end street, where hopeless squalor rubs daily against Sutton Place elegance with no more salutary effect on either an arrestual irritation, it is again an arresting, inductive consideration of the slum problem, a prima facie case for a revision of the social system.

Without ever moving off its one magnificent set, a disturbingly accurate conception of a typically congested block in the East Fifties, the camera seeks out Drina Gordon, her young orphan brother, Tommy, and his playmates; Dave Connell, sucked back into the environment after six valiant years of study to become an architect; Babyface Martin, returning to visit the street after ten years as a marauding killer; Kay Burton, seeking retreat from unwholesome luxury in the fashionable apartment that towers above the tenements on the riverfront, and the other people of the teeming block.

The show undoubtedly belongs to the six incomparable urchins imported from the stage production whenever they are in view, but the camera occasionally leaves them to their swimming or to their boisterous horseplay to discover Drina, footsore after a day on the picket line, patching her worn shoe with paper; Dave and Kay, longing together for release from their respective imprisonments; Babyface snarling at life after his mother's hateful denunciation and his disillusionment on finding that the girl, Francey, hadn't waited.

The character Dave, conceived in the original as an introspective cripple, is altered for the film audience and simplified for the film audience in Lillian Hellman's adaptation. Here the conflict between the opposed products of the street, Dave and Babyface, is physical and personal. There is an exchange of dissembled cunning for frank and righteous hatred, which is more suitable to McCrea's personality as the film audience knows him, and the film's climax is staged accordingly. Dave kills off the killer in a remorseless personal combat, instead of merely informing on him.

The salty street jargon of the noted youngsters, a feature that perhaps brought more people to the Belasco Theatre in the last two seasons than did the basic theme of the play, has necessarily been purged of its vulgarities, but it is still authentic New Yorkese and the highlight of the play.

Curtain calls are in order for all the principals, with as many as they'll answer to for the youngsters. Of the smaller parts, Claire Trevor's moment as Francey and Marjorie Main's flat-voiced hate as Martin's mother are memorable.

'Dead End' Stirs to Dramatic Depths With Magic of Movie Camera

Grimly Realistic Portrayal of Life in Slums

By ROSE PELSWICK.

An enormously stirring drama is Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Dead End," which arrived last evening at the Rivoli Theatre. In picturizing the Sidney Kingsley play, Producer Goldwyn and Director William Wyler have retained all the emotional impact of the Broadway version, added the magic of the camera and provided the screen with an impressive and thought-provoking document.

ROSE PELSWICK

Outstanding in the picture, as they were in the play, are the youngsters, all recruited from the stage cast, who portray the adolescent hoodlums. Sylvia Sidney, as the hard-working Drina who wants to take her brother Tommy away from his depressing surroundings; Joel McCrea, as the young architect who dreams of better days; Humphrey Bogart as the killer, "Baby Face" Martin; Claire Trevor who does outstanding work in one brief scene as the unfortunate Francey, and Allen Jenkins as Martin's lieutenant, handle their roles with understanding skill.

It's a grimly realistic account of life in a squalid New York street which runs down to the East River, dead-ending there both in fact as well as symbol. As in the Norman Bel-Geddes production, the principal set is the waterfront where a swanky new apartment house, with its wealthy tenants, offers a striking contrast to the poverty of the shabby tenements, out of which pour gangs of boys whose only playground is the street and whose games are imitations of adult gangster tactics.

To this street of which he was a product comes "Baby Face" Martin, a vicious killer, back to see his mother who renounces him, and his first girl, Francey. The tough little boys who swarm about the pier are shown to be potential gangsters, inevitably headed by environment for the same dead end as "Baby Face."

Young Billy Halop, as Drina's brother, who stabs the rich little boy with a penknife and hides out from the police before he's taken to reform school, gives a noteworthy performance and is ably assisted by the other youngsters, Huntz Hall, Bobby Jordan, Leo Gorcey, Gabriel Dell and Bernard Punsley, who shrill about the pier with their gutter argot and swagging defiance.

Wendy Barrie, as the decorative girl with whom the architect is infatuated; Marjorie Mains, as Baby-Face's bedraggled mother; James Burke, as the policeman, who stops to chat with Baby Face, and the other members of the company round out a satisfactory cast.

It's a distinctly superior drama.

A study of the social condition that breeds gangsters, the picture neither offers nor suggests a solution. It tells its story with simple directness and resolves itself into a forceful appraisal of conditions.

The chief change between stage and screen productions is that here it's the young architect, instead of G-men, who kills "Baby Face." And there is also more of an accent on romance between the architect and Drina.

While action for the most part takes place on the waterfront, as in the play, the more flexible technique of the screen makes it possible for the camera to follow the various characters as they move into adjoining streets and alleys and to depict the dreariness and squalor of the tenement flats.

Thank you, Miss Pelswick—

JUST AS GOLDWYN TRANSFORMED "STREET SCENE", "ARROWSMITH", "THESE THREE", "DODSWORTH" INTO SCREEN TRIUMPHS, NOW "DEAD END" MORE THAN UPHOLDS THE GOLDWYN TRADITION.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

ON THE SCREEN

By HOWARD BARNES

Sylvia Sidney

"DEAD END" has been transferred to the screen as expertly and effectively as one might have expected. The riverfront slums of the Sidney Kingsley play, squatting in the shadow of elegant apartment houses, have been strikingly recreated. The same embryonic gangsters, curse and fight along the water's edge, while the loose narrative once more embraces romance and melodrama. It is an atmospheric motion picture as it was an atmospheric stage piece.

As sheer show it is excellent. Lillian Hellman has made a resourceful adaptation of the original, concentrating on the melodrama. The characterizations are incisive and plausible. William Wyler has explored every corner and alley of a dead-end square to give the narrative movement and excitement in his direction, and Samuel Goldwyn has endowed the film with his customarily generous production. Few values of the play have failed to survive the screen translation.

What distinguished "Dead End" from an ordinary melodramatic romance is, of course, its consideration of a cluttered tenement district as a breeding ground for gangsters. With Billy Halop, Leo Gorcey and the other youngsters of the play scavenging along the riverfront and emulating "Baby Face" Martin, a killer in search of his youth, the thesis is demonstrated in fascinating imagery and terse action. Much of the power of these scenes derives from the splendid portrayal of "Baby Face" by Humphrey Bogart, who creates a sinister background. It is against a sinister background. It is the kids, in their ruthless plundering of a rich boy from the palatial apartment house or their induction into more ruthless forms of violence, who contribute the real substance and flavor of the piece.

In "Dead End"

Joel McCrea and Wendy Barrie are asked to interpret the tenuous romance between a young architect forced back into his slums background by the depression and a broker's mistress living next door in palatial elegance.

McCrea is better with Sylvia Sidney, who impersonates the right-thinking sister of one of the little hoodlums with splendid power and restraint. Marjorie Main is fine as the bitter mother of "Baby Face," who greets his perilous return to see her by slapping him across the face, and Claire Trevor is good as the gangster's diseased childhood sweetheart.

The brooding and contrasting backgrounds and provocative consideration of gangster incubation make "Dead End" something more than a first-rate screen melodrama and it's that in any case.

"Dead End" Takes Over The Rivoli Theatre

Popular Stage Play Comes to Screen With the Usual Goldwyn Fidelity

By ARCHER WINSTEN

"Dead End" at the Rivoli Theatre achieves an effect precisely like that of the successful stage play which, to a large extent, it still is.

This is to be expected because not only have the very important juvenile members of the Broadway cast been taken to Hollywood, but also the Bel Geddes settings and the realistic Sidney Kingsley dialogue have been followed much more closely than is usual in translations from stage to screen.

Humphrey Bogart's part of the killer "Baby Face" Martin has been slightly expanded. Since he drives home the lesson of his career with greater force, the main thesis of the play, that slums produce gangsters, gains in strength.

Gimpy, the architect, now known as Dave, no longer limps as Joel McCrea, and, becoming more heroic than his predecessor, he is the one who accomplishes the gangster's downfall in a rather vicious exchange of gunfire for one unaccustomed to public killing.

It is a picture uniformly superior in acting. To name the good performances would be to list the cast. It is also a picture stating a serious truth about life in a Manhattan slum. That it should be able to speak seriously while providing asides of a highly entertaining nature means that it belongs close to the top of your preferred picture list, always providing you missed it on the stage.

Film China Battle For March of Time

A complete and graphic pictorial account of some of the highlights in the present Chinese-Japanese conflict in and about Shanghai is said to have been received yesterday by the March of Time, for inclusion in issue to be released Sept. 3. The company reported that the pictures were taken by Harrison Forman, staff cameraman for March of Time and Life in Shanghai.

The initial shipment, of more than 5,000 feet, was flown via Pan American plane from Hong Kong to San Francisco and transferred there to a United Airlines plane for New York, reaching here yesterday. The film was brought here from Shanghai by Mrs. Rae S. Murphy, wife of Dr. James B. Murphy, director of cancer research for the Rockefeller Institute. Mrs. Murphy was aided in getting away from Shanghai by Forman, and in return, undertook to be custodian for his film to New York. Forman chartered a launch and took Mrs. Murphy aboard a ship after a trip down the Whangpoo River under heavy shellfire.

Forman was originally assigned to Tibet, but flew back to Shanghai when hostilities broke out, to see to the safety of his wife and daughter. When they were en route to Manila, he undertook the war coverage, flying first to Hankow, then returning to film the first bombing of the International Settlement in Shanghai. Forman reported that he was arrested in Hankow by the Japanese Consular Police, and was forced to surrender some of the footage he had taken.

Schedule 'Horizon' At Popular Prices

Popular priced showing of "Lost Horizon" will start Sept. 1 with practically every major circuit in the country scheduled to exhibit the film at regular admissions. An extensive coincidental advertising campaign is now under way and this will be supplemented by widespread local publicity.

Among the circuits which will show the picture at popular prices are Loew's, Warners, RKO, Butterfield, Comerford-Publix, Schine, Sparks, Harris, Texas Consolidated, Malco, Chatkin & Feld, Feiber & Shea, Fabian, Harry Nace, Griffith and Wometco.

Roxy to Stage Contest

A Big Apple contest, dancing fad which is sweeping the south, will be put on at the Roxy starting Sept. 3, according to Jack Partington. College students at Columbia, S. C., and Charlotte, N. C., have been staging these dances and 14 winners will do their "appling."

The picture booked to start on the same date is "Thin Ice," which is scheduled to run three weeks. Following this will be "100 Men and a Girl," which will run indefinitely.

Pathe Mfg. Inactive

The recently formed Pathe Mfg. Corp. at Dover will not become active for sometime, it was stated yesterday at Pathe, parent company. Executives of the company have certain developments in mind which they are not ready to disclose.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Atlantic Flight"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—There is, of course, a wide open field for exploitation in "Atlantic Flight," since it features Dick Merrill, famous trans-Atlantic flyer and ace transport pilot. It is rather regrettable, then, that the vehicle with which he has been provided is not a stronger piece of work, either in basic story, production value or supporting cast.

The film emerges as program material, and no more, although it has a full measure of thrill action, in two flights by Merrill, a parachute jump or two, some expert plane handling in an air meet and a spectacular air crash in a race which is part of that meet. Then, of course, there is the flight of Merrill across the ocean and back, the latter half of which is accomplished through driving storms.

Merrill is more than satisfactory when he sits calmly and quietly behind the stick of a big ship, but when he attempts to perform, there is every evidence that he is no actor. He is too conscious of the camera and renders his lines in altogether too stilted a fashion. In support are Paula Stone and Weldon Heyburn, who carry the romance. William Nigh directed, William Berke produced and Scott Darling and Erna Lazarus wrote the story and screenplay.

Heyburn has entered a big race with his newly designed plane, and has Merrill, on leave from his transport job, to fly it for him. Meanwhile, Heyburn meets, fights with, then falls in love with Miss Stone, heiress and air enthusiast, who has a foreign count, after her money, to fly her plane in the race. The foreigner, whose marriage to the millions is dependent upon winning the race, damages Heyburn's plane and knocks out Merrill. Heyburn flies it, crashes, and Merrill makes his trans-Atlantic flight to bring a serum which saves Heyburn's life and his romance with Miss Stone. With Merrill flies Jack Lambie, his fellow-pilot in the recent actual flight, who plays a minor role in the film.

"Arsene Lupin, Detective"

(Film d'Art)

PARIS, Aug. 18.—The famous fictional hero, who sprang 25 years ago from the imagination of Maurice Leblanc, makes a return in this average French picture, directed by Henri Diamant-Berger.

The story could have made a good action and adventure picture. It seems that the preparation and, especially the screen play and the continuity, had been much neglected.

Action is rather slow and there are only a very few interesting scenes, which may give amusement or thrills. The best features are dialogue by Jean Nohain and cast, including well-known French players such as Jules Berry, the late Signoret, Suzy Prim, Abel Jacquit, Aimos, Gilles and Guillen, Rosine Déréan. "Arsene Lupin, Detective," is above all a popular film made for popular French audiences and holds little interest beyond.

Running time, 86 minutes. "G."

"Franco de Port"

("Carriage-Paid")

(Films Azur)

PARIS, Aug. 18.—This film, which deals with a story of white slavery, had considerable trouble with French censorship which, after having banned it, authorized it with many cuts.

The story is very depressing and unpleasant. It shows men sending women from Paris to South America and their fights with the French police, who at last arrest them. If the film has been made with a moral purpose in advising women against the danger of this traffic, it does not seem to have reached its purpose.

Direction by Dimitri Kirsanoff, is good in spots and there are some very artistic spots. But the action is slow and production unbalanced. The cast includes a few excellent French actors, such as Berval, Le Vigan, Lucas Gridoux, Azais and Nadia Sibirskaia.

Running time, 75 minutes. "A."

Revised Sixth Edition

F. H. RICHARDSON'S BLUEBOOK OF PROJECTION

The sixth edition of F. H. Richardson's Bluebook is now in its second printing, for which it has been extensively revised. In addition to revisions in text, it contains a supplementary chapter devoted to developments which have become important in projection room technique and servicing methods since the first printing.

The revised edition includes 736 pages of up-to-the-minute text, charts and data with detailed description of assembly, wiring and functioning of all modern sound and projection apparatus. It is a practical "trouble shooter," cross indexed for immediate reference in any projection room emergency.

campaign which will involve several of the nation's largest industries.

Details of the rumored plans have not been made known, but it is understood an early major step will be a request to Congress at the opening of the January session for "stop gap" legislation tightening up the anti-trust statutes, to be followed by permanent legislation revising and modernizing those laws.

The department's plans for attack against monopolistic practices are seen as a projection of the administration program for the regulation of "big business," previously evidenced in heavy corporation taxes, the proposed wage and hour measure and other legislation.

The campaign will involve a half-dozen of the largest industries in America, including, it is said, films, oil, steel, copper and cement. Investigations of the oil industry have been going on for the past two years, and studies of conditions in the film, steel and other industries are said to be now under way.

Fog, Bonfires, Hot Coffee Enliven "U's" Day in Open

By SHERWIN A. KANE

The first reports on the Jones Beach outing of the Universal Club began trickling in shortly after noon yesterday when the vanguard of discouraged picnickers who preferred work to fun on a fog-swept beach made its appearance.

The program was 90 minutes late in getting started. At 8:30 A.M. five buses swam out of the fog of West 49th Street, rounded the corner into 6th Ave. and halted at the curb in front of the Universal home office, all according to schedule. There were five indomitable committee workers on hand to greet them. An hour later two buses had been filled and after 30 minutes consultation, which consisted largely of unofficial weather predictions all in a hopeful vein, and one or two false starts occasioned by last minute searches for umbrellas and windbreakers, the cavalcade got under way for Wantagh.

The farther east they went, the thicker grew the fog. Every time a golf course was passed, with its beckoning lights from card and grill rooms four to 12 company officials—the old softies—dropped out and disappeared. The working committeemen began counting noses going over the causeway in fear that there wouldn't be enough left at the trip's end to get up a good poker game under the boardwalk.

A couple of hardy souls actually got into bathing suits later and made a couple of passes at the salt water pool without disturbing it overmuch. One or two actually ventured onto the beach, but whether or not they got into the water remained their own secret, well wrapped in fog.

Hot coffee drinking was voted the most popular pastime, with bonfire lighting running it a close second. Envious comments on those who were back in Radio City working in a warm, dry office began to be heard long before the second hot dog was consumed.

The Universal summer outing committee voted on the return journey to hold the 1938 party in the Customs House vaults under Radio City.

Thomson in on GOAA Charter Revocation

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, arrived here yesterday by plane from the coast to attend the special meeting of the Associated Actors and Artists of America to be held this afternoon at Actors Equity Ass'n headquarters. The meeting has been called for the sole purpose of hearing the answer of the Grand Opera Artists Ass'n to the charge that it failed to organize its field properly. The declared intention of Four A's officers is to revoke the G. O. A. A.'s A. F. of L. charter and turn it over to the unaffiliated American Guild of Musical Artists, headed by Lawrence Tibbett and other singers prominent in Hollywood.

Guild Reported Behind Move

It is reported that the Screen Actors Guild, now a dominant influence in the Four A's, is behind the move to obtain the A. F. of L. charter for the grand opera field for the Hollywood singers' guild. An effort to combine the two organizations is also being made, although the proposed amalgamation would not continue the G. O. A. A. in existence.

Thomson reported that while the I. A. T. S. E. board gave further consideration to the proposed affiliation of A. F. of L. theatrical unions, both talent and crafts, at its recent meeting in Seattle no plans have been made for another joint meeting of the individual unions on the plan. He plans to return to the coast tomorrow by plane.

May Make London's Tivoli a Weekly Run

LONDON, Aug. 19.—G.B. is contemplating making the Tivoli, once their premiere long-run house in London, a program house, running pictures on release on a weekly change policy. "Lost Horizon," which has just completed 18 weeks, may be the last long run picture in a house in which "Ben Hur" played for two years and which gave long pre-runs to the Chaplins.

Currently the Tivoli is pre-releasing "For You Alone," but it is generally regarded as having been displaced by the Gaumont, Haymarket, as G. B.'s big picture house.

"Melody" Holds Over

Five single week first runs of "Broadway Melody of 1938" have been extended to two weeks each, according to M-G-M. The spots are the State, Louisville; Palace, Washington; Stanley, Philadelphia; Vendome, Nashville, while in Pittsburgh the film shifts from the Penn to the Warner.

Continue Chicago Talks

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Conferences between exhibitors and the operators' union are still being held in an effort to reach an agreement before the expiration of the present contract Sept. 1.

The union is insisting upon a 20 per cent raise, but exhibitors protest that salaries are already above the country's average with overtime due to double bills.

of which was blocked by the I. A. T. S. E. because of a jurisdictional dispute). A provision of the tentative contract, as written by the producers, contained a similar clause.

During the seven weeks' strike of the painters, makeupmen and scenic artists' locals, painters' international groups here, and of several other unions, the C. I. O. was particularly active in giving financial aid, as well as supplying pickets, and it was believed that the John L. Lewis group had thought of gaining an entering wedge in the film industry labor picture. Many members of A. F. of L. groups here are highly sympathetic toward the C. I. O.

Technicians Talking Deal with the IATSE

Negotiations are under way between the I.A.T.S.E. and Film Technicians Independent Union whereby the latter organization would become a new unit in the international association with the power to negotiate contracts with all producers, it was learned yesterday.

Members of the Film Technicians Independent Union will meet tonight at Steinway Hall to vote on a proposed agreement. In the event the offer is not ratified election of officers will be held.

A meeting scheduled before the National Labor Relations Board yesterday was indefinitely postponed because of the pending deal with the I.A.T.S.E. The union was formed last April and is said to be comprised of men working for De Luxe Laboratory, Consolidated, H.E.R., Du Art, Mecca, Ace, Paramount News, Mercury, Movielab and Warner Cellulose Products.

Lockout in Five Local Houses

Five members of Local 306 were said to be locked out of as many Long Island theatres in the Interboro circuit yesterday, it was stated by the union. Negotiations between union representatives and Sam Baker, operating head of the circuit, had been in progress two days when the lockout followed.

A union spokesman stated that some of the men were working 77 hours a week. The operators joined Local 306 about a week ago. Theatres involved are the Laurelton, Laurelton; Little Neck, Little Neck; Linden, Linden; St. Albans, St. Albans; Island, Queens.

Meanwhile, sitdown strikes have ended at the Heights, Granada and Annex with the signing of Local 306 contracts. Operators are still in the Kameo, Bronx, booth with no signs of either side giving in.

Charles Kilburn, business agent for Local 306, negotiated the deals with the three independent operators.

Ambassador Plan Details Revealed

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Details of proposed financing of Ambassador Pictures, organized May 3, last, through a merger of Ambassador Pictures, Conn Pictures, Melody Pictures and Conn Studios, involving the issuance of 600,000 shares of $1 par common, to be sold to the public at $2.50 per share and to net the company $1,200,000 or more, were today laid before the S.E.C. in an application for registration.

Also filed with the commission were applications of Hollywood Famous Pictures, Los Angeles, for withdrawal of its registration statement filed Sept. 8, last, for 50,000 shares of preferred and 50,000 shares of common stock; and of Cinecolor, Inc., for deferment of the effective date of its registration statement filed Aug. 9 for 407,000 shares $1 par common stock.

Explains Company's Business

The Ambassador statement explained that the company will continue to do business, as in the past, by issuing pictures to distributors under five-year franchise contracts on a straight percentage basis.

Of the 600,000 shares of stock to be issued, 425,000 are reserved for options, at prices running from $3 per share up to Oct. 1, 1938, increasing $1 each year to $7 after Oct. 1, 1941, as follows: C. B. Ewart & Co., Inc., New York, proposed principal underwriters, 125,000 shares; Maurice Conn, for services, 150,000 shares; Robert W. Morris, for services, 25,000 shares; Marks & Malcom Trading Corp., for financing, 25,000 shares; Hays, Podell and Sherman, counsel, 37,500 shares and Harold A. Lerman, attorney, 11,500 shares, with an additional 50,000 shares reserved for employees, dealers and distributors.

Plan to Expend $1,675,000

The company, it was shown, plans to expend $1,675,000 during the coming year, as follows: production of 36 pictures, $1,100,000; distribution and overhead, $100,000; advertising and sales promotion, $50,000; purchase of release prints, $25,000, and payment of deferred liabilities, $175,000.

Five-year contracts were entered into Aug. 14 with Maurice Conn and Robert Morris, as general manager and treasurer, respectively, the former to receive $25,000 and the latter $12,500 for the first year with salaries for subsequent years to be fixed by agreement.

Morris Conn, president of the company, owns all of the 151,000 shares of stock now outstanding, and is to be considered as an underwriter with C. B. Ewart & Co.

RKO Sells Bamford

RKO's lineup has been sold to the Publix Bamford circuit in North Carolina. Responsible are Cresson E. Smith, western and southern sales manager; J. H. McIntyre, southern district manager; and R. C. Price, branch manager at Charlotte.

The deal affects the Auditorium, Palace, Imperial, Paramount and Plaza of Asheville.

Overseas Previews

"Le Grande Illusion"

("The Great Illusion")

(Realizations d'Art Cinematographique)

PARIS, Aug. 18.—This is the kind of picture which, above all, has genuine international appeal. The drama seems destined to touch the hearts of all those who see it, and it is, moreover, not only an achievement for French production but a credit to the industry at large.

Rarely until this film has the eternal conflict between nations been treated so humanely and so impartially. "La Grande Illusion" easily may tour the world and be accorded the identical praise with which it was welcomed in Paris. With it, Jean Renoir, French director, joins the ranks of the limited few whose work rates careful scrutiny.

Despite the fact that the atmosphere is that of the Great War, this is not a war picture and no battle scenes are shown. The film depicts life among French prisoners in a German concentration camp where men of different social classes in civilian life are united in a common desire to escape their captors. The chief characters are Capt. de Boeldieu, an aristocratic officer born of an army family; Lieut. Marechal, a mechanic who has won his stripes as an aviator, and Lieut. Rosenthal, a Jew, whose family has become resident in France only recently.

The three are sent to a well-guarded fortress of which Capt. von Rauffestein, a German air hero invalidated from active service by wounds is the governor. De Boeldieu sacrifices himself to aid the escape of his two comrades and is shot down by von Rauffestein, who had always admired him. Marechal and Rosenthal eventually reach Switzerland and safety after a few days of wandering during which they are befriended by a German war widow with whom Marechal falls in love.

The distinct merits in this film are not so much reflected in story power as in magnificent treatment. The film has about it an aura of real life. Emotion, laughter, heroism and a fair presentation of German officers and soldiers are among the attributes of this production which includes impressive and stirring scenes, always simply done.

The action is rapid and interest holds throughout. The dialogue by Charles Speak is clever and an excellent idea of introducing different languages, spoken by characters of various nationalities, has been utilized.

Jean Gabin, as Marechal, scores another outstanding success. Erich von Stroheim as von Rauffestein, Pierre Fresnay as de Boeldieu and Dalio as Rosenthal are likewise excellent. Particular mention is due Dita Parlo as the German war widow.

The story is an original by Speak and Renoir. Camera work by Christian Matras and Claude Renoir is top notch.

Running time, 120 minutes. "A."

"Mademoiselle Ma Mere"

(Films Sonores Tobis)

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Most of the quality of this amusing French film, directed by Henri Decoin, and adapted from a comedy by Louis Verneuil, comes from its excellent dialogue, which is light and witty, and from the cast, led by the French star, Danielle Darrieux, who will soon be leaving for Hollywood, where she has been engaged by Universal.

The film is based on an original idea which gives it title to the film. "Mademoiselle Ma Mere" ("Miss Mother") is a modern and erratic young girl, who, fed up because her father wants her to marry some one she dislikes, proposes marriage to the first man she meets, in this case, an old but very rich widower, who has a 25-year-old son, a doctor. The wedding takes place, but the young girl refuses to become the real wife of the old man. The son and his young stepmother perpetually quarrel, but eventually discover that they are in love, and the first match is cancelled to give way to a real marriage between the son and "Mademoiselle," his stepmother.

This subject provides excellent entertainment. There is plenty of comedy, and much dialogue, which may handicap the exploitation of the film in English speaking countries.

The original story, besides being of value for exploitation in the original version, may be a good remake for Hollywood producers.

Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

Martini Film Completed

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26. — Shooting has been finished on "Music for Madame," RKO film starring Nino Martini, tenor, whose songs include numbers written for the picture by Rudolf Friml, Nathaniel Shilkret and Gus Kahn.

Emerson Goes Fishing

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—Ted Emerson, exploiteer for Tri-States, and Mrs. Emerson are on a fishing trip to Mantrap Lake, Minn. Emerson caught enough fish on a previous trip to Mantrap Lake early this summer to supply all his friends.

Short Subjects

"Jungle Menace"

(Columbia)

If the first three chapters are a basis for a prediction of what is to come, then this serial lands short of its mark. In spite of an imposing cast of featured players and the very salable name of Frank Buck the hokum of the brand usually doled out in serials is absent. The consistent action which the juvenile trade demands is replaced by a dragging and wordy story.

Buck's activities enter into the picture of rubber planting in the Malay jungles due to his friendship with Charlotte Henry's father. At the outset it is made evident that American gangsters are after the rubber, illegally smuggling it out of the country. Their activities lead to a few murders and frustrated attempts on Buck's life. The police enter the yarn after the third killing and the pursuit and tracking of the gang last for the remainder or the 15 chapters. Thereby hangs the tale.

Miss Henry and William Bakewell supply a rather harum-scarum romantic interest. The skullduggery is carried out by LeRoy Mason, Richard Tucker, Dirk Thane and Duncan Renaldo. Sasha Siemel, a Brazilian "tiger" man, will make good exploitation material. Louis Weiss produced and George M. Melford and Harry Fraser directed.

Each chapter runs about 20 minutes. "G."

"Murder in Swingtime"

A snappy, modern and tuneful 10 minutes of entertainment is unreel in this short. The cast is composed of colored entertainers and it is set first in a night club and then in a mock court. The theme concerns the murder of "Dinah." The various musicians are tried and Pico Pete is found guilty in the rhymed court proceedings. However, he wakes and finds he was only dreaming. It is good stuff that will measure up satisfactorily. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Arnold Johnson and His Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

These band numbers can always be relied upon to deliver satisfactory entertainment. Featured here are the Three Orchids, the Three Sirens, a dance team and, of course, snappy tunes by the orchestra. It is cleverly presented. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Frozen Affair"

Jack Norton injects rather silly comedy into the filming of Evelyn Chandler's and Bruce Mape's thrilling maneuvers on ice skates. The short is well photographed and will be favorably received. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Sunbonnet Blue"

(Vitaphone)

A clever color cartoon that features the hilarious goings-on of a number of mice in a hat shop. The surrounding lends itself to the general gayety. It has the usual variety show stuff and the pursuit of the villain. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Artists" Is Held In Fourteen Cities

Newark, for four weeks; the Stanley, Philadelphia; Fox, San Francisco; Paramount; Seattle; Palace, Milwaukee; U. S., Paterson; Denham, Denver; Paramount, Los Angeles; Capitol, Worcester; Circle, Indianapolis; Majestic, Houston; Allyn, Hartford; Paramount, New Haven, for two weeks.

In addition, the picture has been moved from the Fox, San Diego, to the Orpheum, for a second week. At the Minnesota, Minneapolis, the opening day's take was reported by Paramount to be the largest of any musical that has played the theatre.

On the first day of the fourth week at the local Paramount, "Artists and Models" took in $5,200, it was stated by Bob Weitman, manager. The only other picture to play the house four weeks in the past year was "The Big Broadcast," in which Benny also appeared. The current attraction beat its predecessor by $500 for the same day of the run.

From Newark, Paramount received word that the intake for the first day of the fourth week was bigger than the corresponding day for the preceding week.

Chicago Exchanges To Move in October

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. — Universal, United Artists and Columbia exchanges move southward this fall to their new building at 13th and Wabash. The new headquarters will be ready about Oct. 1 and will be one of the most modern exchange buildings in the country. The M-G-M, Warner, Paramount and Republic exchanges are now located in that area and it is reported 20th Century-Fox will build there this year and move into new quarters some time next summer or next fall.

Theatre Profit £4,903

SYDNEY, Aug. 4. (By Air Mail via London).—Carroll - Musgrove Theatres, Ltd., which operates the Prince Edward here with exclusive Paramount product, returned a profit of £4,903 for the year ended June 30, 1937. The figures compare with £5,741 for the previous year and £7,281 for 1935. In their report the directors pay a tribute to Paramount product by stating that "since last December there has been a marked improvement in the entertainment value of films shown at the company's theatre."

To Have Schlaifer Prize

A silver spur trophy will be awarded to the United Artists western division branch turning in the largest number of contracts during the L. Jack Schlaifer drive, Aug. 29 to Oct. 2. Jack Goldhar and Ben Fish, district managers, will head the five-week sales campaign celebrating Schlaifer's 25th anniversary in the business.

Elliott City Manager

CANTON, O., Aug. 18.—Wallace Elliott, who has been managing Warners' Ohio here, has been named city manager at Lima, where Warners operate the Ohio, Sigma and State. He is succeeded here by Ben Schwartz, who previously was in charge of the Ohio at Lima.

Broadcasters Call Meeting Here Sept. 10

R. Rosenbaum, WFIL, Philadelphia; Emile Gough, vice-president of Hearst Radio, Inc.; Edward W. Craig, WSM, Nashville; and John J. Gillin, Jr., WOW, Omaha, and Mark Ethridge, WSAM, St. Louis. The complete text of the letter follows:

"You are, of course, familiar with the demands served by the American Federation of Musicians on the broadcasting industry July 30. They have been published in the trade journals although not delivered directly to the stations. The industry is faced with the likelihood of a general strike of musicians in all branches of radio production unless, before Sept. 16, satisfactory progress has been made toward the adoption of a program of increased employment of members of the Federation by the radio industry generally.

Decreased Employment Cited

"It is not necessary to review in detail the history behind these demands. The Federation's complaint arises from the alleged decreased employment of musicians in the whole industry, due to increased use by the stations of service from the networks, electrical transcriptions and records, and especially the widely prevailing use of remote controls by which dance music from hotels and restaurants is broadcast by stations which do not maintain staff musicians. The Federation's convention at Louisville, in June, ordered the Executive Council of the Federation to obtain prompt action from the broadcasting and recording industries or call a general strike of musicians, the date for which has been tentatively set for Sept. 16, 1937.

"In conferences between the Executive Council of the Federation and representatives of the national networks and the NAB, it was pointed out that neither the networks nor the NAB had any authority to commit individual station owners to any agreement with the Federation or any local. Nevertheless, the Federation's position was unchanged that it is up to the industry to find a solution, and a strike will be called unless the industry gets together.

Recordings Would Be Affected

"Withdrawal of union musicians from all stations, including the key stations of the networks, and from the recording factories would obviously have the result of depriving all stations, no matter how operated, of network service involving music and of any other recordings and transcriptions than those already fabricated.

"Being faced with this situation, invitations were sent to all the radio stations independently owned which are affiliated with the three nationwide networks: NBC, Columbia and Mutual. There are 271 such stations. The invitations were sent by a group of 13 station owners at the suggestion of Barry Bingham, WHS, Louisville. Acceptances were received from owners or representatives of 161 stations, who met in New York Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 23 and 24.

"On Aug. 23 the meeting heard full reports of the discussions which had taken place to that date with Mr. Weber and his associates from Mark Woods, of NBC; Herbert Akerberg, of Columbia; Fred Weber, of Mutual, and James W. Baldwin, of NAB. The demands were fully discussed. As a result, the unanimous action of the meeting was to elect a representative committee to confer with the executive officers of the Federation and bring back a report to the meeting with recommendations to the industry. The committee elected are as follows: William S. Hedges, WLW, Cincinnati, chairman; Samuel R. Rosenbaum, WFIL, Philadelphia; Edwin M. Craig, WSM, Nashville; E. J. Gough, Hearst Radio, Inc.; John J. Gillin, Jr., WOW, Omaha, and Mark Ethridge, WHS, Louisville, ex officio, as permanent chairman of the meeting.

Hope to Draft Formula

"The committee conferred with Joseph Weber and executive officials of the Federation on Tuesday, Aug. 24. This conference was opened with a statement from the committee to the Federation, of which a copy is enclosed to inform you of the attitude and approach which the committee regarded as covered by its instructions.

"The Federation officials definitely informed the committee that they were under a mandate from the Louisville convention to see to it that prompt measures are taken by the radio industry to find employment for a large number of musicians on a permanent basis. The committee had no authority to negotiate and, therefore, after this preliminary conference, the committee reported back to the meeting that evening. The session expressed its confidence in the committee, and adjourned after adopting a resolution to continue the committee with instructions to negotiate with the Federation, although without power to conclude an agreement, and to report back to a further session of the representatives to be called during the week before Sept. 16, 1937.

Suggests a "Yard-stick"

"It is the hope of the committee, in further conferences with the officials of the Federation and as a result of factual investigations to be conducted by it, to be able to arrive at a formula or yard-stick which will be agreed upon between the committee and the Federation officials as setting forth a program of expenditure by each station which will be regarded as fair. This yard-stick will in all likelihood be based upon agreement by the station to expend for union musicians, weekly, a sum of money which is a factor of the station's maximum quarter-hour national rate, as published in the standard rate books.

To Be Recommended to Networks

"If such a formula can be arrived at, the committee will recommend it to the network affiliates and to all broadcasters in the industry. The national networks have indicated their willingness to cooperate with the committee in its investigations and further discussions with the Federation. The network representatives also pledged themselves not to make any deal for themselves with the Federation without notice to this committee.

"It must be pointed out that the committee was not given, and will not accept, authority to bind any station. The most the committee will undertake to do is to define a formula of fair dealing between the industry and the Federation. Thereafter it will be optional with every station whether to adopt or reject a contract with its respective local, based on the formula.

"The committee hopes to be able to agree with the Federation on standard clauses for such contracts, making uniform the general outline for all stations and all locals, leaving, however, to further negotiation between stations and locals, the detailed rates of pay and hours of employment for each man within the framework of the amount of money to be agreed upon for weekly or annual expenditure. The committee believes the Federation officials will be willing to make provision for exceptional situations which may exist with individual stations.

Committee to Be Authorized

"If such a formula can be arrived at, it will be up to the industry to decide whether it chooses to bear the cost and interruption of service caused by a strike, or to accept the burden imposed by the agreement and avoid hostilities. There will be no solution unless a substantial majority of network affiliates accept the agreement. Network service will not be possible unless this is done. It is for this reason the committee has been authorized, in pursuance of its duties, to negotiate between the stations and the networks, if necessary, regarding the burden of any settlement before it is accepted.

"It is the hope of the committee that network and non-network stations will, for the good of the industry, recognize that an effort has been made to solve an economic problem which is facing the entire industry as well as union musicians, and will be willing to adopt the solution, if any, recommended by the committee. In this connection it might be added that the committee was informed by the Federation officials that the transcription companies have already tentatively agreed to the terms required by the Federation. If these are carried out no station will be able to receive further transcription or recording service unless it is on the Federation's fair list.

Seeks Cooperation of Broadcasters

"The committee calls upon all broadcasters to cooperate with the committee in the solution of this difficult problem. Promptness in answering requests for information from the committee is essential. Please answer fully, accurately and immediately the NAB questionnaire. The facts to be collected are essential to the conduct of our negotiations. The committee will give prompt notice to the industry of developments as they occur.

"The committee hereby notifies the network affiliated stations to attend a meeting in New York City at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel at 9:30 A. M., Sept. 10. It is essential that your

Seven Mutual Shows In Revision of Time

Seven of Mutual's better sustaining periods are slated to undergo revisions in broadcasting time. The program titles and the new schedules follow:

"Let's Visit," currently heard Mondays from 8:30 to 9 P. M., will be heard Tuesdays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. beginning Sept. 7.

Corinna Mura's "International Salon," which has been absent from the airways for the past several weeks, returns to a new broadcasting period beginning this Monday, from 8:30 to 9 P. M.

Pat Barnes' "Opera House," which has been heard Thursdays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. will be offered Mondays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. beginning Aug. 30.

"Jazz Nocturne" is vacating the Monday 8 to 8:30 P. M. period, which has been sold to Hearn Department Store, and will be broadcast Tuesdays from 8 to 8:30 P. M. beginning Aug. 30.

"Symphonic Strings," heard Mondays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. will be offered Tuesdays from 10 to 10:30 P. M. beginning Aug. 31.

"Music By —" now heard Tuesdays from 8 to 8:30 P. M., will be offered Thursdays at the same time after Sept. 2.

"Sinfonietta," currently broadcast Tuesdays from 10 to 10:30 P. M., beginning Sept. 2, will be offered Thursdays from 9:30 to 10 P. M.

KSO Seeks Increase In Power from FCC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Application for an increase in power from 500 watts night, 2,500 watts day, to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day has been filed with the F. C. C. by KSO, Des Moines.

An application to increase power from 500 to 1,000 watts has been received from Station WMBG, Richmond.

The commission also has received a report from Examiner Tyler Berry, recommending an increase of day power for Station WGL, Fort Wayne, Ind., from 100 to 250 watts.

KJBS and KQW Add Accounts

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26. — New accounts using KJBS-KQW include Club Deauville, Mark Morris Tires, Electric Appliance Co. and Parrott and Company.

Sartell Prentice Joins WDRC

HARTFORD, Aug. 26.—Sartell Prentice, Jr., for the past two years with the "March of Time" writing scripts and publicity for both the screen and radio features, has joined the staff of WDRC here, where he will write commercial continuity.

New A. M. Show for KLZ

DENVER, Aug. 26.—A new early morning program, "Ladies Aide," has been added to KLZ. This program, at present without a sponsor, is handled with the idea of combining sense with nonsense in the "Sisters of the Skillet" manner. The characters, as yet anonymous, will attempt to answer all questions sent to them. At present, it is placed only as a sustainer to start the necessary mail.

New Orleans Station Is Formally Opened

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—Joseph P. Skelly, commissioner of public properties; H. Van R. Chase, general manager of the Assn. of Commerce, and other public officials spoke at the new WSMB transmitter grounds on the Behrman Highway in Algiers in connection with the initiation of regular operations at the new station.

New equipment, installed at a cost of $50,000, includes the latest design of high-efficiency antenna and transmitting apparatus which will double the present signal strength. An additional expenditure of $30,000 is planned subject to final approval by the F.C.C. of an application to operate with 5,000 watts.

Television Started In Selfridge Store

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The first public television theatre was opened here in the Selfridge store. The programs will be run like a motion picture showing, except that no charge for admission will be made.

The programs are under the direction of Sir Stephen Tallents of BBC.

Leslie Joy on Committee

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26. — Leslie Joy, station manager of KYW, has been appointed to the Pennsylvania Constitution Commemoration Committee by Gov. George H. Earle.

Hamilton New WRDW Head

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—Thomas J. Hamilton, former editor of the Augusta Chronicle, has become vice-president of the Augusta Broadcasting Co., which operates WRDW.

M. E. Kent WTOL Manager

TOLEDO, Aug. 26.—M. E. Kent, for several years commercial manager of WJBK, Detroit, has been named general manager of WTOL, new local station.

Anderson of KMMJ Injured

CLAY CENTER, Neb., Aug. 26.—A. R. (Andy) Anderson, KMMJ salesman, is in a Hastings (Neb.) hospital with chest injuries and double fracture of the left elbow suffered when his car and a truck collided northwest of here. Physicians say he will recover.

Philco Exports Show Gain

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Last year the export business in Philco radio sets was 25 per cent greater than the previous year. The present year, 1937, will show at least a 50 per cent gain over 1936, according to Walter S. Cranmer, Philco export manager. Better still, he points out, the average export dollar unit is steadily climbing.

WKY Talent on Stage

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26. — On the networks, the stage supplies many entertainers for radio, but in Oklahoma City the situation had been reversed, with WKY contributing artists for stage entertainments. The Liberty in recent weeks has featured Billy Wright and his Swinging Strings, Jack Wilson and his Musical Diary, and the Arkansawyers—all WKY air attractions.

Uses Sheep, Turkeys

DENVER, Aug. 26. — The grasshopper plague that visited Colorado inflicted considerable damage to the land-scaping adjoining the KLZ transmitter. The result was so disheartening that Tom McClelland, chief engineer, imported a flock of turkeys and 20 sheep—the lambs to gnaw the grass down to the roots, the turkeys to devour the hoppers. The plan was very effective until someone lifted the bars permitting the lambs to escape.

As a result, the entire staff turned out to look for them. After considerable searching they were located in a nearby garage. Their problem now is whether or not they should employ a night herder.

KOY Starts Leased Transradio Service

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 26.—KOY has inaugurated Transradio leased teletype wire service and is now broadcasting news on a greatly expanded scale to meet new advertiser demands.

Previously, the station received Transradio service direct by wireless, but now has enlarged its news programs by signing for additional service and simultaneously organizing its own local and regional news coverage. Special correspondents have been engaged throughout the state.

News manager of the station is Gerald Gordon. He is assisted by a staff of four.

Edith Dickson Joins WLS

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Edith Dickson, formerly with the Chicago Herald-Examiner and the Chicago Daily News is the new publicity contact at WLS replacing Virginia Seeds who resigned to take a vacation and do some free lance writing.

Fred Hessler Joins WTAQ

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 26.—Fred J. Hessler, formerly an announcer at WHBL, Sheboygan, has been added to the staff of WTAQ here. In addition to his announcing, Hessler will take part in dramatic presentations and will also write dramatic sketches.

Maddox Takes Chicago Post

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 26. — Ralph Maddox, production director and announcer for WJDX, Jackson, Miss., has joined the production department of NBC in Chicago. Maddox has been replaced at WJDX by Jack Simpson of Chicago, who was formerly with NBC and a graduate of the NBC Announcers' School.

Try Home Town Programs

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 26.—The home town pride angle has been put to work by WKY for the benefit of a group of wholesalers engaged in selling Oklahoma City as a wholesale buying market. Each Sunday afternoon WKY presents a home talent program from this trade territory, in which a local celebrity is given an opportunity to tell about the advantages of the area. All musicians are drawn from Oklahoma City.

New Branch Is Added As KMOX Promotion

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—Solidifying plans for the fall buying season, James D. Shouse, general manager of KMOX, CBS outlet here, has created a new department for coordinating sales presentation with Lou Nelson in charge. Nelson will work with the salesmen and clients and will supervise the creation of printed matter, etc., that buyers of time wish to distribute to prospects.

Nelson's old post as sales promotion manager has been filled by J. Souard Johnson, formerly advertising manager of the General American Life Insurance Co. of this city.

Eichorst Is Promoted

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Marvin H. Eichorst, NBC Chicago studio-field engineer, has been promoted to control relief supervisor. Hubert F. Abfalter and Minor J. Wilson have been added to the NBC Chicago staff as studio-field engineers.

Sherwood Made KCMO Manager

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26. — Larry Sherwood, formerly with KMBC, has been made manager of KCMO. Lee Roberts becomes program director. A. F. Schliecker, who has been manager since the station was organized, will devote his entire time to sales.

30 Minutes of "Boners"

DENVER, Aug. 26. — The KLZ's "Boners' Court" has been moved up from a 15-minute spot to a 30-minute period at the request of the listeners. The program, during which the announcers are brought to trial on charges preferred by the listeners and fined a dime when found guilty, has for a judge Arthur Wuth, KLZ program director.

Chamberlain to KLZ

DENVER, Aug. 26. — Howard R. Chamberlain, chief announcer of WLS, Chicago, has been recruited to KLZ in Denver spot as production chief. While at WLS, Chamberlain handled the National Barn dance for Alka Seltzer and NBC. He then joined the staff of KMA, Shenandoah, Ia., and now comes to Denver particularly to provide the "network touch" for the many programs included on KLZ's fall feature list.

Two New WTAQ Accounts

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 26.—W. C. Webster, sales director of WTAQ reports the addition of two new accounts. The Belson Co. will present a weekly series of transcribed 15-minute variety shows titled "Glodeen Matinee," plugging Glodeen, a washing powder, beginning Aug. 31. Eugene Wald, local merchant, sponsors a new 15-minute news period daily.

Invites Broadcast Listeners

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—L. B. Wilson, president and general manager WCKY, NBC basic Blue, is distributing 10,000 engraved invitations to men and women in southern Ohio, northern and central Kentucky and eastern Indiana, inviting them to tune in every weekday at 8:30 A. M., E. S. T., for "News for Executives."

Reserves Decision On Fight Injunction

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday reserved decision on the action for an injunction brought to prevent Transradio Press Service and Radio News Ass'n from broadcasting any type of description during the progress of the Louis-Far fight, scheduled for last night, but postponed until Monday night because of rain.

Pecora gave the defendants until today at 4 P. M. to file briefs and probably will render his decision before Monday. The plaintiffs in the action are the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, Inc., NBC and Arthur Kudner, Inc., advertising agency. The rights to broadcast were sold to NBC for Buick sponsorship for $35,000. The injunction to restrain any broadcast was based on two grounds, first, unfair competition, and secondly, a clause on the tickets forbidding any use of the tickets for broadcast purposes. The defendants declined to indicate the method they planned.

Justice Pecora indicated that if the method involved material gathered inside the stadium during the progress of the fight, he would be inclined to grant the injunction. The two radio news services are understood to have sent out bulletins offering all stations, at $10 per station, a description of the fight during its progress, but not a "blow-by-blow" description.

KELO, Sioux Falls To Go on NBC Nets

KELO, Sioux Falls, S. D., will join NBC as a supplementary station available to either the basic Red or Blue networks, beginning Sept. 5. The station will be available to advertisers only during those periods when KSOO, of the same city, is not operating. Both stations are owned by the Sioux Falls Broadcasting Corp.

KELO is a full-time, 100-watt station. KSOO operates only until local sunset, and has a power of 2,500 watts. With the acquisition of the new member, NBC network affiliate stations will number 138.

Congress Members to Resume Broadcasting

The weekly talks by senators and congressmen in Washington, featured over WMCA and the Inter-City Broadcasting System during the past congressional session, will be renewed when Congress meets again, it was announced yesterday.

Given under the auspices of the National Council for the Prevention of War, the series was entitled "The Road to Peace" and originated in the studios of WOL, Inter-City key station in Washington.

Texaco Final Sunday Broadcast Sept. 12

The Texaco Gas series will make its final Sunday broadcast Sept. 12, and after a lapse of several weeks will be heard over CBS Wednesdays from 8:30 to 9 P. M., the period soon to be vacated by Ken Murray. The complete Texaco talent lineup for the new series includes Eddie Cantor, Deanna Durbin, Pinky Tomlin, Jacques Renard's orchestra, Jimmy Wallington and Saymore Saymore.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Paul White, head of the public affairs department of CBS in New York, told some amusing incidents concerning the lackadaisical attitude of B. B. C. employees in England. Speaking informally after a press luncheon here last week, he described his recent adventures in airing the Coronation procession. Noticing that a two-mile stretch was not covered by radio announcers along the route, White said to an attache of B. B. C.: "Suppose some crackpot took a shot at the King and Queen along here. What about covering that eventuality for the air audience?" The attache replied, coldly: "That, Mr. White, would be a matter for Scotland Yard to handle." White has left for the northwest with Fox Case, who holds a similar position here, to arrange for the airing of the National Amateur Golf tournament at Portland for National Biscuit Co.

Walter Johnson has taken over James Bloodworth's post as continuity editor and producer at KHJ. Bloodworth has gone to William Esty office. . . . Additions to the expanding KHJ staff in preparation for a heavy fall production schedule are Franklin Bingham and Floyd Mack as announcers, James Burton as chief announcer replacing John Coste, resigned. Other additions in writer-producer ranks are expected. . . . Arthur Bryan has joined the writing staff of KHJ to handle the script on "Ecstasy," new coast-to-coast show.

Gus Arnheim will broadcast from the Palomar in Los Angeles beginning Sept. 10, with CBS presenting the Arnheim music thrice weekly. . . . Add Irving Conn to the ever-growing list of bandleaders who are yachtsmen. . . . Ralph Kirberry celebrated his birthday this week. . . . Parks Johnson with his family are motoring to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. . . . The Locust Sisters will make their air debut over WMCA Sunday at 6 P. M. . . . Spencer Drake has replaced Lester Tremayne in the cast of "Betty & Bob."

Cincinnati Town Pump

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26. — Jimmy Scribner, radio's "one man show," is making a farewell appearance at Coney Island, local river resort, preparatory to opening on the Mutual web in his "The Johnson Family" program, in which he impersonates the 22 characters in addition to writing the script and producing the show. . . . WKRC, CBS-owned station, is featuring Frank R. Waldron, local field investigator and internal revenue tax collector, in a series of three broadcasts in which he discusses the Social Security Act. . . . More than 3,000 letters from all sections of the country were received by WLW asking that the "Mad Hatterfield" program be continued when that station recently aired a request for listeners' opinions. It is a dramatic musical written by Carolyn Clark.

Omaha Town Pump

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—Ray Olson is announcing the Musical Clock program of discs now being sponsored from 7:30 to 8 A. M. five days a week on WOW by Hayden's store. . . . Lee Gotch, Les Gillette and Bob Krumenacher, the Three Notes, gave a special broadcast from WOW before ending an Omaha vacation and returning to WBBM, Chicago. Gillette is a new member of the act. . . . John J. Gillin, Jr., manager of WOW, and Mrs. Gillin are back from an Ozark vacation, Gillin's first in 10 years. . . . Announcer Tom Chase of "Uncle Tom's Playhouse" Saturday mornings on WOW, has returned from his Lake Okobojii vacation. . . . During the absence of Announcer John K. Chapel, in Europe, Russ Baker is working on WOW's "Your's Truly, Mr. Dooley" program.

Philadelphia Town Pump

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Ben Gimbel, WIP president, has returned from a Maine vacation, and Vice-President Al Cormier will leave Aug. 27 for the Pennsylvania mountains. . . . the piano team of Dave Mann and Gene Irwin heard over WFIL-Mutual last season, is grooming a new series for this fall. . . . the announcing staff at WCAU will start a five-day, 40-hour week Sept. 1. . . . after the close of the baseball season, Bill Dyer, WCAU sports announcer, will spend a month in California. . . . The local Federal Theatre Project and Federal Writers' Project are preparing a weekly dramatization on WIP based on the life of Thaddeus Stevens. . . . WCAU has prepared a series of non-political broadcasts in the interest of public opinion for a discussion of "Should Sitting Judges Be Supported" at the forthcoming primary and general elections. . . . Harold Davis, WDAS production head, is in New York on a vacation. . . . Roger Williams and Carlotta Dale, KYW staff singers, are back on the program schedules. . . . George Jaspert, of the KYW sales staff will leave Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital minus an appendix.

San Francisco Town Pump

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Few KYA dialers know that the singing star of "Midday Merry-Go-Round" is only 12 years old. She is Marjorie Orwig, whose voice registers in a mature tone. . . . Nancy Coleman has been replaced by Gladys Heen in the title role of KPO's Gloria Gale. . . . Dick Ellers has been named chief announcer at KPO during the absence of Bill Andrews. . . . Gordon Brown has resigned as emcee of KJBS' "Night Owl" program, after handling the midnight-to-dawn shift six years. . . . Marjorie Rambeau, now appearing in a new play, is a favorite for local radio interviewers.

Farrar Joins Taplinger

Robert S. Taplinger, who has returned to New York from Hollywood, brings word that Jerry Farrar, publicity relations executive and vice-president of National Box Office Digest, has resigned from that publication for a post with the Hollywood office of Robert S. Taplinger, Inc. Farrar, who operated his own public relations offices in Los Angeles, also was advertising manager of Daily Variety. Another addition to the Taplinger Hollywood branch is Tommy White, merchandising and personality publicist.

Two Series Return To CBS on Sept. 7

Two sponsored series which have been absent for the summer months have been signed to return to CBS, both beginning Sept. 7.

The Al Jolson series for Lever Bros., after an absence of 10 weeks, will be heard, as in the past, Tuesdays from 8:30 to 9 P. M., and will continue to originate in Hollywood. In addition to Jolson, the series will feature Martha Raye, Victor Young's orchestra, and Parkyakarkus. Guest artists will be offered every other broadcast. McCann-Erickson is the agency.

Phil Lord's "We the People," previously offered as a Sunday afternoon feature, will be heard Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8 P. M., General Foods Corp. sponsoring for Sanka Coffee. Lord will again produce and direct the series. Young & Rubicam is the agency.

"Zenith Foundation" To Start on Sept. 5

"Zenith Foundation Program" is the title which has been selected for the new series sponsored by the Zenith Radio Co., which will be inaugurated over the NBC-Blue from 10 to 10:30 P. M., Sept. 5.

Zenith is attempting to cloak the program in mystery by refusing to state what it will consist of, other than by saying that it will deal with a subject "which still baffles the greatest scientists in the world." Zenith goes on to say in serious vein that "the radio listener will take a personal role in explaining an uncharted realm which may lead to discoveries of infinite possibilities to mankind."

Ten Canada Stations Take P. & G. Series

The "P & G Rangers," an electrically transcribed show featuring Carson Robison, will be broadcast over 10 Canadian stations in the interest of P. & G. White Naphtha Soap beginning Aug. 30. The contract was placed by Compton agency.

The stations are: CFCN, Calgary; CJCA, Edmonton; CHNS, Halifax; CKCO, Ottawa; CKCK, Regina; CFQC, Saskatoon; CFRB, Toronto; CJOR, Vancouver; CJRC, Winnipeg, and CFCF, Montreal.

McGrady RCA Vice-President

Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, will leave his Government post next month to become vice-president in charge of labor relations of RCA. McGrady, it is said, was selected for the post by David Sarnoff before the RCA president left for Europe. His salary will be in the neighborhood of $25,000 a year, it is reported.

Coca Cola Adds Stations

Coca Cola, which signed originally for 91 CBS stations, has extended the number to 95 for its series which will be inaugurated Sept. 10. The added stations are located in Duluth, Great Falls, Reno, Mason City and Missoula. KMBC in Kansas City has been canceled.

Al Williamson Quits NBC

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Al Williamson, publicity director for NBC here, today resigned to become assistant publisher of the Minneapolis Star.

. and can she write!

. . . This is Miss Jane Fauntz . . . and by now you've noticed the little gadget on her swim suit . . . it's her Olympic Swim team shield (all right then you knew that!!) Then you know what her "by line" means for audience appeal.

Well . . . she's writing our feature

"THE WEAKER SEX"

She says women are NOT the weaker sex by a long shot . . . and sets out to prove it by writing a snappy, breezy 15 minute newscast once a week . . . she tells of the almost unbelievable things women have accomplished during the week . . . she gives some slants on women in the sports-light . . . and she gives some mighty sound advice on how to enjoy strenuous athletics, and still keep a truly feminine figure.

Who would be more capable of writing about the women in the news than this versatile figure in the international world of sports?

Who has a better right to brag about the accomplishments of women in this day and age of competition in all walks of life?

And who, (you can see for yourself) has a more perfect reason to prove that women can accomplish what they set out to do?

Write for sample script

VCA radio news features are expertly written for radio. They require only one announcer for production. Because so many stations are using these features successfully, the prices are amazingly low.

CIO Reported Setting Drive In Air Field

Plan Follows Victory of A. R. T. A. at WHN

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—C. I. O. leaders here were today reported preparing to initiate a strenuous drive to organize broadcasting stations as a result of their victory before the National Labor Relations Board, which held the American Radio Telegraphists' Ass'n, a C. I. O. affiliate, the exclusive bargaining agency for broadcasting engineers at Station WHN, New York.

The A. R. T. A. has agreements with some 15 other broadcasting stations throughout the country.

The fight for control of the engineers at WHN was between the A. R. T. A. and I. A. T. S. E., an

Televise Daily from Exposition in Paris

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, Aug. 19.—A television studio has been constructed in the radio pavilion at the Paris Exposition, from which daily television broadcasts are transmitted. Three systems are used: Thomson Houston, Barthelemy and Radio Industries.

The first used was the Thomson Houston. There is high definition of 455 lines, and complete absence of flicker. The aerial has been installed atop the Eiffel Tower, 900 feet in the air. The studio is connected by cable

Crosley Will Rebuild WLW-WSAI Stations

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—The Crosley Radio Corp., in an effort to separate broadcasting from manufacturing, will construct a new $1,000,000 broadcasting building and research center to house stations WLW and WSAI. Work on the project will get under way within two weeks.

In announcing the proposed new building Powell Crosley, Jr., president, stated that the plan is a part of the company's policy of ploughing back into improved broadcasting earnings made possible because of the widespread service rendered by the 500,000-watt transmitter of WLW.

Advance Merger of Two Singers' Unions

A proposal to merge the unaffiliated American Guild of Musical Artists, which includes most of the Hollywood musical stars, with the old established Grand Opera Artists Ass'n, an A. F. of L. affiliate, was approved yesterday by committees representing the two organizations.

The merger plan must be approved by the board of governors of the American Guild and the members of the G. O. A. A. on or before Monday, in order to be made operative. The approvals, however, are regarded as routine in view of the advance action by the executive committees of Directors Retaining Brennan as Attorney

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—The Screen Directors' Guild has retained Barry Brennan as its attorney. The organization foresees the possibility of legal battles to preserve its identity in seeking to be recognized as the sole bargaining agency for both directors and assistants.

Following the refusal of the guild board of directors to consider the producers' proposal that bargaining be done separately for directors and assistants and unit managers, the board

Cocalis, Reade Engaged in Theatre Battle at Hudson

HUDSON, N. Y., Aug. 27.—This town is now witnessing an intense film buying and theatre construction fight which has aroused keen interest in exhibition circles. Walter Reade and Sam Cocalis are the competitors in the race.

Reade recently acquired a site and has started building the Community, which he plans to open about Oct. 15. Cocalis on Thursday closed for a site on which he will build a 750-seat house. He hopes to have the theatre ready by Thanksgiving Day.

Both exhibitors have been negotiating for product with major companies. Cocalis is understood to have 104 pic-

Cohn to See Dual

Jack Cohn left for Hollywood by plane yesterday to see a double feature that Brother Harry will stage for him today. "The Awful Truth," with Irene Dunne, and "I'll Take Romance," the new Grace Moore picture, comprise the bill.

Cohn said he'd be back in New York in time to see the Louis-Farr fight on Monday, but declined to state how he would spend his Sunday in Hollywood. A. Schneider, Columbia's treasurer, accompanied him.

Milliken to Speak At Williams Forum

Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the M.P.P.D.A., has been added to the list of speakers who will discuss the screen, press and radio as agencies of public opinion at the 1937 Williams-town Institute of Human Relations, which opens at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., tomorrow evening and extends through next Friday.

To Represent 127 Houses In Bargaining

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27.—Operators of a total of 127 theatres, reported to have an aggregate Paramount film bill of approximately $500,000 annually, have signed a power of attorney giving a committee of members of the United M. P. T. O. here the right to bargain for 1937-'38 Paramount product at terms better or no worse than those of 1936-'37, it was revealed at a meeting at the Broadwood Hotel here today. The meeting was attended by 85 members of the United M. P. T. O.

It is believed by many leaders here that most of the prominent independent exhibitors eventually will join the protective buying combine of their own free will.

The Paramount situation was fully discussed at the session. Statements alleged to have been made by Adolph Zukor and Louis Phillips of Paramount were considered. A review of the financial position of various companies also was included in the discussion.

Sit-Down Strike on At Stadium, Harlem

The Stadium in Harlem is the latest theatre to be affected by sit-down strike operators. During the showing of "Law and Destiny" yesterday, the projectionists sat down and announced through a microphone that: "We are going on a sit-down strike for better wages, less hours and better working conditions."

Meanwhile, Local 306 has not been able to get together with the management of the Kameo, Bronx, where operators have been sitting down on the job for five days.

Universal Books 12 Weeks at the Roxy

Universal has closed a deal with the Roxy for 12 weeks playing time next season. The arrangement ends reports that the distributor's product would be shown elsewhere on Broadway. Under the terms of the pact, the Roxy will select from the entire Universal lineup.

The first picture to be shown under the new deal will be "100 Men and a Girl" with Deanna Durbin. The film is dated to follow "Thin Ice."

BEN HECHT arrived in New York yesterday from the coast to assist in the production of his play, "To Quito and Back," which the Theatre Guild will put on this fall with Sylvia Sidney starred.

SAM COSLOW has moved over to the Lombardy from the Waldorf Astoria so he can play a piano after 9 P.M. He's working on the music for "Shubert's Follies."

HARRY VOILER, manager of the Palm Court Hotel, Miami Beach, returns south today after visiting numerous film friends here.

LOIS JACOBY of the Goldwyn organization is back from Hollywood and wants to return there immediately.

SOPHIE TUCKER will leave today for Hollywood, following a three-week engagement at Saratoga Springs.

JACK COHN, who left via American Airlines for the coast last night, said he'll be back in a few days.

CHELLE JANIS, manager of Loew's Ziegfeld, has returned from a European vacation.

SAM COCALIS and MONROE STEIN returned yesterday from Hudson, N. Y.

GILLET EPPES, Richmond; BETTY RIDGWELL, Norfolk, Va.; HELEN COLEMAN and JOHAN B. MORAN, Boston, will return to New York Monday on the Normandie from Paris. They were winners in two contests staged by M-G-M.

HAL HORNE took a plane to Boston yesterday to confer with CHARLES KOERNER on the campaign for "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938."

LAWRENCE WEINGARTEN, M-G-M producer, will return to New York on the Normandie Monday after a brief vacation in Europe.

LEO JUSTIN will return Monday from a ten-day touring vacation. He has visited Toronto, Lake Louise and Banff.

IRWIN ZELTNER of Loew's celebrated another birthday yesterday. He has just completed a swell campaign for the State.

STAN TRUE flew to Boston last night. From there he will go to Maine to visit his family.

AL LICHTMAN flew to the coast yesterday after being in town for four days.

BOB MOCHRIE has returned to his U. A. headquarters in Atlanta.

JOE MOSKOWITZ is in Atlantic City for the weekend.

BEN WASHER, SAMUEL GOLDWYN's eastern publicity representative, leaves tomorrow night for Chicago where he will arrange a campaign for the opening of "Dead End." He will return the end of next week.

DAVE EPSTEIN left for the coast yesterday, but will spend a week in Chicago en route west.

IRVING BARRY is still confined to his home with sinus trouble.

Order Writers to Appear

Federal Court Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday ordered Edward Sheldon and Margaret Ayer Barnes, authors and playwrights, to appear in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 25 in connection with an appeal from the interlocutory judgment they obtained against the Moredall Realty Corp., owners of the Capitol.

The authors obtained the judgment in the U. S. District Court requiring Moredall to account for all profits realized from the exhibition of "Letty Lynton" which they asserted was an infringement on their copyrighted play, "Dishonored Lady." In their suit against M-G-M, the picture was found to be an infringement and the accounting of the M-G-M profits is still pending. The decision in the Moredall suit declared that the exhibitor is also liable for the infringement and an accounting of the profits was ordered.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Something to Sing About"

(Grand National)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—Town and trolley car trade alike will find James Cagney's long awaited musical comedy, "Something to Sing About," stimulating fare. This time Cagney goes in for mental as well as physical entertainment and the result is eminently screenworthy entertainment. He is ably assisted by Evelyn Daw and William Frawley as the feminine lead and the principal comedian with a long list of well knowns in support.

Cagney portrays a hooper hired away from his dance band and its featured songstress by a Hollywood studio. Frawley plays the publicity man assigned to build up his reputation, while the producer, director and all hands tell him his acting is terrible to keep his contract price down. Miss Daw is the girl he marries. They go honeymooning on the completion of his first picture which turns out to be a sensation. When he returns, arrangements are made to keep his marriage a secret, but this leads to a separation which the star terminates by a drastic expedient. All is worked out humorously and Victor Schertzinger's direction maintains the light touch consistently.

Much of the dialogue is crisply amusing and Cagney's hoofing will give people something to talk about. The picture reveals details of film studio operations in the same casual, informative but not destructive manner as "A Star Is Born" without being in any sense a parallel production. Director Schertzinger is also credited with the musical content which contains two songs of potential popularity. Zion Myers provided an upper bracket production, while Austin Parker's screenplay is glib, deft and pointed up at intervals with telling blackouts.

Running time, 88 minutes. "G."

members were advised that they could protect their interests by sending a registered letter to the company demanding delivery of certain pictures. It was revealed that only one local house, the Lansdowne, is now playing Paramount pictures.

Nothing was said of the date when a decision might be expected from the U. S. District Court in the permanent restraining order. Cooperation with Abram Myers, general counsel of national Allied, in his complaint regarding Paramount before the Federal Trade Commission also was outlined by individual exhibitors.

Silent on "Strike" in N. E.

Boston, Aug. 27.—The Independent Exhibitors, Inc., New England Allied affiliate, is maintaining an attitude of silence on the Paramount "buyers' strike" movement.

Advance Merger of Two Singers' Unions

the two organizations yesterday. Pending the final action, the meeting of the international board of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America, the parent A. F. of L. organization for the entertainment field, was postponed from yesterday until Monday night. The meeting of the Four A's board had been called to decide whether the G. O. A. A.'s charter should be revoked because of charges that it had failed to properly organize its field. Revocation of the charter and its subsequent issuance to the Hollywood dominated American Guild was indicated in advance if the merger proposal was not approved.

The Screen Actors' Guild, which has become the new power in Four A's councils, had preferred the charges against the G. O. A. A. and was supporting the American Guild, headed by Lawrence Tibbett, in its effort to obtain the Four A's charter for musical artists. Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of S. A. G., who came here from the coast for the Four A's meeting, plans to remain for the Monday night session. He had intended originally to leave for the coast today.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"She Asked for It"

(Schulberg-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27.—What a shipshape story can do for a picture, when permitted to run itself out with no concessions to the theoretical low intelligence quotient of the so-called mass audience, is strikingly demonstrated in this moderately budgeted but distinctly high tension comedy drama.

The screenplay by Frederick Jackson, Theodore Reeves and Howard Irving Young is in no sense a copy of but compares generically to the Dashiell Hammett works utilized by the William Powell-Myrna Loy combination in recent notable appearances. The leads are played dashingly but differently by William Gargan and Orien Heyward, a newcomer to films from the fashion model field and a personable young woman with much promise. The picture, a B. P. Schulberg production directed by Erle C. Kenton, is strong enough for the top spot on most programs and lacks only a battery of box-office names to make that unanimous.

Gargan plays a spendthrift who turns to writing detective fiction when his rich uncle dies, leaving him penniless. Money rolls in but he tires of the work and, in spite of contracts signed with publishers, goes fishing. Lawsuits are filed and his extravagant wife discovers him. Returning disguised as the fictional detective of his own creation, he stumbles upon clues revealing operations of a gang engaged in arranging accidental deaths of wealthy relatives for impatient heirs, including his own cousin, and captures the criminals under circumstances which extricate him from his legal tangles and reunite him with his divorced wife.

The picture is briskly paced and smartly acted, with Tully Marshall, Vivienne Osborne, Richard Carle and Harry Fleischmann furnishing sparkling support. George Auerbach is associate producer.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

received from the board of governors of the Junior Screen Directors' Guild, subsidiary group, a resolution supporting the refusal.

The letter was addressed to the producer committee by Howard Hawks, John Ford and Edward Sutherland, the guild's negotiating committee. The guild, which appears to represent a majority of the workers in its field, will hold a meeting Monday night at the Woman's Club of Hollywood for a discussion of further action.

Property Man Killed

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 27. — Crushed when the framework of the "magic carpet" used in the film "Ali Baba Goes to Town" broke its cable and fell on him, Philo Goodfriend, 47, a property man, today received injuries which resulted in his death en route to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. Three other men: Harry Harsha, J. D. Bowman and Nick Degenner also were injured, Harsha probably fatally. The carpet framework weighs 1,500 pounds. No principals were present at the time.

Continue Drawing Case

MARION, O., Aug. 27.—The cases of George E. Planck, manager of the Palace, a Southio unit, and three employees, arrested when nine policemen, led by Chief Marks, raided the theatre at the height of a Sweepstakes drawing late last week, have been continued until Sept. 1 in Municipal Court. The defendants pleaded not guilty.

a raise in admissions, but the problem is to do so without running foul of the Ontario Government, headed by Premier M. F. Hepburn, which abolished the entire amusement tax only three months ago under the assurance that the tax reduction would be passed on to the public.

This was gladly done by the theatre operators in nearly all cases but now increased expenses, such as coal, labor, etc., have to be met and the only way out seems to be a boost at the box office.

"Sophie Lang Goes West" — The third of the Sophie Lang films, with Gertrude Michael again the winsome jewel thief. The limited budget results in quite acceptable program entertainment.

This film will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Split "Vogues," "Topper"

Loew's, which had been considering "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" and "Topper" on the same bill, have decided against the combination program and will book each film on different days on the circuit.

Harlow Estate $41,000

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Jean Harlow left only $41,000, it was estimated yesterday when her mother, Mrs. Jean Harlow Bello, asked to be made administratrix. Miss Harlow's will left her entire estate to her mother.

Variety Club

Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 27.—A baseball game between exchange managers and exchange employees will feature the annual picnic sponsored by the film relief committee and Variety Club at Fairyland Park, Aug. 30. Managers estimate they can last five innings, and the game has been set for this distance, although there is some doubt that it will go that long.

With ROBERT F. WITHERS, Republic exchange manager, as general chairman, the committee personnel responsible for the picnic is: General —ARTHUR COLE, SAM ABEND, HOMER BLACKWELL, R. R. BIECHELE, FINTON JONES, E. C. RHODEN and GEORGE BAKER. Dance—FINTON JONES and HARRY MCCLURE. Baseball—FRANK HENSLEY and ELMER DILLON. Publicity and tickets—SENN LAWLER, W. P. BERNFIELD, MIKE ROTH, WILLIAM FORMBY, LEO FINKELSTEIN and KENNETH FORCE.

French Collective Picture Is In Work

000 tickets, at two francs each, have been issued already.

The film was to have been subsidized by the National French Trade Unions, but it has been decided that the public subscription only will be used to finance the production. Individual reactions in the French Revolution will be the picture's central theme. It is expected to cost at least 2,000,000 francs.

RKO Lineup to R. & R.

RKO's complete list of 1937-'38 product will play the Robb & Rowley circuit of 92 theatres, it was stated yesterday by Jules Levy. The deal was signed by Cresson E. Smith, western and southern sales manager, J. A. MacIntyre and S. M. Sachs.

New Rates for WHK, WJAY

CLEVELAND, Aug. 27.—In connection with the shift on Sept. 26 of WHK from CBS to the NBC Blue and of WJAY to Mutual, C. A. McLaughlin, general sales manager of the two stations, has issued a new rate card for each of the stations to take effect on the day of the shift. The new cards comprise an adjusted increased rate schedule for the Cleveland outlets.

Cliff Hall to "Hometowners"

Cliff Hall will join the cast of the "Hometowners" program as emcee when the show moves into a half-hour period beginning Sept. 4 from 8 to 8:30 P. M. on the NBC-Blue.

Sanderson-Crumit Signed for 2 Weekly

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit will be heard on the "Magazine of the Air" twice weekly starting Sept. 1, after the series changes from a three time to a five-time-a-week series. Also new in the series will be a script offering titled "Carol Kennedy's Romance." The new schedule begins Aug. 31. It follows:

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, the program will offer "Carol Kennedy's Romance" in 15-minute installments, from 11:15 to 11:30 A. M.

Wednesdays and Fridays, the series will be broadcast on a 30-minute schedule, 11 to 11:30 A. M. with Miss Sanderson and Crumit supplementing the script offering. The series is sponsored by the Heinz Co. over CBS.

"Couple Next Door" Moving to New York

"Couple Next Door," a Chicago feature, will be heard from New York beginning Monday. The change in base is due to the signing of its two principal players, Lillian Gish and Harold Vermilyea, for leading roles in forthcoming Broadway stage productions.

Effective with the switch to New York, the program will be heard at a new time. Formerly broadcast from 2:45 to 3 P. M., the series beginning Monday will be heard from 2 to 2:15 P. M. It is sponsored by Procter & Gamble, over Mutual.

Continue Football Ratings

In connection with its intercollegiate football radio broadcast program, the Atlantic Refining Co., for the third consecutive year, will issue to listeners its Football Forecast Sheet, giving the probable winners each week, the ratings of the national and sectional leaders and a list of the ranking national and eastern teams. The sheet is based on Dick Dunkel's football forecasting figures, and over a period of six years the system has predicted winners 80.2 per cent accurately, exclusive of tie games. The Dunkel System recently was taken up by Van Cronkhite Associates.

WCKY and WLW-WSAI in Deal

Arrangements have been effected between WCKY and WLW-WSAI, which have resulted in Mutual network's releasing the Hecker Co.'s "Silver Dust" program featuring Beatrice Fairfax in Cincinnati over WCKY. The arrangement was made with the consent of Mutual's affiliate, WLW.

The deal was made necessary because a local program commitment made it impossible for WLW to accept the Gold Dust program. WCKY was able to clear the necessary time.

American Tobacco Renews

American Tobacco Co. has renewed the NBC "Hit Parade" series for Lucky Strike cigarettes, for 13 weeks, effective Sept. 29. Lord & Thomas is the agency.

Mills on "Silver Theatre"

Felix Mills, west coast bandleader, has been named musical director of the new Sunday afternoon "Silver Theatre" series to be inaugurated over CBS Oct. 3.

May Air China Row

Word has been received from an authoritative source that NBC is recruiting crews of engineers and news men who will be dispatched to China to report over NBC networks the progress of the undeclared Sino-Japanese warfare. A full statement from the network in corroboration of this report is expected almost momentarily.

Renew Fidler's NBC Series for 39 Weeks

Jimmy Fidler's two NBC programs for Procter & Gamble have been renewed for periods of 39 weeks each. The Friday 10:30 to 10:45 P. M. series renewal contract will become effective Oct. 1, while the new contract for the Tuesday 10:30 to 10:45 P. M. will be effective Oct. 10. Both series are in behalf of Drene Shampoo, and H. W. Kastor & Son, Chicago, is the agency.

Additionally for P. & G. a new series titled "Kitty Keene" will be offered over a split NBC-Red network Monday through Friday from 4:45 to 5 P. M., beginning Sept. 13. Blackett-Sample-Hummert is the agency. The series will originate in Chicago.

Stauffer Named V-P By Young & Rubicam

Donald D. Stauffer, manager of Young & Rubicam's radio department, has been made a vice-president of the agency. Hubbell Robinson will serve as assistant to Stauffer.

Stauffer joined Young & Rubicam in 1933 as manager of the radio department. Prior to that he had been with Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn.

Japanese Leader to Speak

The first official foreign radio statement on Japanese policy in the Far Eastern situation will be heard exclusively over CBS in a talk from Tokyo by Kensuke Horinouchi, Japanese Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, Sept. 1, from 6:45 to 7 P. M. The subject will be: "The Issues in the Japanese Clash with China."

Irma Phillips Signed

Irma Phillips has just signed a long term contract to produce the scripts of a new five-a-week series titled "Road of Life," which will be broadcast over both NBC networks, Red and Blue, beginning Sept. 13. Procter & Gamble will sponsor the new series, which will replace the "Personal Column of the Air."

To Broadcast Shrine Rites

Description of the dedication of the Will Rogers shrine at Cheyenne Mountain, near Colorado Springs, will be offered over the NBC-Red from 2 to 2:30 P. M. Sept. 6. Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Colorado, will broadcast the eulogy.

NBC Signs Piano Team

Carroll and Fairchild, piano team in "Babes in Arms," have been signed under NBC artist bureau management. They will be heard in a program of their own over the Red network, at a date as yet not announced.

Report F & M Agreement to Operate Roxy

Would Continue to Run House On Its Own

By BILL ORNSTEIN

F. & M. Stageshows, Inc., yesterday was reported in a deal with the Roxy Theatre Corp. to continue operation of the Roxy on its own and at the same time relieve first mortgage bondholders and common stockholders from supervision or voice in the running of the theatre.

The deal, it was further reported, is for five to 10 years and will become effective Friday. Harry C. Arthur and Jack Partington, executives of F. & M. Stageshows, Inc., could not be reached yesterday for confirmation. Arthur has gone to St. Louis for a few days, it was stated at his home, and Partington was out of town.

Included in the deal, the reports had it, was a long-term franchise for 20th Century-Fox product. The distributing company owns all of the outstanding common stock in Roxy Theatre Corp., and by virtue of its holdings has voting control. Bondholders and 20th Century-Fox are understood to be in favor of the deal with several points yet to be ironed out before contracts are signed.

Under the reorganization plan recently approved by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey provision is made

Quigley to Address Williamstown Forum

WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS., Aug. 29.—Martin Quigley of New York, editor-in-chief and publisher of Motion Picture Daily and Motion Picture Herald, is to speak Tuesday before the Williamstown Institute of Public Relations at Williams College, in connection with a forum on motion pictures and public opinion.

The Institute is being held, as in 1935, under the auspices of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, of which Dr. Everett B. Clinchy is director. The co-chairmen of the Institute are Newton D. Baker, Rogers Williams Straus and Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes.

Quigley's discussion is expected to refer to the nature and functioning of the Production Code as a public relations instrument controlling certain aspects of motion picture policy and activity. Quigley was instrumental in the creation, adoption and application of the Code to which the organized industry is now signatory.

Freedom from Anti-Trust Charges Would Follow

The automatic elimination of Ascaph from liability under the anti-trust laws, which would relieve it of actions charging monopolistic practices such as the one brought by the Government several years ago and still pending against the society, was cited in legal quarters here yesterday as the most significant advantage to be derived by Ascaph from its proposed affiliation with the American Federation of Musicians.

Ascap is also weighing the possibility of becoming a labor union of composers, authors and publishers in its own right. If either procedure were consummated, attorneys pointed out, Ascap would bring itself within the collective bargaining provisions defined for labor unions in the Federal anti-trust laws. In this event, the society would not be subject to actions based on charges of monopoly. Charges of this nature have been the basis of the bulk of the litigation and adverse legislation aimed at the society in the past. They comprise the primary allegations in the pending Government action and have figured prominently in the state legislative hearings on anti-Ascap legislation during the past few years.

Ascap advanced the proposal to affiliate with the A. F. of L. several

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 29.—Theatre men over the state and particularly here expect box-office receipts to improve following the orders of Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and Attorney General Roy McKittrick to local prosecutors to proceed at once against all places with slot machines. Accompanying the letter to prosecutors was the promise to institute ouster proceedings against those local law enforcement officers who did not act to enforce the Governor's order.

Slot machines immediately began to disappear all over Kansas City and throughout Jackson County, as well as other city and country beer places and road houses over the state. A conservative estimate places the amount of the "take" in Jackson County alone at $1,000,000 annually, four-fifths of it from Kansas City proper. A part of this money should be going to theatres.

The Columbia home office has been informed that the Nazi censor board in Germany has banned "Lost Horizon" because it "offends our most sacred feelings and our artistic souls."

Circuits, 306 Heads Meet Again Today

Major circuit executives and representatives of Local 306 will meet today for the second time at C. C. Moskowitz's office to discuss terms for a two-year contract as provided in a 10-year master agreement signed in 1935.

Joseph D. Basson and a committee of eight are understood asking for increases ranging from 35 to 45 per cent to make up for the two cuts given operators during the depression.

While there is no indication one way or another on the outcome of the sessions, the master agreement provides for an arbitration committee in the event the circuits and operators cannot reach a compromise.

GOAA Voting Today On Tie with AGMA

Members of the Grand Opera Artists' Assn. will vote today on a proposal already approved by its executive committee providing for the merging of the organization with the American Guild of Musical Artists. The board of directors of the latter organization approved the proposal unanimously on Saturday.

The international council of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America is scheduled to meet tonight to complete plans for the issuance of an A. F. L. charter for the grand opera field to the American Guild.

Chicago Trade Board Plans Fall Through

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Plans for continuation or revival of the Film Board of Trade in Chicago were destroyed when one major company pulled out of the proposed setup on the board after agreeing to the continuance.

Four major companies and two independents had voted to continue the board, but the latest report is that no board will be established here after Sept. 1. It is understood that the major companies were somewhat reluctant to have a board here while there is none in other cities, as a result of the considerable amount of publicity which has been given to the possibility of the establishment of a board here.

Nathanson Is New Factor in "U" of Canada

Acquires an Interest in Distribution Firm

N. L. Nathanson has purchased a substantial number of shares in Canadian Universal Film Co., Ltd., which operates six exchanges in Toronto, Montreal, Calgary, St. John, Vancouver and Winnipeg. R. H. Cochrane, president of Universal, made known completion of the arrangements over the weekend.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned the deal will have no bearing on the autonomy of Universal's Canadian distributing system. The exchanges are to be maintained on their own, but the indications are Nathanson will play a considerable part in their management. It is also probable one of his sons will be named to a high post in that organization.

Aside from the presidency of Famous Players Canadian Corp., the dominant theatre group in the Dominion, Nathanson controls Regal Films, Ltd., a selling organization which handles the product of a number of major American companies in Canada and is believed to be the dominant, if silent, interest behind Empire Films, another distributing company which is actively operated by Oscar Hanson.

Famous Players Canadian, as in years past, has again signed for Universal's new lineup. With Nathanson financially interested in the Canadian distribution of that product the expectation becomes a natural one that the association probably will prove a more productive one for Universal.

Tri-States Circuit Expansion Outlined

OMAHA, Aug. 29.—Expansion plans for the Tri-States Theatre Corp. were revealed by A. H. Blank, president, at a banquet given late Friday night at the Hotel Fontenelle to launch the circuit's drive of Sept. 3 to Dec. 3, honoring Blank on his 25th anniversary as a showman.

Blank said he plans to build several suburban first run houses in Omaha, as well as the acquisition of other houses in the territory. He said further that Central States, in which Paramount is a partner, and Tri-States, will continue to operate as

Kidnap Threat to Beery

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Extortioners, communicating with Wallace Beery, have threatened to kidnap his adopted daughter, Carol Ann, unless the actor pays them $10,000 by next Thursday. The police have taken the matter in hand.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

PRAISE sufficient has been heaped upon the Warners and the personalities who are part and parcel of "The Life of Emile Zola" to make any added comment here slightly unnecessary. There is, however, an obligation to the recording of industry milestones and whatever picayune part this department may play in permanently registering them. . . .

Many weeks ago, surrounded by the hush of great secrecy and punctuated with tremors of excitement, we were escorted to the little theatre on the Warner lot in Hollywood. There, in company with Jack Warner, we sat through rushes of this and that and tests of boy and girl. "I want to show you something," then upped Jack. "This is one of the highlights of 'Zola'—the defense speech in court of the author of the famous 'J'Accuse' letter. It is, incidentally, the longest take ever recorded and runs about four minutes and a half." . . .

The four minutes, plus, were stirring. Obviously foolhardy to predicate any conception of all of "Zola" on some of "Zola," the experience, nevertheless, remained with us. Certainly, the single sequence was a moving and dramatic piece of work. But certainly, also, there was no way of telling what would surround it fore and aft. And so the other night, a free wheeling holiday behind us and the first day of the resumed job upon us, we made straight for the Hollywood Theatre where the man at the tickets was turning away customers and their cash with a monotony that actually was a kind of thrill. . . .

The audience was an expectant one. But, as accuracy in reporting this morning has to tell you, it also proved to be an enthusiastic audience. There were appreciative rustlings of emotional pleasure when Paul Muni—he is Zola, of course—first learned from his publishers that "Nana" was riding nobly on the crest of French popularity. There was emotional excitement when Joseph Schildkraut—he is Dreyfus—was drummed out of the army, the trumped-up victim of General Staff duplicity and of religious bigotry. The heart-warming scenes between Zola and Paul Cezanne reflected appreciation and the casual introduction by Zola of Anatole France, a ripple of delight. . . .

The film reached its dramatic apex, of course, in the extended trial sequences. Here, justice gone astray sends Zola into exile, not because he elected to run away but because his friends persuaded him his continued efforts to right the Dreyfus wrong depended upon his physical and writing freedom. In the final victory with Dreyfus returned from Devil's Island Zola dies, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning. Rising mightily above all others and dominating the scene is always Muni. Rarely does he appear to be acting, so natural is his performance. Some there are in the Hollywood sector who already have determined this is the actor who must win the next Academy award. Treading cautiously because it is safe and because one never knows what Hollywood will let loose next, we break down sufficiently to concede readily that Muni for "Zola" has made the running for the rest of the pack one tough assignment. . . .

As a roadshow, the production is a pronounced success in New York. First reports, also roadshow, on resort bookings are backing up the major run. Generally, release is yet to come. It is our ambition for "Zola," as it must of necessity be for anyone in the business who recognizes that merit deserves its reward, that it slays, vows and panics 'em up and down the land. Firstly, since it rates and secondly, for the potential significance which it points up. A couple of years ago, Dave Selznick took his hair down and envisioned the day when biography, not stuffy and not too literally factual, would make its dent on the public consciousness. We wrote our heads off in support of his hope and now we double back on the same point, not one whit less enthusiastic. . . .

For, whatever Hollywood has been able to do by adding luster to its reputation, bids fair to be fog-banked by comparison with the opportunity for distinguished achievement once the public accepts pictures based on the stalwarts of history and the arts. Some endeavor, naturally, has been assayed along such lines, yet the surface does not bear even the slightest of impressions by comparison with the dramatic riches at present untapped. . . .

Transfer Warner Suit

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—The suit of S. G. Manas, Frank Sinclair, George F. Gourley, John K. Papulias, et al., residents of Steubenville, O., against Warners and N. D. Dipson, Batavia, N. Y., claiming $2,000,000 damages for alleged conspiracy to defraud plaintiffs of their interest in the 2,700-seat Capitol, at Wheeling, W. Va., will be heard in the Federal Court here, to which it has been transferred. The suit originally was filed in Steubenville.

Set Mayfair Hearing

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Upon request of H. A. Kenoyer, president of Mayfair Prod., suit of three creditors of the animated cartoon production company to force it into involuntary bankruptcy, will be set for trial before Federal Judge William P. James some time in early September.

Mayfair Prod. was organized several months ago to produce cartoons based on Percy Crosby's newspaper comic, "Skippy," for United Artists release.

Capitol "Preview" Set

Major Edward Bowes will hold a "preview" of the remodeled Capitol on Wednesday at 4 P.M. The gathering place will be the Major's apartment on the fifth floor of the theatre building. The formal opening of the house will take place on Thursday evening at 8:30. "Broadway Melody of 1938" will be the reopening attraction.

"Vogues of 1938"

brings

Universal Acclaim for Technicolor

"... We doubt if there was a man or woman, producer or director, writer or artist, who did not carry home (from the preview of 'Vogues of 1938') the desire of doing a picture in color and doing it as soon as possible. ... With 'A Star is Born' and 'Vogues of 1938' the value of color has now been established, demanding a greater consideration for this new technical advantage because it most definitely adds attractiveness to pictures thereby creating box-office."

William R. Wilkerson, Tradeviews,
Hollywood Reporter.

"... If color has never been a box office asset before, this picture ('Vogues of 1938') will make it one."

Hollywood Reporter.

"... Technicolor advances by a great stride toward the day when all important pictures will be prismatic."

Daily Variety.

"Showmanship with a capital $... Technicolor has never been used more effectively."

Variety.

"Sharing honors with the producer is Technicolor, the very essence of the picture, which establishes another new high for beauty and perfection in color photography."

Box Office.

"The production is manifestly the most thoroughgoing glorification of pigmentation yet undertaken."

separate circuits and that the financial condition of both is sounder than ever before.

Price increases are contemplated in the circuit, it was stated by Ralph Branton, Tri-States general manager, but he indicated that the final decision on the particular theatre to be affected had not yet been reached. Approximately 45 executives attended the banquet and preceding business sessions. The jubilee drive will be climaxed with a banquet at Des Moines Dec. 9 in honor of Blank. At the same time the winning district in the drive will be named.

In New York several weeks ago, A. H. Blank, president of Tri-States, declared that he planned to increase his circuit's holdings to approximately 100 houses, involving an increase of between 20 and 25 theatres.

Signed for Yiddish Film

Arthur Block, president of Eron Pictures, has signed three members of the Yiddish Art Theatre for leading parts in "The Cantor's Son," Jewish film operetta, which will star Moishe Oysher, cantor. The film, now in production, will open on Broadway late next month.

Claire Trevor Returns

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29. — Claire Trevor has recovered from the illness which forced her out of "The Great Diamond Robbery" and will start in "Big Town Girl" for 20th Century-Fox. Donald Woods and Alan Dinehart will be featured.

Andra Marlo Is Cast

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—M-G-M has placed its new Viennese actress, Rose Stradner, whose name has been changed to Andra Marlo, into the lead of "The Last Gangster." Anna Sten had been tested for the role, and Luise Rainer previously had been mentioned for it.

Zeidman Changes Plans

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—B. F. Zeidman has switched his production schedule and has put "Love Runs into Money" before "So This Is Hollywood" on the Grand National list.

Retitle Erwin Film

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Grand National has changed the title of the Stuart Erwin picture, "Face the Facts," to "Mr. Boggs Buys a Barrel."

In the Icebox

Omaha, Aug. 29.—District Manager Evert R. Cummings of Tri-States, a perennial hay fever sufferer, got into shape for the district meeting here by hibernating in an air-chilled room at the Fontenelle Hotel. Cummings usually leaves for other climates during hay fever season, but was forced to stay in Omaha this year because of business. He transacted all business from his room.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Prisoner of Zenda"

(Selznick-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Anthony Hope's swashbuckling romance of the commoner who looked like a king has had many a varied treatment under its own title and many others in 40 years of enduring popularity but none finer than "The Prisoner of Zenda" which the artistically sensitive David O. Selznick has produced. It is an opulent, veracious and intellectually honest picturization in which Ronald Colman, C. Aubrey Smith, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Madeleine Carroll, Raymond Massey and a staunch supporting cast re-enact the staple story of a spurious monarch who saves a kingdom at the cost of his heart in a manner true to the tradition of Sothorn and Hackett.

The box-office value of the essentially splendid work necessarily depends on whether or not public fancy has turned from Hope's ageless favorite and the record of the piece prompts conjecture that it has not. It will be recalled that the prisoner of the title is a monarch who is abducted by conspirators and held by them while an adventurous Englishman, who looks like him, substitutes at his coronation and in a royal courtship until such time as he can rescue his majesty and restore him to the throne.

Colman's performance of the dual role is excellent and Smith's portrayal of the chief of staff stands out above all others while Fairbanks' facile characterization of the unscrupulous Rupert of Hentzau rather pointedly forecasts his selection of the name role in the projected Selznick production of that title. Miss Carroll is finely attuned to Colman in a number of romantic sequences and Mary Astor handles well enough the lesser role assigned her. John Cromwell's direction is immensely effective and the screenplay by John L. Balderston is a study in counterpoint.

Regal is the overall adjective for the production.

Running time, 102 minutes. "G."

"Sophie Lang Goes West"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—This third of the Sophie Lang pictures—the first two were "The Notorious Sophie Lang" and "The Return of Sophie Lang"—will leave no shattered box-office marks behind it, but it will provide grand entertainment as a program picture, a rank to which it was predestined by its obviously limited budget. It combines comedy with a crime melodrama, in a style pleasing particularly to small town audiences.

Sophie Lang is the creation of Frederick Irving Anderson. She is a pretty jewel thief who, by a series of disguises and nerve wracking incidents in which she baffles completely the police of several continents, always escapes, but not with her loot. In "Sophie Lang Goes West," Miss Lang, again brought to the screen by Gertrude Michael, quite ably as in the two previous stories, is thrown up against a background of the Hollywood film industry, embroiled in a theft of a huge jewel, which a foreign potentate desires to have stolen in order to collect the insurance, and torn between love for a film writer, who once was a criminal, and a desire to protect him against exposure.

The cast includes, in addition to Miss Michael, Lee Bowman, Sandra Storme, Larry Crabbe, Barlowe Borland, Robert Cummings, Jed Prouty, C. Henry Gordon, Rafael Corio and Guy Usher, all of whom acquit themselves well. Doris Anderson, Brian Marlow and Robert Wyler adapted the Anderson stories. Charles Riesner directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Drops New Gift Plan

OMAHA, Aug. 29.—Ralph Goldberg, owner of six subsequent runs here, has dropped plans to start Kwestionite as a substitute for Bank Night, enjoined in Omaha by the State Supreme Court until a September hearing. Other members of the M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n had feared that the group would have been split had Goldberg gone ahead with his new gift plan.

Plan Vitaphone Showing

Warners will hold a trade screening of the new season's Vitaphone short subjects in conjunction with a buffet luncheon on Thursday at the home office.

Craig Again Heads Club

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—M-G-M's studio club has reelected W. K. Craig to the presidency. Other officers are: Fred Gabourie, first vice-president; W. S. Van Dyke, second vice-president; Jack Melbourne, treasurer, and Ida M. Koverman, secretary.

Chosen for the board of governors were: Van Dyke, W. P. Hendry, Jack Coffee, Orville Fouce, "Pop" Arnold and Homer Henry.

Wyler on Davis Picture

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29. — William Wyler has been signed by Warners to direct the forthcoming "Jezebel," which will star Bette Davis.

See Need for More Norwegian Theatres

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—There is a growing need for additional film theatres in Norway, Consul Andrew W. Edson, at Oslo, has reported to the U. S. Dep't. of Commerce. A number of the older houses are being re-modeled, and their seating capacities increased. The Eldorado, one of the most popular of the older houses, has been increased to approximately 1,400 seats, and the Scala has been leased with remodeling planned. When it is completed the Scala and Saga, the most popular house in the city now, will be housed in the same building. There are 13 film houses in the city at present.

Receipts at Oslo's houses have risen from approximately $537,985 in the six months ending June, 1936, and $590,041 in the six months ending December, 1936, to $655,484 in the period to June, 1937. Attendance increased from 1,642,732 in the first period and 1,799,241 in the second to 2,057,114 in the most recent period.

Reviewing Jumps

During the first half of 1937 there were 143 more films reviewed than in the same period of 1936, or a total of 475 in comparison with 332. No films were refused licenses in the most recent period, although seven were banned in the first six months of 1936 and three in the last half of 1936. A total of 597 meters were reviewed in the last period, 643 in the six months of 1936 and 659 in the second half of last year.

In a comparison of the first six months of 1936 and 1937, imports from the United States fell off from 85 to 75, but the U. S. still was far in the lead in comparison with all other countries in point of origin. The totals for the 1937 period were: United States, 75; Germany, 13; Sweden, nine; England, 10; France, 11; Austria, four; Denmark, one and Italy, one.

Although four new Norwegian films are expected to be completed this year, none has been released as yet. The first is expected for fall release.

Disney Using New Color

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—Walt Disney is using a new color treatment for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," his first feature cartoon, through the use of different shadings, as contrasted to the bright tones of his short subjects.

The color in "Snow White" will be somewhat subdued to aid characterization and to explain partly the points of the story.

Seek First Patron

Via the Public Notices column in Friday's New York Times, the Capitol attempted to locate the person who purchased the first ticket of admission to the theatre 18 years ago.

The ad reads: "Wanted information as to the identity and whereabouts of the person who purchased the first ticket at the opening of the Capitol Theatre, on Oct. 24, 1919."

Report F & M Agreement to Operate Roxy

for a 21-year franchise with 20th Century-Fox. The plan also states that $150,000 will be spent for contemplated alterations and improvements of the property, including furnishings and equipment.

F. & M. Stageshows, Inc. is a subsidiary of F. & M., Inc., of California which is owned by Marco Wolf, Harry C. Arthur, Franchon Simon and Jack Partington. Wolf, better known as Mike Marco, is an associate producer for Universal and Franchon Simon, now known as Miss Fanchon, is a producer for Paramount. Arthur has charge of theatre operations, Marco is head of the stageshows in the west and Partington supervises stage production for the company in the east.

Roxy Holders without Power

The first mortgage bondholders and preferred stockholders in Roxy Theatre Corp. have no direct power in the operation of the theatre under the reorganization, but in the payment of dividends the bondholders come first, preferred stockholders second and common stockholders last.

No change in policy is contemplated by the new operators, it is understood. Arico has had a management contract with Howard S. Cullman, trustee, for the past five years. This company is a subsidiary of F. & M., Inc.

Cullman winds up his trusteeship Sept. 2. Edward Burke, who has been the house manager for about 10 years, has resigned and is reported to have offers from Loew's and Skouras. He will conclude his duties when Cullman steps out. Cullman will file a complete report of his term of trusteeship with the court shortly. Rose, Proskauer & Paskus, attorneys for the trustee, are now working on the analysis of operations for the last five years. At the same time, an application will be filed by Cullman for fees. He has already received $80,000 as interim fees for the first four years and is expected to ask for an additional $20,000.

Lesser Seen in Burke Post

Irving Lesser, who has been representing F. & M. in the management contract with Cullman, is expected to absorb Burke's duties. He is a brother of Sol Lesser, independent producer for 20th Century-Fox and RKO. Lesser now makes his office on the fifth floor of the theatre building and, according to plans reported under way, will move his quarters to the balcony overlooking the rotunda.

Under the reported new arrangement, 20th Century-Fox will be allocated 40 weeks' playing time and Universal will be given 12 weeks. The first 20th Century-Fox picture most likely will be "Thin Ice," already dated for a three-week run starting Sept. 3. The initial Universal attraction, it is said, will be "100 Men and a Girl," which has been booked for an indefinite run following "Thin Ice." The theatre will have a selection of product from both companies and, while the arrangement may ob-

Who They Are

F. & M. and its subsidiaries operate 42 theatres in St. Louis and the Paramount in Los Angeles. Harry C. Arthur is president of F. & M. of Missouri which is the operating company for the Mound City group while Mike Marco handles the Paramount on the coast.

In addition, Arthur has four theatres in New England and his brother, Milton B., is a partner in and division head for a number of Fox West Coast houses.

viate playing other product, there is a likelihood that one or two independent pictures may be spot-booked.

Arthur and Partington have been in the business for years. Arthur operated Fox West Coast before Harold B. Franklin stepped in, later operating Fox Metropolitan Playhouses and the Poli circuit in New England. He was the prime mover for decentralized operation in exhibition, a plan which has been adopted by all major circuits.

Partington for years was in charge of stage presentations at the Paramount, a post he left to join F. & M.

Shortly before Arthur and Partington stepped into the Roxy, the theatre was grossing an average of $7,000 while in receivership. The house was closed for a time and Harry G. Kosch, an attorney for Sawyer & Lubin, was replaced by Cullman. In the five years Cullman has been supervising the administration, the theatre has steadily built up its weekly gross to an average of $35,000. At one time, Loew's was reported after the house to replace the Capitol, on which the circuit's ground lease was about to expire. Recently, Loew's bought the property.

Roxy Prices Raised

With the showings of "Wee Willie Winkie," the Roxy tipped its week-day prices to conform to Saturday and Sunday admission scales. The first week's take jumped to $65,000. Last week, under the same policy, "Gangway" finished with approximately $26,000.

Having lined up selective films from 20th Century-Fox and Universal for the next year, the theatre may set a new high average weekly gross, with pictures to run as long as they hold up at the box-office. The Roxy, after being in receivership and trusteeship for more than six years, is back again as one of the major first runs on Broadway.

Start Search for Talent

DALLAS, Aug. 29.—Plans are under way for a talent search through the southwest to be conducted by M-G-M, with the cooperation of the Interstate Circuit, according to John C. Smith of Interstate. Tests will be held in the leading cities, with four individuals to be selected. The auditions will begin in October.

Drissel Is Transferred

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 29.—Roger R. Drissel, manager of Loew's Parkway here for the past three years, has been transferred to Loew's State at Norfolk, Va., as manager. No successor to Drissel has been announced as yet.

"Horizon" Is Denver Smash With $19,000

DENVER, Aug. 29.—"Lost Horizon" packed the Denver for the week and set a house record for several years back with a take of $19,000. This was $11,500 over normal. The feature was moved to the Aladdin for a continued run.

"Topper" and "Between Two Women" at the Orpheum pulled $10,000, only slightly under the take of "The Good Earth" the previous week. The Paramount double bill, "Born Reckless" and "Michael O'Halloran," was pulled at the end of three days and "Outlaws of the Orient" and "Fight to a Finish" were substituted.

Total first run business was $41,000. Average is $27,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 25:

"LOVE UNDER FIRE" (20th-Fox) ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c, 7 days, following a week at the Denver. Gross: $3,000. (Average, $3,000)

Changes Made in Denver

DENVER, Aug. 29.—Several theatre changes made here recently include Jack Kramer, former Alameda manager, to the Santa Fe in the place of George Sandstrom, who has moved over to the Egyptian. The Egyptian manager, Fred Eisle, who was also production manager, has taken over the Grand at Littleton, Col., from Ross and Art Bluck, and Si Gertz, former assistant on the Civic News has become editor, replacing C. A. Anderson, editor, who is now handling the screen advertising and exploitation.

Ross Extending Service

Ross Federal Service has extended its marketing research facilities to 16 foreign countries. The new service is the result of the Ross affiliation with the market research division of Might Directories, Ltd., Toronto, and an association of foreign research companies. It was said yesterday that there is no film application planned in the new service.

Epidemic Hits Omaha

OMAHA, Aug. 29.—City Health Commissioner Floyd Kinyoun has ordered Omaha theatres to discontinue any children's matinees, and has issued a public appeal to parents to keep their children home from any theatre performance until the current infantile paralysis epidemic subsides.

"Dallas" Big Seattle Draw With $11,000

SEATTLE, Aug. 29.—"Stella Dallas" led the first runs for the week by more than doubling normal at the Liberty with a take of $11,000. It was held.

"The Good Earth" pulled $8,900, up by $2,900, at the Paramount and was given a second week. "You Can't Have Everything" and "Midnight Madonna" at the Orpheum did well at $6,450 in the second week and they were held for a third.

Total first run business was $43,750. Average is $36,500.

High Frequency Test Coming Up in Iowa

DES MOINES, Aug. 29.—W9XTE, new high frequency station of the Iowa network, has been established in the Des Moines studios of KSO-KRNT and will soon be conducting experimental broadcasts on 26,550 kilocycles. Under the supervision of Paul Huntsinger, chief engineer, research will be conducted to find how to secure local broadcast coverage in the Des Moines area on such a frequency. Plans are to feature network shows which local stations are unable to carry because of other commitments.

Kansas to Tax Building

TOPEKA, Aug. 29.—All materials used in building and equipping radio stations in Kansas are subject to the two per cent sales tax, the Kansas Tax Commission has ruled. Repairs and maintenance after completion are not subject to the levy, however, the commission said, because operation of a radio station has been held to be in interstate commerce by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Earlier this year the commission ruled that radio advertising is not subject to the tax.

Insist on Authors' Credits

To obtain credit for its authors on the air, The Script Library is setting aside scripts by its better known writers and will release them only to stations who agree to broadcast the author's by-lines when the programs are aired. Script Library has a number of headline authors under contract, including Ben Hawthorne, Heywood Brown, Georgia Bachus, Edward Goldsmith Reilly, Marjorie Williams, Hi Alexander, John Fleming, Edward Morse and others.

Bob Saunders' University of California orchestra has been signed to open at the Hotel Utah, Salt Lake City, Sept. 17.

Asks Radio Curfew

Cincinnati, Aug. 29.—City Manager C. O. Sherrill has received a petition from a local citizen asking that an ordinance be passed making it compulsory that the volume of all radios operated in the city limits be toned down to the minimum after 10 P. M. The signer contends that his sleep is disturbed nightly by radios tuned to high volume.

Novel Broadcasts on WMCA Fall Schedule

The fall season of programs over WMCA in September will include several novel productions new to radio, it is revealed in a roundup in the station's advance list. The features include a program featuring the new "radio" language; reviews of London plays and a new type of news feature.

The radio language, which is to be the first of a series of tests to determine the practicability of its use in international broadcasts, is scheduled to be held the morning of Sept. 23 at 1:15 A. M. This early hour is best for reception among distant areas where listening posts have been established by WMCA.

The reviews of London plays begin Sept. 13 on Martin Starr's "Midnight Starr Dust" programs. The reviews will be made by J. W. Marriott, London writer and critic, who will cable his first night impressions to WMCA.

The news feature program, titled "Manhattan Serenade" will begin late in September, with no definite date set as yet. The series is to be a sort of newsreel radio program and will consist of interviews and news coverage of unusual events. The interviews will be made on the scene by transcription and later cut and edited for broadcast presentation.

D. C. Gourlay Joins KLO

OGDEN, Aug. 29.—Douglass Crosby Gourlay, formerly chief announcer at CJOR, Vancouver, B. C., has joined the staff of KLO, NBC Blue outlet here, as an announcer and producer. Gourlay, a native of Vancouver and a member of the CJOR staff for three years, was forced to relinquish his Canadian citizenship to make the move to the United States and his new position at KLO.

Merrill J. Bunnell, advertising manager of KLO is enroute to the coast for a part business, part pleasure trip. He will visit NBC headquarters in both Los Angeles and San Francisco. Paul R. Heitmeyer, general manager of KLO, has just returned for a trip to the northwest. In Portland and Seattle, Heitmeyer conducted auditions for announcers to supplement the KLO staff.

License Sought for New Atlanta Station

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Plans for a new broadcasting station at Atlanta, Ga., to operate on 1,240 kilocycles with 1,000 watts power night, 5,000 watts day, have been laid before the F. C. C. in an application for a construction permit filed by the Constitution Publishing Co.

An amended application for a construction permit at Sandusky, Mich., for a station to operate on 950 kilocycles with 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, was filed by the Thumb Broadcasting Co.

Applications were also received from WACO, Waco, Tex., for increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts, and KNOW, Austin, Tex., for increase of day power from 100 to 250 watts.

KSL Prepares for Increase

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 29.—Anticipated by a summer-long expansion program creating new offices of production and continuity, as well as additional staff assignments, the fall and winter approaching is marked as the heaviest commercially that KSL has experienced. Added to the personnel changes already announced, is the appointment of Gene Halliday, newly named music department head, as night director of station operations. Also due to increased commercial accounts, Fred Taylor moves into continuity editing and Byron Ray takes on additional duties auditing commercial transcribed shows. Five recently named staff members, in addition to microphone work, have been appointed to the production department as associates to handle the business increase.

The 50,000 watt CBS affiliate this fall will begin its 16th year of operation.

Prepare for Ohio Fair Program

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—WBNS, Columbia outlet, has installed microphones in various buildings and locations on the Ohio State Fair grounds, and staff announcers will interview celebrities attending the fair this week.

S. T. Gaffers and Sattler will sponsor the KHJ presentation. Norma Talmadge (Mrs. Jessel) will present fashion hints and Tommy Tucker and his orchestra, the music.

KFWB has switched about its entire "Curtain Calls" program, starting Sunday, and making it "Behind Scenes in Radio." Johnny Murray, master of ceremonies of the "Curtain Calls" 9 P.M. (P.S.T.) program, has left and as yet KFWB has not lined up the complete setup. . . . Gordon L. McDonough, Los Angeles County supervisor, was the guest of Hal Styles' "Help Thy Neighbor" program on KHJ Sunday. The job-getting program, according to the station, has helped 2,000 persons find employment. . . . Stu Wilson draws the announcing chore on "House Undivided," daily script show on Mutual-Don Lee. . . . C. P. Phiemonge, business agent of the Birmingham musicians' union, is in town for a visit. . . .

KFWB has started a new twice weekly program, "The People Cast," sponsored by Richard LeBon Cosmetics. It will be conducted by Nona Croft and will present interviews with film players, and cabled style reports from Madame Nicole, Paris fashion authority. Broadcasts will be heard Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:55 to 10:10 A.M., P.S.T. . . . Sara Langmen began writing and producing a new series of weekly dramatic presentations on KFWB Saturday from 8 to 8:45 P.M., P.S.T.

With another local station scheduled to open in October and more broadcast hours to be filled, the C.B.C. is auditioning everything and anything for possible new programs. . . . Report has it the Imperial Tobacco Co. will give their coast-to-coast Sunday show "Canada, 1937" another try this season, although no studio time has been booked as yet.

Omaha Town Pump

OMAHA, Aug. 29.—Harry Brader, former local theatre pit orchestra leader who has been conducting the Omaha Symphony Orchestra's broadcasts over KOIL this summer, returns to Minneapolis late in September or early in October to resume with the Minneapolis Symphony. . . . Maurice and Lucille Valentine, the latter formerly being known to local radio fans as Lou Williams, are in town on a visit before returning east to resume in dramatic stock. . . . Lou Blake's band has gone into the Chez Paree, East Omaha night club. . . . Lawrence Welk's band reopens the Chermot ballroom here shortly.

San Francisco Town Pump

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Buddy Twiss, Hollywood announcer for NBC, is spending two weeks vacation here. . . . KSFO has installed lines to the Fairmont Hotel, to broadcast Joaquin Grill's band five nights a week. . . . KPO's Helen Kleeb, actress, is broadcasting with one hand in a splint, and an ankle tightly bound, due to a fall while skating. . . . Dorothy Dumont, "scat" vocalist formerly at a local supper club, is the newest addition to KYA's staff. . . . Pianist Edna Fischer (KGO) has left for a month at Downieville.

St. Louis Town Pump

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29.—Brad Simpson, script writer and producer, has joined the Wesley K. Nash agency to develop a radio advertising department for the agency. . . . Alex Buchan, WTMV announcer now vacationing in Scotland will return to his air duties shortly. . . . Charles Barnhart has taken over the emcee position for Seidal, local department store, on WTMV. He replaces Ted Hunter, who is now in New York. . . . Gail Reese, vocalist, has joined the staff at WIL.

KPO-KGO Add 5 Programs

Labor Affiliations Seen Aid to Ascap

months ago as a means of combating the increasing litigation and adverse legislation aimed at its activities, and which resulted in the introduction of 22 measures designed to curb the society's operations in as many state legislatures during the sessions just closed. It was intimated, however, that the special advantage of such an affiliation was expected to come from labor's state and national assistance in opposing anti-Ascap measures, rather than from the automatic immunity which would come to the society in the event it attained a labor union status.

The plan for a union affiliation has made but little progress in recent weeks and no moves of significance are anticipated in advance of the next meeting of the Ascap board, late next month, and the clearing up of the current negotiations of the A. F. of M. with radio networks on a work-spreading program for radio musicians.

Technicians Approve

Members of the Independent Film Technicians Union approved the formation of a new laboratory workers' union embracing both its own membership and that of Local 669, I.A.T.S.E., a tabulation on Saturday of the ballot cast revealed. Under the plan, Local 669 will be dissolved and a charter will be issued by the I.A. to the new autonomous union. The contracts negotiated with laboratories last spring will be fulfilled by the new union until their expiration next April 13.

Pick Miss Wong's Next

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 29.—In a shift of assignments for Anna May Wong "East of Shanghai" has been picked by Paramount for her next. It is described as a story of the modern Orient, but without any background of the current Chinese-Japanese conflict.

TEN CENTS

Price Levels In Many Spots Are Increased

New Season Tendency Is Toward Higher Rates

Indicative of a general tendency over the country toward an increase in admission prices with the opening of the fall season, are reports from such widely separated points as Milwaukee, Kansas City, New Haven and Seattle. In each case, price increases either had been made effective in some houses already or were being discussed.

In most cases it was pointed out that generally higher operating costs were dictating moves in the direction of proportional increases in box-office prices. Several of the instances were noteworthy in that exhibitors who had increased prices found no decrease or were being discussed.

The following reports, received yesterday, show the trend:

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—Fox has increased admission prices for the Wisconsin and Palace here from 50 to 60 cents top. This is the second jump in the past six months, the previous (Continued on page 15)

Estimate Roxy Net For Year $270,686

The Roxy Theatre Corp., in a tentative report, for the 52 weeks ending Aug. 19, estimates a profit of $270,686.32 after taxes, lobby rent and interest on receiver's certificates outstanding, but before interest on funded indebtedness and other charges, as compared with the profit for the same period of 1935-36 of $159,434.81—an increase of 69.77 per cent.

The average weekly attendance at the theatre showed an increase of more than 15 per cent.

Screen Is Power in Culture, Forum Told

WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS., Aug. 30.—The screen has taken rank with the home, school and church as a power in setting the pattern of American culture, Fred Eastman, professor of literature at the Chicago Theological Seminary, said here today at the Institute of Human Relations at Williams College.

Screen Actors' Guild Again Delays Eastern Closed Shop

The Screen Actors' Guild yesterday set back for the second time the date for placing the "guild shop" in effect in eastern studios. After once postponing the effective date from Aug. 1 to Sept. 1, the guild's eastern office said yesterday that the closed shop deadline would be deferred again, with no new date being set.

Indications are that the guild will complete its negotiations with Educational, March of Time and other important eastern producers and may wait until a plan for making theatrical union cards interchangeable among all Four A unions has been approved before declaring the closed shop in effect here. This will mean several more weeks and may possibly defer the guild shop here until Oct. 1.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, left for Hollywood by plane last night after four days here for meetings of the international council of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America.

New Charter Given By AAAA to AGMA

The Associated Actors and Artistes of America last night granted a new charter to the American Guild of Musical Artists giving that organization complete jurisdiction over the grand opera, concert and recital field.

Earlier in the day the Grand Opera Artists' Ass'n relinquished its A.F.L. charter for the grand opera field to the 4 A's at a membership meeting which voted unanimously to align itself with the A.G.M.A.

Producers Discuss Studio Men's Wages

Representatives of eastern producing companies met yesterday to discuss new wage and hour demands and work spreading plans for eastern studio technicians and mechanics submitted by Local 52, I.A.T.S.E. A report of the discussions and possible recommendations is to be submitted to Pat Casey, studio labor representative, today for further action.

Local 52 has asked appreciable wage (Continued on page 4)

U.S. Firms in Mexico Facing Strike Threat

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—A serious labor problem again is confronting the eight major American distributing companies with offices here. The move has taken the form of the demands of the organized distribution employees for wage increases ranging between 30 and 35 per cent over present salaries.

The companies affected are Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, United Artists, M-G-M, RKO, Columbia, Universal and Warners. The percentage of increase demanded depends upon the classification of worker and the length of service. The employee group has threatened to strike unless the companies yield to the demand for increases.

The union has adopted the method of tackling each distributor individually instead of a major attack on all the companies, which tactics, in the (Continued on page 4)

Production Levels Show Little Change

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—With seven pictures winding up and six starting, productions before the cameras this week totalled 35, one less than last week. Twenty-nine are preparing and 77 editing.

The starts are: U. A., "The Goldwyn Follies;" M-G-M, "The Last Gangster;" Paramount, "Hold 'Em, Navy;" RKO, "It Never Happened Before;" 20th Century-Fox, "Borrowing Trouble;" and Warners, "The Patient in Room 18."

Columbia finished one and is shooting three, preparing three, editing five; Goldwyn, zero, three, zero, zero; Grand National, zero, zero, three, four; M-G-M, zero, two, five, five; Monogram, one, zero, one, two; Paramount, one, seven, three, 13; Principal, zero, one, zero, one; Republic, (Continued on page 15)

Expect Empire To Take "U's" Canada Sales

Nathanson Understood to Control Company

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—The understanding is definite here that Universal distribution will clear through Empire Films, Ltd., of which Oscar R. Hanson is president, but of which N. L. Nathanson, president of Famous Players Canadian Corp., is believed to have control.

Canadian Universal in which Nathanson has purchased a substantial interest maintains a small number of salesmen and has six branch managers, one each in charge of exchanges in Calgary, Toronto, Montreal, St. John, Quebec and Vancouver. Clair Hague, for years, has been general manager of the company and is dean of the exchange contingent in the Dominion. It is understood this staff will remain intact and that distribution will be turned over to Empire. Shortly, it is anticipated the Universal exchanges will be absorbed by this latter company, but control of sales and approval of contracts, it is believed further, will continue to be exercised by James R. Grainger, general sales manager of the parent company, out of New York.

M-G-M May Acquire Own English Studio

M-G-M probably will acquire a studio of its own in England, through the lease of an existing plant, it was indicated yesterday by Lawrence Weingarten, M-G-M producer, on his return to New York on the Normandie.

The present leasing arrangement for the production of "A Yank at Oxford," first M-G-M English film scheduled, is with Alexander Korda, head of the Denham studio of London (Continued on page 15)

Looking 'Em Over

"Fit for a King"

(Loew-RKO)

The supposedly critical audience which yesterday previewed "Fit for a King," the latest, but not too monumental work of the wide-mouthed Joe E. Brown, under the sponsorship of David L. Loew, alternated between chuckles and guffaws and an occasional bellow. Their reactions served to indicate that there has been produced a portion of comedy close to the Brown standard, if not beyond it, which means an entertaining picture for audiences that go for Brown.

This time Joe E. is an office boy kicked up to reporter, who succeeds, quite by accident, in getting into the thick of an intrigue involving a mythical kingdom and its American princess, getting himself scooped and re-scooped, and finally emerging with a real story and a real romance, all for himself. En route he indulges in most of the expected and a few unexpected antics, practically all of which should make the patrons forget the mortgage and the grocer's bills.

In support are Helen Mack, princess and romance; Paul Kelly, rival reporter and Joe's nemesis; John Qualen, bicycle shop owner who tries—endlessly—to repair a much-needed telephone, and assorted others who fill in the gaps satisfactorily. Edward Sedgwick directed and the screenplay was the work of Richard Flournoy.

Brown is assigned by an irate boss to interview an archduke visiting New York and ascertain why he has been the target for so many would-be assassins. Brown stows away, and Kelly, aboard, succeeds in making a monkey of him. The pursuit, via comedy sequences, wanders over Europe, to a resort, where Brown bumps into and falls in love with Miss Mack, later revealed as the princess going to reclaim her title as queen. Mistakenly, Brown persuades her to do her duty, despite love, and then realizes he is sending her to a death in a political plot. Then the comedy highlight as Brown races to the rescue on foot, bicycle, motorcycle and on a hay wagon, which ends its share of the race as a chariot. He wins, and in so doing, saves the day, Miss Mack, his story and his romance.

"Forty Naughty Girls"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—For that vast army of detective story followers who keep buying the pulp magazines week after week, and who go to theatres for further mystification, "Forty Naughty Girls" will provide satisfactory film fare. It will more than satisfy the fans of James Gleason, again brought to the screen as "Police Inspector Oscar Piper," and fluttery fingered ZaSu Pitts. "Forty Naughty Girls" is another of the Stuart Palmer detective stories, and the film version of the backstage murder drama is interspersed with singing, dancing and comedy which the screen handles so much more ably than the printed word would be able to do.

Windy, a philandering and blackmailing press agent for a stage play, is murdered when Inspector Piper and Hildegard Withers (Miss Pitts) are watching the show. Piper investigates and rounds up a half dozen suspects, all of whom are innocent. Then Hildegard, after a series of hilarious incidents, finds out who the murderer is. In addition to Gleason and Miss Pitts, the cast has Majorie Lord, George Shelley, Joan Woodbury, Frank M. Thomas, Tom Kennedy, Alan Edwards, Alan Chase, Edward Marr, Ada Leonard, Donald Kerr and Barbara Pepper.

John Grey adapted the Palmer story. Edward Cline directed and William Sistrom produced.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Bans Game Insurance

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 30.—District Attorney Oscar M. Edwards has warned the Racine Novelty Co. to discontinue selling Bank Night insurance, declaring it violates the state insurance laws. The Racine firm has been selling the insurance for 15 cents a week.

Fox Plaza Goes Dual

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30.—The Fox Plaza, last stronghold of single bills, and said to be the only theatre in Kansas City that has never shown a double, has inaugurated the two-feature policy. The new policy will be given a thorough test.

R. Schoenstadt Suicide

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Leaving a note saying that he was tired of life, Ralph Schoenstadt, 32, cousin of Arthur and Henry Schoenstadt, theatre circuit owners here, was found dead this morning, having shot himself. He was manager of the People's Theatre and son of the late Alexander Schoenstadt.

No Paramount Action

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—A special meeting of the I. T. O. of Northern California, called last week to discuss the proposed Paramount playdate strike, adjourned after heated discussion but without coming to a decision.

Purely Personal

JAMES R. GRAINGER is poising a trip to Seattle the end of the week, but may not get away as per current schedule. In the meantime, MRS. GRAINGER is leaving for her usual sojourn in Hollywood and will return in October.

LOUIS D. FROHLICH, attorney, leaves for Lincoln late this week to prepare for the hearing there next week of Ascap's application for an injunction to restrain Nebraska officials from enforcing the state's new anti-Ascap law.

JAMES DUNN is at Ritz Towers from Hollywood. LOUELLA O. PARSONS, motion picture editor of the Hearst newspapers, has left Ritz Towers for Hollywood accompanied by her husband, Dr. HARRY MARTIN.

LEONARD FIELDS has left Hollywood after an extended stay for Minneapolis, his home town. In the fall, he plans to produce "Sunup to Sundown," a play by FRANCIS FARAGOH.

NEW YORK, TUESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1937

TEN CENTS

Para. Listing 12 B.O. Films First 5 Months

New Releases Impress by Their Strength

Closely following the box office success of "Artists and Models" and "Souls at Sea" Paramount is now definitely set to release a group of twelve sure-fire hit pictures of equal box office calibre during the first five months of the new season.

The group consists of: Bing Crosby and Martha Raye in "Double or Nothing"; Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott in "High, Wide and Handsome"; Marlene Dietrich in "Angel" with Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas; "This Way Please" with Fibber McGee and Molly, Betty Grable, Ned Sparks and Mary Livingston; "Ebb Tide" a Technicolor production with Oscar Homolka. "Blossoms on Broadway" with Edward Arnold and Shirley Ross; "The Barrier" with Leo Carrillo, Jean Parker and Jimmy Ellison; Carole Lombard and Fred MacMurray in "True Confession"; W. C. Fields in "The Big Broadcast of 1938." Also "Thrill of a Lifetime" with Dorothy Lamour, Yacht Club Boys, Judy Canova and Ben Blue; "Everyday's a Holiday" with Mae West, Edmund Lowe and Charles Butterworth and "Wells Fargo" with Joel McCrea, Frances Dee and Bob Burns.

"High Wide" Lauded At London Premiere

LONDON, Aug. 30 (Via Cable).—The premiere of "High Wide And Handsome," Paramount production at the Plaza Theatre here, was ushered in with an enthusiastic reception from both public and press. Public showed their appreciation by long and generous applause.

One Out of Four

Peekskill, Aug. 30.—"Artists and Models" Paramount production starring Jack Benny in its first day at the Paramount Theater here played to more than 4,000 admissions, setting a new attendance and receipt figure. With the population of this town of 17,000 it is estimated that at least one of every four persons saw the picture.

40 Key City Runs Place "Artists" in Hit Class

Half a Million People Pay to See

'Artists and Models' at Paramount

Smash business was done at the New York Paramount Theater with "Artists and Models" which in its four weeks played to more than half a million persons, according to a box office check-up. With the local population six and a half million the Paramount Theatre certainly got its share of the picture-going public. The third and fourth week's business was on par with the take recorded for the first week and all indications point to the picture remaining at the theater until September. That's some business!

'Souls at Sea' SRO at Phila. And Portland

Despite terrific rain, Paramount's mighty drama of the sea, "Souls at Sea," was ushered in at its first three popular price engagement at the Fox, Philadelphia; State, Portland and Paramount, New Haven, to unprecedented business. The SRO sign was in evidence at three houses, which drew capacity crowds for the opening performances.

At the Fox Theater, Philadelphia, the picture rolled up the biggest opening day's gross of any picture this year. In Portland at the State "Souls at Sea" cracked all records for the year at that house, "Souls At Sea" at the Paramount in New Haven opened to the best business of the year. All engagements definitely demonstrated the drawing power of this Paramount smash hit.

Para Signs Benny On Four Year Pact

Following the phenomenal reception accorded his last production, "Artists and Models," Paramount production executives concluded negotiations with Jack Benny for a new four-year contract. In this new pact Benny will make eight productions for the company. The first picture, tentatively titled "Music Over America," and now being prepared by Preston Sturges, will be produced by Arthur Hornblow, Jr.

Preview Slant Indicates "Ebb Tide" a Winner

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Audience reaction at a sneak preview of "Ebb Tide," Paramount Technicolor production with Oscar Homolka, Frances Farmer and Ray Milland, definitely stamps that attraction as another box office winner from Paramount. Unsuspecting audience applauded the exceptional portrayals of the various players in the cast and the dramatic highlights of the production, the gripping storm scenes which were photographed in Technicolor in this screen version of the Robert Louis Stevenson story. James Hogan directed this Lucien Hubbard production.

"Artists" Makes B. O. History in Newark

NEWARK, Aug. 30.—Box office history was made at the Paramount Theater here when Paramount's outstanding musical sensation "Artists and Models" was held for a fourth consecutive week at this theater. This is the first time since the house was built that any film achieved that distinction and registered handsomely at the box office. The picture got off to a sensational first week with crowds lining the house to capacity. Business on the first day of the fourth week was $100 better than the first day of the third week.

The success of "Artists and Models" in Newark is typical of the reception achieved in other situations.

Added Playing Time Given Paramount Musical Smash

Conclusive evidence of the fact that Paramount's new musical production "Artists and Models" will be among the top grossers of this season is gleaned from box office reports now reaching the Paramount home office from forty key city engagements.

Every important key city opening on "Artists and Models" has resulted in additional playing time. Among the highlights of the holdovers are:

At the New York Paramount now in its fourth big week and playing to the biggest gross in the history of the house. Second day of the fourth week far ahead of the second day's take of the third week. For the first time in the history of the Paramount Theater in Newark "Artists and Models" has been held for four consecutive weeks. First day of the fourth week was $100 better than first day of third week.

In Philadelphia at the Stanley Theater the picture rolled up the biggest first week's gross in three years. At the Fox Theater in San Francisco "Artists and Models" garnered the normal week's receipts in the first three days. The picture is now in its second week at the Paramount Theater in Seattle after hitting the biggest first week's business in two years. Picture is now at the Music Hall in that city for third week.

At Chicago, Chicago Theatre "Artists and Models" grossed $25,000 in its first three days for a record take, while at the Detroit Theatre in that city the picture rolled up $5,000 in its first day of a record-breaking opening.

From Indianapolis the Circle Theater reported the picture hit the average week's take in its first three days.

Exhibitors who have played this smash hit pass the word along to other showmen who have this picture booked to save extra playing time.

Best in 2 Years!

Erie, Aug. 30.—Paramount's musical "Artists and Models" played to the biggest gross of any picture in two years at the Warner Theatre here. Opening day's business broke the house record with the picture being held for a second week.

U.S. Firms in Mexico Facing Strike Threat

previous organization demand for adjustment of working conditions, resulted in a strike which tied up distribution here for four months.

The new demands for heavy pay increases have been made despite the generous raises in wages which were allowed in the settlement of the general strike. Distributors are worried over the situation. Business has been much improved recently, and there are indications that the American companies will yield, as did many exhibitors here when their employees demanded a 25 per cent wage increase.

It is reported that Paramount and M-G-M pacified their workers with an increase, the amount of which remained undisclosed.

The Government fears a row climaxing the strike sentiment. Official circles are inclined toward a policy of averting a business tieup if at all possible, in view of the fact that Mexico has had more than its share of labor disturbances, and the fear that any conflicts of that nature would take a toll of Government revenues and work a hardship on the public.

Union Fights Discharge

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 30.—A. F. of L. exchange employees' union here has sent representatives to the RKO home office to plead the cause of Homer Downey, poster clerk and assistant shipper, first member of the unit to be discharged. The group seeks his reinstatement, claiming that the charge of inefficiency was unreasonable after almost five years of continuous employment.

Chicago Settlement still Pending

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The operators' union contract with Chicago exhibitors expires tomorrow but the men will continue on the present terms pending settlement of a new agreement in which the union is asking a 20 per cent salary increase which theatre men seem very reluctant to give.

Seek New St. Louis Union

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—Bert Tavenner, local C. I. O. director, has declared that a group has filed an application with him seeking a C. I. O. charter for a new projectionists' union to compete with the M. P. Machine Operators' Local Union No. 143, a branch of the I. A. T. S. E. and affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Birdwell in New York

Russell Birdwell, publicity director for Selznick International, is in New York for the opening of "The Prisoner of Zenda" at the Music Hall. Later he will fly to Bermuda for the opening there, and then will proceed to Ontario and Ottawa for the premieres there.

Making Short on Spain

Modern Film Corp. is preparing a two-reel version of the film, "Fury Over Spain," which will be available for national distribution shortly. A Spanish version is also being prepared for Latin America.

Producers Discuss Studio Men's Wages

increases for all classes of studio mechanics here and is also seeking a work spreading agreement which will provide employment for a larger number of studio mechanics and technicians in the east.

Two Operators Paroled

Two projectionists were paroled yesterday by Magistrate Anna M. Kross in Bronx Magistrates' Court for a hearing Sept. 21. They were charged with disorderly conduct as a result of sit-down strikes.

The prisoners were Samuel Balaban of the Melba, Boston Road and Seymour Ave., and Arthur Schwab of the Craft, White Plains Road and 238th St.

306 Meeting Postponed

The meeting of representatives of Local 306, projectionists' union, with major circuit executives, to discuss terms of a new two-year working agreement, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed. It probably will be held tomorrow.

Kendis Files Denial

J. D. Kendis yesterday filed a general denial in U. S. District Court in answer to a $5,000 breach of contract suit brought against him and Jay Vee Kay Prod. by Principal Film Exchange, Inc. The plaintiff claims that it received exclusive rights to distribute "Crusade Against Rackets" and was to get 50 per cent of the gross after deducting the cost of prints. Kendis denied making the contract and asked for a dismissal of the complaint.

Lorens Asks $2,500 Fee

Louis Lorens, special tax counsel for the Flatbush Ave. and Nevins St. Corp., owners of the Brooklyn Fox, which recently went through reorganization proceedings, yesterday filed a request in U. S. District Court for an additional $2,500 for legal fees.

Critic Breaks Ankle

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—Florence Fisher Parry, film critic and columnist for the Press, suffered a broken ankle last week in her home town of Punxsutawney, Pa., while attending the funeral of a relative there. She is confined there to a hospital and is expected to be away from her desk for at least a month.

Wm. Darling Vacationing

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—For the first time in his 19 years of association with the industry, William Darling, art director at 20th Century-Fox, is taking a vacation. Bernard Herzbrun is pinch hitting for him.

Biechele on Vacation

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30.—R. R. Biechele, operator of the Osage, Kansas City, Kan., and secretary of the K. M. T. A., is vacationing in the east with his family.

Open Newsreel Sept. 10

The Newsreel Theatre on East Fordham Road, Bronx, is scheduled to open about Sept. 10.

Cake for Capitol

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—M-G-M is sending a three-layer, 100-pound cake approximately five feet in height and autographed by its stars and featured players to the management of the Capitol in New York for the celebration of its 20th anniversary and simultaneous re-opening of the newly-redecorated house Sept. 2. "Broadway Melody" will be the first picture to be played with the reopening.

Painters Apologize To I. A.; Peace Near

issued to the press a formal apology for attacks made upon the I.A.T.S.E. during and since the recent strike. It is understood that William Bioff, representative of George E. Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president, will aid the makeup men's local committee in drawing up a contract with the producers. The apology read:

"We, officers and members of the makeup artists' local, desire to render a formal apology to you, the officers personally, and to the members collectively, for statements made and allegations and innuendoes inferred and state that they are without foundation."

The contract calling for retroactive wage raises to August 2, when the initial tentative contract was blocked by the I.A.T.S.E., and other conditions are to be signed this week. The I.A.T.S.E. reportedly is dropping its claims for jurisdiction over makeup men.

Plans Completed for Rogers Shrine Rites

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 30.—Before a large gathering which will include statesmen, actors, aviators, cowboys and Indians, the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun on Cheyenne Mountain will be dedicated on Labor Day. Dedication will open with a brief eulogy by Thurston J. Davies, president of Colorado College, who will be introduced by U. S. Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado.

The honor of christening the memorial will go to a full-blooded Osage Indian, Fred Lookout, son of the chief of the Osage tribe.

Preceding the dedication a three-day rodeo will be held on the polo field of the Broadmoor Hotel here at which prizes totaling $10,000 will be awarded.

Rosenthal to New York

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Aaron Rosenthal, comptroller of Grand National has gone to New York to work out a plan of consolidating the accounting systems of the New York and the Hollywood offices.

LeRoy Signs Sinclair

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Mervyn LeRoy has signed Robert Sinclair, Broadway stage director, to a writing-directing contract. He will collaborate with LeRoy on "Food for Scandal."

Rocky Mountain Men Conclude Convention

DENVER, Aug. 30.—Urged to fight against further unionization in the theatres, the members of the Rocky Mountain Theatre Owners and Managers today brought to a close their convention here without passing any resolutions.

Harry Huffman warned against the danger of daylight saving to the theatres and Rick Ricketson urged an increase in admission prices, pointing to the value and quality of present-day product and to the rising prices of commodities generally. He pleaded for better distribution and called for cooperation of exhibitor with distributor.

Officers for the new year, most of whom were reelected, are: A. P. Archer, president; Charles Gilmour, first vice-president; Harold Rich, second vice-president; Louis Finske, third vice-president, and E. P. Briggs, treasurer.

Directors are Howard Federer, Archer, Ricketson, Dave Davis, Dave Cockrill, Mickey Gross, Ed Schulte, B. P. McCormick, Russell Bradwick, Charlie Klein and John Greve. Emmett Thurman was continued as secretary-counsel.

About 145 were registered for the convention. Most of these will attend the Screen Club picnic at the Cherry Hills C. C. tomorrow.

The convention of Fox Intermountain will open here tomorrow but will adjourn its session early in order that these delegates may also attend the Screen Club picnic.

Shooting "Cantor's Son"

Exterior shooting on "The Cantor's Son," produced by Eron Prod., Inc., has been completed and additional work will be continued at the Film Art Studios after the Jewish holidays. Oisha Moisha, well-known star of the Jewish stage, is starred with Sidney Golden directing. Artie Block is production manager and John T. Doran is supervising.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayers "Broadway Melody of 1938" is a gigantic musical extravaganza that should click heavily at the boxoffice.

Both previous "Broadway Melodies" are to be remembered for having developed new screen stars. The 1938 edition will prove no exception. There are no less than three whose performances here should carry them to the top. The sensational work of young Judy Garland causes wonder as to why she has been kept under wraps these many months. She sings two numbers that are show stoppers and does a dance with Buddy Ebsen. Hers is a distinctive personality well worth careful promotion.

George Murphy comes into his own at last. He plays his role with effortless ease, and his dancing is nothing short of a smash. No doubt that Murphy has arrived.

Sophie Tucker makes a debut that is surefire. A grand trouper and song stylist, she appears to excellent advantage all the way. She sings "Some of These Days" as only she can, and performs a neat chant in the finale.
Her handling of dialog is excellent.

Singling out these three surprise performances is not intended as a reflection upon the work of others in the large expert cast. Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell are co-starred.
Taylor is just as his huge following likes him, playing a romantic with pleasing humor.

Miss Powell has added warmth and beauty to her magnificent dancing.

Too much credit cannot be given the splendid production by Jack Cummings and the polished direction by Roy Del Ruth. Weaving the many diverse elements of this pretentious musical into such an entertaining whole called for adroit craftsmanship.
Del Ruth allows no slow moments to ington next month to show "Ali halt the smooth pace. The piece is perfectly balanced.

Jack McGowan wrote the screenplay from an original upon which Sid Silvers collaborated. Their plot is cleverly constructed of several themes that find backgrounds in the Broadway theatrical district and at racetracks. The writing job is a highly creditable musical comedy book.

Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed contribute five songs for the tuneful score. "I'm Feeling Like a Million" is smartly staged in the rain to feature a dance by Powell and Murphy. "Your Broadway and My Broadway" serves as an elaborate finale wherein the entire cast performs upon a glass staircase, a striking creation by Merrill Pye who did the musical presentations. "Yours and Mine" is a ballad that will endure, and "Follow in My Footsteps" is a fast dance number. Judy Garland does
"Everybody Sing," by Brown and Freed; then a sock novelty probably called "Dear Mr. Gable," based on the well-remembered "You Made Me Love You." The patter for this was authored by Roger Edens, also credited with the excellent musical arrangements. The fine vocal and orchestra arrangements are by Leo
Arnaud and Murray Cutter. Georgie
Stoll's musical direction distinctively stands out. Well-conceived dance ensembles are by Dave Gould.

Buddy Ebsen is a shining light, both in his dancing and his comedy. A swell running gag has Charles Igor
Gorin and the very funny Billy Gilbert as a couple of barbers, trying to collect money owed them. Gorin sings two operatic arias superbly. Binnie
Barnes plays one of the few straight roles to score, and Raymond Walburn is outstanding as her husband.

Cast in small but decisive incidental parts are Robert Benchley as a polluted press agent; Robert Wildhack, delivering his sneezing routine; Willie Howard as boarding house waiter, a panic of a bit; Barnett Parker, scoring as usual; Charley Grapewin as a trainer; and Helen Troy, doing her telephone girl.

Photography by William Daniels is of his sterling standard, as are the montage effects by Slavko Vorkapich.
Gowns by Adrian are striking, and bows are due Blanche Sewell as film editor, and Cedric Gibbons as art director, with Joseph Wright and Edwin B. Willis as associates.

"The Broadway Melody of 1938" will unquestionably repeat the success of its two former "Melodys," causing heavy traffic at the boxoffice. Exhibitors would do well to give heavy billing to Sophie Tucker and do plenty of talking about Judy Garland and George Murphy, as all three are certain new picture stars and the show-man's build now will cash heavily for their later pictures.

"I'm throwing away
the scissors and giving you every word of it!"

A big, glittering, variegated show, elegantly produced and parading an array of insured money names, this third annual edition of Metro's 'Broadway Melody' tops the series and will be a b.o. cleanup.

As in the 'Melody' of two years ago, Eleanor Powell and Robert Taylor, then newcomers destined to be skyrocketed by that picture, are again in the top bracket. Both here give their mature talents full play in persuasive romance and brilliant dancing as pace makers for a galaxy of show folk including George Murphy, Buddy Ebsen, Judy Garland, Sophie Tucker, Binnie Barnes, Robert Walburn, Willie Howard and Robert Benchley, Raymond Walburn, Willie Howard and half a dozen others fitted with roles and specialties to their measure in the two-hour musical extravaganza.

Miss Powell is given wide latitude for her spirited and fascinating dancing and puts warmth and beauty into every rhythmic routine, both in the the solos and in the duets with Murphy. She also stands forth as a splendid actress, skillful in her modulations and performing with appealing sincerity, a star by every right.

Taylor upholds his best standards in the love tale which dominates the proceedings, playing with accustomed ease and scoring with the peculiar appeal his name stands for in an elegantly tailored role.

George Murphy contributes his full share to the lavish entertainment in the hoofing numbers and performs effectively in the material story part allotted to him. Buddy Ebsen interpolates his languid drolleries neatly. Judy Garland scores in song and reads with fine ingenuous sentiment a girlish fan tribute to Clark Gable's photo—one of the novel scenes of the show.

Sophie Tucker puts over a solid hit in the role of an old Broadway favorite, playing herself. To the old timers she will bring a tear of recollection in her tribute to the phantom favorites as a prelude to the production number, 'Your Broadway and Mine.' Charles Igor Gorin delivers effectively several song classics. Robert Benchley gets a chance to flip in some of his characteristic dry quips as a publicity man.

Binnie Barnes, Raymond Walburn, Charley Grapewin, Barnett Parker, Helen Troy carry parts of the story which has to do with the production of a Broadway show and the efforts of those who seek to thwart Taylor and his protege, Miss Whitney, from carrying the venture through. Miss Barnes is well cast as the wife of Walburn, the show angel, whose jealousy of Miss Powell provides the chief stumbling block. All carry their roles ably.

Robert Wildhack gets the biggest laughs with his sneeze routine. Willie Howard clocks guffaws with his trained dogs on a rampage in the theatrical boarding house run by Sophie Tucker. Charley Grapewin has a good short part as keeper of Miss Barnes' stables.

Jack McGowan ably integrates his many diverse entertainment elements in the screen play, from an original for which he shares credit with Sid Silvers. Story, romance, comedy and divertissements are well balanced with a wealth of material offering something for almost every taste. Much of the comedy and the thrills are provided in the race horse element which is mingled with the show venture for plot.

Major responsibility for the quality of the offering is the smart and knowing direction of Roy Del Ruth. Expert and seasoned in the guidance of this type of musical, Del Ruth excels himself in collating and pointing his detail and the big production numbers for swaggering and sparkling effect. From his cast he gets top response, and the tempo, considering the multifarious ingredients, is well sustained. It is a decided coup for Del Ruth.

Jack Cummings has guided the production with an intelligent and lavish hand and adds measurably to his producer prowess in one of Metro's outstanding offerings of the season.

Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed supply a distinguished score of songs to give the piece color. 'Your Broadway and Mine' is a big sock number. 'I'm Feeling Like a Million' is diverting; 'Everybody Sing,' vocaled by Judy Garland and ensemble is musically exciting; 'Follow in My Footsteps' is rhythmically fine. The average merit is high. Sharing in the musical credits are Georgie Stoll for his splendid musical direction, one of the top merits of the piece; Merrill Pye for presentations; Roger Edens for arrangements and Leo Arnaud and Murray Cutter for vocal and instrumental arrangements.

Dave Gould's dance direction deserves special commendation, topping in the Powell-Murphy number in the rain, and the 'Broadway' finale, a strikingly picturesque creation. The art direction is notably fine, gowns are striking and photography by William Daniels and montage by Slavko Vorkapich of high standard.

'Broadway Melody of 1938'

starring Robert Taylor, Eleanor Powell with George Murphy, Binnie Barnes, Buddy Ebsen, Judy Garland, Sophie Tucker, Robert Benchley, Willie Howard 115 Mins.

M-G-M (HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW) POWERFUL BOX-OFFICE MUSICAL STUDDER WITH FINE ROMANCE, DANCING AND COMEDY.

This is a grand load of entertainment and should click handsomely at the box office. It has a bright, cheery atmosphere, splendid dancing, romance and comedy. Roy Del Ruth's direction is tops, while Jack Cummings rates credit as the producer. Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell, head the cast, and, of course, do excellent work, but the picture gives George Murphy and Judy Garland their best opportunities to date and they register strongly. Grand trouper Sophie Tucker scores, too, and delivers her popular "Some of These Days" in splendid voice. Buddy Ebsen, Billy Gilbert, Willie Howard, Robert Benchley, Barnett Parker, Robert Wildhack, with his sneezing routine, and Helen Troy handle the comedy material effectively. Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed furnished five songs, with "Yours and Mine" and "Everybody Sings" scoring solidly. McGowan and Sid Silvers wrote the original story and McGowan furnished the direction and William Daniels for photography. Eleanor Powell is given the leading role in the Broadway musical, which Taylor is producing, with Raymond Walburn as the backer. Walburn's wife, Binnie Barnes, is jealous of Eleanor, and the last moment forces her husband to give his money from the show. How-the show can go on.

VARIETY

B'WAY MELODY OF '38

(MUSICAL)
Hollywood, Aug. 17.

Swell entertainment and will do smash business everywhere. Much better than its predecessor of '36, and not far behind the original 'Broadway Melody' of a decade ago which featured Bessie Love, Charles King and Anita Page. This one is red hot merchandise, with some blazing names for the come-on displays. Both stars, Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell, have increased their voltage since their last joint appearance, and the supporting cast includes George Murphy, Binnie Barnes, Buddy Ebsen, and Sophie Tucker and Judy Garland. Special niche for these last two, who, with much less to do than the others, stand out like traffic lights.

Music and lyrics by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed are first rate, and will go right from the film to the air. Already they're enjoying wide etherization.

No use getting into the details until Sophie Tucker and Judy Garland are disposed of. Former is somewhere past 40, but when she walks on the screens something happens. You can hear what the others are saying, but Miss Tucker is the only one you see. It's as if all that energy of more than a score of years in vaudeville has been recharged and served up in one package. Then she steps back and pushes Judy Garland, still in her teens, into the camera foreground. Young Miss Garland gives them 'Everybody Sing,' with a Tucker undertone, and it's worth a letter to the homefolks. Coming near the picture's opening, these two give the film a great kickoff. Each does numbers solo later on. Judy sings a plaint to Clark Gable's photograph which is as close to great screen acting as pictures have furnished. Then, to top it off, Soph does 'Your Broadway and My Broadway,' with lyrics which bring in the great names of the past generation. It's sentimental enough to padlock every pineapple joint on the stem.

Bright lights will give 'Melody' to Taylor and Powell. The audience hands it to Tucker and Garland. In combination it's okay b.o. Flin.

MOTION PICTURE HERALD

Broadway Melody of 1938

(MGM)

Musical Comedy

In common with the pyramids of Egypt, the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and, to come a little nearer the subject, the late Florenz Ziegfeld's chronological Follies, the Broadway Melody brought forth annually by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is first of all an institution and may happen to be. For the showman to omit use of exploitation pressure upon the master title is or should be unthinkable, since mere mention of it sets certain tunes and images aflutter in ear and eye memory. However, this year, as always, the sponsors have supplied exhibitors with substantial additional material with which to work his box office magic upon the public.

The dancing of Eleanor Powell is again a prime factor and the name of Robert Taylor is an item of known marquee marketability. But this time there is also the powerful presence of one Sophie Tucker, the same and only one whose name has been ticket sales tonic for two generations, to tack up snugly alongside the toppers. There is also Charles Igor Gorin, whose air following is given a chance here to see, as well as hear him, and there is Willie Howard in a brief but advertisingly mentionable burst of characteristic comedy.

There are, too:

GEORGE MURPHY, dancing opposite Miss Powell;

BUDDY EBSEN, ditto and also clowning;

JUDY GARLAND, singing one solo number in rafter-shaking manner and another a revival of the old favorite "You Made Me Love You," for a vocal response second only to La Tucker's;

RAYMOND WALBURN, wheedled into backing the inevitable show;

ROBERT WILDHACK, the incomparable snorer, sneezing;

ROBERT BENCHLEY, drunk again as a Broadway press agent;

BILLY GILBERT, brokenly voluble in a Greek barber assignment; and BINNIE BARNES, under wraps, as Mrs. Moneybags.

Produced by Jack Cummings, the picture lacks nothing that money could provide to make it big. Director Roy Del Ruth's seasoned experience is evident in the cohesion of widely varied elements to the narrative thread. Original music and lyrics are by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed. Dave Gould's direction of the dance numbers is outstanding.

SHOWMEN'S

TRADE REVIEW

Broadway Melody of 1938

MGM Musical Drama 115 mins.

Here's a Box Office Banquet Done to Perfection and Ready to Serve For a Clean-Up

Cast: Robert Taylor, Eleanor Powell, George Murphy, Binnie Barnes, Buddy Ebsen, Sophie Tucker, Judy Garland, Charles Igor Gorin, Raymond Walburn, Robert Benchley, Willie Howard, Charley Grapevin, Robert Wildhack, Billy Gilbert, Barnett Parker, Helen Troy. Screenplay by Jack McGowan. Original story by Jack McGowan and Sid Silvers. Music and lyrics by Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed. Director Roy Del Ruth.

Plot: George Murphy and Buddy Ebsen have jobs in the stables of the rich Binnie Barnes. There they meet Eleanor Powell, the former owner of one of Binnie's horses. Robert Taylor is producing a show on Broadway backed by the wealthy Raymond Walburn. Eleanor Powell stows away on the train which is transporting her pet horse to an Eastern track. She is discovered by Ebsen and Murphy hiding in the stall. They persuade her to dance with them, when Taylor, traveling on the same train, sees them and goes hook, line and sinker for Eleanor. He puts all three in a show and they are a sensational success.

SUMMARY: A glorious musical extravaganza "Broadway Melody of 1938" is a tremendous infusion of scintillating entertainment that should reach box office heights. Some of the sets are almost indescribable in their wealth of magnificent splendor. The music, the singing and the dancing had the preview audience gurgling with delight. Robert Taylor and Eleanor Powell excellently top a cast of outstanding merit. George Murphy demonstrates his remarkable dancing skill in a performance that verges on the sensational. Judy Garland in her rendition of her songs captivated her listeners. She has charm and ability. Much credit must be given Roy Del Ruth for his smart box-office direction. For exploitation see Showmanalysis in this issue on pages 8 and 9.

Catchline: "Latest of 'Broadway Melodys' is a scintillating, star-studded musical extravaganza."

AND ALL THE CRITICS AGREE!

(Brief flashes from Magazine and Press Correspondents)

ED SMITHSON, HOLLYWOOD MAGAZINE—

"Best musical this reviewer has seen in a long time. George Murphy-Eleanor Powell dance team is something to rave about."

JOHN LEROY JOHNSTON, MOTION PICTURE MAGAZINE—

"Firmly establishes Eleanor Powell as our number one dancing star and recognizes George Murphy's claim of early stardom. Murphy is one of the outstanding sensations of the current season and a triple-threat man in the next popularity poll. The finale presents a remarkable third dimensional quality and a spectacular curtain scene."

SHEILA GRAHAM (North American Newspaper Ass'n)—

"First honors go to Judy Garland who scores sensationally in her song to Clark Gable."

GEORGE FISHER, LOS ANGELES EVENING NEWS—

"Where others leave off Broadway Melody begins. It is the greatest film musical of the year."

IVAN SPEAR, BOX OFFICE MAGAZINE—

"A cast loaded with established marquee names and the popularity of preceding Broadway Melodies guarantee that this one cannot miss scoring heavily at the turnstiles. Convincingly elaborate extravaganza and will deliver a full measure of entertainment to the cash customers."

JIMMY STARR, LOS ANGELES HERALD EXPRESS—

"Superb entertainment. Dancing and music are the tops."

MILTON HARKER, INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE—

"One of best musicals I have ever seen bar none. Powell is tops."

HOWARD SHARPE, PHOTOPLAY MAGAZINE—

Hollywood's best musical talent at its best."

HARRY MINES, LOS ANGELES DAILY NEWS—

"An outstanding addition to a topnotch series. George Murphy establishes himself as a top screen personality."

HOMER McCOY, ASSOCIATED PRESS—

"Powell and Murphy are a sensational dance team. Sophie Tucker and Judy Garland are excellent."

HARRISON CARROLL, KING FEATURES—

"Broadway Melody is another step toward stardom for Judy Garland and George Murphy. Contains this year's most unique dance numbers."

JOE BLAIR, HOLLYWOOD MOTION PICTURE REVIEW—

"All Broadway Melodies have been good money-makers. This one will follow in line."

WHITNEY BOLTON, LITERARY DIGEST—

"A bright, brisk and altogether worthy new version of the entertaining Melody series."

LLOYD PANTAGES, COLUMNIST AND RADIO COMMENTATOR—

"Broadway Melody is up to its usual high standard. Always the productions one should not miss."

JAY EMANUEL PUBLICATIONS—

"Excellent musical extravaganza. This should repeat the success of former 'Broadway Melodys'. A showman's picture that can be sold for the money. Musical numbers are the kind the customers whistle on the way home. Preview audience enthusiastic."

'MELODY' 15G TOP BUFF.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.
Box office figures are hitting high ceilings again here this week.

Great Lakes (Shea) (3,400; 30-50)—'Broadway Melody of 1938' (MG). Showing strong and looks to do over line of $5,000.

'B'way Melody,' 24G, Sweet and Hot In Frisco, but Other B.O.'s Chilly

San Francisco, Aug. 24.
'Broadway Melody of 1938' is the top money maker on Market Street this week.

Paramount (F-WC) (2,470; 35-55-75)—'Broadway Melody' (MG) and 'She's No Lady' (Par). Upped the ad budget considerably. Biz near record-breaking proportions. Expect to take in the nabe of $24,000 during the first week, which means that 'Melody' will stay on here for at least three stanzas.

'Melody,' 20G, Socko in Washington

Palace (Loew) (2,363; 25-35-60)—'Broadway Melody' (MG). Heading toward sock $20,000.

'B'WAY MELODY' LOOKS TO 25G, PITT RECORD

Pittsburgh, Aug. 24.

Sock product, moon-pooing heat again here this week and downtown, running into record warm-weather grosses to wind up this season as best in years. 'Broadway Melody' smashing out Penn's top figure for all time and moves on Thursday (26) to Warner to give latter house a h.o. from Penn fourth time in five weeks.

Penn (Loew's-UA) (3,300; 25-35-50)—'Broadway Melody' (MG). A smashing smash, and heading for a new house record. Should wind up the week at $25,000 or slightly under that. Weekend heat didn't mean a thing and house had the ropes up from the word go. Moves Thursday to Warner to continue downtown run.

PORTLAND'S H. O.'S

All OK—'Broadway Melody,' New Entry, Big $7,500.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 24.

'Broadway Melody' is going great guns at the Broadway. 'Good Earth' is in a second strong week at Parker's UA.

'Melody' with $36,000, Easy L. A. Tops;

Los Angeles, Aug. 24.

Several bright spots in town currently, with most of the rest of the field holding its own. Particularly outstanding are 'Broadway Melody of 1938' at the day-date State and Chinese, with a smash $36,000 combined take in sight.

IMAGINE!

These box-office headlines are from just one single issue of Variety. And "Broadway Melody" has barely started.

'Melody' Strong $19,000 in Philly;

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.

Best thing in town this week is 'Broadway Melody' at the Stanley and despite the fact that it opened when the hot wave was at its peak, this new revue which ends its first week tonight will hit $19,000 and ride through for a second week without any trouble at all. Prices very good and pic should do better than its predecessor, 'Artists and Models'.

Stanley (3,700; 40-55-65)—'Broadway Melody' (MG). Starting second week tomorrow with first giving it a very nice $19,000, heat and all.

'B'way Melody' Most Tuneful in Cincy, $20,000; Others NSH

Cincinnati, Aug. 24.

'Broadway Melody of 1938' is the gayest b.o. tune along cinema lane currently, ringing out a great $20,000 for the Palace, that theatre's merriest till tinkle for quite a spell.

Palace (RKO) (2,600; 35-42)—'Broadway Melody' (MG). Great, $20,000.

'MELODY' SOCK $9,000

Louisville Biz on Upswing—

Louisville, Aug. 24.

Biz is on the upswing hereabouts, and the rise can be attributed to first class product. Folks here are pic shoppers.

Two holdovers currently, with hefty biz keeping the wicket busy at Loew's State, where 'Broadway Melody of 1938' is pulling bulk of the trade.

Loew's State (3,000; 35-45-40)—'Broadway Melody' (MG). Musical enjoying lines at the wicket, and headed for sweet $9,000.

FAR INTO THE NIGHT!

"After delivering a flock of hits all summer long M-G-M tops off the year with 'BROADWAY MELODY OF '38'-Biggest of all!"

"BROADWAY MELODY" is the greatest film musical since the tintypes began to leap!"

"And they start the new season with a Road-Show hit 'THE FIREFLY' and week after week the Fall Season packs one M-G-M wallop after another."
(For instance below!)

Big Ones Soon!

"Big City" a thrill-hit starring Luise Rainer, Spencer Tracy; "The Bride Wore Red" starring Joan Crawford with Franchot Tone, Robert Young; "Conquest" starring Greta Garbo, Charles Boyer (the industry is due for a sensation when this one comes!); "Double Wedding" starring William Powell, Myrna Loy; "Live, Love and Learn" starring Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell; "The Last Gangster" starring Edward G. Robinson. Just the first of 1937-38!

top having been 40 cents. Two other price brackets remain the same, 35 cents to 1 P. M. and 40 cents to 6 P. M.

The Warner, which has been operating on a 35-cent to 6 P. M. policy on weekdays and 50 cents thereafter, has as yet announced no increase.

With the adoption of a new policy by Fox whereby all theatre managers will be responsible for their own publicity and advertising, James Keefe, advertising manager of the circuit, has been named manager of the Wisconsin, succeeding Jack Levois, resigned.

Talk Price Rise in K. C.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30.—With the approach of Labor Day, talk of increased admissions among both first run and subsequent run theatres grows. With the average admission at 18 cents for the two Kansas Cities, and both operating and film costs rising, the problem is considered vital by both independents and circuit operators.

J. F. Rigney, who operates the independent Westport, has hiked his price from 20 to 25 cents on Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, to cover the big weekend pictures, and reports that it did not cost him patronage. Rigney favors both an increase in admission and a decrease in use of giveaways. He has cut the number of premium nights from four to one, without decreasing patronage. Jay Means has gone from 20 to 25 cents at the Oak Park on Sunday-Monday-Tuesday.

New Haven Rise Discussed

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 30.—Although circuit heads report that first run admissions in the city will not be increased, further discussion on subsequent runs is scheduled for this week. B. E. Hoffman of Warners reports that hikes may be tried in a few spots outside New Haven to determine whether grosses can thereby be increased to meet higher operating costs.

Drops 15-Cent Policy

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—John Hamrick's Blue Mouse has abandoned its 15-cent matinee policy, inaugurated six weeks ago. Effective this week, the house will operate on a basis of a 25-cent admission for any seat at any time, day or night. The theatre's policy of two "B" first run pictures with weekly changes will continue.

were called south over the weekend before the discussions had been concluded without a date being set for their return here to resume the negotiations. Their operating agreement with Paramount expired last June 26. The new deal being discussed is reported to be for one year and on substantially the same terms as those of the old agreement.

Up to Minute

Hollywood, Aug. 30.—M-G-M's publicity department has solemnly announced that the studio commissary was now equipped with two of the most modern cafe devices in the West, to-wit:

Two electric fly killers.

The machines are each six by eight inches and consist of a flat panel to which the flies are attracted. The flies are electrocuted.

films for "having had until recently too little regard for the effect of their pictures upon the minds and characters of the people who saw them, and too little sense of responsibility for protecting America's good name abroad." Eastman offered four suggestions for making better films, greater selectivity by patrons, education in the community to look for better films, ending block booking, empowering the State Dep't to withhold pictures for export which give a false impression of American life.

The industry's portrayals of racial and vocational stereotypes was criticized before the forum in an address by Dr. Edgar Dale, of the Bureau of Educational Research of Ohio State University. He cited examples of what he considers harmful stereotypes. He called the screen "a powerful conditioner of information and attitudes," which not only entertains, but educates as well.

Films, and is for the one picture only, Weingarten declared. Definite arrangements have not been made for future production as yet, he indicated. Production will begin on "A Yank at Oxford," which will star Robert Taylor, in about a week, the producer said, and should be completed in about five weeks.

Several studios are available to M-G-M on a leasing arrangement, Weingarten said. He spent about two and one-half months abroad, vacationing, and visited the south of France and Holland, although he spent most of the time in England. He said he saw several good French pictures while abroad, indicative of improved production in that country.

He will remain in New York for about a week, he said, and then go directly to the coast.

Rites for Robert Horn

Private funeral services for Robert Horn, assistant eastern division sales manager for Erpi, who died Saturday night at Bay Ridge Hospital, Brooklyn, of complications following an operation, will be held this afternoon from the residence at 7,012 Ridge Crest Terrace, Brooklyn.

Horn, who was 49 years old, had been associated with Erpi for the past nine years and had held other positions within the industry for more than 18 years. Prior to joining Erpi he was with Pathe for more than 14 years and had also been associated with Powers Projection, International Projector and other concerns.

Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Stay Halts Any But NBC Fight Program

Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday granted an injunction restraining Transradio Press Service and the Radio News Ass'n from giving a round-by-round description to broadcasting stations and others of the Louis-Farr bout at the Yankee Stadium last night. The injunction was obtained by the boxers, by Mike Jacobs, the 20th Century Sporting Club and NBC over whose stations the event was broadcast under the sponsorship of the Buick Motor Co.

The court pointed out that the plaintiffs have legitimately arranged and advertised that the ringside blow-by-blow description of the fight would be broadcast exclusively by them, meanwhile, evidence showed, the defendants had notified their station customers that they would furnish them "up to the minute" descriptions from the ringside.

Justice Pecora decided that the "tips" upon which the defendants allegedly planned to base their information necessarily would have to come from the plaintiffs' broadcast.

"Obviously," the court said, "such action by the defendants would constitute an unlawful appropriation of the exclusive property rights of the plaintiffs."

Justice Pecora pointed out that unless the injunction was granted, the defendants would be able to enjoy profits at little or no expense, since their income from the venture would be wholly at the expense of the plaintiffs.

End CBS Shakespeare Series

The final broadcast of "Twelfth Night" last night marked the conclusion of the current CBS Shakespearean cycle. The program emanated from local Columbia Playhouse No. 3 instead of Hollywood as in the past. The Bard's drama was performed by Tallulah Bankhead, Orson Welles, Helen Menken, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Estelle Winwood.

The affair was a gala "last night" and in attendance were civic officials, literary lights, diplomats and various editors and publishers.

Kostelanetz Is Signed

Andre Kostelanetz and a 45-piece concert orchestra will be featured in a new CBS Chesterfield cigarette program which is set to start on Sept. 29. The period will have as guests vocalists and soloists. Liggett & Myers is sponsoring. The period will be heard from 9 to 9:30 P.M., E.S.T. Deems Taylor will be commentator.

NBC Will Air Two Races

NBC will broadcast the Thompson Trophy airplane races from Cleveland Sept. 6, from 5 to 5:15 P. M., on the Red network and again from 6 to 6:30 P. M. On the same day the Gold Cup hydroplane race at Detroit will be aired from 2:15 to 5:45 P. M., E. D. S. T.

Five Stations Busy At Iowa State Fair

DES MOINES, Aug. 30.—Five stations are in operation at the Iowa State Fair, giving visitors at the fair a chance to see as well as hear their favorite stars and announcers.

E. F. Brown, communication officer of KGHO state police station, has arranged loud speakers so that all state police broadcasts may be heard during the fair by fair visitors. KSO and KRNT, Des Moines, and WMT, Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, will broadcast a number of their local shows direct from the Iowa Broadcasting Systems' studios at the fair grounds. One of the most outstanding was the children's program on August 27 when an hour long show by talented Iowa children was broadcast at 2 P. M. over KSO. This was sponsored by the Colonial Baking Co. Every one in Iowa has been invited to attend the Iowa Broadcasting Systems' programs.

In WHO's Crystal studio at the fair grounds the broadcasting starts at 10:45 A. M. each day with a news flash followed by 10 minutes of fair news. Practically every artist and announcer at WHO's studio appear in the studio some time during the fair. A special feature was the barkers' contest Aug. 28 at 1:15 P. M., all midway barkers with the Beckmann and Gerity shows participated in the contest broadcast over WHO. The winner was awarded a gold medal.

Radio Artists Again Seeking a Secretary

The American Federation of Radio Artists, the new A. F. of L. radio talent union, today will make its third attempt to select an executive secretary for the national organization. The position is reported to pay $15,000 annually and with several candidates in the field, backed by influential figures in the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, parent organization for the entertainment unions, no agreement was reached at two earlier meetings.

According to report, the Screen Actors' Guild is backing its own candidate for the post on the theory that a substantial part of the membership will be drawn from Hollywood.

To Warn Drivers

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—Barnes & Aaron Agency of Philadelphia have scheduled for the Governor's Highway Safety Council of Pennsylvania 40 one-minute spot announcements over 26 Pennsylvania stations, including the entire Quaker State regional network. Warning the motorist, as well as the pedestrian, on common hazards encountered on the highways, there will be two one-minute spots during the evening each week day for four weeks, starting Sept. 15.

Music Corp. to Test New Record Program

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Music Corp. of America has launched a program of building radio musical variety show units for possible commercial and sustaining programs. With Harold Hackett, head of the M. C. A. radio department in New York, here to work out details, the first of the programs will be heard Wednesday on KHJ and the Don Lee network from 7 to 7:30 P.M., with Charles "Buddy" Rogers as master of ceremonies.

The name of the new program is "Script Teasers." It is based upon the old parlor guessing game, except for the variation of it by presenting two-minute skits in which the radio audience will be asked if it has managed to discover from the dialogue the name of the song about to be played. Pat McKay and Tommy Harris are two of the eight vocalists to be signed for the program. A 19-piece orchestra will be used.

M. C. A. plans to build the show units, and then turn over the production reins to the agencies or stations buying the programs.

Hammond Organ Signs

Files Suit to Keep Operation of XEBG

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 30.—A. B. Fernandez, owner of XEBG in Tijuana, today was sued in Superior Judge Gordon Thompson's court by Si Rubens, lessee of the station, in an action designed to restrain Fernandez from interfering with the station's operation by Rubens.

According to the suit, Rubens was allegedly given full power to improve, operate and solicit advertising for the Tijuana station March 1 at a monthly rental of $100 and a $600 guarantee that he would improve the station. Rubens claims that after he had put the business on a paying basis, Fernandez took over the station.

Lee Postpones Takeover

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—The takeover by Don Lee-Mutual of 14 stations in Washington and Oregon has been put off until Sept. 26 by Lewis Allen Weiss, Don Lee general manager. Weiss would not divulge the call letters of the new stations but said that the units are in Tacoma, Yakima, Wenatchee, Bellingham, Aberdeen, Seattle, Spokane and Olympia—all in Washington—and Portland, Salem, Eugene, Klamath Falls, Roseburg and Eureka, in Oregon. Change in the call letters of the stations is still pending.

Film Function To Entertain, Says Quigley

Only Public Mandate, He Tells Williams Forum

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 31.—“The only mandate which the motion picture industry has any right to assume that it has received from the public is to produce entertainment films,” Martin Quigley, editor-in-chief of MOTION PICTURE DAILY and Motion Picture Herald, declared in an address before the Institute of Human Relations at Williams College here today.

Emphasizing his belief in the prime function of the film to entertain, Quigley declared, “I am opposed to any scheme which involves the theatre screen in propaganda of any character.”

The “dawn of an intellectual interest in the social and moral significance of the motion picture,” Quigley described as “not precisely an un-mixed blessing.” That situation is attributable to the fact that much of the opinion about the screen has been contributed by two particular groups, he said, “neither of which has aided a clarity of understanding of the problems and purposes of the industry.”

In one group he placed the professional writers—“those artful fabricators of paragraphs and pages who treat with equal facility all subjects that strike their attention.” In the second group Quigley classed “many persons important in the intellectual life of the nation who are well-equipped to discuss motion pictures and contribute sound opinions about them, except for the fact—which they seem joyfully to reiterate—that they never see motion pictures; at least never see any representative number of them.”

“In the sponsorship of the entertainment film there is a conscience and

Directors Reaffirm Bargaining Action

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—The Screen Directors' Guild has reaffirmed the earlier decision of the board of directors of both the junior and senior branches to present a united front in collective bargaining with producers who have been insisting that negotiations should be with separate organizations for directors, assistant directors and unit managers.

Members of the junior and senior branches voted separately to hold together and to order the negotiating committee consisting of Howard Hawks, John Ford and Edward Sutherland to talk to the producers' committee again on working conditions and concessions desired.

The resolution voted by both groups

Toronto, Aug. 31.—An interesting incident in connection with the current Ontario provincial campaign for elections to the legislature on Oct. 6 occurred when Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn ordered news cameramen to stop taking his picture during an election speech at Enterprise, Ont.

Hepburn put punch to his stop order by announcing that, as appeal judge of the Ontario Board of Censors, he would bar films of candidates or speakers for any political party, including his own. The big audience was astounded.

Studios' Scale Talks May Start Next Week

A meeting may be set early next week with representatives of Local 52, I.A.T.S.E., to discuss further proposals for new wage and hour schedules for eastern studio mechanics, designed to increase employment by spreading the available work in local studios, Pat Casey, major company labor representative, said yesterday.

Casey received a report on the union's proposals together with suggestions from eastern producers' representatives yesterday and said that he expected the joint meeting to be set for some time next week.

Chicago, L. A. Wage Scales Up Tomorrow

Negotiations of wage and hour scales will be opened here tomorrow with representatives of the Chicago and Los Angeles exchange employees' unions who will meet with the distribution companies' negotiating committee at the Warner home office.

The Chicago and Los Angeles schedules are the last of the larger exchange unions still to be set.

Columbia Net For Year Is $1,317,770

Total Is $251,090 Below
Previous 12 Months

Columbia's net earnings for the fiscal year ending June 26 were $1,317,770.92 after all charges, including provision for Federal income tax and other taxes. This was equivalent to $3.26 per share on 340,944 shares of common outstanding after deducting dividends on preferred stock.

The net was $251,090 below the $1,568,860.92 for the fiscal year ending June 27, 1936. For that year the net equaled $4 per share on the same number of common shares.

Current assets are listed at $11,557,626.11, of which approximately $1,448,000 is cash. Current liabilities are given as $1,669,856.87 and working capital as approximately $9,887,000.

The statement says Columbia has just completed a number of important pictures, “The Awful Truth,” “I'll Take Romance” and “It's All Yours,” and has “Lost Horizon” booked at popular prices. The prediction is made that grosses will show marked gains for the current quarter.

Gross income from films rentals and sales of accessories was $19,066,100.42. Amortization of production costs, share to producers and participants and costs of accessories and prints cut this by $11,199,595.06. Earned surplus is given as $4,420,607.43.

Dividends of $2.75 were paid on the preferred convertible stock. These totaled $206,260.41. On the common stock a total of $478,475.50 in cash was paid and $215,890.67 in stock.

Capra vs. Columbia Dispute Is Widened

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—Frank Capra's difficulties with Columbia finally have come out into the open with the filing of a suit by Capra in Superior Court asking declaratory relief from his contract.

Columbia is silent on the details of the rift, but indicated in a statement today that it hoped to reach an agreement.

Capra alleged specifically that the contract was breached when the company twice refused to pay $100,000 on demand. He claims that the payment was overdue after February 16. Another cause of complaint stated by Capra is that “If You Could Only

Says Booers Are a Help

Tifton, Ga., Aug. 31.—A temporary injunction against booing of commercial ads on theatre screens drew a spirited reply from John Herring, publisher of the Tifton Gazette, who ran an ad saying the booing was to take place at the local theatre. The ad was placed by Local No. 3 of the Society for Booing of Commercial Advertising in Motion Picture Theatres.

“We carried the ad Wednesday and there was a full turnout of the club Wednesday night,” said Herring. “They all bought tickets, too.”

“Thursday night there was a bigger crowd.

“Friday night there was standing room only and all the policemen in town were standing in it.” (The injunction was issued Friday.) “I tell you. . . . The patrons were mighty disappointed because there wasn't any booing Friday night.”

Population of Zenda
Due to Arrive Today

If all goes well, the entire population of Zenda, Ont., will arrive at Floyd Bennett field at 1 o'clock today in a TWA plane headed by Mayor Vernon Fewster. There'll be 12 of them. Motorcycle policemen will escort the visitors to the summer city hall at College Point where they will be greeted by Mayor LaGuardia.

Zenda, it seems, was named in 1895 by some enthusiastic reader of Anthony Hope's novel "The Prisoner of Zenda," and an enthusiastic researcher in Monroe Greenhal's exploitation department discovered the fact and it was acted upon immediately.

All the Zenda citizens will attend the opening of the picture tomorrow at the Music Hall.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

THE apologies sent aloft by the producing industries in other countries continue to amuse and to be as completely ineffectual as ever they were. The course has been pursued somewhat relentlessly in England and now it comes into the open in France. There the production branch of the General Confederation of the French Cinema, by resolution, rules "cooperative measures will be taken against French stars and technicians working abroad." Aimed at Hollywood, of course, the penalties look well on paper, but even the French industry which now concocts a sort of punishment code, itself doubts that the measures can be effectively applied. . . .

"The systematic departure for foreign countries of French players and technicians" it regards as harmful to the French industry. Not much room for doubt on that point. As a brake, it is proposed talent accept no contracts abroad beyond one picture a year and agree to work in at least one a year in France. This is nonsense, complete and utter, and the facts in the case establish it as nonsense beyond all doubt. Hollywood is opulent and extravagant where new talent is concerned. It has the money and, moreover, it spends that money—too lavishly, no doubt—in bringing over the mountains the players it reaches out to get. . . .

Chevalier was imported and had a pretty good run in the Hollywood market. He made a fortune for himself, did all right by Paramount and was returned to Paris when his vogue slipped into the discard. There will be other Chevaliers from time to time, exactly as there will be other Laughtons and about it and them long-winded and fruitless resolutions will be pointless. The producing industries in other lands will have to turn to a more convincing excuse to explain why they cannot compete with Hollywood. They must learn, for one thing, that they are engaged in a highly competitive business where drawing power is paid on a seven-league overtime basis because it has brevity, if it has nothing else. . . .

The apologist attitude struck in Paris the other day reminds of the favorite pastime of a number of New York stage producers and some of the local dramatic critics who endeavor to hurdle the shortcomings of past theatre seasons by seeking to transfer the blame to Hollywood moneybags. Overlooked in that direction, for instance, has been the dropping off in worthwhile playwriting by the dramatists themselves for whatever reason it may be. But even where occasional recognition is accorded this truth, the usual, and very tiresome, way out leads to west coast wangling in terms of four salaried figures each and every week. If Hollywood, because it makes product for a vast and popular market, can afford to outbid a competitive entertainment medium, we argue here that this is very swell indeed for Hollywood and the public which purchases its output and much too bad for those who cannot. . . .

In Miami and also in New York, Adolph Zukor gave it as his opinion that an effective way to eliminate double features would be to produce pictures strong enough to stand extended playing time. The late Irving Thalberg had stressed this very observation time without end and constantly had placed the burden of duals and poor pictures, not on pressure induced by the menace of release dates but on the inadequacies of Hollywood. Zukor's comment, at the minute, emerges from "another statement" category into the comfortable regions of established performance in the guise of an "Artists and Models." The hold-over record is a lengthy one and would run to more space than is available here. However, a quick dipping in and out demonstrates this:

Held over in its first thirty-five key city engagements.

Will total five weeks at the Paramount, New York.

First picture to play the Paramount, Newark, N. J., four weeks.

Biggest first week in two years at the Paramount, Seattle.

New first week record at the Denham, Denver.

And similarly in enough scattered spots to make an ad infinitum closing observation strictly in order. . . .

Extend "Dallas" Contest

United Artists has extended the $1,000 prize exploitation contest on "Stella Dallas" to Nov. 1. It was originally scheduled to close Oct. 1.

Capitol Will Have Elaborate Opening

All the formalities in connection with the reopening of the Capitol will start tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock, but the house will actually be open to the public from 9:15 in the morning. The big new electric sign will be turned on for the first time during the evening ceremonies.

Harry Moskowitz has had men working 24 hours a day since the start of the alterations and predicts the work will be completed eight hours before the house opens. A long list of screen, stage and radio celebrities has been invited to the opening.

It's a big week for openings. Tonight "The Firefly" will be started at the Astor also with a list of celebrities invited.

Chicago's Aldermen
Delay Moves on Tax

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—At a meeting of the City Council Tuesday the matter of theatre license fees did not come up. It was learned that the aldermen are awaiting a proposal from the theatremen as to the best plan for a revenue raising scheme.

Meetings between the theatremen and city officials will be held after Labor Day, it is reported, and a plan of some sort which will be workable and agreeable to all is expected to be ready for adoption by Oct. 1.

N. J. Allied Board Meets

Plans for the annual convention of Allied of New Jersey, which will be held in Atlantic City, Sept. 22, 23 and 24, were discussed yesterday at the monthly meeting of the board of directors at the Hotel Lincoln here. Apart from the convention discussions only routine organizational business was transacted, Allied officers said.

Frank Capra, president of the Academy, was one of those who spoke in favor of action by the negotiating committee.

Concern Over I. A.—S. A. G. Row

Heads of theatrical unions in New York yesterday expressed apprehension over the reported rift between the I. A. T. S. E. and the Screen Actors Guild in Hollywood, frankly admitting that if the breach were not healed all hope of effecting an amalgamation of theatrical unions, both talent and craft, for the entertainment world would have to be abandoned.

The amalgamation was first discussed formally at a joint meeting of the unions' representatives here several weeks ago, and was informally supported at that time by both Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, and George Browne, president of the I. A. T. S. E. It contemplated a cooperative working and assistance agreement among all unions having to do with entertainment. Of such unions, the I. A. and Screen Actors Guild, with the American Federation of Musicians, Actors Equity Ass'n and the newly organized American Federation of Radio Artists, are admittedly the most potent. No workable co-operative agreement for the entertainment world could be effected with the I. A. or the Screen Actors Guild on the outside, theatrical labor leaders here believe.

The belief that the breach would be healed in due course was expressed by Mrs. Florence Marston, head of the S. A. G. eastern office, when questioned yesterday.

However, Thomson asserted on Monday night just prior to his departure for Hollywood by plane that the Guild would not alter its stand

It was assumed at the Guild's office here that Thomson and William Bioff, coast head of the I. A. T. S. E., would discuss the situation further on Thomson's arrival in Hollywood and that some mutually satisfactory agreement would be worked out between them eventually.

Southern Labor Meet Set

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—A meeting of representatives of all types of film workers in this section of the South has been called for Labor Day in an attempt to formulate uniform wage scales.

Navy Officer Leaving On W. B. Assignment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Lieut. A. J. Bolton of the public relations branch of the Navy Dept. will leave for Hollywood tomorrow to cooperate with Warners in the production of "Submarine D-1." The shooting of the scenes at Annapolis for M-G-M's "Navy Blue and Gold" were completed this morning, releasing Lieut. Bolton for his coast assignment.

Under the regulations of the Navy Dept., as revised last April, pictures based on navy themes in which naval equipment and personnel are used must be made under the supervision of naval officers assigned to that duty.

NSS Opens at Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—National Screen Service formally opened its new Washington office yesterday, tossing a housewarming for some 200 exhibitors, exchangemen and friends.

Arthur Jacobson is in charge, after spending several years in the territory as the NSS representative.

From the New York office have been transferred Edward Bouton and Ray Reid, shippers, and Betty Morris, who handled the Virginia accounts there. Mary Weaver has been transferred from the Atlanta office to the accounting department here.

Denies St. Louis Deal

St. LOUIS, Aug. 31.—Louis J. Cella, owner of the Shubert-Rialto, dark for several months, has denied reports that Fanchon & Marco have taken a three-year lease on the house. He declared that F. & M. failed to exercise their renewal option by Aug. 14, the deadline set in the present lease which expires Sept. 14.

Ineligible to Hear Bank Night Appeals

LINCOLN, Aug. 31.—Supreme Court Justice Fred W. Messmore, recently elevated from the district court bench at Beatrice, Neb., where he ruled Bank Night a lottery in the Fox-Midwest case, will be ineligible to hear the two Bank Night appeals coming before the Nebraska Supreme Court in the fall term.

First appeal is on his own decision. The other is the appeal by the M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n of Omaha on the Supreme Court's temporary injunction against Bank Night in Omaha.

Columbia Asks Court Order

Counsel for Columbia Pictures will ask Justice Charles Poletti in N. Y. Supreme Court today for an order that will permit the appointment of a commission to take testimony in Los Angeles of persons who can give information concerning a relationship once allegedly existent between Columbia and Ferdinand Votour, a writer.

Votour is suing the former for $1,000,000. He charges Columbia rejected his story, "Resurrection Morning," and later used substantially the same material in "The Man Who Died Twice." Persons whom Columbia would examine are: Tom Van, Fred Niblo, Arthur Strawn, W. M. Griffith, Harry Altimus, Harry Lockman, Frances Manson and Selma Stein.

Orders Green Testimony

Sanford Green, a composer now in Hollywood, must come to New York on Dec. 1 to submit to examination before trial of his suit for $5,250 against Vitaphone. The order was signed yesterday at the request of Vitaphone by Justice Ferdinand Pecora in N. Y. Supreme Court. Vitaphone is accused of having broken an employment contract extending into last November.

Para. Hearing on Sept. 2

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 31.—The Federal court hearing here on Paramount's application for an injunction against local exhibitors participating in the "buyers' strike" against the company will be held on Thursday instead of Sept. 1, as previously reported.

perhaps even an intelligence," Quigley declared.

"There is a practice to attribute to it (the screen) objectives which it does not entertain, coupled with criticism of the non-attainment of objectives which it has never sought," he said.

There is also a practice to accuse the screen of failure in provinces it has not entered and where judgment indicates it should not enter, Quigley continued.

"There are those who damn the motion picture industry for an alleged lack of social consciousness; for failure to give pictorial expression to the great political, social and economic issues of the day. These critics deny or ignore the deliberately expressed policy of the entertainment film, which, simply stated, is: To entertain.

"They ignore or deny also that the industry is upon thoroughly solid and proper grounds in centering upon this policy."

Companies "Are Showmen"

The companies in the organized motion picture industry are engaged in the business of providing entertainment, Quigley declared, and the executives of these firms do not envision themselves as teachers, statesmen, churchmen or economists. "They are showmen; at least they seek to be."

"It is the industry's judgment and mine that the entertainment film belongs in the province of entertainment and nowhere else. If there are others who wish to use this medium for a message which they imagine the world is yearning to hear, the obvious course for them is to get a camera and go to work," Quigley said.

The industry is entirely aware of the influence of the screen, Quigley

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"First Lady"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31.—"First Lady" is a conversation piece of high order satirizing politics, practices and personalities of backstage Washington as publicized during recent years in newspaper columns syndicated from the national capital. Kay Francis has a new kind of role in the light comedy lead and is evenly matched with Verree Teasdale in sparkling repartee. Walter Connolly, Grant Mitchell, Louise Fazenda and Marjorie Rambeau supply other deeply etched caricatures of Washington types, while Preston Foster, Anita Louise and Victor Jory handle straight assignments ably.

The successful Broadway play by George S. Kaufman and Katharine Dayton is designed primarily for intelligent and liberally minded urban audiences, but should encounter apathy in no community where the sheer humor, dialogue and variety is appreciated. Stanley Logan directed the Harry Joe Brown production from a screenplay by Rowland Leigh.

Miss Francis plays the politically active wife of Secretary of State Preston Foster, who has presidential ambitions. Miss Teasdale plays the youthful wife of Supreme Court Justice Connolly, who finds himself abruptly in line for nomination through a miscarriage of Miss Francis' plans. The competing wives match wits in much the manner of two not so different ones still living, but the outcome does not too closely parallel the factual case. Miss Fazenda's performance of a club woman representing 5,000,000 votes and Mitchell's portrayal of a publisher with 20,000,000 readers are superb achievements. Connolly's handling of the Supreme Court justice is immensely amusing without reflecting indignity upon the office. The picture abounds in scintillating quips, jests and wisecracks, many of which moved the preview audience to laughter loud and long enough to drown out the ensuing lines.

It looks like sure-fire stuff for the city trade and about an even bet in the provinces.

Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

pointed out. He stressed the industry's awareness of the screen's appeal to virtually all classes of people the world over, its "powerful impact upon audiences," its effectiveness "in creating acceptance for modes, manners and merchandise." He pointed out further that there is no lack of appreciation of the potentialities of the screen for propaganda.

There is within the industry, however, a recognition of the "grave responsibility that would devolve upon him who would attempt to use this most popular of all amusements for the purpose of propagating social, political and economic ideas, many of which must necessarily be of untried and experimental character."

Calls Controversy Out of Place

To attempt any policy other than that of providing entertainment, Quigley declared, would be to lessen the popularity of the screen "and to create additional confusion in the public mind. It would make the theatres hotbeds of friction and controversy instead of places of refreshment and recreation. There are many places appropriate to the discussion of these issues. The theatre is not one of them."

Quigley attacked the efforts of certain producers who seek to capitalize on the efforts of public health authorities campaigning to control venereal disease, with films they declare have a valuable lesson for the public.

Praising the work of regulation within the industry, Quigley declared, "This system known as the Production Code is an expression of the corporate conscience of a great industry, the nature of whose business in the natural course confronted it with a great moral problem." He added, "I think it may rightly be said that the industry's process of regulation is more thorough and is geared to higher moral standards than regulatory measures adopted and executed by any other popular media of expression."

In another address, W. P. Montague of Paramount News, speaking on "Public Opinion and the Newsreels," declared that the newsreels never take sides on a controversial issue. He said further that the newsreels are honest, and stressed the fact that a final obligation rests with the newsreels if they are to consider themselves a news medium, that is to edit the news with a far-sighted view to its ultimate effect on human relations."

Lunceford on Tour

Jimmie Lunceford and his orchestra leave tomorrow on a series of one-nighters, booked solid for six weeks which will take him across the entire country en route to the Sebastian Cotton Club in Los Angeles where he will open an eight-week engagement. Harold F. Oxley, personal manager for Lunceford, stated this is the latter's initial appearance on the coast where he will also appear in several features.

Heatter for Para. News

Gabriel Heatter, WOR-Mutual commentator, has signed a contract with Paramount News. The pact is for three years and calls for Heatter's vocal comment on international and local political affairs.

Short Subject

"Louis-Farr Fight"

(Super-Sports Attractions)

The fight fans will attend the theatre in droves to contemplate this exhibition of boxing for a half-hour and leave highly satisfied and full of personal comment on what has taken place. The flood of post-bout opinion makes natural exploitation and it looks as if these films will reap the same sensational box-office crop of dollars as did a certain heavyweight bout last year. The battle is well photographed and every blow, feint and clinch is clearly viewed. Running time, 30 mins. "G."

Capra vs. Columbia Dispute Is Widened

"Cook" was advertised through the company's British subsidiary as a Capra production. He maintains he had no share in its production.

Columbia issued the following statement today: "Columbia Pictures Corp. has no desire to try the legal action filed by Mr. Capra through a newspaper controversy. We regret that a difference has arisen between ourselves and a valued employee of the organization and we trust the differences will eventually be cleared up either legally or through a clarification of the present misunderstanding. The company will set out its position in the answer it will file shortly."

Judge Lester W. Roth of the M. B. Silverburg office, Columbia counsel, told a MOTION PICTURE DAILY reporter that the date of filing of the reply had not been determined, but indicated that he will set forth that Columbia has repeatedly offered Capra payment of the compensation in controversy.

Columbia sales forces were told at the convention here June 30 that the company had Capra under contract for three pictures, but no statement was made as to what season or seasons these would be released.

Soubier NBC Pact Binding, Court Holds

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—In a precedent-setting decision, Superior Judge Joseph Sproul today held valid and binding the managerial contract of Cliff Soubier, actor signed in 1931 in Chicago with the NBC Artists Service Bureau. The case is the first of its kind in the California courts.

The defendant claimed his contract legal in Illinois where it was executed and invalid in California under the state agency law. Judge Sproul ruled the contract valid and binding and the bureau entitled to commissions for the duration of the term. Soubier appeared in Warners' "Black Legion" after leaving the radio field. The decision unless appealed, affects the entire artist field insofar as out-of-state employment contracts are concerned.

No Boxing Bout on WDSU

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 31.—Thousands of fight fans were disappointed here last night when WDSU, which advertised a broadcast of the Joe Louis-Tommy Farr fight, was prevented from airing the bout by the New York injunction against Transradio. A night ball game was substituted.

WSMB furnished returns of the fight.

Gene Ford Dinner Guest

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Gene Ford, new production aide for WHN, who for five years was manager of Loew's Capitol here, was given a testimonial dinner here last night. More than 150 attended at the Willard Hotel.

Ford was presented a portable typewriter and a fishing outfit.

"Les Miserables" to End

Orson Welles' "Les Miserables" series over WOR-Mutual will close Friday night. Jean Valjean, as well as the role of the narrator, is played by Welles and the supporting cast includes Martin Gabel, Alice Frost, Ray Collins and Virginia Welles.

Three Coaches on WOR

An added feature of WOR-Mutual's broadcast of the Allstar-Green Bay Packers football game tonight at 9:30 will be comment by three well known coaches, Bob Zupke, Bo McMillan and Charlie Bachman.

David Young Plans Vacation

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 31.—David Young, program manager of KGB, will leave Sept. 3, for a two-week vacation in Utah. Young will be accompanied by his wife, Vivian Merrill, who is known to listeners as Barbara Lane.

Pilot Radio Takes News Series

Pilot Radio Corp. will sponsor a series of news broadcasts on WMCA beginning Sept. 13. The period will go on from 10:45 to 11 P. M.

WMCA Renews on Vic Arden

Vic Arden and his orchestra will be featured on the renewed transcribed "Musical Moments" program on WMCA starting Sept. 13.

Television Is Featured at London Show

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Three separate television demonstrations daily, of an hour each, are a feature of Radiolympia, radio trade annual exhibition, which has opened at Olympia.

The sessions are 11:30 A. M. to 12:30 P. M., from films; 4 P. M. to 5 P. M. and 9 P. M. to 10 P. M., actualities. Every afternoon, until Sept. 4, when the exhibition closes, there will be transmissions of the Pet's Corner of the London Zoological Gardens. Horse-riding displays, power-boat racing, a fire-fighting display, and an open-air woman's health movement demonstration are other items.

Variety items introduce popular radio and stage turns and orchestras. There also will be dancing and skating displays by experts. In the evening sessions newsreel and cartoon films, with a liberal helping of Mickey Mouse, are featured. It is considered the biggest public demonstration of television to date.

Will Air the "Kol Nidre"

There will be a special world wide broadcast on Sept. 14 of "Kol Nidre," traditional hymn chanted by Jews on that day. The number will emanate from Cincinnati under the sponsorship of The National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods and will be heard over the CBS network and international facilities. Ruth Best and her choir will handle the vocal end.

Broadcast New Year Service

The Jewish New Year service will be broadcast over WNEW on Monday from 10 A. M. to 12 noon. It will be broadcast from the Free Synagogue at Carnegie Hall. The sermon will be delivered by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise. The Atonement Night service will be broadcast Sept. 14, from 7 to 9 P. M.

Rosh Hashonah Airing Set

Rosh Hashonah services at the Mt. Nebo Temple will be broadcast Sunday evening and Monday morning over WMCA. Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg will conduct the services from 8 to 9 P. M. Sunday and from 10 to 10:30 A. M. Monday.

Zimmy on Ripley Program

Robert L. Ripley will have Charlie Zimmy, the legless swimmer, as his guest Friday night at 9 P. M. on the WJZ-NBC net. The contract, made before the start, was contingent upon Zimmy reaching his goal, 125th St., after swimming from Albany.

Thomas on Ford Hour

John Charles Thomas will be guest soloist on the first Ford Sunday Evening Hour Sept. 12 over the Columbia network at 9 P. M. Jose Iturbi will conduct.

To Judge Air "Traffic School"

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Superior Judge Frank Dunn will be the judge of KJBS's Traffic School next Saturday morning. Prizes are being given for the best suggestions on how to improve traffic conditions.

Plan Traffic News

Road bulletins on traffic congestion Labor Day will be broadcast by WOR at 3:15, 4:15, 5:15 and 7:15 P. M.

An effort is now being made to have sponsors permit the broadcasts at 6:15, 8:15 and between 9 and 9:15 P. M.

The arrangements have been made with the New Jersey State Police.

"Hams" All Set for California Meeting

STOCKTON, CAL., Aug. 31.—More than 2,000 "hams" from all parts of the west will attend the American Radio Relay League convention here Sept. 4-5-6.

A five-meter DX contest will feature the opening day, with exhibits, open house at KWG and KGDM, and special radio programs.

The Sunday schedule includes a five-meter transmitter hunt, with a code speed contest for Mondays.

Elaborate entertainment plans have been made for the three-day meeting.

King to Describe Race

Cameron King, who described the America's Cup yacht races off Newport, will describe the international lifeboat races between nine steamship crews Sept. 11 from 3 P. M. to the close of the race over WOR. The race will be rowed in the lower bay for the Powell trophy.

"Armchair Quartette" on WJZ

"Armchair Quartette" is the title of a new program starting Oct. 5 over WJZ only. Father John's Medicine is the sponsor. The period will be heard twice weekly from 9:30 to 9:40 A. M. for 26 weeks. The John W. Queen agency of Boston placed the program.

Williams to Describe Race

Major Al Williams, holder of a number of air records and an aviation writer, will describe the finish of the $28,000 Thompson Trophy Race, main event at the National Air Races in Cleveland on Sept. 6. The event will be heard over the CBS network from 6 to 6:30 P. M.

Lengthen Anti-War Program

"We, the Living," anti-war broadcasts, will be expanded into a full hour over WNYC next Sunday from 12 to 1 P. M. The first edition will present scenes from Humphrey Cobb's novel, "Paths of Glory." Sidney Howard did the adaptation.

Lewis and Green on Air

John L. Lewis and William L. Green, opposing American labor leaders, will be heard on two half-hour broadcasts over a WABC-Columbia network. Lewis will speak on Friday from 10:30 to 11 P. M. and Green will be heard Sept. 17 from 11:30 to 12 midnight.

was appointed associate executive secretary.

The dual appointments represent a compromise between rival factions which warred for several weeks over the appointment of an executive secretary to the new radio union. One faction was led by the Screen Actors Guild, whose Hollywood membership and finances will be important factors in the development of the new radio union, and the other by eastern factions which were instrumental in the organizing work here. The Guild backed Mrs. Holt while the last named factions sponsored Heller. The rivalry delayed the naming of the executive secretary at two previous meetings of the radio union's board. The compromise resulting in the dual appointments was reported to have been reached here on Monday night just prior to the return of Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the Guild, to Hollywood.

The post of executive secretary will pay a salary of $7,500 a year and that of associate secretary, $5,000, it was reported.

Taylor Signed for WMCA

M. Sayle Taylor, the "Voice of Experience," has been set on a WMCA period. The new program, starting Sept. 13, will be heard five days a week, Monday through Friday, from 1:30 to 1:45 P. M. The Erwin Wasey Agency handled the deal.

"Big Apple" Done Over Air

"The Big Apple," the current craze in eccentric dancing circles, was put on the air last night. NBC in cooperation with Consolidated Radio Artists staged the program over WJZ at 9:25 P. M. Ed Kirkedy produced the show.

To Discuss Immigration

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The home of an immigration officer, Bertrand Couch, will be the point of origin of Jerry Belcher's "Our Neighbors" broadcast Sept. 5 over KGO and the Blue network at 1:30 P. M., E.D.S.T.

Ellenstein, Moore on Air

Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein of Newark and U. S. Senator A. Harry Moore will be heard over WNEW tonight from 8 to 8:15 P. M. at the ceremonies for the opening of the new Hearn store in Newark.

Bulova-WEAF Deal Closed

The Bulova Watch Co. has closed a deal with NBC for the announcement of daytime time signals over WEAF for 52 weeks beginning Sept. 5. The Biow Co. handled the arrangement.

Hall on "Hometowners"

Cliff Hall, comedian, will act as master of ceremonies on the "Hometowners" program, when it moves into a half-hour spot beginning Saturday, 8 to 8:30 P. M. over the NBC Blue.

Comedians to Join Flippen

Jay C. Flippen will bring "Molasses and January" to the "Summer Stars" program next Sunday from 7:30 to 8 P. M. over a WABC-Columbia hookup.

Hertz Drops Para. Holding In Debentures

Also Sells 500 Shares of Second Preferred

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—John D. Hertz, New York, through Lehman Bros., during July disposed of 32,000 3/4 per cent Paramount debentures, his entire holdings of such securities, and 500 shares of second preferred stock, reducing his holdings to 5,000 shares, it was disclosed today in the S.E.C. semi-monthly summary of transactions of officers and directors in the stocks of their corporations.

The report also showed that Manufacturers Trust Co., New York, held 3,000,000 Paramount 3/4 per cent convertible debentures when the company's registration became effective July 26. Maurice Newton, New York, disposed of 2,000 six per cent sinking fund debentures, reducing his holdings to 95,000.

Further reduction of 20th Century-Fox securities held under escrow agreement by the Chase National Bank was reported in the sale of 280 shares of common and 560 shares of preferred. At the close of the month the company still held 346,111 shares of common and 692,422 of preferred.

General K.C. Scale Boost Now Impends

Move Hinges on Action
By Loew's Midland

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 1.—Providing that Loew's Midland eliminates 25-cent balcony prices at night, an immediate general increase in admissions here is assured. Other first runs, the RKO Mainstreet, B. & K. Newman, and the Fox Uptown would follow the Midland in making night price a straight 40 cents.

Fox Midwest has a general raise scheduled for its 11 subsequent run houses, awaiting Midland action. The Plaza, Fox's ace subsequent, is slated to advance from 25 to 35 cents; other of its subsequents would go up from five to 10 cents in each case, including the Rockhill, now 15 cents, which would go to 25 cents. Theatres like the Warwick, now charging 25 cents, would go to 30 cents. The minimum for Foxsuburbans would be 20 cents.

Of course, action by independents will have some bearing on the extent of Fox Midwest's increase for its sub-

Para. Attacks North Dakota "Divorce" Law

Calls It Invalid; Seeks Permanent Injunction

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 1.—Paramount's action to test North Dakota's affiliated theatre "divorce" law was filed in the U. S. District Court here today, attacking the law on the grounds that it violates both the Federal and North Dakota constitutions. The company's complaint asks the court to declare the "divorce" law to be unconstitutional and void and asks that a permanent injunction be issued restraining state officials from enforcing the law against the company and its subsidiaries in the affected territory.

The plaintiffs in the action in addition to Paramount Pictures, Inc., the parent company, are Minnesota Amusement Co. and American Amusement Co. The latter two plaintiffs are affiliated with Paramount and operate a total of 10 theatres in North Dakota. The defendants named in the action are William A. Langer, Governor of North Dakota; P. O. Sathre, Attorney General of the state; A. R. Bergesen, state's attorney for Cass County; W. B. Arnold, state's attorney for Grand Forks County; Roy A. Warner-Shea Deal Closed Warners have closed a deal with the Shea Circuit for the entire 1937-'38 list, including Vitaphone shorts, states Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager. Roy Haines acted for Warners and E. C. Grainger and Ed Kearney for the circuit.

Capitol Gets Face Lifted
And Acquires New Marquee

By CHARLES S. AARONSON

The Capitol, which will be 20 years old in a couple of years, not only has had its face lifted, it has had a massage, a shampoo, a marcel and has donned a new and tremendous tiara, to top off its new beauty treatment. For an old gal, she's looking all right, or will by this morning, when the last hectic rush of carpet sewers, electricians, property men and upholstery specialists get through their jobs and depart.

And just so that there would be no mistake about it, Major Edward Bowes invited a select group of trade and newspaper men around to his apartment yesterday afternoon to eat turkey, plus the fixings, and drink this and that, in the very shadow of the M-G-M cake, which reaches toward the ceiling, and incidentally, take a peek at the renovation—and the major's paintings. They make his fifth floor apartment more than slightly resemble an art gallery.

Divans Still There

The seats are all new, red, comfortable and handsome, and in an effort to make for greater comfort by widening aisles and broadening the space between seats, a few seats have been sacrificed. Sight lines have been improved in the process. Those moneyed people who use them will be more than pleased to learn that those divans, which rate with the most comfortable theatre seats in New York, have not been too much disturbed, merely re-upholstered, in a deep red.

The carpets are all new and deep, the matting has been replaced, the lounge rooms have been redecorated and refurnished, in the Major's favorite old fashioned style. The Capitol has never been a modern type of house, at least architecturally, and the management has not the slightest intention of starting now. The orchestra pit has been removed and covered over, the screen has been set back, giving greater depth of stage,

Too Many "Firsts"

The Capitol, as part of its reopening ceremony, advertised in the personal columns for the purchaser of the first ticket to the theatre when it was opened in 1919 by Messmore Kendall.

The result was a veritable flood of replies, each one written by the man, woman or child who insisted he, she or it was the first to buy a ticket to Capitol "way back when." A little research, however, developed that the real "first" was Kendall's partner, and he's been dead these several years.

and if and when they quit striking, there will be considerable brush-weilding by the painters. The lobby fittings have been redone or replaced—attractively.

Last, but far from least, is the marquee, topped by a new vertical electrical sign, which proclaims in large letters that the Capitol is the Capitol. The marquee will probably call for a lot of electric bulb-capacity statistics in comparison with other marquees, past, present and future, when it begins to warm the weary traveler down Broadway of a hot summer evening. It stretches across the front of the theatre—completely—then takes to wandering around the corner into 51st St., before it stops. It is, in effect, quite a marquee.

Incidentally, the regular opening will be resumed this morning, with something a little more gala planned for this evening. At that time, under the usual fire of arc lights and considerable etc., the theatre will be really reopened. WHN will broadcast from the lobby from 9 to 9:30 P. M., and the celebrities will include some of the guests of Messmore Kendall in 1919, when the house opened.

Set 20th-Fox Dividends

The board of directors of 20th Century-Fox yesterday declared a cash dividend of 37½ cents per share for the third quarter of 1937 on the outstanding preferred stock, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 15. A cash dividend of 50 cents per share was declared on the common stock, also payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

U. A. Theatres to Pay

The board of directors of the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred stock. It is payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record as of Sept. 1. Other business transacted during the meeting was described as routine.

K.C. Party Draws Crowd

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 1.—Approximately 500 attended the annual Variety Club M. P. Relief Fund picnic at Fairland Park. It was the largest attendance in the history of the affairs. Exchange employees arranged for their own picnic dinners. The sponsors provided each employee with a card of tickets good for trade at games, rides, swimming, etc., and the affair wound up in the evening with a dance in the ballroom.

General chairman in charge of the event was Robert F. Withers.

Gloria Blondell Signed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Gloria Blondell, 22-year-old sister of Joan Blondell, has been given a term contract by Warners. Her first part will be in "Money Talks," a Carleton Sand story which John Farrow, now in England, will direct.

Lesser Signs Cline

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Eddie Cline, now directing "High Flyers" for RKO, will join Sol Lesser as producer-director as soon as his current assignment is over. It is understood that Cline will handle production reins, and possibly direct, the Bobby Breen pictures, although Kurt Neumann has been tentatively set for "Fisherman's Wharf," the next Breen vehicle.

Attorney Condemns B.N.

LINCOLN, Sept. 1.—Assistant Attorney General Francis Robinson told the Nebraska Supreme Court in a brief filed here today that if it approves Bank Night the "door is opened wide to further unfair competition in other businesses."

Robinson declared Bank Night a lottery and menace to good business in upholding former District Judge Fred Messmore's injunction in the Fox-Midwest case at Beatrice.

An appeal in the Supreme Court's injunction against Bank Night in Omaha only is due for hearing along with the Beatrice case next week.

Short Subjects

"Morning, Judge"

(RKO)

Edgar Kennedy is in and out of jail here through no fault of his own. It seems that fate always lands innocent Edgar in the jug. The farce centers around his attempt to get to a masquerade party costumed as a convict—his wife's idea. The slight plot is effectively worked to get the most laughs and although they are soon apparent, they nevertheless register. It is good standard comedy in the Kennedy style. Agnes Ayres, Bud Jamison and Fred Kelsey contribute good support. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Trailing Along"

(RKO)

Gene Austin and his instrumental and vocalizing troupe decide to open a trailer night club in this short and the result is a smartly presented musical effort. The music is of the swing variety and the individual numbers are well done and effective. It should provide first rate entertainment all around. Running time, 15 mins. "G."

Begin Kansas Tax Probe

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 1.—Forty investigators for the State auditor's department this week started checking practically every retail establishment in Kansas City for delinquencies in the payment of sales taxes. Investigators are checking records back to January 15, 1934, when the one-half of one per cent levy was in effect, through the one per cent levy, and on into the two per cent period beginning June this year. The state auditor's office expects to collect $500,000 in delinquent taxes.

NYU Offers Film Course

A new film course will be offered by the New York University this Fall. Robert Gessner, a writer, will be in charge and a number of films loaned by the Museum of Modern Art Film Library will be studied. The course will embrace the historical aspect of the motion picture from Skladanowsky primitives to Frank Capra's "It Happened One Night."

Saunders in Own Service

Claud Saunders, former vice-president and general manager of Ross Federal Service, has entered the checking business on his own, operating under the name of Claud Saunders Service. Theatre admissions will be checked through Postal Telegraph, and the service plans traffic surveys, outdoor advertising and similar work.

To Press Chain Bill

MADISON, WIS., Sept. 1.—The I.T.-P.A. of Wisconsin will attempt to have a chain theatre measure introduced in the special session of the legislature called by Gov. Phillip F. LaFollette tentatively for Sept. 13. The session is to be devoted primarily to relief legislation.

Close "U"-Cooper Deal

J. R. Grainger has closed a deal with the J. H. Cooper Enterprises, Inc., of Oklahoma for the entire Universal 1937-'38 list. The circuit has 28 houses.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW"Wife, Doctor and Nurse"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—Here is a smart, fast-stepping piece of entertainment, with dialogue that snaps, situations which are lively and for the most part amusing, and characterizations wholly in keeping with the light and entertaining developments. "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," which title goes a long way toward telling its own story, is a yarn of a romantic triangle set against a background of a smart doctor's office, with considerable of the formula in it, but saved from triteness by speed and an unexpected conclusion.

The happily cast triangle is composed of Warner Baxter, the ultra modern doctor, highly successful; Loretta Young, his too wealthy wife, and Virginia Bruce, Baxter's too efficient assistant, who did not know she was in love with the doctor until Miss Young brought the matter to her attention. In able support are Minna Gombell, Jane Darwell and Sidney Blackmer, but they are incidental. The screenplay took the combined efforts of Kathryn Scala, Darrell Ware and Lamar Trotti. Director Walter Lang has kept things going in a lively pace throughout.

Miss Bruce has had no thought of romance with the able doctor, being too much engrossed in her work with him. Then suddenly wealthy socialite Miss Young sails into the picture and marries the doctor, which is quite a shock to Miss Bruce. But when Miss Young lunches with Miss Bruce and inquires about romance, Miss Bruce finds she loves him, then quits. Miss Young does likewise and things go from bad to worse until Miss Bruce comes back, Miss Young comes back, and the two decide that the doctor needs them both, one for work and the other for home, and both decide to stick around.

Running time, 84 minutes. "G."

"The Women Men Marry"

(MGM)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 1.—M-G-M mixed comedy, romance, drama, a triangle situation, rang in an imaginative religious expose, showed how a man is hanged, fixed things so that a cheating wife received her just desserts, and got a hodge podge. Like all potpourris, some of this is good; some is not. Newspaper folk are the central characters, but it's not a newspaper story. Three adapters had a hand in transcribing the originals. They, with the producer and director, seemed to have had different ideas as to how the major premise should be developed.

To enjoy Claire Dodd's company, Editor Sidney Blackmer assigns her reporter husband, George Murphy, accompanied by Josephine Hutchinson, to investigate a cult racket. Discovering cultist John Wray's financial rakeoff secrets, the pair get into a jam which results in Wray killing Photographer Cliff Edwards. Murphy's absence makes things nice for Blackmer and Miss Dodd, but eventually the outraged husband becomes aware of their perfidy. Murphy's murderous intent is stalled when Blackmer, for psychological reasons, forces him to attend Wray's hanging. The story winds up with Blackmer disappearing, Miss Dodd sent to Reno and Murphy and Miss Hutchinson planning marriage the moment a divorce is granted.

Helen Jerome Eddy contributes a weird characterization. Comedy provided by Edwards, Toby Wing and young Peggy Ryan contrasts with the triangular romance and the melodrama of Wray's killings and execution. Mitchell Fessier produced and Errol Taggart directed.

Running time, 65 minutes. "A."

Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—The charity fund of the local tent has been substantially augmented by proceeds from the third annual golf tournament and field day held recently. HARRY WESSEL, chief barker, assisted by JIM GRADY, JOE OULAHAN, ALLAN MORITZ, WILLIAM KERR, AL SUGARMAN, and others were responsible. BILL CHRISTIAN of the Indianapolis Tent carried off the prize for low golf score of 71.

C. E. DAVIS, Indiana exhibitor, and member of the Indianapolis Tent, was a visitor here for several days.

JOE KOLLING, property master, has returned from a week's sojourn in Chicago.

NOAH SCHECTER again is heading the publicity department at Arrowhead Inn, local night spot.

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 1.—All new and uninitiated members will ride the goat at the final initiation of the year to be held Saturday night, Sept. 18. Among the names which will be added that night are WOZNACK, STERN, LEFTON, GOLDBERG, ROONEY, BASSET, KRAMER, HAMILL, DIMLING, THONSEN, POSNER, MCSWIGAN, WOLFE, MOORE, THORPE, TABIN, HILLER and COLLINS.

The women take over the club every Tuesday from noon until six in the evening. MRS. MALONEY was queen at the last No Man's Land session.

The birthdays of LYLE HARDING and SID MARKE will be celebrated at DAVE KIMELMAN's forthcoming dinner. Seems to be a scarcity of birthdays this month, none being on the list until HARRY KALMINE celebrates on the 16th and is followed by AL WEISS, HARRY THOMAS, JACK MUNDSTUK, TONY STERN, HENRY GOLDBERG, JIM ALEXANDER and WALTER STUCKY.

DEAD END, another smash hit from SAMUEL GOLDWYN

Thursday, September 2, 1937

Amended Complaint Filed in Bixio Suit

Henry Pearlman, attorney for Cesare Andrea Bixio, Italian composer, yesterday filed an amended bill of complaint in the action of Bixio against 20th Century-Fox for alleged infringement of the song, "Passa L'Amore," in the song "Midnight in Paris," which was used in "Here's to Romance."

The suit was brought by Foreign and Domestic Music Corp., agent for Bixio, who claimed his song was published in Milan in 1935 and registered in Washington in June, 1936. The court overruled two of the grounds for dismissal presented by 20th Century-Fox, but sustained one, that Bixio had no right to copyright here. The court gave the plaintiff the privilege of remedying the defect by filing an amended complaint. This Pearlman did, declaring that reciprocal rights of copyright exist between the United States and Italy.

Seeks Order on Seattle Sale

Referee in Bankruptcy Oscar W. Ehrhorn yesterday set Sept. 8 for a hearing in U. S. District Court to review his order which denied the petition on Philip J. Snyder, as trustee and principal creditor in the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., bankruptcy, to compel Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, to intervene in mortgage foreclosure proceedings of a Seattle theatre and office building.

Snyder claims that a foreclosure decree on the first mortgage against the Seattle theatre was granted in June, 1935, but that the theatre has not yet been sold. Orpheum guaranteed the mortgage bonds and is allegedly liable for a deficiency. Snyder stated that he feared "a speedy sale" would be held in Seattle in order to enable bondholders to share in a $700,000 dividend which will be declared shortly for Orpheum creditors.

Reserve Ruling on Claim

Judge Robert P. Patterson reserved decision yesterday in U. S. District Court on a motion of Samuel Zirn, attorney for Electrical Products Co. of California, an alleged creditor of the Orpheum Circuit, to reinstate an $8,000 claim. The claim was expunged by Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn. Zirn stated that Ehrhorn was prejudiced. Douglas M. Black, attorney for Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, declared that the claim had been expunged because Zirn failed to present proof of a guarantee upon which the claim is based. Two previous efforts by Zirn to remove Referee Ehrhorn from the case because of alleged prejudice have been unsuccessful.

tion to the usual gasoline generators on the street. Those who came to see and be seen were seen, but they didn't see much themselves unless they had sun glasses.

Along about 8:15 Bill Sheppard and Ray Saunders of WHN began to tell the radio audience who wrote the story and music of the picture, and Gertrude of Hollywood described the "glamour of the occasion." Imagination is a big help in describing glamour when the mercury is over 80 and the cooling system isn't breezing beyond the ticket taker.

Sobel caught celebrities by the arm and led them to the microphone while the flashlight bulbs did their stuff. Ed Wynn chuckled and giggled. Kelcey Allen looked on and tried not to be bored. Major Bowes chatted with the unseen audience and kept his eye open for likely amateurs. Irving Caesar had a word or two to say.

Monroe Greenthal strolled by without even looking at the microphone. He was slipping in to see how the competitors make 'em.

Mrs. Sailing Baruch spoke. So did Mark Hellinger, but all he had to say was: "They're taking my picture, but I can't imagine what for."

Gertrude of Hollywood made some more remarks about glamour, but whether she was talking about Mark

The radio men began to wind up the wires about 9 o'clock.

"They're coming faster than ever," one of them remarked.

"Sure, it ain't polite to be on time at an opening," his companion explained.

Even those radio men slip back in to the vernacular when the scripts are folded in the brief cases.

Entirely Unionized Theatres IATSE Aim

Complete unionization of every theatre in New York was described as an I.A.T.S.E. objective by Joseph Basson, Local 306 president, speaking at a meeting of theatrical building service employees yesterday.

The meeting was sponsored by Local 54, B.S.E.I.U., for superintendents, porters, watchmen, matrons and charwomen of amusement buildings. Basson pledged the assistance of Local 306 in the organizing drive of these employees and theatre ushers, who will be organized separately under I.A.T.S.E. supervision. Organizing aid from Local I, Theatrical Protective Union, the stagehands' organization, was also pledged by a representative of that union. Lou Conway, president of Local 54, presided at the meeting.

Continue Union Talks

Representatives of Local 306, projectionists' union, met yesterday with major circuit executives, in a continuation of negotiations for a new two-year agreement, as provided in the master agreement between the circuits and the union. The meetings will be continued at an early date.

Operators Stay on Job

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Union projectionists are to continue working under last year's contract while negotiations are being conducted on their demand for a 20 per cent wage increase.

Para. Attacks North Dakota "Divorce" Law

when it becomes effective, March 15, 1938.

Paramount's complaint charges that the "divorce" measure, which would make it unlawful for any producing or distributing company to own or operate theatres in the state, violates both the Federal Constitution and the North Dakota constitution in several major respects. Among these are the charges that it would deprive the plaintiffs of their property without due process of law; that it would require the impairment of contractual obligations and that it imposes arbitrary restrictions on lawful business and arbitrarily invades property rights. It is also charged that the measure denies the plaintiffs equal protection under the law by unlawful discrimination against them and that it has no relation to the public welfare and is not a valid exercise of the police power of the state.

Ask Immediate Action

The complaint sets forth that while the bill does not become effective until next March 15, the plaintiffs are entitled to immediate legal relief inasmuch as damage to their business has or may be done by the presence of the measure in the statutes. It points out that the theatres operated in the state by its affiliates may be injured by the reluctance of distribution companies to enter into contracts with them for new season product while the validity of the "divorce" measure remains undetermined, and that the same handicap applies as well to other contracts or agreements which the theatres might wish to enter into with equipment companies or contractors for necessary supplies or improvements.

The theatres listed in the complaint as being affected by the state measure are the State, Orpheum and Strand at Minot; the Dakota and Paramount at Grand Forks; the Fargo, Grand and State at Fargo, and the Opera House and Star at Jamestown. All of these except the State, Minot, which is owned outright, are under leases of from five to 20 years' duration, and some with options for renewal. The charges that the state law would impair the contractual obligations of the plaintiffs in violation of the Federal and state constitutions is based primarily on the existence of these leases.

Estimate of Holdings Given

In establishing the potential damages to the plaintiffs from enforcement of the "divorce" measure, the Paramount complaint related that the value of the capital stock held by Paramount in Minnesota Amusement on Jan. 2 of this year was "in excess of $290,000," and that on last Dec. 4 a dividend of $325,000 was declared on this stock by Minnesota. It is also stated that Paramount licensed and distributed to Minnesota and American Amusement 4,186 features, shorts and newsreels for a total income of $124,898 for the four-year period from Aug. 1, 1932, to Aug. 1, 1936. The company's revenue from North Dakota theatres other than its affiliates during the same four-year period is given as

"Jericho"

(Buckingham-British)

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Walter Futter produced and Thornton Freeland directed this Max Schach feature, a General Film Distributors release in England. American distribution has still to be finally determined.

Assets of the picture are the three names of Paul Robeson, Henry Wilcoxon and Wallace Ford, the singing of the first, which is kept well within the story limits, and a series of really striking desert scenes, filmed in the Sudan. These are not only authentic but look it; they are fine pieces of camera work. A distance shot of the "salt caravan" trekking through the sands is a masterpiece. More artificial, but also striking is a patterned grouping of thousands of Arabs about the desert grave of an airman.

The story, opening with some very effective scenes on board a torpedoed American ship, carrying black troops during the war, deals chiefly with the flight into the wilds of a colored corporal, charged with murder, and a white doughboy, also flying from justice. The former becomes a chief in the wilds, due to his medical knowledge. An officer who was cashiered in connection with the colored soldier's escape, tracks him down in an aeroplane but crashes. There is an original interlude in which the officer gets on the trail of the fugitive through seeing a film travelogue; the G-B News commentator is used skilfully in this scene.

Robeson has several songs, Wilcoxon is strong in an officer part well suited to him and Ford is a hit as the wisecracking white scallawag. Princess Kouka, Sudanese beauty discovered by Futter, and appearing as Robeson's wife in his role of desert chief, has good exploitation value.

the Goldwyn company have been re-established. As evidence of this cordial relationship, Paramount today signed an agreement with the Goldwyn company under which Paramount will make available to the Goldwyn company the services of Henry Hathaway, one of its most important directors, for three pictures to be produced by Mr. Goldwyn. The Goldwyn company will make available to Paramount the services of Gary Cooper for a picture.

Goldwyn issued the following statement:

"I am gratified by the discontinuance of the Paramount law suit and by the resumption of the cooperation which formerly existed between the Paramount company and myself."

Claim Big "Double" Draw

Paramount reports that "Double or Nothing," in its opening day at the Paramount yesterday, had grossed $3,500 at 5 P. M., claimed to be $450 more than "Artists and Models" drew up to the same hour on opening day. Paramount estimates $60,000 for the week on "Double or Nothing."

$264,613 from a maximum of 102 theatres using a total of 32,794 Paramount films.

The value of Minnesota Amusement's investment in North Dakota theatres is given as "in excess of $123,000," as of last Jan. 2. Minnesota, it is stated, is the sole stockholder in American Amusement and received as a dividend on the capital stock of the latter company $92,000 on Dec. 18, 1935, and $75,000 on Nov. 23, 1936. The value of American's investments in North Dakota theatres is given as "in excess of $169,000."

The defendants in the action have 20 days after being served in which to file their answers to Paramount's complaint. A hearing date will be set thereafter.

CBS Billings Up

CBS billings for August were $1,955,280. This is an increase of 58.6 per cent over the same month in 1936. The accumulated total for the eight months just ended is $18,746,957. This is an increase of 36.7 per cent for the same period last year.

Sees Wire Need for Television on Farms

Wire relays will be needed to get television programs into rural homes, according to Joseph J. Weed, president of Weed & Co., station representatives. The extension of these will depend upon the possibility of cutting the cost of co-axial cables.

"Big cities," he says, "will be the first to be equipped with transmitters and, on account of the limited line-of-sight range of signals, the rural residents—who must not be ignored—cannot expect to tune in the sight programs right off the air."

"Hence there's the possibility that coaxial relays, perhaps under telephone company subsidy will 'pipe' the sight-and-sound programs directly into homes in various towns and villages where subscribers would necessarily have to pay a fee for the wired entertainment service. This would be dependent, of course, on bringing down the now prohibitive cost of coaxial wire manufacture."

Church News on WNEW

News of the churches in the New York area will be broadcast each Saturday morning over WNEW, beginning Sept. 11. Rachel McDowell, religious editor of the New York Times, will handle the program, "News of the Churches." The time will be 7:30-7:45. The Clergy League of America sponsors.

Erpi's First Sound License Pacts Signed

GTE and Motiograph to Make Equipment

Marking Erpi's entry into the field of licensing outside manufacturers to produce and market sound equipment under patents controlled by it and its associates, agreements were signed yesterday with General Theatres Equipment Corp. and Motiograph, Inc.

With the ultimate disposition by Erpi of its reproducing equipment sales and servicing business, the company is to become, primarily, a licensor for patents controlled by itself and associates. The agreements closed yesterday are the initial ones in this new planned activity for Erpi. Both licenses, as reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, are non-exclusive and, as such, may be duplicated for other equipment manufacturers in the future under Erpi's new licensing role. The agreements are confined to the manufacture, leasing and sale of sound heads only and do not include Erpi's horn and amplifier patents. They permit International Projector

Myers Settles Pact At Grand National

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Zion Myers, producer for Grand National, today severed his connection with the company through the medium of an amicable settlement of his contract. His last production was "Something to Sing About," with James Cagney. Myers will leave for New York tomorrow. A deal elsewhere is considered likely.

Victor Schertzinger will complete the films on Myers' list.

Chicago Bars All Children As a Paralysis Precaution

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Children under 16 are to be barred from theatres in a move to halt the spread of infantile paralysis cases here. The action was taken today following a conference of Dr. Herman Bundesen, president of the Board of Health, with Allied leaders and members of the Chicago Exhibitors' Ass'n.

Cases have gained rapidly in the past 24 hours and it is probable that schools will remain closed for a month. More than 700,000 children are affected by the ruling.

Exhibitors have promised cooperation with health authorities. Only yesterday Dr. Bundesen said he did not believe this action would be necessary, but developments caused him to alter his stand. The ban will extend to swimming pools, beaches, churches and other gathering places.

The personal appearance of Bobby Breen scheduled for the Palace next week has been cancelled.

If the disease reaches epidemic proportions, theatres will be closed by the authorities.

Hundreds of bookings in theatres for this weekend have been changed as a result of the Health Department ruling. Exchanges are in an uproar as pictures for children's matinees and features with appeal for youngsters have been replaced by adult attractions.

Film Exports at New High Record in 1936

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Motion picture export business last year set a new high record, royalties received from foreigners being estimated at $110,000,000 against $85,000,000 in 1935, according to the annual report on the balance of international payments released today by the Dep't of Commerce.

While revenues from pictures shown abroad increased $25,000,000, it was pointed out by the department, payments to foreign producers for the use here of foreign films increased only from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000, leaving a favorable balance for 1936 of $104,000,000 against $80,000,000 in 1935.

Lavish Musical Opens Stage Season; Has Film Essentials

By PLAYBOY

The New York theatre, season 1937-38, officially threw back the doors last night with the premiere of "Virginia" at the Center Theatre. Between you and us, and we don't care whether you keep it confidential or not, the truth of the matter is the season actually did not open at all.

What a very well-dressed audience was asked to sit through for well nigh three hours was an opulent and lavish transfer of the Williamsburg which the Rockefellers have resurrected to its colonial glory in Virginia to New York for musical romance purposes.

It was all lovely to look at. The settings by Lee Simonson were as distinguished as his craftsmanship ordinarily turns out to be. The dances by Florence Rogge of the Music Hall staff were alternately routine and refreshing and constantly a reminder of the larger theatre hard by on 6th Ave. The costumes, credited to Irene Sharaff, were colorful and always a knockout. IATSE Wage Pact Signed In 33 Cities

About 10,000 Employees Are Now Covered

Wage and hour schedules for approximately 10,000 employees in 33 major exchange centers have been established with the closing yesterday of agreement for Chicago and Los Angeles exchange employees. The pacts with the exchange unions of these two cities are the last to be closed.

Further negotiations will be conducted at a later date with the I. A. T. S. E. to set up a master contract to include uniform scales. No date at the present time has been set for this meeting.

The negotiations with the representatives of the exchange employees unions were conducted in New York by a committee representing the distribution companies which met over a period of three months with employee negotiators from individual exchange centers. Frank Phelps of Warners was chairman of the committee.

Para. "Strike" Case Briefs on Wednesday

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—An order to file briefs by next Wednesday today was issued by Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye to both Paramount and counsel for local exhibitors against whom Paramount is seeking a permanent injunction to prevent the continuance of the "buyers' strike" against the taking of its product.

The temporary restraining order has been continued pending final disposition of the case.

Say 163 Have Signed Phila. Buying Pact

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—So far 163 exhibitors acting individually have signed powers of attorney giving the special committee of U. M. P. T. O. the right to negotiate for them in purchasing new season Paramount product.

The committee will seek to give exhibitors the same runs they have had this year with no price increases. The committee will meet tomorrow to discuss the situation.

Warners-Read Sign

Warners have closed a deal with the Walter Reade circuit for the 1937-'38 list, including Vitaphone shorts. Ben Kalmenson acted for Warners and Reade signed for his houses.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IT'S a pleasure this morning to bow deeply and from the waist to Universal for having turned out as delightful a picture as "100 Men and a Girl." The occasion, as a matter of fact, is one calling for handshakes in all directions. The producer is reposing nicely in the afterglow of a job he knows has been eminently well performed. Theatre-men will learn here, and no doubt elsewhere additionally, that they have a platinum-lined grosser coming up shortly. And so, maybe it ought to be an occasion for dancing in the streets. . . .

"Three Smart Girls," Deanna Durbin's initial vehicle, was more than merely good. But "100 Men and a Girl" is more than more than merely good, a trick phrase which is deposited with fingers crossed at the gentle mercy of the composing room. "Three Smart Girls" was one of the completely surprising pictures of last season. The follow-up, in its way, is a surprise if for no reason beyond the normal Hollywood difficulty of repeating in approximately the same mood. Yet, it has been done. . . .

The juvenile Miss Durbin with the adult voice is much of an improvement this time; her performance is better rounded and, not only is fuller, but more expert. She sings four numbers—"Music in My Dreams" and "It's Raining Sunbeams" in the popular song division and "Alleluja" by Mozart and an aria from "La Traviata" in the classical group. She does them amazingly well for one of her years and that, probably, was to be expected. But as a player called upon to evidence excitement and anger, joy and surprise, poise and stamina, her work is an eyebrow-raiser. Or at least an eyebrow-raiser where this department is concerned. . . .

Freshness and heart-warming incident course through the film. When you are informed that the story dripped off the pen of Hans Kraly, long associated with Ernst Lubitsch, there may be a lessened surprise. He also figured in on the script in conjunction with Bruce Manning and Charles Kenyon. Henry Koster, the director, and Joe Pasternak, the producer responsible for the first of the Durbin cycle were, of course, in on this one. Leopold Stokowski, the noted conductor of the renowned Philadelphia Orchestra, plays himself and does astonishingly well for an amateur before the camera. Adolphe Menjou, always good; Mischa Auer, forever more clever; Alice Brady, persistently and amusingly flighty, and Eugene Pallette, Bill Gilbert and Alma Kruger in the support give strength to the cast. And a very special mention for an unimportant player until now named Frank Jenks who plays a singing taxicab driver and steals the picture whenever he is in it. . . .

With this assortment of workable material and a Cinderella-like yarn, "100 Men and a Girl" proceeds to get under way. Briefly, it tells the plight of a group of unemployed musicians and how, through a chain of incidents, Miss Durbin organizes them and then persuades Stokowski to conduct the assembled symphony orchestra for one night. Of course, the solo performance is a pronounced hit; the musicians are assured of a year's work and the rejoicing becomes general on all sides. Carefully worked into the script and then onto the screen is a rich and very pleasing assortment of comedy and pseudo tragic situations with fun predominating all of the way. There is about this picture a warmth reached for at large in Hollywood and not frequently enough attained. But it's around in this case and the audience that won't catch it and reflect it, to this typewriter will appear a very unresponsive audience indeed. . . .

The music must be accorded its own particular mention. The facts are that the recordings were made by the Philadelphia Orchestra and are superb. Good music, drawn from the established masters, is present throughout, but it is essential to point out further that it belongs as a vitally integral part of the story unfoldment. Thus, while it is extremely worthwhile, the music is not turned loose on the audience to impress on its own count. The impress results from the natural place it assumes in the fabric of the picture and, on that count, suggests the future use of the great symphonic and operatic works may well find its answer in the additional application of the formula arrived at in this one instance. . . .

The late afternoon established two additional facts. In Philadelphia where "100 Men and a

HENRY LARTIGUE has been named general manager of all French Casino enterprises in New York, London, Paris, Chicago and Miami. NAT HARRIS will continue as managing director of the New York house. LARTIGUE will arrive here late this month.

PETER B. KYNE's "Jim, the Conqueror," and KATHARINE BRUSH's story, "Listen, Darling," have been purchased by M-G-M for this season's production.

LEON J. BAMBERGER's direct by mail advertising campaigns have won him recognition a second time. The Direct Mail Advertising Ass'n included him in the "Fifty Direct Mail Leaders."

H. C. WALKER and LLOYD C. PEARSON of Dominion Sound Equipment Co., Montreal, closed a deal with JOE MALMUTH of Hurley Screen Co. yesterday.

CHARLES KULLMANN, opera tenor who has just completed a role in "The Goldwyn Follies," will return to New York tomorrow.

JAMES DUNN left yesterday for Cleveland to take in the air races. He will continue coastward.

JOSEPH KLECKNER, president of Motiograph, will return to Chicago tomorrow.

WILL HAYS is scheduled to arrive in New York on Sept. 13.

"Zenda" Gets Big Start

Late yesterday United Artists was predicting a $15,000 day for the opening of "The Prisoner of Zenda."

When W. G. Van Schmus discovered 1,800 in line at 10 o'clock in spite of the fact that the opening of the Music Hall was scheduled for 11 he ordered the doors opened at 10:50. At 12:10, 2,300 standees were reported.

"Double" Starts Strongly

NEWARK, Sept. 2.—"Double or Nothing," in its opening day at the Paramount here yesterday, grossed $2,400 which was $200 ahead of "Artists And Models."

"Girl" opened at the Fox yesterday, the gross at exactly three o'clock had exceeded the figure of any attraction booked into that theatre in the last thirteen months. Second was Jimmy Grainger's definite determination to set forth today on one of his frequent transcontinental sales tours. He shakes New York from his heels confident in the knowledge that he has a picture on his hands. He never appeared much in doubt, but in the event he had been he could have checked around a bit. With us, for instance. . . .

Erpi's First Sound License Pact Signed and Motiograph to turn out a complete projection unit ready for attachment in any wired theatre or exhibition place.

The licenses are for the continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii only. Indications are that both International Projector and Motiograph will begin manufacture of the new units immediately. The licensing agreements were signed by Whitford Drake, Erpi president; E. G. Hines, president of General Theatres Equipment Corp. for International Projector, and Joseph B. Kleckner, president of Motiograph, Inc., Chicago.

International Projector has been licensed to manufacture sound reproducing equipment under RCA Mfg. Co. patents for some time, but the current deals are the first of their kind to be made by Erpi whose exclusive manufacturing rights, of course, have been held by Western Electric.

Clearance Shortened In Kansas City, Kan.

City, Mo. Pictures involved are those of 20th Century-Fox and Universal, which are first run at Fox's Kansas City, Mo., first runs, the Tower and Uptown. The clearance has been 28 days and over to the Granada, and it will take some time to smooth out booking mechanics.

But the policy has been adopted and represents a partial victory for Kansas City, Kan., in its fight for release of pictures to its first run theatres, the Granada and the Electric, day and date with Kansas City, Mo.

The Kansas City Kansan, which, with the Chamber of Commerce, other civic groups, clubs, and the Theatre Owners' Ass'n of Kansas City, Kan., has been fighting for day and date releases since spring, hailed the new policy, and especially commended Fox Midwest Theatres, Inc., through whose agency the change was effected.

The same clearances to theatres playing back of the Granada will apply under the new arrangement; that is, theatres will take a two-week setback for each five-cent drop in admission. This will give subsequents in Kansas City, Kan., two weeks' better clearance on 20th Century-Fox and Universal pictures than they have been getting.

under the Films Act of 20 per cent. In 1935, they showed 28.1 per cent.

The total footage of registered feature films exhibited was 35,900,000 feet, of which 10,571,000 feet were British.

The total exhibited footage, of films of all classes, was 39,735,000 feet, of which 10,896,000 feet were British. The British percentage was therefore 27.4 against 25.5 in 1935.

Lavish Musical Opens Stage Season; Has Film Essentials

off, production manager at Mr. Van Schmus' establishment, undertook a similar task here and did more than tolerably well.

Arthur Schwartz, by some mysterious circumstance not in conspiracy with Howard Dietz on this expedition, wrote the music. It had a faintly haunting quality, this department thought, and very little that persisted in running around this department's head after it planted itself in front of the midnight typewriter.

Of course, it was a whale of a lot of tunes for one tunesmith to turn out and, of course again, the quality had to be variable. It was a persistent impression, however, that Schwartz did much better in his numbers with a modern swing than in those that, by the nature of the banal and phantom story thread, called for stickiness and sentimentality. Yet beyond the physical accoutrements lavished with a generous hand on sets and costumes and staging, the one worthwhile enterprise in "Virginia" is that score.

This space has no idea how Laurence Stallings whom memory seems to recall had something or other to do about a piece called "What Price Glory?" regards his collaboration with Owen Davis on the book. And probably it will make no difference to either Stallings or Davis for them to learn that this reviewer thinks they ought to slink around and out the stage door of the Center as unobtrusively as they know how.

Their end of the job is woefully insignificant and far more on the dull, than on the stately side we imagine they were endeavoring to approximate.

Mona Barrie did well as the governor's daughter. Nigel Bruce, as the governor, was pretty well suffocated in his periwig. Gene Lockhart, as Fortescue, the Drury Lane producer, was made to go opera bouffe all the way. Actually it was very painful to observe. Anne Booth, an English import making her debut, was pleasant to look at from down front and in agreeable, if unimportant enough, voice. Ronald Graham as the stalwart hero, was constantly kissing ladies' hands. Even Buck and Bubbles suffered from the book, but, at that, several of the best numbers in the show went to the latter and Avis Andrews, singing Schwartz's modern-keyed tunes.

What "Virginia" lacks and lacks sadly is comedy. True, pokes are made at it, but they never come off. This leaves good-looking ensembles and songs and no story to carry the evening and they simply fail to prove enough.

For what it suggests, however, "Virginia," in the hands of a Metro, for instance, with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy to draw upon, plus a valiant job of story grafting, could and would make a first-rate musical. But the story boys would have to save the day.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2. — Universal has changed the title of "Free Rangers" to "Courage of the West." It will be the first picture starring BOB BAKER, who has taken the place of BUCK JONES on Universal's western schedule.

DAVE DRYER and HERMAN RUBY have written two songs for RKO's "High Flyers"—"Keep Your Head Above Water" and "I'm a Gaucho" . . . DR. WILLIAM AXT has been assigned the musical direction of M-G-M's "The Ugly Duckling" . . . EDWARD JAMES FLANNAGAN, whose name was changed to LARRY DOYLE for screen purposes, has been "re-titled" again. He's now DENNIS O'KEEFE.

DAN TOBEY, veteran ring announcer, has been cast in M-G-M's "Four Marys" . . . WILLIAM GARGAN goes into Universal's "Young Man's Fancy" . . . BENNY RUBIN is doing the script for "Crazy People" at RKO . . . Columbia has cast ERNEST TRUAX in a comedy role for "Freshmen Follies."

Paramount plans another musical extravaganza, "Sheik to Sheik," which will have a desert background. Tentatively lined up for the cast are the Yacht Club Boys, RAY MIDDLETON, SHIRLEY ROSS, BEN BLUE, AKIM TAMIROFF, CHARLES BUTTERWORTH and RUFUS DAVIS. MEL SHAUER will produce and SEENA OWEN and GRANT GARRETT are working on the screenplay.

Paramount has placed HUGH SOTHERN, character actor recruited from the Federal Theatre Project for a part in "The Buccaneer," under optional contract . . . JOHN QUALLEN has been borrowed by M-G-M from 20th Century-Fox for "Bad Man of Brimstone" . . . CLARENCE BROWN will direct "Benefits Forged," historical drama of the Civil War, at M-G-M. . . Paramount has placed three girls, BLANCA VISCHER, VIRGINIA POUND and DOROTHY DAYTON, on stock contracts.

Casting — JOHN WRAY, ROBERT PERRY and LARRY McGRATH's in "Bad Man of Brimstone," M-G-M . . . E. E. CLIVE, ANN RUTHERFORD, AL SHEAN, ZEFFIE TILBURY, WILBUR MACK, MINERVA URECAL, VIRGINIA SALE in "Love, Live and Learn," M-G-M . . . MARVIN STEPHENS, 15-year-old high school boy who appeared in pictures when he was younger, in "Borrowing Trouble," Jones Family story at 20th Century-Fox.

TOMMY BOND in "Rosalie," M-G-M . . . MARJORIE WEAVER draws her most important role to date in 20th Century-Fox's "Second Honeymoon," as second feminine lead. . .

Writers—BERTRAM MILLHAUSER is to do the script "Beau Geste" at Paramount . . . BRADFORD ROPES has gone to M-G-M to script "Razzle Dazzle," football picture for the NAT LEVINE unit. GEORGE FRANK was the agent.

Exchange, 2 Houses Go Up in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co., contracting firm, is proceeding with the erection of the combined film exchange building at Colony St. and Memorial Blvd., which will accommodate the eight branches of large Canadian film distributing companies here which serve the Manitoba and Saskatchewan. The construction is being financed by the Hudson's Bay Co., which has a big department store and other properties in Winnipeg and other cities of the Canadian west. The construction permit calls for an expenditure of $100,000 for the building, which will be modern and fire-proof throughout.

Two new neighborhood theatres are also included in the Winnipeg building campaign. One is to be erected in the suburb of Norwood, by Irvine Brown at a cost of $30,000, while H. Triller, veteran local theatre owner, is erecting a new house to cost $60,000.

To Build in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Sept. 2.—The Drexel Amusement Co. has been incorporated here by W. C. Chesbrough, D. D. Rapp, M. H. Earhart and T. E. Coleman. Chesbrough, who operates a number of houses here, will be president. The company has a 20-year lease on property in suburban Bexley for the erection of a 900-seat theatre, at a reported cost of $50,000, with completion scheduled by the end of the year.

Bar Minors in Omaha

OMAHA, Sept. 2.—Dr. Floyd Kinyoun, City Health Commissioner, has ordered local theatre managers to bar minors until the infantile paralysis epidemic abates. Dr. Kinyoun took the step only after his appeals to mothers to keep children home had failed. Council Bluffs theatre managers also have been asked to bar children under 18.

Koerpel, Gatti Agent

Jacques Koerpel has been appointed world representative of the film activities of the Tenth Gatti African Expedition which will leave for the Belgian Congo in December. The expedition will shoot 100,000 feet of film in the Ituri Forest. Exposed negative will be shipped immediately to London, thence to New York. The expedition will be in the field for a year.

McCarthy Forms Firm

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Leo J. McCarthy, former producer at Republic, has organized BCM Productions, with Charles A. Browne, associate producer, and Elmer Clifton as director. The first picture, now shooting, is "Assassin of Youth," an antipode picture. The cast includes Luana Walters, Arthur Gardner, Dorothy Short, Earl Dwire and Gertrude Astor.

Claim "Thin Ice" Records

"Thin Ice" broke opening day records at Loew's State, Los Angeles, and Grauman's Chinese, Hollywood, the 20th Century-Fox home office reported yesterday. The film did $3,742 at the State and $2,811 at the Chinese. The picture will open at the Roxy here this morning.

Short Subjects

"Cash and Carry"

(Columbia)

Here is the most far-fetched departure from a slapstick comedy story that is possible to conceive. The Three Stooges return from a prospecting trip and find a boy and his sister occupying their "home" in the city dump. The boy is saving money for an operation. The trio takes the money to a bank and falls victims to a pair of swindlers who sell them phoney hidden treasure rights. They dig their way into a U. S. Treasury storeroom, are picked up by the guards and finally are taken before the President himself. The President offers to pay for the operation and extends executive clemency to the boys. It is certainly "different" from what this trio has been dishing out. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Attic of Terror"

(Warners)

Here is an exploitation "natural," as Floyd Gibbons describes a "true adventure" during its reenactment on the screen. With Gibbons offering cash for personal and actual adventures used in the series, the showman should have a real box-office draw here. The adventure itself, that of a tobacco salesman years ago caught in a storm and barely escaping with his life from a mountain cabin whose occupants are bent on murder and robbery, and the manner in which he changes places with a corpse, is full of thrill and suspense. Gibbons' telling of the yarn, and his natural, easy presence before the camera, add considerably to the effect. In the end the victim, now an elderly man, receives a check from Gibbons. Running time, 12 mins.

"Scary Crows"

(Columbia)

Although this cartoon has adequate coloring and animation it fails to get anywhere. A couple of youngsters and the inhabitant of a farmyard have difficulties with the depredations of crows and, after battling the birds all day, they go to bed. That's all there is. Children may like it. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Vitaphone Pictorial Review"

(Warners)

Genuine interest and entertainment in this new series, highlighted by Clem McCarthy's description of a rehearsal for a wrestling bout. As the boys go through their antics on the mat—and in each other's hair—McCarthy describes various wrestling holds. Geared for laughs, it gets them. Additionally, there are shots of film stars attending the Del Mar track on the coast, and in color, an interesting pictorial description of how Gruyere cheese is made in Switzerland. Running time, 10 mins.

Hold Vitaphone Preview

Norman H. Moray, in charge of sales for Vitaphone short subjects, played host to the trade paper scribes at a luncheon at the home office yesterday by way of introducing a preview of Vitaphone subjects in the new lineup. Present at the luncheon were Major Albert Warner, Clem McCarthy and Floyd Gibbons.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Bulldog Drummond Comes Back"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—On the theory that nobody but mystery fans can possibly know how a given novel or play of that strange school is going to strike the mystery market of the moment, it may be assumed that this one has a chance of striking it favorably. It has precious little mystery in it, however, and less of logic, with things happening for no evident reason and the usually heroic Drummond behaving like a freshman while the classically subtle Inspector Nielson dons a sequence of disguises to no consequential purpose. Unless drastically overhauled the picture is not likely to add to the substantial following of H. C. (Sapper) McNeile's fictional hero.

John Howard is the Drummond of this occasion and not bad, although inhibited by the story. John Barrymore is the Inspector Nielson and pretty uncomfortable about it, being limited to a practically meaningless display of his proficiency in the art of makeup. E. E. Clive, as the butler, is the only player who gets a chance to build up a creditable performance, which he does, while Reginald Denny, outstanding in the last Drummond picture, is as restricted by assignment as the hero. Louise Campbell has little to do as Drummond's sweetheart. J. Carroll Naish and Helen Freeman enact absurd menaces—to use the Hollywood word—as well, perhaps, as they could be enacted.

The story is, as produced, a far-fetched thing about a vengeful brother and wife of a criminal executed some time previously as a result of Drummond's detective genius. Announcing at start of the picture that that have come to kill Drummond in revenge, they take his sweetheart prisoner and then proceed to play games, of the "treasure hunt" variety, with their intended victim and his Scotland Yard associate all through an incredibly long night. Rhymed notes and dictated gramophone records keep the hero running from place to place and it all gets nowhere in the long delayed end.

Running time, 58 minutes. "G."

"Escape By Night"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Here is an extremely well done picture in which every department cooperated to produce, obviously on a limited budget, a melodrama which rates higher consideration than many of the costlier ones. Republic continues to strive for marquee names and borrowed William Hall from Universal and Anne Nagel from Warners for the leads, supporting them by Dean Jagger, who turns in his best performance to date, Steffi Duna, Ward Bond, and other reliable character players.

This marks the debut of Harold Shumate, veteran film writer, as a producer. Writing the original screenplay and guiding the production, Shumate turned out a picture such as writers, wishing to be made producers, would like to make. Hamilton MacFadden's direction keeps in tempo with the various moods of the story.

A newcomer to the city, Hall is innocently involved in a murder committed by Jagger, head of a gang. He flees with Miss Duna, Bond and Murray Alper, Jagger's aides, to a farm owned by Miss Nagel and her blind father, Charles Waldron, whose constant companion is Bill, a German Shepherd dog. The quartette are won over to farm life and seek to put aside their pasts, until Jagger shows up to claim them again for gangdom. They resist and are "framed" for a bank burglary by Jagger. Hall escapes to capture Jagger and the remainder of the gang, and wins freedom for the group.

The melodramatics are subtly handled. All in all, it is a picture to please every one.

Running time, 72 minutes. "G."

Delmar Opens Tonight

The new Delmar, formerly the Gotham at 138th St., and Broadway, will open tonight with "Saratoga" as the opening attraction. The 2,200-seat house has been renovated and is under the management of Harry Harris and Ruden, Rapf & Lederer.

M-G-M Signs Jessner

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Leopold Jessner, former general manager of the Berlin State Theatre, has been signed as a director by M-G-M.

Capitol Reopening Bright

Amid lights and celebrities, the Capitol, now refurbished inside, and with an extensive new marquee outside, held a gala reopening ceremony last night, although the regular run policy was resumed yesterday morning.

G.N.-Bow Deal Dropped

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Grand National's talked of deal with Clara Bow has fallen through. The studio wanted her for the lead opposite Wallace Ford in "He Wanted to Marry."

Variety Club

Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—WALTER BRANDT, Warner city salesman, has been elected president of the Cleveland Warner Club for the ensuing year. He succeeds JULIUS LAMM, manager of the Warner Uptown. Other officers elected were: Vice-president in charge of entertainment, CHARLES ALBERT; welfare committee chairman, HELEN LYNCH; chairman of membership committee, BOB COX; chairman of the committee on contributions and loans, EVELYN FRIEDL; treasurer, VERNON PEASE; secretary, ROSE PEKARCIC. The board of governors includes MILTON MOONEY, DICK WRIGHT and L. F. WEINTZ.

Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—The annual golf tournament of the local Variety Club tent will be held at the Whitemarsh Country Club Oct. 1. This is an annual event and is usually attended by a number of New Yorkers.

The new quarters of the club in the Bellevue-Stratford will be opened Sept. 18.

The annual banquet of the club will be held Dec. 12 at the Bellevue-Stratford. TED SCHLANGER has been named chairman of the banquet committee.

Censor Not Needed

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 2.—Here and there Kansas newspapers are supporting the suggestion of the Topeka State Journal that there no longer exists a need for a state censor board. The Journal thinks the day has passed when films needed censorship, that the producers themselves have self-imposed restrictions which maintain pictures at a standard that makes the censor body "useless."

"Earth" Gets Big $22,000 In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—"The Good Earth," playing locally for the first time at popular prices at Loew's State, was the outstanding box-office hit in a week of big grosses. The take was $22,000, as against a $15,000 average. It was moved to Loew's Stillman for a continued run.

"You Can't Have Everything" at the Allen, in a second week after doing better than 50 per cent over average in its opening week at Warners' Hippodrome, did another handspring. The take at the Allen was $8,500. This was $2,500 better than average. It was held a third week.

"Confession" made a fair showing at Warners' Hippodrome with a take of $11,500, $500 under par.

"Stella Dallas," at Loew's Stillman, following Loew's State, went $500 over the wire to a take of $6,500.

Big Denver Outing Draws Crowd of 350

DENVER, Sept. 2.—With more than 350 attending the Screen Club picnic at the Cherry Hills Country Club, the annual affair was the most successful to date. Sixty-nine men and more than a dozen women went out for golf, and so many played bridge it was necessary to break them into a number of groups.

A 20-page humorous edition of Screen Club News, with ads, featured the picnic. Bob Selig, G.B. exchange manager, was editor, and pictures were freely used to illustrate the comic snapshots of exhibitors and distributors.

Jack Langon won the golf title with a low of 74, with Walter Ibold and his brother, Gus, second and third with 80 and 81. Mrs. E. T. Roberts took first prize for golf in the women's division, with 122. Mrs. Duke Dunbar was second with 143, and Mrs. Teller Ammons, wife of the Governor, was third with 146.

Lightman May Take Seven Warner Spots

MEMPHIS, Sept. 2.—The Press-Scimitar states it had been "reliably informed" that M. A. Lightman "is expected to acquire seven theatres in Kentucky from Warners under an agreement now being worked out."

The paper said the Warner theatres involved were one at Fulton, two each in Henderson and Owensboro, one in Princeton and one in Danville.

The Warner theatre department yesterday admitted conversations along the above lines had been held, but added "there is nothing further to add at this time."

Close Union Agreement

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—The Cleveland M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n, has unanimously ratified a two-year wage scale agreement with the local operators' union, providing for a 10 per cent increase. The new scale is effective from Aug. 31, 1937 to Aug. 31, 1939. Working conditions established in the old schedule remain practically unchanged.

Football Team in Guild

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Members of the University of Southern California's football squad and 100 other students joined the Screen Actors' Guild to permit them to work in Paramount's "Hold 'Em Navy."

Under guild shop, all students or other persons who appear before cameras, even if only for one picture, must be guild members.

Supply Men in Meeting

CLEVELAND, Sept. 2.—National Theatre Supply managers of the central district held a meeting here at the Cleveland Hotel, with L. S. Hunt, central division manager, in the chair. Present were: Tom Smith, Indianapolis; H. H. Hunt, Cincinnati; Ed Morton, Pittsburgh; Barney Perlman, Chicago; W. J. Turnbull, Detroit, and L. H. Walters, Cleveland.

Joe Goetz in Hospital

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—Joe Goetz, assistant division manager and booker for RKO Midwest, is in Christ Hospital for a few weeks rest due to a general run down condition.

Motion Picture Herald in this week's issue presents an account of what Martin Quigley, editor-in-chief of the Herald and Motion Picture Daily, and W. P. Montague of Paramount News told the militant conclave of professors, propagandists and publicists at the Williamstown Institute about the motion picture industry's policy of tending to its own business. Significant pronouncements before an audience of world importance.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Clara Bow and her husband, Rex Bell, have opened the "It" cafe.

"Broadway Melody" Is Cincinnati Hit

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—"Broadway Melody of 1938" played real music on the RKO Palace cash register last week, where it rang up $21,000, more than double average. It moved to the RKO Capitol.

"Saratoga" raced to an even break of $2,750 on its fifth downtown week at the RKO Grand, an unusual gross for repeated holdovers in this town. "You Can't Have Everything" went within $500 of par on its second downtown week at the RKO Capitol, with a $6,000 take, after a smash initial week at the Albee.

Total first run business was $55,750. Average is $58,700. Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 26:

Calling All Cameras

Spokane, Sept. 2.—Police Court Judge Frank Yuse has asked the City Council to purchase equipment to take pictures at the time persons charged with drunken driving are arrested. The judge also asked for projector equipment for his court room to show the films.

"Melody" Best In a Slump at Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—A six-day northeast kept anything starting from happening to local box-offices, although "Broadway Melody" got away to a fine start at the Stanley with a nice $19,000.

Next best was the showing of the Earle, where Jimmy Dorsey's band linked with "The Girl Said No" for a take of $15,000. This was a drop from the previous week's gross, but still was plenty above the line. "Topper" took $3,300 at the Arcadia and was given another week.

Total first run business was $72,200. Average is $71,800.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 26:

Odeon to Open New Theatre in October

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Oscar Deutsch, head of the Odeon circuit, declared at a luncheon here yesterday that the Leicester Square, new Odeon house, will open the last week in October. The first film will be London Films' "Three Drums" or "The Prisoner of Zenda."

All films shown in the Leicester Square will be released in the provinces immediately, Deutsch said. The theatre will install film television before the end of the year. In presenting checks to the winners of the prizes for exploitation stunts in a contest held among Odeon managers, Deutsch said the British film problem would be solved if British receipts reached the same percentage as American films.

Mining Brings Theatres

TORONTO, Sept. 2.—The rapid expansion of the mining industry in the northern areas of Ontario and Quebec and the creation of many new mining towns has opened up an entirely new territory for theatres. Alfred Roy has opened a new theatre in Amos, northern Quebec, a thriving town which was unknown only a year or two ago. D. Korman is completing a theatre at Rouyn, Quebec, which will be the second house there, while small theatres have been opened at Senneterre and Malarctic where valuable mining properties have been developed.

In Deal with Judell

Luis Rojas de la Torre, producer of "Man Hunters of the Caribbean," has completed a deal with B. N. Judell, Inc., on distributing rights for the territory out of Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Indianapolis. Deals are expected to be closed this week for the Pennsylvania, the Washington, D. C., and New England territories.

Select Burns-Ray Film

Foodstuffs Lead Radio Time Buyers for First Half Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Foodstuffs were far in front as time buyers over the nation's networks for the first six months of 1937 with a total expenditure of $13,688,201, according to statistics compiled by the National Ass'n of Broadcasters.

The closest competitor was toilet goods with an expenditure for gross time sales of $7,250,758 with drugs and pharmaceuticals in third place with $6,001,294.

With the impetus imparted by foodstuffs, the food products division, one of 15 into which the N.A.B. statistics break down, was, of course, the leader by a substantial margin. In that division, beverage sponsors spent $3,448,685 and confection buyers, $1,047,352, making a total of $18,184,238 for the food products group. Drugs and toilet goods, which include drugs and pharmaceuticals and toilet goods, grouped $13,252,052 as a division and fell into second place.

Automobile time buyers spent $4,859,328 and accessories, gas and oil buyers, $4,419,446. Combined into one group as automobiles and accessories, this rated third place with a total expenditure of $9,278,774.

Details as to broadcast advertising trends in various fields of business for the first six months of 1937 as compared to the corresponding period of last year are as follows:

Amusements. Advertising on regional networks increased from $325 to $1,312. National non-network volume decreased 52.4%, while local volume increased 16.6%.

Approval Indicated For 3 New Stations

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The F.C.C. has received examiners' reports recommending the granting of applications of the Hickory Broadcasting Co. for a new station at Hickory, N. C., to operate on 1,370 kilocycles, 100 watts, daytime; John W. Haigis, Greenfield, Mass., for a station to operate on 1,210 kilocycles with 250 watts, daytime, and Don M. Lidenton and A. L. McCarthy for a station at Poplar Bluff, Mo., to operate on 1,310 kilocycles, 100 watts, daytime.

Other reports recommended the granting of applications of WMMM, Fairmont, W. Va., for an increase of power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day; KABR, Aberdeen, S. D., for change of frequency from 1,420 to 1,390 kilocycles and increase of power from 100 watts to 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, and KGKO, Fort Worth, Tex., for increase of power from 250 watts night, 1,000 watts day to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day.

Denial of applications of Key City Broadcasting Co. for a station at Kankakee, Ill., to operate on 1,500 kilocycles with 100 watts, and Robert R. McCulla for a station at Oak Park, Ill., to operate daytime only on 1,500 kilocycles with 100 watts, was recommended in other reports.

Amended applications for two new stations also have been received by the F.C.C.

N. B. Egeland, seeking a station at Roland, Ia., asked for use of the 1,500-kilocycle channel with 100 watts, daytime, and WAVE, Inc., planning a station at Louisville, asked that the frequency be changed from 610 to 880 kilocycles, with power of 500 watts.

Six Singers Signed For General Motors

Six of the eight opera and concert singers to be used on the General Motors series beginning Oct. 3 have been lined up. Grace Moore will be a member of the permanent company. Others will be Maria Jeritzka, Helen Jepson, Richard Tauber, Joseph Schmidt and Donald Dickson. Two others are to be brought from Europe and they are expected to sign within a few days.

Each of these singers will appear several times during the season. The program is heard between 8 and 9 P.M., E.S.T., Sundays.

"Neighbor Jim" Started

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 2.—"Neighbor Jim," a 15-minute wax series, started over KDDL in connection with the opening of the new Montgomery Ward store last week. The program features the philosophy and old songs by Neighbor Jim and the folks. The program is aired Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays at 9:30 A. M., M. S. T.

Janet Gaynor on Lux Hour

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Janet Gaynor will make her first appearance as a guest on the "Lux Radio Theatre" hour opposite Robert Montgomery in a condensation of "A Star Is Born" on Sept. 13. The program will mark the return of the Lux program after an absence of nine weeks. Cecil B. DeMille will continue as producer. It is heard at 9 P.M., E.D.S.T.

Eleven Agricultural Programs Scheduled

Eleven agricultural fairs and other events in eight states and the District of Columbia are to be broadcast by NBC on the "Farm and Home Hour" over the NBC-Blue at 1:30 P.M., E.D.S.T.

The fairs are: California State Fair, Sacramento, Sept. 8; Dairy Cattle Congress and National Belgian Horse Show, Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 29-Oct. 1; Southeastern States Exposition, Atlanta, Oct. 8; National Dairy Show and National Percheron Horse Show, Columbus, Oct. 11-13; American Royal Livestock and Horse Show, Kansas City, Oct. 19-21; National Cornhusking Contest, Marshall County, Mo., Nov. 4 (tentative); National Grange Convention, Harrisburg, Nov. 13; Farmers' Union Convention, Oklahoma City, Nov. 23; 75th anniversary of founding of U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, no date set; International Livestock Exposition, Chicago, Nov. 29-Dec. 3; American Farm Bureau Federation convention, Chicago, Dec. 13-15.

Four at Wisconsin Fair

WEST ALLIS, WIS., Sept. 2.—Four stations were on the air from the Wisconsin State Fair here—WTMJ, Milwaukee, WHA and WLBL, Madison, and WLS, Chicago. The latter broadcast its "Dinnerbell" program from the Modernistic ballroom on the grounds, marking its first appearance at the exposition.

Bob Heiss' "Household Hints" program was broadcast from the fair grounds daily as was the "Fastest Show in Town," both over WTMJ, in addition to harness, motorcycle and automobile races, the horseshoe pitching tournament, various contests, judging, interviews and an address by Gov. Phillip F. La Follette.

Prepare for Coulee Broadcast

SPOKANE, Sept. 2. — Columbia Broadcasting officials flew over Grand Coulee Dam recently in preparation for a nationwide broadcast from the dam some time this month. Making the trip were Paul White, CBS public relations chief, New York; Fox Case, Pacific Coast CBS director, Los Angeles; Don Forbes, announcer, Hollywood, and W. L. Grandey, Hollywood, who will handle the script.

"Suave Swing"

Vincent Lopez is going to try what he calls his new "suave swing" over WOR from the Great Lakes Exposition Sept. 17-19.

Lopez says he has rebuilt the band to offer swing without noise. He'll do a series of one-night stands before arriving in Cleveland.

NBC Foreign Service Using Six Languages

NBC's recently inaugurated international broadcasting service, which is transmitted from W3XAL, located at Bound Brook, N. J., goes out in six languages, English, French, German, Spanish, Italian and Portuguese, and is heard for 16 hours daily. It carries a wide assortment of entertainment programs as sent out over the NBC Blue and Red networks, and various special programs designed for foreign countries. No commercial announcements are made and none of the programs is sponsored.

Directional beam antennae were put into service in July, one directed toward Latin America and the other toward Europe. Details of the schedule were worked out by Charles Carvajal, W3XAL production director, and Phillips Carlin, NBC sustaining program manager. Six announcers handle foreign broadcasts. Service to Europe now includes three periods daily of news in French, three in German and one in Italian. For two hours daily there are features in French, another two hours in German and a daily hour in Italian. A similar schedule is maintained for Latin America.

Football on Kate Smith Hour

Football will be discussed from varied angles on Kate Smith's program over WABC-Columbia starting Sept. 30 from 8 to 9 P.M., E.S.T. Jim Crowley of Fordham and Ted Collins, sports expert, will be heard during the season.

NBC Signs Margaret McCrae

Margaret McCrae, who has been a guest on the NBC Sealtest program, has signed a contract to appear on the remainder of the broadcasts which continue to October.

Hollywood Town Pump

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—Ed Lowry's "Sing Time," sponsored by Fox West Coast theatres, on KHJ and the Mutual-Don Lee network, Tuesday returns to the air with a new band, a new announcer, and an upped budget. Louis Prima and his orchestra join the troupe as a regular Tuesday night feature. James Burton is the new announcer. The stage of the Filmarte, from which the show emanates, has been enlarged, and new seats have been added to the house.

Benny Goodman's Sept. 7 broadcast will be his last from Hollywood. The following week he will be heard from Dallas, Tex., and from then on, the show will originate in New York. Alice Hill of Mutual's "We Are Four," script show emanating from Chicago, is here for a brief vacation, and will fly back this week to resume her airings. . . Carmene Calhoun, 20-year-old singer, will make her radio debut on "Wedding Bells," KHJ-Mutual program, Tuesday. . . Tom Breneman is asking listeners on the Columbia Pacific network show, "Western Home," to suggest a new name for the Monday afternoon program.

Agatha Turley of the Orange network has been signed by RKO for films. . . Buena Park residents are wisecracking about KFI's 20-acre plot on which the transmitter towers are located. A large hay crop was recently harvested there. . . Frank Robinson Brown, KMTR's "Hollywood Chatterbox," is making transcriptions of his film news column and selling them to small stations over the country.

Radio Editors Will Talk Labor at Meet

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The labor situation will probably be the major point of discussion at the meeting of the Ass'n of Radio News Editors and Writers, when they convene for a three-day session at the Hotel Sherman starting Friday, Sept. 10. John Van Cronkhite is president.

Although not on the program, it is reported that the problem of affiliation with a labor union will be the most important question to be discussed. The present trend seems to be toward joining the C.I.O. and efforts are being made by union organizers to get the association to join.

On the program Boake Carter is expected to be the headline speaker and the banquet on Saturday evening will have Leo Fitzpatrick of WJR, Detroit, as the principal speaker.

The first day will be devoted to a laboratory discussion of radio news problems, with Al Hollender of WJJD-WIND as chairman. The second day, Saturday, will be occupied with committee meetings, adoption of the constitution, ratification of by-laws, formation of policies and election of officers. An official business meeting will be held in the afternoon, and the banquet will feature the evening. On Sunday new officers will be inducted and new committees appointed.

CJRC Expands Operation

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—CJRC, owned and operated by James Richardson, grain merchant, is preparing for the new season in a big way. The station recently installed a new 1,000-watt Northern Electric transmitter and last week it purchased a Ford truck and portable 30-watt short wave transmitter as Winnipeg's first mobile unit.

New contracts have been signed with Procter & Gamble for two new shows. One is Edward McHugh, Gospel Singer; the other the P. & G. Rangers, actually Carson Robinson's Buckaroos. Both are transcriptions. Both will have morning spots Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

CBS Shifts Horace Stovin

WINNIPEG, Sept. 2.—Horace Stovin, western regional director for Canada's national radio system since the days of the old Canadian Radio Commission, has been transferred to the head offices of Canadian Broadcasting Corp. He will handle station relations in a tieup between CBC and American nets for commercial shows.

Joe Fay to Describe Races

Joe Fay, who has been broadcasting horse races in New England for four years, will make his debut over a national network Sept. 11 when he describes the fourth running of the $25,000 Narragansett Special over the WABC-Columbia hookup.

Mark Warnow Band Signed

Mark Warnow and his band have been booked for the "We, the People" broadcasts starting Oct. 9. Jimmy Appel arranged the placement. The series is heard over CBS from 7:30 to 8 P. M. on Thursdays.

Father Coughlin to Resume

Rev. Charles E. Coughlin will return to the air over WMCA Oct. 31. He is scheduled for a series of 26 programs Sundays from 4 to 5 P.M.

Revamping of Reel Planned By Pathe News

Announcers with Other Innovations Coming

Pathe News is completing preparations for the issuance of a completely "modernized" newsreel, incorporating numerous changes in the Pathe News organization as well as in the makeup of the reel, Frederic Ullman, vice-president in charge of operations, said yesterday. The first issue of the revamped reel will be released in late October.

Under the plans now in work, RKO Radio is cooperating in effecting the reel changes by making available to Pathe News the parent company's Hollywood studio facilities, its foreign organization and some of its executive personnel.

Among the innovations planned for

Asks Majors' Files In Anti-Trust Case

DALLAS, Sept. 3.—U. S. District Attorney John Erhard has filed a motion in U. S. District Court here asking that 20th Century-Fox, RKO, Vitagraph, United Artists, Columbia, Universal, Paramount, M-G-M and Interstate be compelled to supply letters and memorandum passing between them for court study. A hearing is to be held Sept. 8.

Trial of the anti-trust case is scheduled for Sept. 20, but another postponement may be sought.

Nebraska's Brief Is Filed on Bank Night

Newsreels Bring Horror of Sino-Japanese Hostilities

The crash of guns, the flight of terror-stricken refugees, the wrecked and torn remnants of an annihilated Chinese machine gun squadron, strafed by Japanese planes, the shambles of innocent civilians, headless, armless and torn apart by the explosion of Japanese bombs in the center of Shanghai, are etched with graphic and shocking effect in Universal's Issue No. 595, and, it is understood, in the special which News of the Day has prepared.

Hectic hours of hard work in the newsreel offices of Universal yesterday, following plane, ship, plane and automobile races from Shanghai to New York, resulted in getting these first newsreel pictures of the Chinese-Japanese "undeclared" war to the theatres of New York's Broadway last night at a fairly early hour, and via plane to theatres all over the country by this morning.

Universal has approximately 900 feet, culled carefully by Charles E. Ford, editor of the reel, and his perspiring staff, from the 7,000 feet which came to them from Shanghai. The reel makes up the whole of Issue No. 595, usually released the first

Quota Useless Without Good Films—Mayer

So Declares in Address at London Luncheon

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 3.—England's new quota law will be useless unless pictures are produced which people want to see, Louis B. Mayer, in charge of M-G-M production, told an audience of 400 representative film people at a luncheon tendered to him at the Savoy today. Mayer is over here to supervise the start of Metro's British production.

Mayer, speaking frankly concerning the new legislation, expressed the hope that the new law will have sufficient elasticity to meet production experience as it develops.

Mayer declared, "We have contempt for quota films. We have quota films in America without a law compelling them, and we have contempt for them." All the companies in the United States combined could not make enough "A" pictures to meet the demand, he said, and declared that he welcomed "A" pictures from Alexander Korda and others,

Revamping of Reel Planned By Pathe News

the reel is the addition of a staff of announcers, each to be assigned to certain classifications of news subjects. Clem McCarthy, who will be sports commentator, is the only one definitely set at this time, although Allyn Butterfield, editor of the reel, is auditioning more than a score of announcers from among whom the staff will be selected.

A writing staff to prepare scripts for the announcers is also being organized and will be headed by Joseph Johnston, formerly of the N. Y. Daily News. The RKO Radio studio's music library of 250,000 feet of recorded music also will be made available to the reel for background use as required. In addition, the domestic and foreign staffs and contributors will be augmented to furnish a wider variety of subjects to the reel, which will be of increased length when the changes have been completed.

In connection with the latter innovations Phil Reisman, RKO Radio export manager, is now effecting co-operative arrangements for the reel with RKO distribution offices abroad, which are expected to augment the world coverage. William O'Brien continues as head of the European staff. Frank Donovan, production manager, left for the coast by plane last night to examine the studio's music library with a view to cataloguing recordings for the use of the reel, and to effect a working arrangement with the studio on other activities. While on the coast he will also effect general changes in the Pathe News staff there, enlarging it with a view to increased west coast coverage.

Closer Pathe-RKO Link

Behind the entire plan is a closer working arrangement with RKO Radio than has existed between the reel and the parent company heretofore. Ned E. Depinet, vice-president of RKO Radio, was elected president of Pathe News last spring and has taken an active part in the direction of the company and the development of plans for the new reel.

Other changes now in work include the use of a new main title for the reel, new recording and camera equipment for the field staff and completely renovated headquarters for the company in the Pathe Bldg. The latter plans include the possibility of the reel installing its own laboratory.

of the week, but rushed out on arrival this time, and with good reason.

Two men were responsible for the films, which are a magnificent job of pictorial reporting, and an equally fine job of newsreel editing. The two were George Krainukov, the reel's ace Far Eastern cameraman, and Howard Winner, who was dispatched with all haste from New York, caught the last available boat from San Francisco for Shanghai, and who worked with the multi-tongued Krainukov.

The material, which was forced to miss the Clipper plane across the Pacific, because of the typhoon which held the plane on the ground, came by steamer, and reached San Francisco 15 minutes after the trans-continental plane had left for New York. A specially chartered Lockheed caught the trans-continental plane at Salt Lake City, the reel reaching New York at 10 A. M. yesterday, and Ford's staff didn't even stop to wipe the perspiration from that moment.

R. H. Cochrane, president of Universal, was at Ford's elbow yesterday afternoon, and made the emphatic point that however gruesome the film was, there it was and that was the way the public would see it, regardless. He declared that never has a newsreel editor had a more free hand than has Ford, with no editing planned or intended. The reel has gone out with a "shock" foreword, warning the squeamish not to look, and there is reason, with bodies floating in water, pelted by a heavy rain, with the horrible litter of other bodies tossed into trucks after the department store bombings, and the like.

News of the Day material was filmed by "Newsreel" Wong and T. Taguchi, ace Chinese and Japanese cameramen for the reel, respectively. The reel's film also arrived in San Francisco by plane on Thursday and was rushed to New York yesterday. Jean Paul King handles the description for News of the Day. The flight of refugees, the bombing of Shanghai, the scene after the bombing of the department store, all are seen here too.

G. N. Reports Cagney Got $100,000 Salary

Peskey, vice-president, received $11,000 and 950 shares of stock, not yet issued, and Jack Barnstyn, vice-president in charge of foreign operations, received $6,600. The company also paid Carl Leserman, vice-president from April 25 to Oct. 31, 1936, the sum of $11,500.

The company's report showed that five directors, three of whom were officers, received a total of $64,250 and 18,750 shares of stock, 15,000 shares of which have so far been issued; while two officers not included in the above received $17,450.

The only other salaries reported were $27,000 to Victor Schertzinger, producer, and $22,500 to Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, counsel.

merely that the licensees were authorized to manufacture "sound picture reproducing equipment" under Erpi patents and in view of an earlier statement by an Erpi official that the horn and amplifier units would not be included in the license agreements it was assumed that the manufacture of sound heads only was involved. The licenses, of course, cover the "use, sale or lease" of such manufactured equipment.

Western Electric also disclosed that the license agreements are for a nine-year period, cancellable on one year's notice by either party. They may be terminated earlier in certain eventualities defined in the agreements.

It was also stated that several technical and sales aids associated with Erpi may become associated with G.T.E. and Motiograph when the new manufacturing plans and sales policies of these companies have been completed.

which help other producers by supporting the box-office.

The celebrities at the luncheon included Lord Semphill, Lord Lee of Fareham, Sir William Jury, Capt. Richard Norton, Korda, Louis Golding, Lord Elton, Lord Strabolgi, Gordon Selfridge, Jack Conway, director; Robert Taylor and Maureen O'Sullivan, who will appear in Metro's first British film, "A Yank at Oxford." Also present were Basil Dean and A. P. Herbert, Member of Parliament. Also, all leading producers, distributors, exhibitors and the chief newspapers were represented. Sam Eckman presided as chairman.

In introducing Korda, Eckman referred to the remark of Mayer some years ago that he would produce in England if he could be convinced he could produce quality films there. Korda, proposing a toast to Mayer, extolled him as "the most anonymous, most modest of all modern picture executives." He hailed Metro British production as a most important occasion, "just when the British industry most needs encouragement."

Welcome from Maxwell

A wire from John Maxwell, A.B.P. head, in Austria, welcomed Metro to England, calling it a "splendid stimulus to British producers." Lord Semphill declared that Metro, with 150 distribution centers, now has two production centers instead of one.

Mayer in a long, informal speech, made an excellent impression with his candor and humor. He paid tribute to Marcus Loew, Nicholas Schenck and Irving Thalberg, whom he called "the greatest mind ever developed in our business, bar none." He declared, "Last year was one of tragedy, yet one of greatest profits." He declared he picked Michael Balcon for the head of Metro British production after a careful survey of the British field.

To a question of how many pictures Metro would make in England, Mayer said it would be from one to 50 according to the speed with which British writers and other talent could be discovered. He said he would rather make one good than 50 bad films.

Louis D. Frohlich and Herman Finkelstein of Ascap counsel, leave for Lincoln on Tuesday to argue the case.

Similar actions to test the constitutionality of Montana and Washington statutes which also bar Ascap from operating within those states were argued late last spring, but no decisions have been handed down yet by the statutory courts which heard them. An action may be instituted late in the fall in Florida where anti-Ascap legislation was enacted also during the last legislative session.

Home Companion Takes Time

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—The Women's Home Companion has taken a quarter-hour monthly on WIP to promote the magazine's sales in the Philadelphia area. Starting Sept. 14, for 12 months, a transcribed talk by the editor will be used. Geyer-Cornell, New York, handles the account.

Radio Cramps Vital Preaching—Gillis

WILLIAMSTOWN, MASS., Sept. 3.—Radio is "unfavorable to vital preaching," declared Rev. James M. Gillis, C.S.P., editor of the Catholic World at the final morning forum of the Institute of Human Relations here today.

"Religion is a flame, a fire, a battle," Father Gillis said. "In such a world as this, the message of true religion should not be polite, inoffensive," but the radio corporations and sponsors "demand that radio preachers shall not give offense."

"This may be all very well as a policy. I am only saying that the prophets and the apostles would have found themselves insufferably cramped by the prevalent rules for radio speaking."

WJAY Seeks Permit To Change to WCLE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 3.—H. K. Carpenter, vice-president of the Cleveland Broadcasting Corp. and general manager of WHK-WJAY, has filed an application with the F. C. C. requesting permission to change the call letters of WJAY to WCLE on Sept. 26 when the station becomes an affiliate of Mutual.

The application states that a new transmitter site was being used by the station as well as new studios and equipment. An entire new program arrangement is scheduled when the station joins the Mutual network.

Orchestras Rated For Security Law

ers and other "purchasers" of music it is held that where the purchaser retains a sufficient measure of the power to direct and control performance under a contract with a leader or other supplier of the orchestra, he is considered the employer of the individual musicians, including the leader, if any. Also, under such circumstances, the purchaser has sufficient direction and control over the conduct of the contractor himself as to render the purchaser the employer of such contractor except in the case where the latter performs no musical services. In a case where the contractor renders no musical services to the purchaser, the latter is the employer of the individual musicians, including the leader, if any, but not of the contractor.

In the case of a "name" orchestra, the leader is considered the employer, but the bureau warned that the mere adoption of a name by an orchestra is not of itself sufficient to bring it within this classification.

"The chief characteristic distinguishing a 'name' orchestra from a 'non-name' orchestra is the permanency of the organization and the personnel performing in the orchestra," it was held. Accordingly, exhibitors or broadcasters cannot escape classification as employers merely by giving their orchestras a name.

WIP Plans Several Dramatic Programs

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Anticipating a curtailment of the musical recorded and transcribed shows following the A. F. M. settlement of the radio-music situation, James Allen, WIP program director, has prepared an extensive program expansion for dramatized shows. Already four new shows and two old ones are set to start early in September. "Hand of Destiny," dramatized mysteries, and the "Philadelphia Parade of Events," spotlighting local news in a "March of Time" pattern, return for weekly runs starting Sept. 13 and 12 respectively.

The new shows include weekly airings for "Umbrella Court," a modification of the question and answer programs, on Sept. 15; "Eight Kids in a Hayloft," adapted for children, on Sept. 18; WIP's "Spelling Bee," conducted by a well known personage as yet unannounced, on Sept. 19, and a thrice weekly airing, starting Sept. 20, for "The Billings Family," a new dramatized serial built around the life of an average family.

B. C. Remedy Has Sport Show

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—The B. C. Remedy Co. of Durham, N. C., makers of B. C. Headache Powders, is using radio for the first time in the local area. A daily five-minute sports review has been placed on WFIL, starting Sept. 6, for 58 weeks. Account is handled by Harvey-Massendale, Durham, N. C., agency.

Legion Convention on Air

ENID, Okla., Sept. 3.—Two of the principal addresses to be given at the American Legion state convention here Sept. 4 to 7 will be broadcast over the Oklahoma network of eight stations through KCRC, according to Craig Campbell, station manager.

Educational Planning to Make Revues

May Make 5 or 6 Feature Comedies Yearly

Educational Pictures is planning to produce feature length comedies during the new season and, if arrangements now under discussion are consummated, the company would release five or six such productions annually, it was learned over the weekend.

The plan supersedes whatever thought the company may have given earlier to beginning production of dramatic features. Such a proposal was reported several months ago but, so far as could be learned, did not progress beyond the discussion stage.

The feature length comedies now being considered would be produced here and would be of the musical revue type, employing radio and stage headliners. The production arrangements are understood to be fairly well in mind already but a distribution deal has yet to be agreed upon and, at the moment, appears to be the deciding factor in the consummation of the plan. 20th Century-Fox, distributor of the Educational lineup, would not automatically become the distributor of feature length comedies produced by the latter.

Jessie Matthews to Form Own Film Unit

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Jessie Matthews and her husband, Sonnie Hale, will form their own production unit, with British finance, on the completion of the star's G. B. contract. Offers for Hollywood have been definitely rejected, it is stated today, the Hales preferring to work in England.

Radio Artists Soon To Seek New Scales

Negotiations of wage and hour schedules and other regulations governing the employment of all radio performers will be sought by the American Federation of Radio Artists with networks and advertising agencies "in the near future," an official of the air talent union said on Saturday. An intensive drive to complete organizing work in New York, Hollywood and Chicago will precede

New Company To Take Over Erpi's Sales

Start Possible by Oct. 1
With Present Officials

A new company headed by present officials of Erpi will be formed to take over the A. T. & T. subsidiary's theatre equipment sales and service business under a plan which has now taken definite shape and may be consummated by Oct. 1, or earlier, it was learned over the week-end.

The new company will be licensed by Erpi to sell Western Electric sound reproducing equipment and will handle general servicing such as that now performed by Erpi. Although the new organization will be staffed by a large part of the existing Erpi sales organization, outside interests, which will include theatre circuit operators, also will be identified with it through stock ownership or other participations. Present indications are that the new company will sell franchises to exclusive territorial representatives throughout the country.

C. W. Bunn, Erpi general sales manager, will head the new organization. Erpi's division general managers and sales managers will head

Denver, Sept. 6.—F. W. Bronte, manager of the Gem at Yuma, Col., has to pay a $50 license fee yearly, while tent shows are allowed to come into Yuma with no license fee. According to a letter received by a Denver exchange, Bronte says his gross receipts on two nights competition with a tent show were $15.

CEA Denies Report Of Admission Jump

LONDON, Aug. 25.—General press stories to the effect that admission rates to British theatres would be raised all round to meet the increased costs of films, were officially denied today by W. R. Fuller, general secretary of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n.

"There are several reasons why prices should not be increased," says Fuller. "What is worrying exhibitors is the increase in film rentals.

"The limit of economies on the exhibition side has been reached. It would be deplorable to try to reduce wages and employes in order to send more money to the U. S. A.

Coast Paper Commends Quigley For Address at Williams Forum

Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—Under the caption "For Entertainment Only," the Los Angeles Times editorially commends Martin Quigley for his recent address before the Institute of Human Relations at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. in which he declared the primary function of motion pictures was to entertain, not to propagandize. Following is the text of the editorial:

"Every motion picture fan in America should rise from his seat and make a profound bow in the direction of Martin Quigley.

"Quigley, as editor of Motion Picture Herald, has just told the whole film industry bluntly something that it needed to be told. This is that films must be kept free of propaganda. This warning comes at a timely moment. There have been evidences from time to time even to the untrained eye that supposedly 'entertainment films' had a deeper purpose than of attempting to influence thought or passion.

"Within reason and along the lines of good morals and good ethics as universally recognized, pictures 'with a purpose perhaps' cannot be criticized. But it is very easy to go on into the field of actual propaganda for racial, religious or political effect. Such attempts should be condemned not only by men in positions of influence in the industry itself like Quigley, but by the theatre-going public as well. The films have been the greatest entertainment device in history. They should remain so. Propaganda is too plentiful as it is."

Report Metro Aiding Korda On Financing

Understand Deal Through British-U. S. Bank

LONDON, Sept. 6.—M-G-M is supplying some or all of the new finances for London Films, reliable inside sources here believe. The arrangement is declared to have been made through the British-American Bank, but the report cannot be confirmed with any of the interests involved.

For months, reports have been current in New York, via London, that Alexander Korda was seeking to arrange new financing for London Films. His chief backer, the Prudential Life Assurance Co., has been mentioned, not as having withdrawn funds from Korda's company but as having tightened up on him a bit with the resultant necessity for additional arrangements elsewhere.

When Joseph M. Schenck made his original deal with the Ostrer Brothers for control of Gaumont British, the chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox is known to have held a number of conferences in London with Korda looking toward the inclusion in that deal of London Films. M-G-M, of course, entered the G. B. picture through the purchase of one-half of the interest held by 20th Century-Fox in the Metropolis and Bradford Trust,

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

STEAMBOAT whistles along the river front have been tooting all the morning through. From the thirtieth floor, the city outside is bathed in brilliant sunshine. The front page is about set and it seems time to think about going places as this is written on Saturday. The outside competition is pretty hefty, but not strong enough to swerve us from today's self-imposed pleasantries. That pleasantries has a name and it's "Something to Sing About."

The Hollywood preview wire, if you are at all attentive, a few days ago passed along the word that Jimmy Cagney's second for Grand National is something to crow about. Well, that's correct. Jimmy in a singing-dancing part with no villainies to beat down unless it is the menace of a super-indulgent Hollywood. He has his adventures as a band leader picked out and sent west by a talent scout for one picture that turns out to be terrific and a little beyond. They are all fun-inducing adventures that will register with your rank-and-file audiences, east, west and so on, and clang, reverberating-like, in a whale of a lot of box-offices.

Cagney is at complete ease. He's essentially the mugg again, but a nice sort of mugg. He accepts the foibles of some of the minor key studio screwballs as part and parcel of a system which has grown stronger with the years. When his dialogue instructor insists upon "pearl-shaped vowels," Jimmy tries. When the curling-iron expert insists upon changing the hair line, Jimmy rebels a bit. When the wardrobe department gets too insistent, Jimmy goes in for slight pokes. His resistance goes boom, however, when the bruisers try to give him greenhorn treatment in a fight scene. Then Cagney cuts loose, mops up and the camera gets the whole fracas. It puts "Any Old Love," the film within the film, over and Cagney is a celebrity. . . .

Off to the South Seas with his bride, the country is on a kind of fantastic uproar. While Jimmy is staging entertainment for the crew of the dawdling tramp steamer heading into warm waters, the police forces of the nation are seeking him out. He returns finally, signs a new contract, finds himself paired off in a Tyrone Power-Sonja Henie newspaper romance and almost loses his frau. But back to the band goes Cagney to regain his girl and his normal equilibrium. It serves Hollywood right. . . .

This is merely a rough sketch of the yarn. It is loaded with fun and it frequently lands in the near-scream division, thanks to script and Vic Schertzinger's direction. The jibes poked at Hollywood essentially are good-natured and, while they would obviously appeal mightily to anyone who knows anything at all about the curious land on the far side of those mountains, the gags and the situations are broad enough and, so, understandable enough for the layman to appreciate the laughs that are in them. . . .

"Something to Sing About" is far better than Cagney's first for G. N. It is a better yarn, better produced and it indicates the company is now reaching its stride where his series, at least, is concerned. For big town and tank town and as safely as any forecast on box-office can go in this persistently changing business, this one looks like money and considerable of it. Now we are free to roam at will, but we thought you'd like to know. . . .

Big "100 Men" Book Out

Universal has prepared one of these varnished covered effects for its press book on "100 Men and a Girl." It is done in blue and sepia with a large head of Deanne Durbin at the top. The first two and the last two inside pages are also in sepia. The book has 29 pages of publicity stories, exploitation stunts and advertising material.

New Company To Take Over Erpi's Sales

the regional offices, such as L. W. Conrow and Bert Sanford, Jr., in the east; Stanley W. Hand and D. H. Ruliffson in the central territory and H. W. Dodge in the west.

Papers in the deal are now being drawn and may be ready for signing before the end of the month. This plan shapes up at the present time as the only one now in work, two earlier proposals for taking over Erpi's theatre sales and service business having been discarded. These were the original proposal for acquisition by Paramount theatre partners and operators and a second proposal for turning over the business to Erpi employees as was done by A. T. & T. in disposing of Graybar Electric & Mfg. Co. The present plan is described as combining the advantages of the two proposals, permitting the organization to be staffed by experienced Erpi personnel and at the same time assuring the organization of the servicing work in some of the largest theatre organizations in the country.

To Be Licensor Only

With the closing of the deal Erpi will continue solely as a licensor under patents of its own and associated companies. While its sound recording business will not be disturbed by the change in its role, this activity for some time has meant little more than the collection of royalties from users of Western Electric recording systems. Erpi's foreign business, likewise, will remain undisturbed.

Whitford Drake, Erpi president; H. G. Knox, vice-president; Fred Foster, treasurer, and other home office executives will continue with Erpi.

The licensing deals just closed by Erpi with General Theatres Equipment and Motiograph for the manufacture by them of Western Electric reproducing equipment are non-exclusive and do not hamper, in any way, the licensing of the new company.

Circuit Taking Over Warner in Charlotte

theatres in Charlotte and was recently refitted with new sound equipment.

Warners recently turned over to J. Louis Rome of Associated Theatres its Metropolitan in Baltimore and currently has under discussion a deal by which M. A. Lightman of Memphis, a Paramount theatre operator, would take over seven Warner houses in Kentucky. Lightman is expected here today or tomorrow for further conferences with Joseph Bernhard, Warner theatre head, on the deal.

Remodel Coast House

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Herman Cohen, operator of the United Artists here, has closed the house for remodeling. The Embassy, nearby subsequent run which Cohen runs, also will be overhauled. About $75,000 will be spent.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Adventurous Blonde"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—A hoax is perpetrated at the start of this picture to delay the marriage of Torchy Blane, a newspaper woman, and Steve McBride, a detective. The hoax becomes a real murder mystery which Torchy (Glenda Farrell), who knows how to crack a case better than the best detectives, has no difficulty in solving. Of course, McBride (Barton MacLane) is the typical screen conception of a dumb cop who is always accusing the wrong suspect.

The story of the crime with all its complicated ramifications occupies the greater portion of the running time, and Miss Farrell and McBride don't come much nearer to being married than they did in any of the earlier numbers of the series. Naturally there is much comedy associated with their relations, a factor which is amplified by the antics of the gentlemen of the press who are continually eager to make things hot for the pair.

The picture contains a superabundance of dialogue and there is a sufficiency of action to give the piece enough movement to keep it skipping along as "fair to middling" Class B attractions are supposed to.

Miss Farrell and MacLane are satisfactory in their assignments, each playing the roles as scenarists Robertson White and David Diamond conceived them and as Director Frank McDonald decided they should be played. Adequate support is contributed by Anne Nagel, Tom Kennedy, Natalie Moorhead, Charles Wilson, Leland Hodgson, Virginia Brissac, Raymond Hatton, George E. Stone and George Guhl, whose efforts are bent on accenting the several diverse entertainment and commercial elements in the picture.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Western Gold"

(Principal-20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—This one does not come up to the standard of the average run of westerns, although it probably will go well enough in those places where avid patrons like to see men in cowboy clothes and on horses. "Western Gold" lacks tempo, plausibility and—peculiar criticism, this, of a western—action. It is auspicious from the standpoint of introducing Smith Ballew as a western star. Although he displays a gangling awkwardness, he has possibilities of becoming a box-office figure in this field. What the story and the direction lack in interest is partially made up in the outdoor scenery, photography of which is credited to Harry Neumann.

President Lincoln, again brought to the screen by Frank McGlynn, Sr., commissions Sergeant Gibson (Ballew) a Union Army soldier, to find out why gold shipments from the West, needed sorely by the Union in the Civil War, are being held up. Gibson goes on his mission, meets a boyhood chum, Foster, played by Leroy Mason, and Thatcher, head of the shipping office whose stages are being held up. Gibson finds out that Foster is the robber chieftain, calls on the townspeople for aid, and routs the robbers, winning the hand of Jeanie Thatcher (Heather Angel).

Produced by Sol Lesser for 20th Century-Fox release, the story is credited to Harold Bell Wright, and the screenplay to Earle Snell and Forrest Barnes. Howard Bretherton directed.

Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

Milwaukee Children Banned in Theatres

garten and first grade pupils from starting public school Sept. 8 and several hundred students attending parochial and private schools.

Although the disease has not reached an epidemic stage here, in view of the fact that it is prevalent in the midwest, health authorities thought it best to take this precaution. Unless revoked beforehand or extended, the order runs until Sept. 20.

A similar ban has been issued by Wauwatosa health authorities, while in Waukesha the order has been broadened to include all children under nine years of age.

Producer in Mexico Hits Sale of Music

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6.—Producciones Soria, whose "Ora Ponciano" is one of the ranking Mexican-made pictures of this season, has asked the Mexican authors' union to discipline two Mexican showmen, Lorenzo Barcelata and Ernesto Cortazar, who are alleged to have unlawfully sold rights to the music of the picture to RCA Victor and Brunswick and a Mexican disc making enterprise. The producers assert they had no right to sell the picture's music for discs and that such action harms the producers' interests.

The accused declare that as they composed some of the music and songs used in the picture they were entitled to benefit from disc sales.

M-G-M Testing New Ideas for Trailers

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Departing from the procedure of making trailers on patterned lines, M-G-M has adopted a system of making separate "short subjects" to plug each of its pictures. First under the new system will be "Yumpha," in which Barnett Parker will be featured and in which "Double Wedding" will be the subject.

Working under Frank Whitbeck, advertising department head, the trailer department has worked out a method of exploiting the product in a complete skit. Robert Benchley is to be featured in "How to Live, Love and Learn," which will introduce scenes from the feature, "Live, Love and Learn."

Jones Made Producer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Paul M. Jones, former assistant director who rose to director-writer status, has been made a producer of "A" pictures at Paramount, after completing production of four pictures under Harold Hurley.

Jones' first assignment in his new status will be W. C. Fields' "Things Began to Happen," which will follow Fields' appearance in "The Big Broadcast of 1938." Jack Cunningham is doing the script.

Betty Compson Signed

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Betty Compson will make her film comeback under the Warner banner. She has signed a term contract and the studio expects to build her as a comedienne.

Helen Chandler Gets Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Helen Chandler has been signed for the feminine lead opposite Stuart Erwin in Grand National's "Mr. Boggs Buys a Barrel." Gordon Wiles will direct.

M-G-M Signs Boyd Crawford

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—Boyd Crawford, stage actor who appeared in "Yes, My Darling Daughter," has been signed to a term contract by M-G-M.

"All Yours" Boston Lead With $17,000

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—"It's All Yours," with "Flight from Glory," topped the first runs during a full week of rain and cloudy weather. Playing at the RKO Memorial the film grossed $17,000, above average by $5,000.

"Stella Dallas," held over with "The Devil Is Driving" at Loew's Orpheum, did very well on the second week, grossing $14,000. Average is $12,000. The same program also held over at the Loew's State, grossed $12,500, over the line by $1,500.

"Love Under Fire" and Nick Lang, Jr., on the stage drew $22,000, or just average business at the Metropolitan. Total first run business was $85,000. Average is $79,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 26:

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING" (20th-Fox) (2nd run)
"BORNEO" (20th-Fox)

"I COVER THE WAR" (Univ.)
"ONE MILE FROM HEAVEN"
RKO BOSTON (3,246), 25c-50c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $8,000. (Average, $11,000.)

W.B.-Kay Francisco Court

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 6.—Warners today began preparation of an answer to the action brought by Kay Francis for cancellation of her contract as of Aug. 15 on the charge that she had been induced to renew in 1935 by the now unfulfilled promise that she would be given the lead in "To-varich." Her complaint asserts that she is receiving $3,000 weekly which would increase to $5,000 weekly over a four-year period.

H. J. Wessel on Trip

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—H. J. Wessel, president of the Cincinnati Variety Club, is on a three-week trip which will take him to New York, Philadelphia and other eastern points. He expects to be in Atlantic City for the pageant Sept. 10.

While in the east, Wessel will make preliminary plans for the national convention of Variety Clubs to be held here in April.

Pick McLaglen's Story

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 6.—The next Victor McLaglen-Helen Broderick vehicle at RKO will be "Lost and Found," with Marjorie Lord featured. Joseph Santley will direct.

Bikes Cause Jam

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 6.—Boys can't ride their bicycles to theatres here any more, Police Captain Jule Stumpf has ruled. He heeded the pleas of older show-goers and people who have to walk by theatres. They asserted they could hardly walk through theatre lobbies and were crowded off the pavement by parked bicycles.

To show that they meant business police trucked bicycles away from in front of three houses here and made the lads who own them register before they could reclaim them.

"Dallas" Gets Big $19,000, Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 6.—Outfacing a rainy weekend and the torrid spell which followed, not to mention Monday night's fight broadcast, "Stella Dallas" reopened the Aldine with a whooping $19,000 for its first week. It is an uncooled theatre.

The only other house in town to better average was the Earle with $13,500 for its combination of "Love Under Fire" and Will Osborne and revue on stage.

Everything else slipped. "Vogues of 1938" got nine days at the Boyd to $13,000, under expectations. "Souls at Sea" started strong at the Fox, but dwindled in face of the weather. Its final score was $17,000 for 10 days. "Broadway Melody" slipped to $10,500 for its second and last Stanley week.

Total first run business was $86,000. Average is $89,960.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 2:

"STELLA DALLAS" (U. A.)
ALDINE—(1,300), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days. Gross: $19,000. (Average, $8,160.)

"TOPPER" (M-G-M)
ARCADIA—(600), 25c-40c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week, 2nd run. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $2,800.)

"VOGUES OF 1938" (U. A.)
BOYD—(2,400), 40c-55c-65c, 9 days. Gross: $13,000. (Average, 7 days, $14,000.)

"LOVE UNDER FIRE" (20th-Fox)
EARLE—(2,000), 25c-40c-55c, 6 days. Stage: Will Osborne and Band, Nick Lung, Jr., May Questel, "Popeye." Gross: $13,500. (Average, $12,000.)

"SOULS AT SEA" (Para.)
FOX—(3,000), 40c-55c-65c, 10 days. Gross: $17,000. (Average, 7 days, $14,000.)

"CONFESSION" (W. B.)
KARLTON—(1,000), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days, 2nd run. Gross: $2,300. (Average, $4,000.)

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING" (20th-Fox)
KEITH'S—(2,000), 30c-40c-50c, 7 days, 2nd run. Gross: $3,200. (Average, $4,000.)

"BROADWAY MELODY OF 1938" (M-G-M)
STANLEY—(3,700), 40c-55c-65c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $10,500. (Average, $14,000.)

"KING SOLOMON'S MINES" (G. B.)
STANTON—(1,700), 30c-40c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $7,000.)

Managers Transferred

RICHMOND, Sept. 6.—George A. Jones, manager of Loew's here, has been transferred to one of the circuit's Boston houses, with Allen T. Sparrow of Norfolk succeeding him here.

"Earth" Gets Kansas City's Top, $14,300

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6.—"The Good Earth" made the best showing of an unimpressive week for first runs when it took $14,300, $2,800 over normal, at Loew's Midland. The state fair at Sedalia, Mo., with the biggest attendance in history (90,000 one day), pulled some show business out of town, especially over the weekend. The weather was hot after a cool weekend.

"The Toast of New York" and "Fly Away Baby" gave the Mainstreet $700 more than $8,000 par, and "Think Fast, Mr. Moto" and a stage show were good for $7,600, $600 up, at the Tower. The $5,700 done by "Artists and Models" at the Newman was considered good for a second week.

Total first run business (excluding the Empress) was $37,800. Average is $36,700.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 25:

"PLATINUM BLONDE" (Col.)
UPTOWN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 5 days. Gross: $1,500. (Average, 5 days, $3,200.)

Week Ending Aug. 26:

"DAMAGED GOODS" (G. N.)
"KILLERS OF THE SEA" (G. N.)
EMPRESS—(1,500), 25c, 6 days, 2nd week. Gross: $2,800. (No Average)

"THE TOAST OF NEW YORK" (RKO)
"FLY AWAY BABY" (W. B.)
MAINSTREET—(3,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $8,700. (Average, $8,000.)

"THE GOOD EARTH" (M-G-M)
MIDLAND—(4,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $14,300. (Average, $11,500.)

"ARTISTS & MODELS" (Para.)
NEWMAN—(1,900), 25c-40c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $5,700. (Average, $7,000.)

"Thin Ice" Is Denver Smash With $18,000

DENVER, Sept. 6.—"Thin Ice" piled up $18,000 at the Denver. This was $10,500 over normal and was only $1,000 below the record set the previous week by "Lost Horizon." The film moved to the Aladdin.

"Broadway Melody of 1938," on a dual with "Border Cafe," doubled par with a take of $12,000 at the Orpheum. The bill was held over for five days. "Lost Horizon" grossed $5,000 at the Aladdin after a week at the Denver.

Total first run business was $44,800. Average is $27,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 1:

"LOST HORIZON" (Col.)
ALADDIN—(1,500), 25c-40c, 7 days, after a week at the Denver. Gross: $5,000. (Average, $3,000.)

"A DANGEROUS ADVENTURE" (Col.)
BROADWAY—(1,500), 25c-40c, 3 days. Gross: $800. (Average, $2,000.)

"LOVE UNDER FIRE" (20th-Fox)
BROADWAY—(1,500), 25c-40c, 4 days. Gross: $2,000. (Average, $2,000.)

"BLONDE TROUBLE" (Para.)
DENHAM—(1,500), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $5,000.)

"THIN ICE" (20th-Fox)
DENVER—(2,500), 25c-35c-50c, 7 days. Stage band. Gross: $18,000. (Average, $7,500.)

"BROADWAY MELODY OF 1938" (M-G-M)
"BORDER CAFE" (Radio)
ORPHEUM—(2,600), 25c-35c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $12,000. (Average, $6,000.)

"ONE MILE FROM HEAVEN" (20th-Fox)
"ARMORED CAR" (Univ.)
PARAMOUNT—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,500. (Average, $3,500.)

"Exclusive" Dual $6,000, Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 6. — "Exclusive" was tops on a ratio basis among first runs as the first feature on the bill of the Princess with a take of $6,000, which was $1,000 under average.

"Ever Since Eve," on a dual program, brought Loew's up to $6,000 for the best summer showing at this house, while the second week of "Wee Willie Winkie," with the Coronation color film added, was good for $6,500 at the Capitol, the first week hitting $9,500.

"The Good Earth," for its first popular showing in Montreal, grossed $7,000 at the Palace.

Total first run business was $25,500. Average is $35,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 28:

"WEE WILLIE WINKIE" (20th-Fox)

CORONATION COLOR FILM

CAPITOL—(2,547), 25c-35c-40c-50c-60c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $6,500. (Average, $9,500). First week: $9,500.

The Waverly, 6th Ave. and 3rd St., will be reopened Sept. 25 after reconstruction and refurbishing.

"Marine" and Show $17,800 at Omaha

OMAHA, Sept. 6.—The Orpheum skimmed the cream off the local business last week, getting $17,800 for "The Singing Marine" plus Ted Mack's Revue and Stepin Fetchit on the stage. Average is $7,200.

"Confession" and "Dance, Charlie, Dance" put the Brandeis into a slump, garnering only $3,700, or $300 under par.

"The Good Earth" and "The Jones Family in Big Business" failed to hold up for a second week at the Omaha in face of the Orpheum's stage show and was jerked after three days. Three-day receipts were $3,600, however, compared to seven-day average of $5,500.

The infantile paralysis scare in connection with which the city health commissioner has warned mothers to keep their children out of theatres hurt business at all houses.

Total first run business was $25,100. Average is $16,700.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Aug. 23:

"CONFESSION" (F.N.)

"DANCE, CHARLIE, DANCE" (F.N.)

OMAHA—(2,200), 25c-40c, 3 days, 2nd week. Gross: $3,600. (Average, $5,500)

Week Ending Aug. 26:

"THE SINGING MARINE" (W.B.)

ORPHEUM—(3,000), 35c-55c, 7 days. Stage: Ted Mack, Precision Rhythm Revue and Stepin Fetchit. Gross: $17,800. (Average, $7,200)

"Under Fire" Tops Indianapolis Takes

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—"Love Under Fire" with "Novelties of 1937" on the stage at the Lyric took a smash $11,000, $3,000 over the line. The picture was credited with being mostly responsible for the take.

"The Good Earth" took $9,800 at Loew's, $2,800 to the good. At the Circle "The Toast of New York" and "Big Shot" on a dual did a tidy $6,000, up by $1,500. The Apollo made its first excursion into double features, dropping $200 below normal with "One Mile from Heaven" and "Wild and Woolly." Indications are that the house will return to single features within a short time.

Total first run business was $30,600. Average is $23,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 27:

"ONE MILE FROM HEAVEN" (20th-Fox)

"WILD AND WOOLLY" (20th-Fox)

"THE GOOD EARTH" (M-G-M)

MADISON—(2,000), 15c-65c, 7 days, 4th week. Gross: $8,600. (Average, $10,000)

"Love Under Fire" Cincinnati Leader

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—"Love Under Fire" with $14,500 at the RKO Albee was tops in an otherwise fair week.

"You Can't Have Everything" pulled $3,600 on its third downtown week at the RKO Grand, where average is $2,750. It was held for a fourth stanza. "Broadway Melody of 1938," in its second downtown week at the RKO Capitol, and "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" at Keith's, came within flirting distance of par, but none of the other houses did.

Total first run business was $47,160. Average is $58,700.

such efforts, however, it was stated.

George Heller, director of the organizing work in the east and associate secretary of the radio union, will guide the final organizing drive here and in Chicago. The organization's efforts in this direction are already under way. Moves to obtain recognition of the union and negotiation of schedules will not be undertaken until some time after the arrival here of Mrs. Emily Holt, newly elected executive secretary of the A. F. R. A., from her home in Dallas. Mrs. Holt is expected in New York in about 10 days or two weeks.

Heller, meanwhile, will proceed with plans for the organizing drive and the establishment of New York headquarters for the A. F. R. A. Approximately $30,000 has been contributed to the organizing fund by Screen Actors' Guild, American Guild of Musical Artists and Actors' Equity.

English Prices Cut On Television Sets

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Cuts in the prices of television receivers are a feature of Radiolympia, radio trade exhibition here. Cheapest of the receivers is a £35 miniature giving a six-inch picture; the sound can be picked up through a standard radio set.

Over a dozen manufacturers are showing sets at prices ranging from £60 upwards. A surprise feature was the display of a set by HMV-Marconi (E. M. I.) giving a 22-inch picture of fair clarity.

Mahoney Buys Spots

Jeremiah Mahoney, candidate for the mayor's office on the New Deal ticket, has purchased eight five-minute spot announcements daily for eight weeks over WMCA. They get under way Wednesday evening, time as yet undesignated.

WOR-Mutual Leases New Amsterdam Roof

WOR-Mutual, as the first step in a program of expansion of its broadcasting facilities, has signed a one-year lease, with optional renewal, and effective Oct. 1, on the New Amsterdam Roof Theatre on 42nd St. The roof seats 709, and will be known as the WOR-Mutual Playhouse.

It has been completely redecorated and the most modern broadcasting equipment will be installed, including new technical devices developed by the WOR engineering department under Jack R. Poppele. In recent years both NBC and CBS have used the roof for broadcasting purposes. It is planned to use hidden microphones during dramatic presentations. Included among the new technical developments are "gobos," which are portable reflecting surfaces, in large size, with two sides. One side imparts a resonant sound and the other a hushed, deadened tone.

Look Magazine Takes 6-Day-a-Week Series

Ltd., which controls 57 per cent of the outstanding stock in G. B.

The presence of Schenck and Louis B. Mayer in England currently has given additional strength to the reports that endeavors would be made to revive the G. B. deal on its original or an altered basis.

If M-G-M, on the other hand, is now participating in the financing of London Films, incomplete reports, plus surmise over the weekend, would indicate the transaction, as first planned, might be revived along the broader lines drawn at the outset.

Korda, with Samuel Goldwyn, holds an option to purchase for $6,000,000 the stock interest now held by Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin in the United Artists Dist. Corp. The option expires approximately with the calendar year. To date and in the light of the most reliable reports, the purchase price has not yet been raised.

RKO Theatres 26-Week Net Is $757,803

Admissions Are Up, Says Trustee's Report

The combined operations of the theatre operating subsidiaries of RKO, exclusive of Orpheum subsidiaries, for the 26 weeks ended July 3, 1937, resulted in a net profit, after all charges except a provision for tax on undistributed surplus, of $757,803.88, it is stated in the fifth report of the trustee for RKO, released yesterday.

The theatre operating net compares with a net profit for the 26 weeks ended June 27, 1936, of $384,097.61. The report declares that on a comparable basis, theatre attendance during the 1937 period was lower than for the same period of 1936, but an increase in the average admission price raised the total theatre receipts above the 1936 level.

The operations of RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., and subsidiaries, for the 26 weeks ended July 3, 1937, resulted in a net profit, after all charges except a provision for tax on undistributed surplus.

Doyle Turning to Australian Radio

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Stuart F. Doyle, who recently resigned from Greater Union and 28 other film companies in Australia and sold his stock in them, today told MOTION PICTURE DAILY he was turning his entire interest to the Anzac radio industry and an amusement center project he plans in London similar to Radio City.

He has organized, with Frank Albert, his associate and a powerful

20th-Fox to Produce 4 Big British Films

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Twentieth Century-Fox will make four big British pictures in addition to the one starring Gracie Fields, Joseph M. Schenck chairman of the board of directors of 20th Century-Fox, declared today. He will leave England for New York tomorrow on the Normandie.

The four films each will be budgeted at £100,000, he said, with Robert T. Kane, head of 20th Century-Fox English production, in charge of production. Negotiations are now being carried on for the rental of studio space at the Pinewood plant, Schenck declared.

Both Schenck and Darryl Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production, will come over here next April to in-

Deny Warner House Deal at Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, Sept. 7.—John J. Payette, general zone manager of the Washington district of Warner theatres, denied in a message received here today that any deal has been made by which North Carolina Theatres would take over the Broadway Warner here. Fred M. Jack, southern division manager for Warners, stated after a recent conference with H. L. Kinney that such a deal would be consummated soon. A denial was also entered by Kinney today.

Joseph Bernhard, Warner theatre head, denied yesterday that the company had disposed of the Broadway Warner in Charlotte to North Carolina Theatres.

Restraint Granted In Color Film Suit

Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson yesterday granted part of a motion brought by Emy Klamt and Ada Zerowa Klamt against Bernhard Delt-schaft, Albert Mueller, Harold and Paul Abbott, American Natural Color Films, Inc., and Richard G. Ausfitzer to restrain American Natural Color Films from disposing of the color in-

For 10 Years

Toronto, Sept. 7.—N. L. Nathanson's purchase into Canadian Universal includes the Universal franchise in the Dominion for a period of 10 years.

Empire will handle the product, but no consolidation has been made as yet. The six Universal branches continue to do business with no indications so far of the change.

Production Gains; 39 Films Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Productions before the cameras gained four over last week, making 39 pictures shooting. Ten started and six finished, leaving 23 being prepared and 71 being edited.

The starts were: Columbia, "Carnival Lady;" Grand National, "Tex Rides with the Boy Scouts," "He Wanted to Marry" and "Mr. Boggs Buys a Barrel;" M-G-M, "Rosalie" and "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry;" Paramount, "True Confession;" 20th Century-Fox, "Second Honey-moon," and Warners, "Return from Limbo" and "Accidents Will Happen."

The tally by studio: Columbia finishing two, shooting two, preparing two, editing seven; Goldwyn, zero, three, zero, zero;

Epidemic Disastrous To Toronto Theatres

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Although there has been no official restriction on attendance of either juveniles or adults at places of amusement because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis, local first runs, particularly, have been badly hit at the box-office for a couple of weeks. An intense hot spell has also added to the woes of managers.

Badly hit is the Canadian National Exhibition, Canada's annual fair which usually brings thousands of visitors to Toronto and which has had a 2,000,000 attendance for several recent years. The exposition closes Sept. 11, according to schedule, but there has been talk of continuing it for a third week in the hope of getting expected crowds. Because of the start-

Eastern Houses Set Up New Records Partly Due to the Rain

Theatre business nationally reached attendance and gross proportions over the four-day Labor Day weekend unequalled since the boom days of 1929 and '30, according to business reports reaching circuit home offices here yesterday. Gains were general and shared by all national chains.

The east, led by local theatres which did their best holiday business in years, some of it establishing new all-time records, and much of the northern and central sections were favored by weather conditions which sent thousands to the theatres instead of to beaches, resorts, motor and boat trips and other outdoor diversions. The far west and south, however, also reported widespread and marked business gains, contributed by strong current picture attractions as well as the extended holiday period and the prevailing higher admission scales.

Biggest Warner Weekend

Labor Day grosses were the biggest in the entire history of the Warner circuit across the country, a company spokesman stated yesterday. The break in the hot wave Saturday night and the cool weather on Sunday and Monday, plus the quality of the product, was given as the reason. In New Jersey, Sunday business reached an all-time high and was bigger than Labor Day. In other territories where Warners operate, Monday outdistanced Sunday.

In key cities, such as Albany, New York and Milwaukee, the attraction was "Varsity Show." In other key spots, the film was "Thin Ice." "Lost Horizon" and "San Quentin" rounded out the circuit's principal bookings with "Varsity Show" holding forth in approximately 90 per cent of the circuit's key runs.

See $22,000 at Strand

At the Strand, the Waring musical did $1,958 on Thursday, its opening day, but had built to $4,200 Sunday with $3,600 counted on Labor Day. It looks like a $22,000 week at the theatre, comparing with approximately $13,500 for "Confession," the previous attraction.

At the Hollywood, "The Life of Emile Zola" continued to draw heavily. Business was off there last Friday because of the heat. However, the Sunday gross was $3,700 and Monday's, $4,400. For the week ending tonight,

HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"My Dear Miss Aldrich"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Save for periodic spurts of characteristic comedy by Edna May Oliver, who is given top billing but shunted out of the action for longer stretches than is good for the picture, this treatment of the lately overworked girl-reporter theme is workaday product. Maureen O'Sullivan, Walter Pidgeon, J. Farrell MacDonald and Guinn Williams are other billable names in the cast, and the cost of production has not been clipped to the accustomed overhead level of merchandise designed to serve as supporting attractions, yet it appears likely that most showmen will utilize the picture in that capacity.

In common with other recent releases, and others not so recent, "My Dear Miss Aldrich" makes the so-called Fourth Estate look ridiculous by showing how a Nebraska school teacher (Miss O'Sullivan) scoops the city editor (Pidgeon) and staff of New York's greatest newspaper on such stories as the imminent motherhood of a visiting queen and the settlement of the greatest strike threat in history. In the doing, of course, the school teacher, who happens to have inherited the newspaper, and the city editor, who hates women, learn to love and decide to marry each other. Miss Oliver plays the heroine's aunt in crisp and telling fashion. The others more or less walk through, and when Miss Oliver is off the screen the walking is pretty slow.

The picture was directed by George B. Seitz from an original story and screenplay by Herman J. Mankiewicz. The studio's printed assertion that "any similarity to actual persons, living or dead, is purely coincidental," is superfluous.

Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

"Partners in Crime"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Occasionally there is comedy in this, the result of some bit of dialogue, complicated situation or characterization. Generally, however, it is a humdrum affair devoid of the elements necessary to stir audience enthusiasm. The skeleton of an idea is there, but, mainly because too much has been hung upon it, neither the comedy, romance or semi-mystery melodrama is strong enough to make the offering more than a sustaining attraction.

"Partners in Crime" is a further adventure in the careers of Lynn Overman and Roscoe Karns, the "Murder Goes to College" pair. Modern knights errant, for a price, they become involved in a small town political mess which threatens to assume scandalous proportions. Just when the story threatens to turn heavily dramatic, it goes farce comic instead. In that atmosphere, Overman not only prevents the grafters from taking over the town, but gets his pal, Karns, who is in jail suspected of murder, elected mayor. To effect the romantic conclusion, Karns goes in search of the girl, Muriel Hutchinson, who is the key figure in the political plot.

A confused story, jerkily directed, the picture has a few good individual performances to redeem it. Showmen, nevertheless, will be hard put to discover exploitation angles unique enough to arouse patron curiosity.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Expensive Husbands"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Given any sort of a chance, Patric Knowles may rise to a high ranking position at the box-office. He has personality, and that which attracts women, and he looks a great deal like Errol Flynn. Unfortunate is the selection of "Expensive Husbands" as a part of the buildup planned for him by Warners. The story, which had elements of a grand light comedy, misses. The dialogue is amateurish, the direction unsteady, and the actors appear shaky in delivering their lines.

Laurine Lynne, film star, played by Beverly Roberts, finds her place in the cinema firmament unsteady and goes to Europe. Getting an idea for a publicity stunt, she arranges to marry a prince (Patric Knowles) for his title. She is skyrocketed again to fame, but discovers she loves the prince. In the meantime, the prince, who had been working at menial tasks in Vienna, comes into his inheritance. Miss Lynne throws over her career to go to Vienna and, presumably, live happily ever after with the prince.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Cinecolor Withdraws
SEC Petition Again

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—The second withdrawal of an S.E.C. application to place 400,000 shares of Cinecolor on the market as made today in Washington was explained tonight by Howard Brown, Cinecolor vice-president, as a move necessitated by the Government's desire to inspect the patents and equipment of the company. Government men are expected out here this week.

The first withdrawal was caused by S.E.C. objection to listing the stock at $1 per share par and selling at $1.50. The action to have been filed today would list the stock at $1.50 par to sell at the same price. Brown said when the company incorporated in California, the state appraised the patents but under the stock selling plan the Federal Government makes its own appraisal of patents and equipment.

Sparks in Agreement
With Florida Union

TAPPA, Sept. 7.—A two-year contract has been signed between Sparks Theatres and the Union of Theatre Operators and Stage Employees of Florida, providing for a 10 per cent wage increase. W. E. Sullivan, business agent, acted for the union.

Casino Enterprises, Inc., of West Tampa and Ybor City, signed an agreement with the union several days ago. Casino also has concluded an agreement with a union of cashiers and ushers who kept three Tampa houses closed for six weeks.

Flash Previews

"The River of Missing Men"—Rather formula G-man action stuff, which should go with the fans that like it.

"Doctor Syn"—Definite box-office value in this English film, starring George Arliss. With a murder or two it is speedy and different.

"The Squeaker"—Another from England, and a good adaptation of the Edgar Wallace novel and play. An ingenious crime thriller.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Para. Technicolor Deal

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Paramount today signed a contract with Technicolor for six color pictures to be made at the rate of two yearly for the next three years. This is in addition to the current commitments on "Ebb Tide," "Men With Wings" and "Beau Geste."

Unveil Bust of Rogers

COLORADO SPRINGS, Sept. 7.—Approximately 1,000 persons crowded the grounds around the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun, at the dedication yesterday, during which a bust of Rogers was unveiled. The shrine and bust are on Cheyenne Mountain, near here.

Purely Personal

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE, EVELYN LAYE, BEATRICE LILLIE and NOEL COWARD were among those who arrived on the Queen Mary from London Monday. Miss LAWRENCE will do a stage play, "Susan and God"; Miss LAYE will co-star with JACK BUCHANAN on the musical comedy stage in "Between the Devil"; Miss LILLIE reports shortly to Major Prod. for her first picture under that banner and COWARD seems to be floating around with no immediate plans in the offing.

DON GREENHOUSE, who resigned recently as a foreign manager for M-G-M after four years with that company, arrived in New York yesterday from the Dutch East Indies, where he was last stationed. He was also Colombia representative for Metro earlier.

LEON NETTER yesterday returned from a holiday spent in and around Westchester County. He says he got acquainted with his family again and believes he's "in" for another year anyway.

MORRIS HELPRIN, ALEXANDER KORDA's publicity representative in this country, will return tomorrow from England on the Ile de France. He has been conferring with KORDA.

WALTER GREEN, president of National Theatre Supply Co., is kept pretty busy these days attending the official openings of several of his remodeled branches.

M. SWIFT, manager of the London branch of Guaranteed Pictures, will sail today on the Queen Mary after two months in New York and Hollywood.

NED E. DEPINET and NATE BLUMBERG went into a second slight delay yesterday and will not fly west until tonight.

JOHN E. OTTERSON is scheduled to arrive at Quebec on the Empress of Britain tomorrow. He is returning from a vacation trip to Europe.

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK, chairman of 20th Century-Fox, leaves today on the Normandie for New York.

ED SULLIVAN heads for Hollywood this week where he will replace SIDNEY SKOLSKY as studio columnist for the New York Daily News.

DAVE HARRIS has resigned as manager of the Hollywood, Brooklyn, to take over management of the DeLuxe, a Leff-Meyers house in the Bronx.

J. W. SERVIES of the sales promotion department of National Theatre Supply Co. is the father of a seven pound boy.

HERBERT GRIFFIN, vice-president of International Projector Corp., is on his first vacation in five years.

NINO MARTINI is in New York for a vacation following completion of his role in "Music for Madame."

BEN BERNIE arrived on the coast yesterday to begin work in "Love and Hises."

The Easy Way

Bob Goldstein is in London. His friends yesterday received postcard greetings, rubber-stamped to read: "Having a wonder time. Love."

Goldstein merely filled in the name and his signature.

BINNIE BARNES will sail for London on the Queen Mary to start work in "Bicycle Built for Two."

LOUIS D. FROHLICH and HERMAN FINKELSTEIN leave for Lincoln today.

Baltimore

MARGARET J. SCHANBERGER, 13, daughter of J. L., Keith's manager, is recovering from lacerations suffered in a bicycle fall.

FRANK BOUCHER, who managed the Metropolitan here, has become the manager of Strand, Altoona, Pa.

WILLIAM K. SAXTON, Loew's city manager, has had his tonsils removed at Sinai Hospital.

ROBERT MARHENKE has been appointed Preston manager succeeding WILBUR BRIZANDINE transferred to the Rialto; LOUIS STOEK becomes manager of the Cameo succeeding LEO MCGREAVY who becomes relief manager for Associated Theatres.

I. V. HART, publicist for Keith's, at home recovering from operation on throat.

Col. vs. Consolidated

The Columbia and Consolidated M. P. League baseball teams will play today at the George Washington High School stadium for the Quigley Publications Cup. The teams are playing the final post-season round of elimination playoffs.

"Under Fire" Kansas City Top, $11,000

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7.—Only two bills were stout enough to stand up under the heat and the general dolldrums. "Love Under Fire" at the Fox (formerly the Tower) was good for $11,000, $4,000 over normal, and was moved to the Fox Uptown for a second week.

Big money went to "Topper" and "Men Are Not Gods" at Loew's Midland, where, backed by a strong campaign, the combination was good for $12,500, $1,000 better than average.

Other first runs failed to make the grade. "Confession" and "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" lasted only six days at the Mainstreet, squeezing out $4,700 against a $7,200 average.

Total first run business (exclusive of the Empress) was $35,400. Average is $35,100.

PLATINUM-LINED GROSSER!

! "It's a pleasure to bow deeply to Universal for having turned out as delightful a picture as '100 Men and a Girl'. Theatre men will learn that they have a platinum-lined grosser coming up shortly. An occasion for dancing in the streets. Miss Durbin with the adult voice is much of an improvement; her work is an eyebrow-raiser. Freshness and heart-warming incident course through the film. Leopold Stokowski plays himself and does astonishingly well. A rich and very pleasing assortment of comedy and pseudo tragic situations with fun predominating all the way. There is about this picture a warmth reached for at large in Hollywood and not frequently enough attained."

augurate production. No other details regarding directors and players for the four big films have been completed as yet, Schenck indicated. The greatest difficulty, he said, is the lack of first class producers here.

The board chairman denied that there were any new developments in the G. B. situation, declaring that the next move is up to the Ostrers. He expressed himself as satisfied with the quota proposals set forth in the planned new Films Act, and said he had no criticisms to offer on the legislation.

He declared that higher admission scales have been made necessary by the increase of 25 to 30 per cent in production costs, and said that producers could not recover their costs at the present admissions.

Also on board the Normandie, which is scheduled to arrive in New York next Monday, are Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the board and president of United Artists; Hunt Stromberg and Constance Bennett.

Restraint Granted In Color Film Suit

vention known as the Wolff-Heide process pending trial of the suit.

Motions seeking to prevent a board meeting on the part of the defendants, to keep the defendants from taking possession of the invention; to keep the defendants from selling, using or financing the invention by carrying on their business and to refuse to allow delivery to the defendants of all apparatus, films and lenses were denied. The plaintiffs' claim that the defendants infringed on their patent and in their suit asked for an injunction and an accounting of the profits. They also claimed that James W. Gerard, former U. S. ambassador to Germany, is president of the corporation, but he denied this, saying that this relationship to the corporation is only that of a stockholder.

Gets Accountant Post

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 7. — Herbert E. Walters, manager of Mutual Theatres' Colonial here, has been promoted to accountant in the central offices of the circuit, which is operated by W. D. Fulton and Stanley Schwartz. Walters succeeds T. D. Stiles, resigned. J. F. Brosius is the new manager at the Colonial. Joe Green, general manager of the group, has temporarily assumed the duties of manager at the Tivoli, in addition to his other work. Thomas Garrett has been named manager of the Strand, another Mutual unit.

Files Capital Increase

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 7.—Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp., New York, has filed an affidavit of increase of capital stock from $18,178.83 to $19,149.33 with the secretary of state here.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Talking by short wave on station W6NN9, an amateur station here, SOL LESSER, in Honolulu, set the next SMITH BALEW picture as "Hawaiian Cowboy," and gave BARNEY BRISKIN orders to prepare the story for approval upon his arrival here at the end of the month.

JOE WEBER and LEW FIELDS, appearing in Schulberg-Paramount's "Blossoms on Broadway," may take up a screen career if public reaction to their work in the film is favorable. . . . Winding up her role in Goldwyn's "The Adventures of Marco Polo," BINNIE BARNES has gone to England where she will appear in "Bicycles for Two" for ALEXANDER KORDA. . . . Lieut. Commander GEORGE W. DASHIELL, U. S. N. R., has been signed as technical director for "He Wanted to Marry," Grand National picture starring WALLACE FORD. . . . MARY LOU TREEN will be billed as MARY TREEN in Grand National's "He Wanted to Marry." . . . M-G-M has postponed shooting of "The Ugly Duckling" until JUDY GARLAND has finished in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," which is due to start next week.

"Roar, Leo, Roar," M-G-M convention song, has been adopted as the marching tune by Detroit's police band. . . . ROBERT SINCLAIR, 13-year-old New Zealand boy, has been signed by M-G-M as a possible successor to FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW, whose aunt has withdrawn him from the studio roster. His name has been changed to RONNIE ST. CLAIR and he has been assigned to a role in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," originally scheduled for BARTHOLOMEW and later, DOUGLAS SCOTT. The SCOTT boy will appear in "The Last Gangster." . . . WILLIAM POWELL has left for a vacation, and is headed for New York.

Contracts—MELVILLE COOPER and the MAUCH twins, BILLY and BOBBY, have had their contracts extended by Warners. The MAUCH twins' next vehicle will be "Penrod and His Twin Brother." . . . WILLIAM PIERCE, assistant to CHARLES R. ROGERS at Universal, has signed GORDON MILLER, 23-year-old singer in New Orleans, to a term contract and MILLER is tentatively set for a role in "Mad About Music," DEANNA DURBIN's next picture. . . . 20th Century-Fox has extended the contracts of Joan Davis and VIRGINIA FIELD, the latter's next assignment being "Shanghai Deadline."

Casting—ROBERT SPINDOLA in "Live, Love and Learn," M-G-M. . . . TULLY MARSHALL, OTIS HAROLAN, OTTO HOFFMAN and NORA CECIL in "Mr. Boggs Buys a Barrel," Grand National. . . . JAMES ROBBINS in "He Wanted to Marry," Grand National.

Writers and Stories—R. C. SHERIFF has finished his M-G-M assignments and has left for London. . . . Capitalizing on the mysterious submarine warfare in the Mediterranean, DAVID DIAMOND, Grand National producer, has registered a story woven around the incident. He has written an original, "The Phantom Submarine," and submitted it to Grand National.

Epidemic Disastrous To Toronto Theatres

ling drop in paid admissions, attendance figures have not been published from day to day as in all previous years but it is believed that the grand total will barely reach half of last year's figure.

Only a handful of towns around the province have prohibited the admission of children to theatres but parents have taken voluntary action along this line in a general way so that the result has been practically the same. Official bans were imposed at London, St. Thomas, Barrie and Simcoe after which the Ontario Government requested the people not to become panicky. Playgrounds, swimming pools and picnic spots have all been closed by municipalities as a special precaution.

Bank Night Tax Gains

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Sept. 7.—Attaches of the State Revenue Dept. report that Bank Night taxes remitted during the month of August totaled $1,077.07, increasing total collections from that source since the law became effective last March to $4,214.41.

"As soon as we get all the merchandising schemes and 'free money' propositions catalogued," Cashier N. E. Shuffield said, "the tax should net the state between $1,500 and $2,000 a month."

RKO Theatres 26-Week Net Is $757,803

plus, of $476,491.50, which compares with a net profit of $256,944.64 for the 26 weeks ended June 27, 1936, the report indicated. Included in the charges during the 1937 period is the accrual of interest on indebtedness to RKO in the amount of $511,785.32.

Pathe News, Inc., for the same 26 weeks, reported a net profit after all charges, including the interest accrual of $6,601.92 on indebtedness to RKO, of $2,080.77, which compares with a net profit for the reel of $3,165.34 for the same period in 1936.

The net profit for the 26 weeks of RKO and subsidiaries, $1,448,783.11, has already been published. The corporation income for the period, as indicated in the consolidated statement of profit and loss, included theatre admissions of $10,595,892.42; film rentals and sales, $13,243,772.60, and rents and other income of $1,357,467.39.

The report stated that during the period from Jan. 1, 1937, to July 3, 1937, the fixed indebtedness of RKO was reduced to $1,337,592.56, including the payment of $350,000 principal amount of RKO's secured six per cent gold notes, and interest on indebtedness was paid in the aggregate amount of $626,416.38.

The cash of RKO and subsidiaries declined from an aggregate of $7,928,810.69 on Dec. 31, 1936, to $5,633,148.75 on July 3, 1937. It was noted in the report that in addition to the debt reduction during the period of $1,337,592.56, Stadium paid $700,000 for the assets of Orpheum and the inventory of films, stories and continuities increased approximately $1,500,000.

music publisher in Australia, the Commonwealth Broadcasting Network, composed of 16 stations in key cities, at present the only commercial air chain in the Antipodes. Also, he is planning a theatre in London.

He will leave here this weekend for New York, enroute to London, where definite consummation of the radio project plans are awaited. While here, he is looking over the transcription material field for stuff on network programs, but no deals are definitely in sight. Before returning to Australia, he will make a quick survey in England for radio broadcasting ideas which he indicated might result in at least his considering extending his radio holdings outside Australia. He refused comment on the possible future of the Greater Union and Hoyts contract tangle but said a breach is definite.

John Carroll in Serial

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.—Republic will soon produce a new variation of the regular serial. John Carroll, singer, whose only film appearance to date was in RKO's "Hi, Gaucho," will be featured in a singing role in "Zorro Rides Again," 12-episode serial to be directed by William Whitney and Jack English. Sol Siegel will supervise.

Holiday Takes Soar to Boom Period Levels

the anticipation is about $20,000 and perhaps a trifle higher. Yesterday, an extra show was slipped in at 6 P.M. to take advantage of the termination of the second day of Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year.

Reports on the four-day weekend reaching the Paramount home office yesterday were incomplete, but indicated generally decisive gains in attendance and gross over several preceding years. Of a total of 150 houses which reported, 80 ran ahead of the comparable period last year, 40 fell behind and 30 were about even. Near capacity business was reported in many of the company's theatre strongholds, with New England and Detroit among those reporting especially heavy business. Scattered, but representative, reports from the south and southwest indicated business gains were general in that area, although less marked there than in the north and east. Grosses generally were above those of a year ago in the leading cities of the south, it was said.

Paramount Grosses High

The circuit's chief bookings were "Souls at Sea," "Thin Ice," "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Dead End," "You Can't Have Everything" and "The Broadway Melody of 1938." "Dead End" had a very big opening in Chicago. "The Broadway Melody," in some spots, ran behind "Thin Ice," it was Paramount's experience. However, the latter picture was paired off by the company with "Souls at Sea" as a money draw.

In 50 key cities, the latter picture opened day and date, having been tied in with Paramount Week. The company had this to say about early grosses:

$8,200, Palace, Rochester; $5,600 Strand, Scranton; $5,200 Capitol, Wilkes-Barre, or $1,000 ahead of "The Plainsman" on the four-day calculation; $4,200, Capitol, Davenport, and $9,000, Majestic, Houston. All of these covered Saturday through Monday takes. The Metropolitan, Boston, did $27,000 in five days; the Paramount, Springfield, Mass., $9,100 in five days; the Paramount, New Haven, $6,800 on the week and, thus, became a holdover; the Paramount, Salt Lake City, $6,500 in five days, playing day and date with the Studio, a neighborhood theatre, in what was described as the first simultaneous booking in Salt Lake.

"Double" at $62,000

Paramount is matching "Souls at Sea" with "The Plainsman" which, with "The Big Broadcast of 1937," was the company's top picture last season. By comparing the Labor Day weekend and figuring it out on this basis, Paramount views "Souls at Sea" as equaling "The Plainsman" business.

"Double or Nothing" rounded out a first week at the Paramount, New York, last night with an anticipated $62,000 or thereabouts. Computed in advance, but on the basis of business up to 4 P.M. yesterday, the statisticians there figured paid attendance

Ban Rejected

Montevideo, Sept. 7.—A representative of the German Government, accompanied by the local chief of police, saw "The Road Back," now playing at the Cine in Radio City here.

After the show, the German asked that the picture be banned, but the request was rejected.

would run to 125,000 which they further stated was 6,000 ahead of "The Plainsman," the previous attendance high mark at the house. Saturday, Sunday and Monday bulked $35,000, they went on to say, made possible by holding open to 4 A.M. on Sunday and Monday mornings to catch straying night hawks.

While reluctant to embark upon comparative percentages, officials of the RKO circuit, national and local, stated business over the holiday was "much better" than last year. They had expected a shrinkage Sunday when the first day of Rosh Hashana fell, but it failed to develop. Saturday and Sunday were described as "big" and Monday "tremendous." The out-of-town theatres were playing "Make a Wish," "Thin Ice," "Lost Horizon" and "The Life of the Party" chiefly. In the Greater New York area, 20th Century-Fox held all the honors, RKO theatres having booked almost solidly with "You Can't Have Everything" and "Wee Willie Winkie."

National Gets Share

Reports from the field to National Theatres' headquarters here also revealed several waves of prosperity in that organization's far-flung theatre domain. West Coast business, despite the excellent weather prevailing there over the weekend, established new records in many localities and boosted national business for the circuit well above that of a year ago. Central and north central divisions of the circuit also reported exceptionally heavy business, many spots recording their best takes since 1930, it was said.

"Thin Ice," "You Can't Have Everything" and "Love Under Fire" were named as the current attractions at the circuit's leading houses.

Music Hall Snarls Traffic

The general area surrounding the Music Hall has had all of the markings of a traffic snarl since "The Prisoner of Zenda" opened last Thursday. Not only has the theatre staff been working overtime, but it became contagious with the United Artists publicity staff as well. On the basis of business so far in the first week, they're talking about a gross of $125,000. Thursday ended with $14,600; Friday with $15,391; Saturday, $20,500; Sunday, $21,400, and Monday, $22,109, which totals $94,000 in five days, according to the distributor. Now, the individual claims:

Sunday was the biggest in the history of the Music Hall.

Monday was the biggest in the history of the theatre with the exception of a previous attraction, unnamed, which had the benefit of a midnight show. Yesterday, the house threw back its doors at 9:45 A.M. instead of the normal 11:30 A.M. This allowed for six runs of the film, instead of five, and for five stage shows, instead of four.

United Artists' enthusiasm was not confined to the Music Hall, either. There was plenty of it in reserve for what has been happening at the Rivoli, as well.

With a reputed $53,000 in the first week behind it, "Dead End" was expected to hit $45,100 in its second stanza which terminated at the Rivoli last night and will be held for a third week. United Artists was sending around wires about the money performance yesterday and, with only the slightest pressure, came up with these figures by way of detail:

Wednesday	$5,000
Thursday	4,500
Friday	4,510
Saturday	7,490
Sunday	8,200
Monday	8,700

They have a way of figuring the final day of the week at the Rivoli, according to those who insist John Wright can successfully forecast within $37 of the actual take. Wright, consequently, computed yesterday and last night at $6,700 and that's how the $45,100 second week was doped out.

Nationally, the company reported that "Dead End" grossed 108.3 per cent above average on a composite tabulation for 20 cities over the weekend. Among the cities were Chicago, Louisville, Syracuse, Richmond, Memphis, New Haven and Hartford.

"Thin Ice" at Record

Excitement was evident aplenty around the Roxy yesterday where the theatre reported "Thin Ice" had established what was uniquely described as a four-day opening attendance record of 106,956 paid admissions from Friday through Monday evening, or the heaviest since 1929. Twentieth Century-Fox was not far behind with a statement of its own in which it said Sunday was the biggest at the theatre in seven years. The four-day attendance figure claimed a 6,000 increase over "Wake Up and Live" for a similar number of days, sans benefit of holiday. By 3 o'clock yesterday, the management said Tuesday business was "the biggest weekday in money and in attendance." However, the final day of the Jewish New Year is not normally regarded in New York as merely a weekday. At its current pace, the anticipation is a $70,000 first week with a hopeful $75,000 not regarded as too completely remote. The producer, late in the day, issued this statement:

The film broke all opening day records for the Tower, Kansas City, Mo. In Asbury Park, N. J., the picture also started sensationally, doing $10,000 business in three days. In Boston it pressed all records for the Modern Theatre by attracting $20,000 in its first four days and in Newark it did close to $18,000 for the same period. It had already beaten previous opening day figures in Denver and Los Angeles, and is running ahead of "One in a Million," 20th Century-Fox's high-grossing musical of last season, in all engagements to date."

YUMA, Sept. 7.—Alice Faye and Tony Martin were married here over the weekend.

"Artists" and Show Chicago Wow $45,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—"Artists and Models" had plenty of appeal for Loop theatregoers last week. The Jack Benny starring picture on the screen with Jack Denny and his band on the stage, grossed $45,000 which was $13,000 over average.

"The Life of Emile Zola," at the Erlanger for three weeks, started the first week with a big $14,800 which was very fine for a two-a-day showing. The average business at the Erlanger is $10,000. The Oriental, with Jack Larue and Vince Barnett on the stage and "It's All Yours" on the screen, was in the money for the first time in weeks, getting a nice $18,000 which was $3,000 above normal. At the Palace the screen attraction was "Make a Wish" and the gross was $20,000, slightly over average.

Free concerts, the All-Star football game and other attractions hurt business some last week as did the terrifically hot weather and the infantile paralysis scare.

Total first run business was $155,300. Average is $128,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending Sept. 2:

Chicago Is Hit Hard By Ban on Children

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—With theatres closed to children 16 years and under Chicago exhibitors report the lowest Labor Day grosses in history. One major circuit was reported to have lost $40,000 over the weekend through infantile paralysis scare, health ruling which is expected to be in force until Oct. 1 at least, with an increasing number of new cases being reported daily.

Neighborhood theatres were hardest hit, some houses with big youngster trade taking a bad loss over the weekend. Adults also stayed away and newspapers daily headlined the situation. Present indications are that theatre men will lose $1,000,000 in revenue before the ruling is withdrawn.

Another NBC sales department resignation brings Robert Egan to the advertising staff of the publication This Week. . . . James E. Sauter of Air Features celebrated a birthday yesterday. . . . Irma Phillips, author of several sponsored network serials, will arrive here from Chicago this week to supervise the inaugural of her new series, "Road of Life". . . . Dave Driscoll of Mutual's and WOR's special events department, returned from the west yesterday. . . . Alfred McCann, Jr., will begin his 12th year in radio Monday when he returns with his food program on WOR from 10 to 11 P. M. . . . Dave Alber has taken over publicity for the Sealtest "Sunday Night Party" from the J. Walter Thompson agency, which formerly handled this detail. . . . Evelyn Oakes, southern singer, has been signed under CBS artist bureau management, through Mack Davis of the department. . . . William Rainey, NBC production head, returned yesterday from vacation. . . . Maurice M. Boyd, NBC local sales manager, is in Boston on business.

"Experience" Going Out on Two Stations

The "Voice of Experience," who has been signed for a new commercial series for Lydia Pinkham beginning Sept. 13 over WMCA and the stations comprising the WLW Line (WHN locally), the same day will begin a sustaining series over the Mutual network. His commercial program will be aired Mondays through Fridays from 1:30 to 1:45 P. M., while his WOR talks will be offered Mondays and Wednesdays from 12 to 12:15 P. M.

The two bookings are somewhat puzzling to those in the industry, for the "Voice," to all intents and purposes, will be opposing his own sponsored series with his Mutual sustainer.

Philco Air Contest Adding New Outlets

Because of dealer demands throughout the country, the Philco Radio & Television Corp. has been forced to add new stations daily to its list of broadcasting outlets for the $50,000 cash "Phyl" Coe Radio Mysteries. The contest was originally budgeted for 100 broadcasting outlets, but dealer demands have been so great that the company has expanded its program to embrace a total of 230 stations, with petitions for more station coverage from dealers continuing to flow in.

The contest will run 16 weeks, with one 15-minute mystery broadcast each week. A total of 2,016 cash prizes will be awarded weekly winners and 51 grand prizes at the conclusion of the series.

With the 230 stations still short of the final figure, the program has come close to if not actually exceeding the record for station coverage for this type of contest.

Camden Votes Down Move to Sell WCAM

CAMDEN, Sept. 7.—Plans to sell Camden's municipally-owned radio station were defeated by the City Commission when Commissioner Frank J. Hartmann said he was "unalterably opposed" to such action. Hartmann said the letters WCAM are an advertisement to the city that should not be lost. The resolution was laid over. Bennett said he feared the station might not be permitted to continue in operation if it were privately owned.

Mayor Brunner, who sponsored the resolution, said an offer for $30,000 had been received with a strong possibility the actual purchase price at public auction might be higher. When Hartmann, Bennett and Von Nieda voted against the measure, however, he went along with the majority, and Commissioner Kobus, who had declined to vote, changed her vote to make it unanimous.

New Announcers Named

Upholding its newly signed pact with the American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers, WOR yesterday signed three new newcomers to its announcing staff. They are Bill Tuttle, formerly of WIND, Chicago; Tom Slater, formerly of WLW, Cincinnati, and William Perry, formerly of CBS.

Substitute "Wife, Doctor"

"Thin Ice," scheduled for broadcast on "Hollywood Hotel" Sept. 10 over CBS, will not be offered. Instead, the program will feature re-enactments of scenes from "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," with Warner Baxter and Loretta Young in the lead roles.

Musical Groups Back on CBS

The Curtis Institute of Music and the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music will return to the WABC-CBS network in October. Curtis will start a series of 30 broadcasts on Oct. 13, and the Cincinnati Conservatory will begin Oct. 9 at 11 A. M., E. S. T.

McGrady Starts with RCA

Edward F. McGrady, former assistant Secretary of Labor, began his new duties at RCA yesterday as director of labor relations for the company.

New Shows On the Air

Al Jolson Returns

Al Jolson returned to the air last night after a summer's absence, carrying over with him his allies of last season, Martha Raye, Parkyarkus, and Victor Young's orchestra. Georgie Jessel faced the mike in the role of guest.

The program maintained the fine pace and musical and vocal dash set in last season's opener, which we reported as a fine program. The show was woefully wobbly during its comedy moments, however.

Jolson was in one of his rarest moods, and his vocals and repartee with Jessel were thoroughly enjoyable. Martha Raye had surprisingly little to do, offering but one number, "Gone With the Wind." More from her would have been relished.

As for Parkyarkus, garbling the language like he does, we give him horrible mention for his evening's work. His comedy was rank.

Dusty Star Dust

Being an astrologer, Myra Kingsley undoubtedly consulted the stars before beginning her new "Daily Information" series for the Hecker H-O Co. over Mutual, in an effort to learn the fate which awaited her program. Undoubtedly, the twinklers must have answered smilingly, else she never would have begun a series foredoomed to obscurity.

Far be it from us to question the judgment of the stars, but we are compelled to do so. We found the opening 15-minute stanza a boring period of gab, with Miss Kingsley predicting bright futures for those born under the astronomical signs; Jean Paul King dishing out warmed-over news designed to appeal to feminine ears; and a Helen Rowan delivering in faltering style advice on how to hold onto one's husband.

The programs are presented Mondays through Fridays from 11:45 A. M. to 12 noon over a coast-to-coast Mutual hookup.

Flash Review

The New Packard Hour, "Hollywood Mardi Gras," with Lanny Ross, Charlie Butterworth, Florence George, Raymond Paige's orchestra and Amos 'n' Andy as guests, provided 60 minutes of brilliant entertainment.

A full review of this program will appear in tomorrow's issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

BANNER

Bijur Now Mutual Agency

George Bijur, Inc., has been appointed advertising agency for the Mutual Broadcasting System, effective Oct. 1. Fletcher & Ellis, Inc., formerly handled the Mutual account. Bijur resigned recently as vice-president of the latter agency to form his own company.

To Broadcast from Fair

CINCINNATI, Sept. 7.—WKRC, CBS affiliate here, has installed lines in various buildings on the mid-way of the Carthage Fair grounds, and Dick Bray, special events announcer, will interview celebrities attending the fair, Sept. 15 to 18 inclusive.

Bank Musical Series Back on Air Oct. 18

The bank-sponsored Philadelphia Orchestra series, heard last season over CBS, will return to the air over a nationwide NBC-Blue network from 9 to 10 P. M., E. S. T., beginning Oct. 18 and each Monday thereafter for 26 weeks. The participating sponsors will include, among many others, the Chase National Bank of New York, The First National Bank of Chicago, The Pennsylvania Co. of Philadelphia, the National Shawmut Bank of Boston, First National Bank in St. Louis, the Anglo-California Bank of San Francisco, and the members of the Denver Clearing House Ass'n.

The program, which last season was of a half-hour duration, will this year be a full hour in length. During the series the orchestra will be conducted by Eugene Ormandie, with Fritz Reiner, Jose Iturbi and Alexander Smallens as guest conductors. Guest soloists or instrumentalists will supplement the orchestra weekly. Feodor Chaliapin has been engaged as the inaugural guest.

An additional feature of the broadcasts will be the weekly talks by W. M. Kiplinger, Washington news-letter writer, and Dr. Neil Carothers, Director of the College of Business Administration at Lehigh University.

The series will be presented under the supervision of the Wessel Co. of Chicago. James E. Sauter will produce. Alfred Reginald Allen, manager of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will act as musical consultant. The programs will originate from the Academy of Music in Philadelphia.

Parmelee Cab Firm To Have WHN Series

The National Transportation Corp., for Parmelee taxi cabs, has signed for a 13-week series of 15-minute programs over WHN, featuring Bryce Oliver in interviews of local political candidates. The World-Wide Advertising Corp. handled the contract.

Additional WHN business includes renewals for the Busch Credit Jewelry Co., 10 spot announcements a day for 52 weeks; renewal for the Peter Doelger Brewing Co., spot announcements, through the Leonard F. Winston agency; a new series of transcribed programs for the Technical Institute beginning this Sunday for 20 weeks, through the Winer advertising agency, and the addition of a new sponsor, the Alaska Pacific Salmon Co., to the participation series "What To Eat and Why."

Columbia Files on 2 Subsidiary Firms

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Acquisition of interests in Columbia Management Corp. of California and Columbia Concerts Corp. by the Columbia Broadcasting System was reported today to S. E. C.

CBS advised the commission that on Aug. 13 it acquired 27½ per cent of the authorized capital stock of the management corporation at a cost of $27,500 in cash and 22½ per cent of the capital stock of the concerts company for $22,500 in cash. It was stated that CBS already owned 54 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Columbia Concerts and 100 per cent of the outstanding preferred.

New Mexican Tax Worrying Distributors

Starting Sept. 15 Will Be 3% of First 35%

Export managers for large distribution companies expressed grave concern yesterday over the planned increase in taxes which Mexico is reported to be prepared to inaugurate on all imports beginning Sept. 15.

The new tax is understood to amount to three per cent on 35 per cent of the invoice value of merchandise and is collectible in advance at shipping points by Mexican consuls. The tax is in addition to the regular tariff which was increased by approximately 25 per cent last January.

Most of the film destined for distribution in Mexico is shipped from Los Angeles by rail and under the

Johnston Promises 30 by Next January

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—W. Ray Johnston today announced the complete release list for Monogram up to January 1. Under the production schedule, 30 of the 42 promised Monogram pictures will be completed by the end of the year, he said.

"Sales have greatly exceeded our expectations, running $832,000 ahead of the same period as compared with Monogram's last year of operation," he declared. "This is due not only to the improved quality of our product, but also to the increased number of theatres in operation and the improved business being done by theatres."

Johnston has left, accompanied by

FCC Restricts Use Of 550 Kilocycles

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Restrictions on the use of the 550-kilocycle frequency were imposed today by the F.C.C. following receipt of complaints of interference from the Navy Dept.

The new rules provide that no station will hereafter be licensed on that frequency with higher power than one kilowatt at night or five kilowatts a day, and no applications for new stations or increased power will be accepted from points less than 300 miles

About $125,000 For "Zenda" Week

"The Prisoner of Zenda" last night concluded a first week at the Music Hall with approximately $125,000. The picture is being held a second week and if the gross hits the guarantee figure of $65,000 over the weekend, it will be held for a third stanza. "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" tallied $88,000 in the second week at the theatre.

"Double or Nothing" finished the first seven days at the Paramount with $61,000. Preliminary indications are that the film will be held four weeks. "Artists and Models" has just wound up a four-week run at the

No Play Financing Planned by Films

With the new Broadway stage season ready to open, spokesmen for major film companies asserted yesterday that they would forego financing of legitimate productions under the new Dramatists' Guild contract again this year.

No changes have been made in the guild's contract and none are in prospect, the dramatists holding that there is no scarcity of financial backing for new plays despite the absence of film money last season and this.

The film companies take the position that the financial risks involved in play backing are not sufficiently

Prizes at Charlotte To Be Investigated

CHARLOTTE, Sept. 8.—An investigation into the legality of Bank Night, Jackpot Night, and similar attractions in which prize money is offered by Charlotte theatres is promised by Solicitor John G. Carpenter.

Pointing out that the prize money events at theatres were "broken up" in his home county of Gaston, Solicitor Carpenter declared he would ask Attorney General A. F. Seawell's advice about procedure to be used in this (Mecklenburg) county.

CEA Council Talks On Rental Problem

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The Council of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, at a meeting today, considered the refusal of the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) to agree to a joint meeting of the two bodies to discuss rental percentages, which are the same for early and late runs.

Took No Chance

Universal's clips on the undeclared war in Shanghai are very raw and very strong stuff. That's why Jack Keith, manager of the Marine in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn, decided to take no chances.

Before each run of the film, he appeared in person on the stage and under a bright spot explained in person to his audiences the nature of the film at the same time suggesting some might prefer to step into the lobby while the clip was unreeling.

He reported subsequently that hardly any left their seats.

Balaban Predicts Bright Year Ahead

The brightest prospects for both exhibitors and producers in many years are seen by Barney Balaban, president of Paramount, for the new season.

After examining reports on the Labor Day weekend business done by Paramount theatres and houses operated by associates of the company, Balaban declared yesterday that box-office receipts in many parts of the country ran from five to 20 per cent higher than last year, with the promise of additional increases with the ending of the vacation season and the arrival of cooler weather.

"This remarkable weekend business was achieved despite the fact that in the Chicago and other middlewestern districts children were barred from theatres in the campaign being waged against infantile paralysis," Balaban said. "All of the information coming to me is highly optimistic and indicative of a very profitable season for both exhibitors and producing companies," he concluded.

Loew-F & M Deal at St. Louis Fizzles

Negotiations between Loew's and F. & M. whereby the former would purchase an interest in the Missouri, St. Louis, have been called off. Under the arrangement planned by Loew's, the Missouri would be used as a move-over house for product after Loew's State in the same city.

Executives of Loew's decided to end discussions on the proposed deal when it was learned that the Warner franchise with F. & M. covering the Missouri prohibits a change in management. The franchise with Warners is for 10 years and was made at the time the Federal anti-trust suit

Judge Dismisses Para.'s Case Sans Prejudice

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—Paramount's injunction suit against local exhibitors who have been demonstrating against the withdrawal of six pictures from the 1936-37 schedule today was dismissed without prejudice by Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson.

A lengthy opinion was handed down by the judge, the conclusions of which follow:

"The effect of a refusal to exhibit films of the plaintiff upon transactions in interstate commerce is too indirect and remote to be within the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, or its supplements so as to confer jurisdiction upon this court to enjoin the commission of the acts complained of."

"The bill should be dismissed without costs, for lack of jurisdiction but without prejudice."

Reading on, the facts contained in the opinion boil down to this:

"The effect of the acts complained of, as alleged, is to stop all dealings of exhibitors with the plaintiff as a producer and distributor of films. If no picture films of the plaintiffs are

Submit Final Briefs In Minneapolis Case

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—Final briefs in connection with Paramount's application for an injunction to restrain local exhibitors from carrying out mass demonstrations in connection with their "buyers' strike" against the company were filed here today with Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye.

A decision on the application is expected in a week or 10 days. Meanwhile, the temporary injunction issued early in August continues in force.

Court Refuses Order For Files of Majors

DALLAS, Sept. 8.—U. S. District Judge W. H. Atwell today denied a Government motion to compel the Interstate Circuit and major distributors to bring memoranda into court to show alleged attempts at price-fixing.

This move was a preliminary to the trial of the Government's anti-trust suit scheduled for trial here Sept. 20.

Berman to Coast Today

Pandro S. Berman will leave for the coast today by train with plans for starting work immediately on "Having Wonderful Time," the new Ginger Rogers picture. Berman arrived in New York on Monday with a print of "Stage Door," which was screened for home office executives. His new Fred Astaire picture, "Damsel in Distress," is now in production and two additional pictures have been scheduled for him by the studio following these.

Will Hays Heads East

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Louis B. Mayer is remaining here another week to personally supervise the inauguration of M-G-M's production plans in England. The first picture is "Yank at Oxford" with Robert Taylor.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Stage Door"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Katharine Hepburn has had some bad pictures. She also has had some good ones. Ginger Rogers' lot since she attained the heights with Fred Astaire has been consistently more fortunate. Here, under the sympathetic and considerate guidance of Gregory La Cava, both have a great show. Along with them in this frank and joyous picture, which only for a moment assumes a note of tragic pathos, a new star shines brilliantly by her performance. Andrea Leeds stamps herself as a performer ready to take her place in screen affairs. Miss Hepburn and Miss Rogers, with Adolphe Menjou, Gail Patrick, Constance Collier, Samuel Hinds and Franklin Pangborn are what people expect competent players should be as Miss Leeds gives the story a soul and as Phyllis Kennedy stands out among the host of minor, but important, supports.

"Stage Door" is a tonic for the mind and spirit. To see the show means going away from it with a happy heart and a satisfaction that should lead to its being often recalled with pleasure.

A story of human beings, "Stage Door" is presented in a singularly human manner, not finding it necessary to resort to theatrical artificiality to evoke or sustain interest. For the most part it sparkles with natural humor in dialogue, situations and characterizations as it mirrors life, as life is known to many girls in a theatrical boarding house. Of them all only two look to their future with any degree of seriousness. One does so because she has to make good, the other because she is determined to. As the direct theme is adhered to, contrast is provided by many branchings which give vivid glimpses into the lives of girls who suffer and starve for art. Mainly the treatment provokes laughter. Only as it pertains to Miss Leeds, does it suggest otherwise. But as Miss Hepburn ventures into the theatre for want of something else to do she learns much from Miss Rogers, who also teaches Playboy Producer Menjou many tricks. She gets the part on which Miss Leeds has set her heart. Miss Leeds chooses suicide. On the opening night Miss Hepburn is a murderess to the girls and when she learns of the tragedy she goes on to give the kind of performance that she knew Miss Leeds would have given. Incidentally, it is the kind of performance that Hepburn can give when she wants to. The applause at the picture's fadeout shook the walls of the theatre.

"Stage Door" may need some selling. If so, the essentials in personalities, the warmly sentimental story content, production finesse, intelligent direction and writing quality are at hand. The chances are, however, that the show will be on the air and that metropolitan sophisticates and the more neighborly patrons of the small houses will be waiting for it. As it charmed and thrilled the preview audience so should it do to all seeing it.

In transcribing the stage play to the screen Morrie Ryskind and Anthony Veiller have drawn swift moving portraiture of picturesque people and developed their sketch in a spontaneous and stimulating style. La Cava, bringing all the knowledge and skill garnered from his years of experience, blends the talents of his players with the quality of the material in a directing job that should be regarded as an achievement. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Gun Smoke Ranch"

(Republic)

While it does not possess the usual tongue-in-check Three Mesquiteer hokum, "Gun Smoke Ranch" featuring Ray Corrigan, Bob Livingstone and Max Terhune is otherwise satisfactory and should be found acceptable to outdoor-action audiences.

The focal point of the story centers around Kenneth Harlan's slick real estate deals. He transports a number of flood refugees to Arizona and sells them ranches on highly reasonable terms. The debunking triumvirate starts to upset his plans soon after the settlers arrive and further annoy him when they learn a Government dam is to be constructed, causing the property to be condemned. However, mainly by force, they outsmart Harlan, but not before a great deal of lead is slung about the landscape.

The film is set in a number of highly interesting localities which have much pictorial appeal. The romantic thread is lightly carried by Julia Thayer. Sammy McKim is adequate as the juvenile interest. Joseph Kane directed from a screenplay by Oliver Drake. Gus Peterson photographed.

Running time, 59 minutes. "G."

Landis to Leave His SEC Post This Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. — S.E.C. Chairman James M. Landis will return to Washington this week to wind up his Government service before returning to Harvard University as Dean of Law. He is expected to leave about Sept. 20. Possible successors to Landis as chairman of the S.E.C. are Commissioners William O. Douglas and George C. Matthews.

Appointment of the former, considered most likely, would be taken as an indication that President Roosevelt does not intend to abate the present drastic regulation of the securities markets and issues, while Matthews' elevation would be seen as foreshadowing a more conciliatory attitude on the part of the Administration in financial matters.

Doyle Coming East

Stuart Doyle is due from the coast Monday, en route to England and Australia. He is booked to sail Sept. 22 on the Queen Mary. If he is delayed, he will take the Berengaria Sept. 29. Doyle is returning to Sydney via South Africa and is due home Dec. 3.

exhibited there will be none shipped in interstate commerce."

According to the decision, theatre owners are given leave to put on extensive picketing campaigns through any medium they desire.

Originally, picketing activities were to have started Aug. 1, but Paramount has been successful in obtaining temporary restraining orders.

There is some doubt expressed locally as to whether exhibitors will again take up picketing as a means of protesting against Paramount. Benjamin M. Golder, counsel for independents in the matter, has called picketing not such a good device inasmuch as it would reflect upon fellow exhibitors, thus destroying a united front in the eyes of the public.

Whether or not Paramount will appeal to the Court of Appeals could not be learned today. The situation here is extremely odd in that local exhibitors now have the court's permission to picket and at the same time may decide against it.

What other measures will be taken by theatre owners will be decided in the near future, if at all.

No Play Financing Planned by Films

offset by the existing provisions of the guild's contract governing the division of proceeds from the sale of film rights to plays. A film company backing a play, formerly, had a financial advantage in bidding for the film rights against competitors. Since the guild contract was changed to give the author 60 per cent of the film rights money, however, the companies feel that this advantage is unduly offset and a company assuming the financial risk of a stage production still is given no assurance of obtaining the film rights to the play it may back.

Although the companies will not participate in the financing of Broadway productions this season, they will, of course, continue to bid in the open market for the film rights to desirable stage properties.

Y. FRANK FREEMAN will return from Boston tomorrow.

ALEC MOSS recounted some of his experiences at Columbia at the Tavern during lunch hour yesterday. CHARLES FORD was so nervous about the reaction to the Universal News-reel on the Shanghai bombings that he couldn't sit quietly without talking about the scenes in the reel. GEORGE DEMBOW had a guest.

EDWARD A. GOLDEN and NORTON RITCHEY were seated in back of MOSS and discussed Monogram from domestic and foreign angles. JACK BARNSTYN, Grand National's foreign head, was seated by the wall. JOHN EBERHARDT was alone. ED FAY and COLVIN W. BROWN had a friendly chat and were joined by GOLDEN for a brief session.

IRVING LESSER, MORRIS KINZLER and JOE WEIL talked over the campaign for "100 Men and a Girl," which will follow "Thin Ice" into the Roxy. AL SUCHMAN, film buyer for Consolidated Amusements, was the guest of a few independent film salesmen. LEO JUSTIN and MORRIS JACKS occupied the Monday Knights Round Table. RALPH POUCHER and CHARLES D. PAINE talked about films in general while A. P. WAXMAN passed by and said "hello" to numerous friends.

HAROLD F. OXLEY, personal manager of JIMMIE LUNCEFORD, left last night for the coast, accompanied by his wife and daughter, where he will remain for several weeks to negotiate with producers for LUNCEFORD's appearance in pictures during the latter's engagement at Sebastian's Cotton Club.

HARRY J. GELL, former managing director for 20th Century-Fox in Central Europe, sailed yesterday on the Manhattan to make a survey of film conditions on the Continent. His tour will include Russia and take four months.

SPYROS and MRS. SKOURAS have booked passage on the Normandie which sails from New York next Wednesday. They will spend about eight weeks touring Europe, the Continent and Greece.

GEORGE BALSDON, one of the film buyers for National Theatres, has returned to his post recovered from an automobile accident on the coast last February.

MOE KERMAN of Times Pictures is the proud father of an as yet unnamed baby daughter, born at Long Beach Hospital.

J. S. HUMMEL, Warner general foreign sales manager, will return from Paris and London today on the Ile de France.

S. CHARLES EINFELD left yesterday for the coast. He will be at the Warner Studios for about a week.

WILLIAM POWELL sailed yesterday on the Statendam.

NINO MARTINI has arrived from the coast.

JAMES DUNN has gone to Cleveland for the air races.

OTTO KRUGER is at the Warwick.

New Mexican Tax Worrying Distributors

reported regulations the new tax will be payable in advance at that point. Industry officials regard the added levy as "seriously hampering" American film distribution in Mexico and indicated that they would probably register objections to it through the usual channels upon being officially advised of its adoption.

No merchandise can be shipped to Mexico until the tax has been paid, it is said.

house, garnering $32,000 for the last week.

"Thin Ice," which chalked up a gross of $60,000 up to yesterday, will end the first week at the Roxy with $70,000 or better. "Love Under Fire" was fair at $44,500 last week.

The first four days of "The Firefly" at two-a-day at the Astor tallied $6,844.

"Thin Ice" broke all records and set a new high for a day and date week at Grauman's Chinese and Loew's State in Los Angeles, rolling up $43,300, according to a wire received by John D. Clark, general sales manager of 20th Century-Fox, yesterday.

Johnston Promises 30 by Next January

Howard Stubbins, Pacific Coast franchise holder, to visit branches in San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

The September releases already have been completed, and in September the following will start shooting: "Federal Bullets," "The Country Beyond," "Telephone Operator," "Danger Valley," "Boy of the Streets" and "Romance of the Rockies."

During October, "The Marines Are Here," "Wanderer of the West" and "The County Fair" will start. In November, an untitled Tome Keene feature, "Romance of the Limerlost," "My Old Kentucky Home" and the fourth Jack Randall vehicle are scheduled.

December productions include "The Port of Missing Girls," the first Tim McCoy western, and "Queen of the Yukon."

Services for Mrs. Hart

Funeral services for Mrs. Barnett Hart, mother of Moss Hart, the playwright, were held yesterday afternoon at the Riverside Memorial Chapel. Mrs. Hart died Monday in Asbury Park.

Mrs. Pardee Rites Today

WINNETKA, ILL., Sept. 8.—Funeral services for Mrs. L. C. Pardee who died Tuesday will be held here tomorrow. Mrs. Pardee was the mother of Walter Trumbull, assistant to Will H. Hays.

"Horizon" Is $16,000 Hit In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 8.—"Lost Horizon," playing its first popular priced engagement at Warners' Hippodrome, was the biggest draw of a big week, with the temperature sizzling all week. The take was $16,000. This was $4,000 better than average. It was moved to the Allen for a continued downtown run.

"Broadway Melody of 1938" at Loew's State was a close second. The gross was $19,000—also $4,000 above par.

"The Good Earth" at Loew's Stillman where it went after a big week at Loew's State, had a take of $7,500. Average is $6,000.

Total first run business was $64,500. Average is $59,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"YOU CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING"

(20th-Fox)

ALLEN—(3,000), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days, 3rd week. Gross: $5,500. (Average, $6,000)

WARNER'S HIPPODROME—(3,800), 30c-35c-42c, 7 days. Gross: $16,000. (Average, $12,000)

"Confession" and Duchin Set Record

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8. — All-time attendance and receipts records of the 25-year-old Lyric fell before the $16,000 that Eddy Duchin and his orchestra and revue on the stage and "Confession" on the screen delivered. The take was double normal and about $2,000 beyond the previous high, established in the faraway days of the 50-cent top.

"Dead End" and "It Can't Last Forever" on a dual delivered a lusty $10,000 to the box-office at Loew's, $3,000 to the good. "Souls at Sea" and "Blonde Trouble" did $2,500 into the black for the Circle, where the take was $7,000. Night business at the Circle accounted for the larger part of the take, despite expectations that Gary Cooper would prove a strong matinee draw.

Total first run business was $33,500. Average is $23,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending Sept. 3:

"BORNEO" (20th-Fox)

APOLLO—(1,100), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $2,500. (Average, $4,000)

"CONFESSION" (F.N.)

LYRIC—(2,000), 25c-40c, 7 days. Stage: Eddy Duchin orchestra and revue. Vic Hyde, Mario & Floria, Miriam Verna. Gross: $16,000. (Average, $8,000)

"Married" and Vallee a Twin Cities' Smash

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 8. — "Married Before Breakfast," with Rudy Vallee and company on the Minneapolis Orpheum stage, proved the winning combination for the week in the Twin Cities. The show stayed but five days but made a record $21,000. The normal seven-day take is $6,000.

Cooler weather and several small conventions aided grosses, with "Thin Ice" doing second best at the Minnesota. The show brought in $13,000 as against a usual $10,000. "The Good Earth," playing a second week at the Riviera, did $4,400. Average is $3,500. The Paramount also did well with "Artists and Models." The show grossed $6,000 over average by $500.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $44,200. Average is $27,000. Total first run business in St. Paul was $16,300. Average is $15,000.

Estimated takings:

Minneapolis:

Week Ending Sept. 2:

Remodel Detroit Houses

DETROIT, Sept. 8.—Charles Stepanuckas, owner of the Delray, who recently purchased and remodeled the DeSoto, will reopen it as the Oakland within the next 10 days.

Bernard Brooks, partner with Ray Schreiber in the Crystal, who recently took over the Ideal and also is remodeling, will reopen it as the President within the next two weeks. Ira Caplan has reopened the Cinema, foreign picture house, which has been closed during the summer.

Pogson Starts Home

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Capt. N. A. Pogson, British expert on Oriental matters who acted as technical adviser for Goldwyn's "The Adventures of Marco Polo," has left via the Panama Canal for England to prepare for the production of a play in London.

Get Fields Gags

Hollywood, Sept. 8.—W. C. Fields is already a Paramount star and has been supplying gags for years, but the company has just signed a new contract with him to use his old stage routines in films. They include: "Gas Station," "Golf," "Barber Shop," "Pool" and "Orchestra."

Some of them may be used in "The Big Broadcast of 1938."

"Under Fire" Only Good Houston Draw

HOUSTON, Sept. 8.—"Love Under Fire" was the only money-maker in a week of lax business. The picture drew $7,350 at the Majestic.

"Stella Dallas," in the second week at Loew's State, drew $5,950, and "Confession" at the Metropolitan fell to $6,300. Average at each of the three theatres is $7,000.

Nan Gray, Houston girl, appearing in person at the Kirby in connection with "Love in a Bungalow" brought the three-day take 10 per cent above normal. The week's business, with "Pick a Star" playing four days, was $5,500. Par is $5,000.

Total first run business was $24,100. Average is $26,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending Aug. 30:

Hawks Film Titled

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—"The Mysterious Pilot," featuring Frank Hawks, will be the release title of Columbia's air serial.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The River of Missing Men"

(Darmour-Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—This one will never decorate the bright lights the columnists talk about. But, out where the bars are illuminated by kerosene wicks, where they crop cotton, harvest wheat, smelt the minerals, weave the cloth, watch the oil wells gush, etc., they'll probably like "The River of Missing Men."

"The River of Missing Men" is only a G-man outwitting bad men stuff. A girl helps him do it, but there's only one kiss and hug in the picture. The rest is a rough tough fellow up against a lot of rough tough fellows. Of course, with the help of theatrical license the man and the woman emerge triumphant as the heavies are hoisted by their own petard.

But the crowd which watched its preview seemed to forget all about the fortune that might have awaited them had it remained to participate in "Keeno Night." It wanted to see Jack Holt or Jack LaRue, but was satisfied to mob Eleanor Stewart, who only had a minor part.

Outside of a sensational canoe ride down the rapids sequence which really enthused the audience, this is formula G-Man-bad man stuff. But the way Jack Holt, Wynne Gibson, Jack LaRue, C. Henry Gordon, Ed Brophy, Bill Pawley, Arthur Hohl, Bob O'Connor, Billie Bakewell, Frank Darien, et al., handle it under the guidance of producer Larry Darmour and director Lew Colins, it has no relationship to a routine affair.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Overseas Preview

"Doctor Syn"

(Gaumont-British)

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The George Arliss vehicle is from the G.-B. Gainsborough studio, which is currently turning out a line of material of very definite box-office value. Roy William Neill directed from a Russell Thorndike novel.

The story values in "Doctor Syn" remind of "Treasure Island," which it resembles in period, in its background of piracy on the high seas and in the "blood-curdling" intent of its melodramatic and highly colored incident, presented by characters as vivid and surprising. It is a real thriller in its presentation of an army officer's search for smugglers in a village on the Essex marshes, where the trade in contraband liquor is controlled by the saintly Doctor Syn, vicar of the parish, who, in fact, is really the notorious Capt. Clegg, supposed to have been hanged, but who was cut down still alive, and carrying on in this unusual disguise.

A murder or two, an episode in which "ghost" riders lead the military astray in the marsh, and a stirring climax in which Syn-Clegg takes to the seas again after making a getaway from the court are high spots. There is a love interest interpreted by Margaret Lockwood and John Loder and plenty of comedy relief, but the virtue of the picture is that it gets away from drawing rooms, bedrooms, and sex in general into the days of high adventure when men wore knee-breeches and wigs and life was very jolly and exciting although the scaffold loomed in the background.

It's a different one, likely to be a big winner where they like it at all. Arliss is right in character, acts with humor and impressiveness, but the director and story writer earn the real laurels for their maintenance of suspense and the color of their characterization. It is speedy, different, and makes one feel a boy again and it's a picture which England could make and America couldn't. That, in the prevailing trend of trade opinion, labels it one well worth looking at.

Running time, 81 minutes. "G"

ALLAN.

G. N. Adds to Space

Grand National has taken additional space on the 23rd floor of the RKO Bldg. The increased footage was formerly occupied by Pathe, which has moved to the RCA Bldg.

O. Henry Briggs, president of Pathe, is due back from the coast Friday or Monday.

Doctor Wins France Trip

Dr. N. Philip Norman of New York, has been awarded a trip to France on the Normandie for his model of a river steamboat which won a contest sponsored by Model Builders, Inc., and Universal. Norman modelled his craft after the vessel used in filming "Show Boat."

Short Subjects

"March of Time"

(RKO)

Two episodes, entitled "Pests of 1937" and "The War in China," comprise the new issue of March of Time which is No. 1 of Volume IV. Both are ably presented in this reel's customary interesting manner.

"Pests of 1937" depicts the activities of the Dept. of Agriculture and of farmers and individuals voluntarily cooperating with the department in combating the spread of insects harmful to vegetation. Laboratory phases of the work as well as the methods employed in treating affected crops and trees are shown in a manner which makes both the necessity for the work and its economic value apparent.

"The War in China" traces the development of the current hostilities over a period of years ending with current shots of the bombing of Shanghai. Particular attention is given American residents in China and the possible consequences of the hostilities to this country.

Running time, 17 minutes. "G."

"Arnold Johnson and His Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

Arnold Johnson and the director are arranging a radio program, when the pictures on the wall come to life, and set in their frames in clever fashion, proceed to perform—entertainingly. Featured are the Three Sirens, Siroy and Weaver and the Three Orchids, which means dancing and singing, and all good. A picture of Schubert comes to life, protests swing music, then joins in the fun. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Golf Magic"

(Columbia)

A number of well-known tournament and trickshot players do their interesting stuff for the camera in this News World of Sports number. The material is well-handled, diverting and there is fitting comment by Ford Bond. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"The Littlest Diplomat"

(Vitaphone)

Done in Technicolor, this "Broadway Brevity" number, directed by Bobby Connolly, is entertaining, and would be effective except for the fact that it is actually nothing more nor less than the "Wee Willie Winkie" story over again in brief form. Little Sybil Jason plays the lead role, and is sufficiently pert, but the inevitable comparison with Shirley Temple arises. It is a bit difficult to understand why the subject was made. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Drug Store Follies"

(Columbia)

Roscoe Ates stutters his way into a drug store looking for lumbago relief. Instead he gets a lemonade, sees a floorshow, rides around in a motor car—all in the store. Finally he gets a plaster. It is rather obvious comedy set off by a number of fair juggling, singing and dancing acts. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

Va., 1,500 kilocycles, 100 watts; Valley Publishing Co., Harlingen, Tex., 1,200 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day; J. T. Griffin, Fort Smith, Ark., 880 kilocycles, 1,000 watts, daytime only; Broward Broadcasting Co., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 1,370 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day; W. A. Barnette, Greenwood, S. C., 1,370 kilocycles, 250 watts, daytime only; Colonial Broadcasters, Inc., Savannah, 1,310 kilocycles, 100 watts; Tom Olsen, Port Angeles, Wash., 1,500 kilocycles, 250 watts, daytime only; Platt & Platt, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1,000 kilocycles, 1,000 watts, daytime only; Kentucky Broadcasting Corp., Louisville, Ky., 1,210 kilocycles, 100 watts night, 250 watts day, and James F. Hurley, Jr., Salisbury, N. C., 1,500 kilocycles, 100 watts, daytime only.

Sues Mutual on Broadcast

William A. Brady, who asserts that since 1897 he has owned exclusive rights to all forms of production of "Way Down East," filed suit in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday to enjoin the Mutual Broadcasting Co. and others from using the vehicle. An accounting is also asked of the defendants in order that damages for alleged broadcasting of the subject may be ascertained. Other defendants in the action are the Bamberger Broadcasting Service, Blackett, Sample & Hummert, Inc., and the Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. Brady states that only once had he consented to the broadcasting of "Way Down East," in 1935 when he accepted $750 for one broadcast.

250 May Attend AFM Meet Here Tomorrow

More than 250 owners and managers of independent and independently owned but network affiliated stations will report at the meeting called for Friday at the Waldorf-Astoria it was indicated by a survey yesterday. Chicago Unions Join A. F. M.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—James C. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union here, today revealed the merger of the Polish-American Musicians' Union and the American union with the American Federation of Musicians. The merger brings the total of the local musicians' union to 11,000, all members of the A. F. of M.

The move is seen as a serious blow to the C.I.O., Petrillo declared today in a statement.

Mutual Billings Up

Mutual billings for August totaled $79,555.67, a slight decline under the figures amassed for the similar month last year. The cumulative total for the year thus far is $1,179,937.05, a gain of 5.3 per cent over the eight-month figure for 1936, which was $1,120,142.34.

NBC Day Hours Show 39% Gain Over 1936

Expenditures of radio advertisers for weekday daytime hours on NBC's Blue and Red networks jumped 39.3 per cent over 1936 during July and August, to $1,443,469, and boosted the gross revenue for the two months to a new summer high of $5,492,427, up 13.2 per cent over the corresponding two months last year, when summer advertisers spent $4,852,414.

Weekday daytime hours in August alone were used to the amount of $714,589, up 40.6 per cent over August a year ago. This figure brought the daytime total for the first eight months to $6,965,451, up 70 per cent over 1936.

Evening revenue in August was $1,976,940, up 7.5 per cent over a year ago.

Total gross network billings of NBC in August were $2,784,977, up 15 per cent over a year ago, and the eight-month total was $25,440,534, up 21.6 per cent.

Socony-Vacuum Gets Yale's Home Games

Socony-Vacuum, for Mobilgas and Mobiloil, will sponsor all the home games of the Yale football team over WMCA exclusively, with Bill Slater, network sports announcer, doing the play-by-play description. The games, under the same sponsorship, were broadcast over WOR last year.

Seven games in all will be broadcast. The schedule is as follows: Oct. 2, Yale-Maine; Oct. 16, Yale-Pennsylvania; Oct. 23, Yale-Cornell; Oct. 30, Yale-Dartmouth; Nov. 6, Yale-Brown; Nov. 13, Yale-Princeton. All games will begin at 2 P. M., with pre-color broadcasts to be offered 15-minutes earlier with Dick Fishell, WMCA sports commentator, at the microphone. J. Sterling Getchell is the agency.

Renew CBS Time as of Oct. 1

Renewed for additional time on CBS are "Hollywood Hotel" and "News Parade."

The former, sponsored by Campbell Soup Co., will renew as of Oct. 1. Sixty-seven stations carry the program. F. Wallis Armstrong is the agency.

"News Parade," sponsored by American Tobacco Co. for Lucky Strike cigarettes and featuring Edwin C. Hill, will renew as of Oct. 1 also. Lord and Thomas is the agency.

The Beneficial Management Co.'s CBS series title "Your Unseen Friend," and currently broadcast Tuesdays from 10 to 10:30 P. M., will shift to another day and time after Sept. 21, when it will be presented from 8 to 8:30 P. M. Albert Frank-Gunther Law is the agency.

Mutual Gets Option To Air World Series

The Mutual network has secured an option for one week for the broadcast rights to the World Series baseball games, it has been learned from an authoritative source. The option, it is understood, still has several days to run, and it is known that several of the bigger advertisers now are bidding for the games, through at least three agencies. The agencies are Lennen & Mitchell, Arthur Kudner, Inc., and Ruthrauff & Ryan.

The price for the games has been set at $200,000, in payment for time, stations, and all other incidentals. Of this sum $100,000 is to be turned over to the clubs participating in the series.

This year, the client need only buy Mutual for coverage. Last autumn, the games were broadcast over the three networks, Mutual, CBS and NBC. The Ford Motor Co. sponsored the games last year, at a price of $410,000.

Crosley to Add New Line

CINCINNATI, Sept. 8.—The Crosley Radio Corp., operating WLW, WSAI and W8XAL, will shortly begin the manufacture of inter-communication systems in the form of a two-way loudspeaker for use between offices and departments in large organizations, between rooms in a home and between judges and announcers in schools, churches and similar places.

"Silver Serenade" Oneida Show Title

"The Silver Serenade" is the program title for a new transcribed series to be presented by Oneida, Ltd., over 33 stations. The series will begin Sept. 23, and will feature guests whose opinions and achievements are of interest to women listeners.

Guests already set include Beatrice Fairfax, Angelo Patri and Anna Steese Richardson. WOR will broadcast the program locally. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn is the agency.

Kaufman to Resume Comments

Sidney Kaufman, film critic, will resume his program, "Cinema Comments," on WQXR from 9:30 to 9:45 P. M. Monday, and will be heard weekly thereafter. The program was presented over WQXR last season, but was discontinued during Kaufman's stay in Hollywood.

Shift Editorial Program Time

"The Editor Speaks," program of editorials appearing in New York newspapers, presented by WMCA in cooperation with the press of New York, will be heard Fridays from 8:45 to 9 P. M., effective Sept. 17, instead of at 8:15 P. M., as formerly heard.

"Time" Off Air Oct. 7

The "March of Time," long a popular CBS feature, will fade from the network after the broadcast of Oct. 7. The program is currently sponsored by Time, Inc., through Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn.

Schattner's Going on WNEW

Schattner's Shoe Shop, through the Newman Associates, has placed a 52-week contract for electrical transcriptions, Monday through Saturday, on WNEW. The contract is effective immediately.

New Shows on the Air

"Hollywood Mardi Gras"

Save for one or possibly two minor faults, "Hollywood Mardi Gras," the new Packard program starring Lanny Ross and Charles Butterworth, is one of the best musical variety shows to be found on the networks. The initial airing pulsed with the smooth power and rhythm associated with the sponsor's product, and there is every reason to believe that the slightly jarring elements which made themselves evident in the inaugural will be eradicated as the series progresses. Even as the show stands now, however, the sponsors of opposing Tuesday 9:30 to 10:30 P. M. programs have our ardent sympathy.

Let's dispense with the fault finding before dusting off the superlatives the program deserves. To begin with, Raymond Paige's orchestrations were much too ponderous for a light program of this type. The music sounded more like Werner Janssen's than it did like Paige's. And a 72-voice chorus has no place on this program.

The cathedral-like effect it achieves clashes sharply with the light mood that the series strives to achieve.

Ross seldom has been heard in better voice, and his em ceing was excellent. His offering "A Wandering Minstrel, I," from Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado," still must linger carressingly in the ears of the listeners, as it does in ours. As for Butterworth, his bewildered style of comedy is unfailingly pleasing. His humor never provokes a belly laugh, but always there is a smile lurking about the corners of one's mouth when he unlimbers for action.

Amos 'n' Andy, appearing as guests, practically stole the show from all the permanent principals. Considering how excellently the program standbys performed, this was by no means a small achievement.

"Hollywood Mardi Gras," presented by the Packard Motor Co., is broadcast Tuesdays from 9:30 to 10:30 P. M. over the NBC-Red network.

Makeup Union Drops Painter Affiliation

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—The Makeup Artists' local seceded today from the Painters' International Brotherhood and completed affiliation with the I. A. T. S. E. The move was said to have resulted from resentment of members over the alleged failure of the painters' officers to support the local during its strike here last spring and also to a desire of the local to obtain a closed shop agreement with producers.

The action was taken on the unanimous vote of 244 members of the local. The public apology tendered the I. A. by the makeup artists' organization last week was regarded as a preliminary to the moves made today.

Vernon Murdock, business agent of the makeup local, was elected executive secretary of the new I. A. T. S. E. local. The local is not sending a delegate to the painters' international convention, now in session in Buffalo, nor is the scenic artists' local of the Painters' Brotherhood. The latter organization, also, is withholding its per capita tax from the international. As a result, it is believed that that organization, also, may affiliate with the I. A. Charles Elrod, business agent, would not affirm the belief, explaining that the tax had not been paid because the local's treasury had been depleted by the strike.

Completing Roxy Report

U. S. District Court Judge John Clancy yesterday authorized Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, to retain Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., accountants to assist him in completing his final accounting and to pay them $1,000. Since June, 1934, the accountants have received $12,474.

"Riviera" Retitled

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—"Riviera," the picture made by New World for Twentieth Century-Fox, has been retitled "Dinner at the Ritz."

"Don't Forget" Retitled

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—RKO has changed the title of "Don't Forget to Remember" to "There Goes the Groom." Other pictures in preparation on the lot include "Here Comes the Groom," and "Behold the Bridegroom."

Retitle Stanwyck Film

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—RKO has changed the title of the picture called "A Love Like That," Barbara Stanwyck-Herbert Marshall starring vehicle. It is now "Breakfast for Two."

Rename "Cartoon Lover"

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Republic has changed the title of "The Cartoon Lover," to "Love Is a Fable." The original screenplay of Edmund Seward has a background of an animated cartoon studio.

Hoffman Sues Columbia

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Sam Hoffman, writer and stage producer, has filed a $200,000 suit against Columbia Pictures, Inc., charging plagiarism of his story, "Command Performance," in the film, "Racketeers in Exile."

CEA Council Talks On Rental Problem

to consider rentals generally and to consult with the circuits on possible joint action. The proposal for a C. E. A. press bureau to publicize the work of the exhibitor organization was criticized on the ground of excessive cost, entailing an increase in the subscription for members, which is now $1 annually for all theatres.

The matter was referred back to the legal committee for the preparation of a more modest scheme, which could be financed from present income. A questionnaire has been sent to all members of the organization, asking a vote for or against the proposed 2,000-foot reel.

Technicolor Meet Today

A special meeting of stockholders of Technicolor is scheduled to be held today to vote on an amendment to the certificate of incorporation which would authorize a 500,000-share increase in the company's no par value common stock. The additional shares would be used to permit the issuance of stock purchase options to Technicolor customers, conditioned upon a guaranteed volume of business, it is understood.

Warners-Lightman Sign

Warners have closed a deal with M. A. Lightman's Malco Theatres for the entire Warner list. Herb Ochs, western and southern sales manager for Warners; Fred Jack, southern district manager, and Byron Adams, Memphis branch manager, acted for Warners.

Contracts were also signed with the Maine and New Hampshire Circuit for all of the company's output.

Paramount-Shea Sign

Paramount has closed a one-year product deal with the Shea circuit of 14 upstate New York theatres. Milt Kusell acted for the distributor while Vincent McFall represented the circuit. Kusell returned yesterday by plane from Buffalo after closing the deal.

Team Raymond-Sothorn

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 8.—Gene Raymond and Ann Sothorn, co-stars in four earlier RKO pictures, will be teamed again in "She's Got That Swing," which Al Lewis will produce and Joseph Santley will direct. Victor Moore and Helen Broderick top the supporting cast.

Union Talks Continue

Another meeting of major circuit representatives and executives of Local 306, projectionists' union, was held yesterday in the office of C. C. Moskowitz of Loew's, in an attempt to negotiate a new two-year working agreement, as provided in the master agreement. Further meetings are scheduled.

20th-Fox Men On Tour

TACOMA, Sept. 8.—Herman Wobber, William Kupper, J. P. O'Laughlin and W. J. Clark of 20th Century-Fox's western sales force are here in the course of a tour of the company's Washington and Oregon exchanges.

Para. to Ask Philadelphia Case Appeal

"Buyers' Strike" Ruling Held Contradictory

Paramount will take steps immediately to appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson dismissing the company's action for a permanent injunction to restrain Philadelphia exhibitors from engaging in concerted activities in their "buyers' strike" against the company, it was stated yesterday by the Paramount legal department.

The preparation of papers asking leave to appeal the action to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Philadelphia will be begun at once, it was said, and efforts will be made to get that court's consent to a special convening to hear the application some time next week. The circuit court is still on its summer recess, which necessitates the request for a special convening of the entire court or a majority.

Spokesmen for Paramount said that they were "mystified" by certain portions of the ruling.

Chinese in Offer to Buy "U" War Shots

A group of Chinese in San Francisco, after witnessing the latest Universal Newsreel with the Shanghai bombings, yesterday telegraphed Charles Ford, editor, several times offering to purchase the clips for the purpose of exhibiting them to raise funds. When Ford failed to answer, the Chinese prevailed upon Barney Rose, San Francisco manager, to get in touch with Ford.

Ford yesterday stated that Universal would not sell the "shots" as the company would not take sides in the undeclared war. However, Ford may decide to rent the reel to the group in the usual manner.

"Zenda's" $123,700 Close to M.H. Record

"The Prisoner of Zenda" grossed $123,700 in its first week at the Music Hall and captured for itself second place in the history of that theatre. It failed to outdistance the first week of "Top Hat" which did $131,200 for the week ending Sept. 4, 1935, but it nosed "Swing Time" out of second place by $523.

Further detail and a breakdown of the Music Hall's top money pictures, what they were and when they did it, appear on Page 2 today.

North Dakota Asks Myers to Aid Defense of Theatre Divorce Law

Washington, Sept. 9.—Abram F. Myers, Allied States general counsel, this week was invited by Gov. William A. Langer of North Dakota to join with his legal staff in defending the state divorce-law, now under attack in the Fargo Federal Court by Paramount.

The North Dakota Divorcement Act prohibits any producer or distributor from owning any theatre within the state. Paramount is seeking to enjoin the Governor and state officials from enforcement of the law.

G.B., Loew's, Five Million 20th-Fox Deal From Options, Is "Dormant" States Kalmus

"Dormant" and "just resting" is the way David Bernstein, vice-president and treasurer of Loew's, described the Loew-20th Century-Fox-GB deal upon his return yesterday on the Ile de France, from a two-month vacation abroad. He said that none of the M-G-M or Loew officials who went abroad recently discussed the English situation.

Business is very good and Loew's does not plan any theatre expansion in England, Bernstein said. He visited London, Paris, Vichy and the Continent. Louis B. Mayer, he added, will be back in a few weeks.

Joseph Hummel, foreign sales head for Warners, returned from a six-week trip to Paris and England. He said Warners are prepared to meet the new quota regulations in England. Sam Morris, he said, will sail next Wednesday on the Normandie to discuss new production plans with Irving Asher. About 20 British films are planned.

Robert W. McFarland of the U.A. office in England is here for a vacation. He will spend a month in New York and then go to the coast. Morris Helprin and his wife, Katharine Locke, returned from a six-week tour of England, France and the Continent. He said Korda will make six features next season for American distribution. Mrs. Charles Morgan, sister of J. Cheever Cowdin, also was a passenger.

Brandt Books G. N. First Run on B'way

Grand National gets a Broadway show window under a first run deal just closed with Harry Brandt covering the Globe and Central theatres. The deal gets under way with "Something to Sing About," the new Cagney film, which opens at the Globe Sept. 20.

New stock options designed for issuance to Technicolor customers which were authorized at a meeting of stockholders of the company yesterday will bring $5,000,000 into the company's treasury if all are exercised, Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager, said yesterday. The sum is in addition to a potential $2,500,000 in cash which would be paid in to the company if options now outstanding are exercised.

The stockholders authorized an increase of 500,000 shares in the company's no par value common stock, of which 182,000 shares will be issued to producers with whom Technicolor has closed new contracts. Three unnamed producers who will make 18 features in Technicolor were given an option for 108,000 shares at approximately $22 per share; two who will produce 10 features were given an option on 52,000 shares at $28, and an option on 16,000 shares at $28 was given Walt Disney, Ltd., in connection with a contract to produce 39 Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphony subjects over a period of two years beginning March 1, 1938.

Two other contracts under discussion involve the issuance of options for 72,000 shares at $28.50, Dr. Kalmus said. Of the new money which may be realized through exercise of the op-

Skouras-Springer Deal Reported Set

The long-pending deal whereby Skouras Theatres would take over the various Springer theatres on upper Broadway is understood to have been closed. The Beacon, Broadway and 76th St., is not embraced in the deal, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned last night.

M-G-M Taking To Air; First Show Nov. 4

General Foods, Sponsor— Network Not Set

M-G-M, after months of deliberation and delay, is understood set to embark upon a radio broadcasting career. Sponsored by General Foods Corp., acting through Benton and Bowles as the agency, the company is expected to take to the airways on Nov. 4.

The complete yearly cost to the sponsor, it is understood, will be approximately $2,000,000 per year, an all-inclusive sum embracing talent, station, and all other charges.

However, neither time nor network has been selected as yet. This will be settled within the next day or so. The network, however, will be either one of NBC's two, or Columbia.

Those familiar with the deal last night were inclined to read into it an elimination of the last barrier between radio and films and were prone to predict early alliances between other major studios and various national radio webs.

Billy Bacher, signed recently by M-G-M and placed in complete charge of radio activities at the studio, has been in New York on the deal. He returns to Hollywood today to begin active preparation for the advent of the series.

Infantile Paralysis Hits Illinois, Wis.

Business in Illinois and Wisconsin has dropped 40 to 50 per cent because of infantile paralysis, James Coston, Warner theatre zone manager, stated yesterday upon his arrival to meet his wife and daughter returning from a European vacation on the Ile de France.

Weekend grosses were off 40 per cent, Coston stated.

Warners Plan 26th Theatre in Chicago

Plans have been completed for the building of a 1,200-seat theatre at 87th St. & Ashland Ave., Chicago, and Warners will begin construction in three weeks, it was learned yesterday at the home office. This will make the 26th theatre in Chicago for the circuit. It will be located between the Beverly and Highland theatres.

Dismisses RKO Suit

The copyright infringement suit of Samuel Shipment and Clara Lipman against RKO was dismissed in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Federal Judge John M. Woolsey. The plaintiffs claimed infringement of their play, "Depend on the Woman" in the RKO picture, "I Dream Too Much." Judge Woolsey stated in his opinion he found no basis for a claim of "literary larceny."

Fire Hits Universal Lot

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9.—The Universal back lot was damaged to the extent of $1,500 yesterday when a brush fire swept over 20 acres to reach the studio buildings. Six houses on a set and the studio ranch house were destroyed. Animals being used in the serial, "Tim Tyler's Luck," were endangered. The fire was checked by the studio and Burbank and North Hollywood firemen.

"Souls" Big in Seattle

SEATTLE, Sept. 9.—"Souls at Sea" at the Paramount grossed $11,300 for its first week. The figure is $500 better than "Artists and Models" which recently broke a two-year house record.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IT was like a Santa Anita finish, but "Zenda," flying Dave Selznick's colors, slid across the line into second ranking position in Music Hall annals by a handful of dollars Wednesday night. Gross: $123,700, with due deference to a combination Labor Day-Jewish New Year's week-end and a made-to-order break in the heat wave by Saturday evening. By $523, "Swing Time" moved back from its hitherto uncontested second place to third. That was the Astaire-Rogers which did a fantastic $123,177 in the seven days ending Sept. 2, 1936.

Undisputed leader at the Van Schmus establishment, of course, continues to be "Top Hat," which, incidentally and to our way of thinking, indisputably continues to be the finest Astaire-Rogers ever turned out. Even more fantastic than "Swing Time," this was the attraction which almost landed on the finishing line at $135,000, but had to be content with $131,200. The Music Hall had had nothing like it. As a matter of fact, it hasn't since. . . .

Hazel Flynn, whose typewriter gets hot at times like these, turned inordinately busy in her cubicle and conveniently has been supplying an assortment of comparisons on behalf of her theatre. For instance, from Miss Flynn:

Records for a weekend, for a Sunday and for a Labor Day were broken when 121,539 paid admissions were recorded at closing time Monday by "Zenda." On Monday, ticket sales were 27,044 and a gross of "nearly $22,000 for the holiday, or some $500 more than the previous holiday record established by 'Top Hat' on Labor Day in 1935."

Estimated, but pretty accurate, check on total paid admissions on the week: 170,000.

Why "Zenda" will not beat "Top Hat," same source: "Because of its ('Zenda's') longer running time."

Anyhow and anyway you look at it, there seems nothing to go apologetic about on a performance such as this. . . .

However, it set us ruminating about peak performances at this theatre with its enormous possibilities. How many attractions had reached and passed the $100,000 division? Which, when and how much? So began the research and now the findings:

Since January, 1933, the Music Hall, by the statistical stars in MOTION PICTURE DAILY's heaven, has had thirty-one weeks when the take has been $100,000 and over. Twenty-six pictures from five distributors comprise this rarefied classification. How they break down is an interesting analysis on its own and that comes next. . . .

Radio nabbed the peak load. Of the thirty-one which the Music Hall can boast, this distributor contributed fourteen weeks divided over eleven attractions. In 1933 they were "Topaze," "Morning Glory," "One Man's Journey" and the first and third weeks of "Little Women." Nothing ranked in 1934, but in '35 came along "Little Minister" and the first two weeks of the record-breaking "Top Hat."

Four attractions in '36 gave the Music Hall five $100,000 weeks and over. "Follow the Fleet" was the first from this company last year and "Mary of Scotland" followed. Third was "Swing Time," just now nosed out of second place by "Zenda." It started ahead of Labor Day last year and was held over for a second week of $120,000, or only $3,000 under the first seven days. At the close of the year, "Rainbow on the River" went over the mark by a nice $8,000. So far in 1937 "That Girl from Paris" marks Radio's only contestant in the top division and for the first time, it is significant to note, an Astaire-Rogers did not make the grade. This, of course, was "Shall We Dance?" . . .

Second is United Artists. Seven attractions under that label played as many weeks. In 1933, it was the famed "Private Life of Henry VIII." In 1934, "Nana" and "We Live Again" which gave Sam Goldwyn the distinction of having been the solo producer at United Artists to furnish his company such august representation. In 1935 and in the days when Darryl Zanuck was still releasing his 20th Century output through U.A., it was "Cardinal Richelieu." In 1936, a blank. And in this year of grace, three, all in a rush giving to U.A. the leadership among all distributors

E. C. MILLS of Ascap left for Lincoln, Neb., yesterday to attend the hearing tomorrow before a Federal statutory court there on Ascap's action to test the constitutionality of the Nebraska law which would bar the society from operating within the state. LOUIS D. FROHLICH and HERMAN FINKELSTEIN, Ascap attorneys, are also en route to Lincoln for the hearing.

KENNETH THOMSON, executive secretary of the Screen Actors' Guild, leaves Hollywood this weekend on a vacation motor tour which will bring him to New York by way of Canada. He will be accompanied by Mrs. THOMSON.

EDWIN MILES FADMAN of Films Red Star, who has arrived in this country for a two month stay to buy product, leaves next month and will spend two weeks in Hollywood before returning to Europe.

MARGARET TALLICHET, Selznick International contract player, arrived from Mt. Kisco yesterday. She has been playing in summer stock. She will leave soon for the coast.

MRS. FRED MEYERS, wife of the RKO theatre division head, is recuperating from an operation at the Westchester Square Hospital.

JOSEPH BERNHARD, general manager of Warner theatres, will fly to the coast today and will return at the end of the next week.

M. A. SCHLESINGER will sail for South Africa in a month to visit his brother I. W. for two or three months.

CHARLES FORD, editor of Universal Newsreel, has delayed his trip to the coast for several days.

EDWARD SCHNITZER left last night for Pittsburgh and Chicago. He's due back next Tuesday.

RUSSELL BIRDWELL and S. GLASS of Selznick International flew to Hollywood yesterday.

LILLIE MESSENGER, RKO story head in the east, has returned from a stay on the coast.

J. MEYER SCHINE and GEORGE LYNCH are in town from Gloversville on product buys.

GERALD SCHNITZER, after several months at the Republic studios on the coast, is back.

ARTHUR ABELES, branch manager for Warners in Brazil, is in town for a vacation.

HERBERT J. YATES is planning to leave for the coast Sunday.

JOHNNY HARRIS of Pittsburgh was in town yesterday.

PANDRO BERMAN left for Hollywood yesterday.

Shanghai Shambles

You are going to be shocked, but this is war
UNCENSORED

This brief caption, flashed on the screen, was all the warning U. S. cinemagoers had last week before the usually innocuous newsreel plunged them into such a blood-bath of visual horrors as few of them had ever imagined. Shown throughout the U. S. these were the first frankly gruesome newsreels of the Shanghai shambles to reach the U. S. Hundreds of feet of this hastily, dangerously made record had been ground out by cameramen under fire or within a few minutes after shell-burst or bomb-explosion. They tell, as pitilessly as only the camera can, what war means to the flesh it tortures. Mobs stream to shelter from an air raid. After a shell-burst in a crowded street, corpses bright with blood and rows of grimy bodies, barely distinguishable from the dusty wreckage, clutter the smashed sidewalk. Stinking human garbage (the street-cleaners have tied handkerchiefs around their mouths and noses), big chunks of it insufficiently wrapped, is dumped on open trucks. Later, as the trucks are unloaded, the still-warm, flexible dead are flopped out like a big catch of fish.

Strong stuff for even a medical audience, these newsreels were, from the standpoint of both horror and history, in many respects the most remarkable ever shown. For if the utter freakishness of the new usage of lightning wars, instead of in the country has vastly increased the peril of non-combatants, it has at the same time advanced the efficiency of news coverage of the hostilities a hundredfold. For instance: on the afternoon of Aug. 14, three Chinese bombers flew over Shanghai's Bund, accidentally or intentionally slipped two bombs out of their bomb-racks and blew in the fronts of both the Cathay and Palace Hotels, which face each other across teeming Nanking Road. Two hundred and twenty people were killed and mangled. And had the ghastly scene been directed in a Hollywood studio, the cinematography could scarcely have been handled better. The MARCH OF TIME's cameraman Harrison Forman, an aviator, explorer and author just down from Tibet, was sitting inside the Cathay

UNIVERSAL NEWSREELMAN GEORGE KRAINUKOV

In Nanking Road, his pictures were the most gruesome. When the terrifying explosion took place. The Hearst cameraman, George Wong, a daredevil called "Newsreel" Wong, was behind the counter of his camera shop, two blocks away. Universal's George Krainukov, who had just had his camera shot out of his hand in the Chinese evacuation of Peiping, was also almost within hailing distance of the tragedy. As a consequence, the films these three got of the Cathay-Palace Hotel tragedy—most horrifying of last week's collection—have all the historic immediacy of the Hindenburg fire films.

Judged by the progressive destruction of a Lincoln Zephyr which, rammed head on into the curb, burns throughout Forman's, Wong's and Krainukov's films, Wong was the first man on the scene. (Presumably Forman lost time by having to rush upstairs from the Cathay bar to get his machine.) But, according to the best guesses of U. S. newsreel people, Wong must have been turned back by the police after making his first shots, for it is Krainukov whose camera turns in the most gruesomely inclusive report of the bombing.

The bomb which blew up the Great World Amusement Palace, and the refugees who fled to the Nanking Road explosion that apparently no Shanghai newsreel man got on the scene before the awful debris had been cleared. But Wong, Forman and Krainukov were once more on the spot to film the gore when a bomb from either the Japanese or Chinese shattered the roof of Sincere Co.'s department store nine days later. Something surpassed by his competitors in both the explosions, MARCH OF TIME's Forman scooped the pair of them with three other remarkable shots of the Shanghai shambles. He filmed a Japanese plane dropping a bomb on the native quarter, was the only one permitted aboard the Augusta after she was struck by a one-pounder. Better than that, almost miraculously he happened to be taking a night view of the Augusta when she was hit.

All Far Eastern newsreel men have not had the amazing professional opportunities of Forman & colleagues. Paramount's Henry Kotani, a 40-year-old Japanese, went north at the beginning of the hostilities, was last week marooned somewhere behind the Japanese lines. Paramount ordered a West Coast man to hop for Shanghai. Hard luck of a different kind befell Fox Movietone's Bonney Powell. The Japanese found he was an intelligent officer in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and have had him under surveillance ever since the occupation of Tientsin.

tions of Judge Dickinson's opinion and felt that some of it was contradictory while other portions of it appeared to indicate a misinterpretation of facts set forth in the briefs which were submitted to the court. That portion of the opinion which pointed to a stoppage of the company's films in the Philadelphia area as a result of the "buyers' strike" without finding the stoppage to have resulted from restraint of interstate commerce, and as such within the jurisdiction of the court, appeared to Paramount attorneys to be contradictory. Judge Dickinson held that with the stoppage there ceased to be any Paramount films in interstate commerce in Philadelphia and dismissed the Paramount action for lack of jurisdiction.

Judge Dickinson also held that the company's 1936-'37 contracts expired on Aug. 1 and that since new season contracts have not been made, Paramount films ceased to be in interstate commerce after that date. The company's attorneys said that this appeared to be a misinterpretation of the evidence as the plaintiff's briefs made it clear that while the releasing season ended on Aug. 1, contracts were not terminated concurrently.

Neil F. Agnew, Paramount vice-president in charge of distribution, issued the following statement on the Philadelphia situation yesterday: "Of course, the decision of Judge Dickinson is a surprise because it was unexpected on the undisputed facts proved. I have read the opinion of the court and it is plain to me, as a layman, that in it there is an apparent misconception of the facts. Our lawyers advise that the opinion has misinterpreted the Sherman Anti-Trust Law in a manner that is unprecedented and that the decision cannot stand on appeal."

Lightman Deal with Warners About Set

M. A. Lightman of Malco and Joseph Bernhard of Warners expect to close a deal within the next few days whereby the former will take over 11 Warner houses in seven Kentucky towns. Lightman indicated yesterday that he will have the arrangement all set before he returns to Memphis in a day or so.

Included in the 11 theatres will be two in Danville which Lightman plans to turn over to Paramount for operations. Malco currently operates 68 units without outside affiliations and 14 additional with affiliations.

Lightman has closed for all of Warners product for one year. Also set is Columbia.

U. A. Takes Six Shorts

Arthur W. Kelly has added six two-reel Educational comedy shorts to the United Artists lineup for distribution in India, Burma and Ceylon. They are: "Man to Man," "Home on the Range," "Pixilated," "His Best Girl," "Her Accidental Hero" and "That's the Spirit."

Insiders' Outlook

thus far in 1937. The pictures: "A Star Is Born," "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" and now, of course, "The Prisoner of Zenda." Two for Dave Selznick, incidentally. . . .

Third spot distributor is Columbia with a tally of four pictures and five weeks. Curiously enough and, as these circumstances have a manner of shaping themselves, the Messrs. Cohn had two in 1934. One was "One Night of Love" of pleasant memory and two whopping weeks; the second was "Broadway Bill." The following year found this company represented by one, "Love Me Forever" and 1937 by "When You're in Love." Three of the four pictures were Grace Moore vehicles and four of the five weeks hers as well.

The spree in research marked Fox and 20th Century-Fox in fourth place with two pictures and three weeks. Two weeks of the trio in playing time went to "Cavalcade" which hies back to 1933. There were some stretches, of course, when the Music Hall did not play either Fox product or that of its successor, 20th Century-Fox. However, the record reveals nothing for the following three years and finds, in 1937, "Seventh Heaven" which barged across the line with a round $100,000 and a place in this breakdown.

Fifth and final listing goes to Universal with a stronger front than appears on the surface. Little of that lineup played the big house, but the more significant product had nothing to apologize for by way of delivered performance. "Magnificent Obsession" did a handsome $100,255 in January, 1935, and "My Man Godfrey" did a paltry $55 less in September of last year. . . .

Now if it's the blue ribbon division you're after, here goes. The basis of this chart on the $100,000-and-over-grossers is money, naturally. The right hand column is the pay-off:

Trolley Captures Buck

Frank Buck, who has pursued lions for years in Africa without sustaining a scratch, fought it out with a trolley car in the elevated-pillared jungle of Brooklyn yesterday, and came out second best. Buck's car was a new one, too. The animal master was badly shaken up when the car pinned the auto against a pillar, and his companion, Ronald C. Stout, New York park director, suffered minor cuts.

Further Union Talks

Meetings were continued yesterday between major circuit executives and representatives of the projectionists' union, Local 306, in an effort to arrive at a new two-year agreement on working terms, as provided in the master agreement. No settlement was reached yesterday, and meetings will be continued in an effort to reach an accord.

Five Million From Options, States Kalmus

tions, not more than $750,000 is believed to be needed for laboratory and plant expansion to take care of new business, the stockholders were told. Additional funds will be required for extending the company's business in other parts of the world, Dr. Kalmus said. He predicted a plant capacity of 130,000,000 feet per year of release prints during 1938 and said that present contracts should put about 50 Technicolor features in distribution annually. No further stock options to producers are contemplated he said.

Net profit of $132,000 was reported for the month of August for Technicolor M. P. Corp., compared with $54,500 for the same month last year. Net profit before Federal taxes for the first eight months of the year was given as $567,600, compared with $460,800 for the same period last year. Positive print footage for the first eight months was reported at 26,500,000, a gain of 5,000,000 feet over a year ago.

Technicolor is experimenting with a new process known as Monopack, which requires only one film with three layers of emulsions and the use of ordinary cameras. The new process, however, is not expected to be commercially available for at least two years, stockholders were told.

Discuss Price Hike

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 9.—One hundred and twenty-five Fox Midwest executives and managers representing 110 active theatres in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois concluded a two day meeting at the Hotel President today. Admission increases and operating essentials were among the chief topics of discussion. Variety Club entertained.

Expect CBS 6-Month Net $2,600,000

It is indicated from a Wall St. source that CBS for the six months ended June 30 will show a net income after all charges of approximately $2,600,000, equal to about $1.50 a share on the 1,707,950 shares of the combined Class A and Class B stock.

This would compare with a net income of approximately $2,150,000, equal after all charges to about $1.25 a share, on the same basis for the comparable period in 1936.

CBS directors for the first time in the network's history are planning to issue a six-month interim statement to stockholders, probably in a few days.

Cumulative billings of the network for the first eight months of 1937 amounted to $18,746,957, an increase of more than 36 per cent over the billings of $13,711,138 reported for the corresponding period a year ago. Time sales for August totaled $1,955,280, marking the highest August in CBS history, and representing an increase of more than 58 per cent over the $1,232,588 figure reported for the like month in 1936.

Name 14 Stations to Be Taken by Don Lee

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Lewis Allen Weiss, general manager of the Don Lee Broadcasting System, yesterday revealed the call letters of 13 stations which will be taken over by the network on Sept. 26. Another, KFJL, Klamath Falls, Ore., also will be acquired, but telephone lines will have to be installed, which is expected to require 90 days.

The 13 new stations are: KIEM, Eureka, Cal.; KNO, Tacoma; KIT, Yakima; KTQ, Wenatchee; KVOS, Bellingham; KIRO, Aberdeen; KOL, Seattle; KFIO, Spokane; KGY, Olympia, all Washington; KALE, Portland; KSLM, Salem; KORE, Eugene; KRNK, Roseburg, all Oregon.

Robinson Buckaroos Set Thrice Weekly

Carson Robinson's Buckaroos will be presented three times weekly in behalf of Musterole over the Mutual network starting Oct. 4. The broadcasting schedule will be Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1:15 to 1:30 P.M. The contract is for 26 weeks.

Thirty-three Mutual stations will carry the series. WHN also will take the program, but as a transcribed offering, from 11:30 to 11:45 A.M., the same days as above. The Erwin, Wasey Co. is the agency.

Isabel Hewson in New Series

Isabel Manning Hewson, known on the networks as "Petticoat on the Air," will initiate a new series of 15-minute programs over 13 CBS stations Sept. 14. She will continue each Tuesday and Thursday for 13 weeks. Wyandotte Cleanser is the sponsor; N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., the agency.

$100 Per Minute

It will cost the Gulf Refining Co. $100 per minute, in addition to Jessica Dragonette's salary, to present Miss Dragonette as the featured guest on Sunday's "Summer Stars" series over CBS. Anxious to procure the very best vehicle for Miss Dragonette, the client has purchased the rights to a five-minute scene from Noel Coward's "Conversation Piece" at a price of $500.

FCC Denies Plea Of Roosevelt Kin

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Presidential relationships were shown to have no potency in the F.C.C. when that body denied a petition to grant, without a hearing, an application for control of KFJZ, Fort Worth, to Mrs. Ruth G. Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the President.

An increase of power to 1,000 watts was granted to WHAZ, Troy, N. Y., but the commission dismissed or denied applications for new stations filed by the Ohio Broadcasting Co., Canton, O.; the Enterprise Co., Beaumont, Tex., and Salinas Newspapers, Inc., Salinas, Cal.

The commission announced that it has received examiners' reports recommending the granting of applications of William F. Maag, Jr., for a new station at Youngstown, O., to operate on 1,420 kilocycles 100 watts, daytime; and of KFNF, Shenandoah, Ia., for increase of power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day; KGO, San Francisco, for increase of power from 7,500 to 50,000 watts; WHNS, Columbus, for increase of power from 500 watts night, 1,000 watts day, to 1,000 watts night, 5,000 watts day, and WWL, New Orleans, for increase of power from 10,000 to 50,000 watts.

Other reports recommended denial of applications for new stations filed by George W. Taylor Co., Inc., Williamson, W. Va.; Warren B. Worcester, San Diego; Abraham Plotkin, Chicago, and Philadelphia Radio Broadcasting Co., Philadelphia.

The commission this week received an application from Mittele Franklin Noble for a new 1,420-kilocycle, 100-watt daytime station at Anniston, Ala.

"On Broadway" New Title

"On Broadway" is the title of the program which has been selected to succeed the adventure series heard on the network last season for Diamond Crystal Shaker Salt, a General Foods product. The new series will be broadcast each Sunday from 3 to 3:30 P. M. over a split NBC-Blue network of 13 stations, beginning Oct. 3. Benton & Bowles is the agency.

The stations are as follows: WJZ, WBZ, WBZA, WFIL, WSYR, WHAM, WEBR, KDKA, WGAR, WXYZ, WCKY, WABY and WCOL.

Darrigo Bros. Take Spots

Darrigo Bros., through the Neff-Rogow agency, have contracted for a 26-week schedule of spot announcements over WNEW.

"Time" Goes Over to NBC on October 14

After more than six years of continuous broadcasting on the CBS network, the "March of Time" will be heard on the rival NBC web, beginning Oct. 14. The time is 9 to 9:30 P. M. on the Blue. The program will oppose the Major Bowes series on CBS and the "Showboat" program on the Red network, or the M-G-M program, if, as now appears all set, this is sold to General Foods Corp. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn is the agency.

Confirm Blue Coal Program

Confirmation of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Co. program for Blue Coal, titled "The Shadow," has been received at the Mutual network offices. The series will begin Sept. 26, and Sundays thereafter from 4 to 4:30 P. M. and from 5:30 to 6 P. M. Ruthrauff & Ryan is the agency.

Stations which will broadcast the 4 to 4:30 P. M. program include WFIL, WBAL, WNAC, WTIC, WEAN and WTAG. Stations which will air the sessions from 5:30 to 6 P. M. include WOR, WGN, WKBW, CKLW and WNBK.

Sid Schwartz Leaves WNEW

Sid Schwartz, for the past two years publicity director for WNEW, has resigned. For the present at least, the station will not appoint a successor to Schwartz, but will assign its special events director, Larry Nixon, to double in both capacities.

Atlantic's Football List Has 163 Games

The Atlantic Refining Co.'s roster of collegiate football games scheduled for broadcast this year has been completed, and the final schedule includes 163 games to be broadcast over 65 stations.

In Philadelphia, Sept. 13, the company will tender a dinner to sports and radio writers, after which it will demonstrate the methods used in training the announcers who will handle the games.

Broadcasters Meet Today

Two meetings which will serve as a prelude to the conclusion of negotiations Sept. 16 between the A. F. of M. and the radio industry open here this morning at the Waldorf-Astoria and the St. Regis hotels, with representatives of independent broadcasters and the NAB attending. The independent broadcasters are gathered at the Waldorf, the NAB members at the St. Regis.

"Barn Dance" Is Renewed

"National Barn Dance," sponsored by Miles Laboratories for Alka-Seltzer, has been renewed for an additional 52 weeks of broadcasting over the NBC-Blue network. The Wade Advertising Agency, Chicago, handled the pact.

NBC Executives Arrive

Arrived here on official business yesterday were three NBC vice-presidents, Don Gilman of the west coast, Frank Russell of the Washington, D. C., division, and Niles Trammell of Chicago.

24 SCRIPPS-HOWARD PAPERS PICK THE WINNER!

N.Y. WORLD-TELEGRAM—SEPTEMBER 8, 1937

"Good Earth" Best August Film, Say Scripps-Howard Critics

They All Unite in Praising the Picture Itself and Acting of Paul Muni and Luise Rainer

With an almost unanimous vote Scripps-Howard movie reviewers picked the August picture of the month—"Good Earth."

Bringing together "the greatest efforts of a great writer, Pearl Buck; an incomparable actress, Luise Rainer, and a magnificent character actor, Paul Muni, this picture stands alone" among August releases.

Here is what some of the reviewers said:—

Word from Columbus.

William S. Cunningham, of the Columbus Citizen:—"This is the cinema at its peak. There is power and majesty and beauty in its realistic re-creation of rural Chinese life. There are superb performances by Luise Rainer and Paul Muni."

Edward Klingler, the Evansville Press:—"From every standpoint this film is a cinema achievement. It would be less than useless to undertake to enumerate the fine points that go to make this picture a triumph."

Laurie March, the Akron Times-Press:—"Luise Rainer, for the second time, becomes one of the screen's incomparable actresses; Paul Muni improves upon all recent characterizations; the film is faithful to the book, which was great also; the photography is exceptional; the sets are faithful, and the direction by Sidney Franklin is masterly."

Ray E. Glenn, the Birmingham Post:—"Good Earth" as a well-nigh perfect motion picture stands alone among August releases and rates not only the movie-of-the-month title but is a strong candidate for movie-of-the-year honors. Aside from the magnificent performances of Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, which were to be expected from two such distinguished luminaries, "Good Earth" offered also an air of honesty and authenticity rare in a picture dealing with a matter so foreign to the lives of the American movie-goer. Its staging, from beginning to end, really merits the use, for once, of the ballyhooer's pet adjective—COLOSSAL!"

An Almost Perfect Film.

James Thrasher, Indianapolis Times:—"As nearly perfect a picture as ever came out of Hollywood. 'Good Earth' is my choice for the August hit picture performance. Direction and photography are of the highest order, and the spirit and style of the book have been captured completely."

AN INTERESTING NEW ANGLE!

Intelligent handling of War News from China enables showmen to indicate to patrons that "THE GOOD EARTH" shows China in all phases of peace and military activity, making comprehension of news from the Orient easier for the public. One more angle to exploit this remarkable production.

TEN CENTS

Para. to File Phila. Appeal Action Monday

Possible That Hearing Will Be Same Day

Paramount will file its application for leave to appeal from Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson's decision dismissing the company's action to restrain Philadelphia exhibitors from mass activities in their "buyers' strike" against the company on Monday in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia, the company stated yesterday.

There is a possibility that a hearing on the application will be obtained the same day, it was said. Since the court is now on summer recess a special convening would be required in order to obtain the immediate hearing. Indications are that in the event the appeal motion is granted Paramount would be given a temporary stay restraining the exhibitor-strikers' activities until Judge Dickinson's decision

Ambassador Pictures Asks SEC for Delay

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—A request that the effective date of its registration be deferred was filed with S.E.C. today by Ambassador Pictures.

The company filed its registration Aug. 25, covering a proposed issue of 1,176,000 shares of $1 par capital stock, of which 600,000 shares are to be offered publicly.

Philco Wins Ruling In RCA Patent Suit

WILMINGTON, Sept. 10.—Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott ruled in Chancery Court here today that RCA could not terminate a licensing agreement with the Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. for manufacture and sale of radio receiving sets under RCA patents.

The court ruled there had been no breach of contract in the organization of Philco Radio & Television Corp., as a sales subsidiary of Philadelphia Storage Battery Co. and that the storage battery firm does not have to pay royalties on complete receiving sets. An accounting on the manufacture of receiving sets made by P. S. B.

Those Rumors Don't Interest Joe Brandt

Reports that Joe Brandt would form a new producing company with George Hirliman, or with P. A. Powers, or would become associated with H. J. Yates' Republic Pictures were met by Brandt yesterday with the laconic comment that "The next one I'll hear is that I'm taking over Paramount."

Brandt added that the reports were "the fourth, fifth and sixth I've heard today." He declined to retail the other three. He confided, however, that "several proposals have been made to me, none of which I am particularly interested in at the moment. I'm here primarily on a vacation with my wife. We're having a swell time. I'll be around for a couple of weeks and if anything happens I'll let you know," he concluded.

Ehrhorn Reversed on An Orpheum Decision

The order of Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn expunging the $8,609 claim of Electrical Products Co., Inc., of California against the Orpheum Circuit, Inc., was reversed in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Federal Judge Robert T. Patterson and the claim was sent back to Referee Ehrhorn for a new hearing.

Electrical Products based its claim on a guarantee by the Orpheum Circuit of an instalment purchase in 1932 of a sign for a Los Angeles theatre by the Orpheum Theatre & Realty Co., a subsidiary. Samuel Zirn, attorney for the alleged creditor, previously had lost two motions to have Referee Ehrhorn removed from the Orpheum bankruptcy case on the grounds of prejudice. The claim was expunged on Aug. 5.

Scales in Midwest Continue to Go Up

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10.—Admission prices continue to go up throughout the territory.

Glen W. Dickinson has raised from 25 to 30 cents at Ellsworth, Kan. The Golden Bell, his competitor, also has gone up to the same top. He has stated that he will raise in other spots in which he operates as competition permits. However, Dickinson doesn't expect grosses to be much better this fall than a year ago because the dry weather badly hurt the corn and row crops, and because the wheat money was "owed." Missouri, Dickinson said, is showing slightly more improvement than Kansas.

A. C. McKinney has gone from 15 to 20 cents on Sunday and Monday at Topeka, Kan., as has J. E. Pennington with his Crystal and Cozy. At Topeka, also, all but one theatre has

The Grand in Shanghai was the first theatre to reopen yesterday since the bombardment of the city. The picture being shown is "Easy Living."

To Start Drive on Games in Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 10.—Final decision to launch a campaign against prize money awards by Charlotte theatres has been made by Solicitor John G. Carpenter, City Solicitor Fred H. Hasty and Chief E. D. Pittman of the Charlotte police.

The decision was made after Carpenter received information from the state Attorney General's office that there is no court ruling in North Carolina on which to base a satisfactory opinion and that the only proper method of determining the status of the events sponsored by the Charlotte theatres is to prosecute the operators and let the courts rule on the matter. Attorney John D. Shaw, representing the Criterion, attended a conference of lawyers and said that his clients were not operating an illegal prize-giving event.

Costs One Cause of Twickenham Failure

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The failure of Twickenham Film Studios, Ltd., according to the report of the Assistant Official Receiver, was due chiefly to insufficient capital, the "excessive optimism" of Julius Hagen, managing director, regarding the value of the company's productions, and the high salaries paid to Hagen and other directors.

The deficiency of the company is shown as £12,267 as regards creditors and, including shareholders, £45,767 in all. Gross liabilities are £138,590, including £97,876 due to unsecured creditors. Players' unpaid salaries amount to £6,284. Debenture holders claim £39,556. Assets are valued at £126,322.

IATSE Seeks Uniform Pact In Exchanges

Meetings Are Expected To Start Shortly

Meetings are expected to get under way shortly between executives of the I.A.T.S.E. and representatives of the major distributing companies on a uniform contract for service employees at all exchanges.

On Sept. 2, negotiations were concluded between both interests on the last two exchange centers. They were Chicago and Los Angeles.

Under the master agreement, a uniform working schedule of 40 hours a week will be set up with minimum wage scales to be designated for individual situations.

Temporarily holding up the sessions are the discussions now under way between major circuits and the unions on a revised operators' scale for the next two years. Under the 10-year master agreement signed two years ago, provisions call for setting up new scales every two years. In the event

Spread of Paralysis Is Halted in Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10.—Infantile paralysis did not reach epidemic proportions in Kansas this year, according to the State Board of Health, and there are approximately 25 cases under quarantine. Whereas in 1930 about 60 new cases were being reported weekly, only four new ones were reported last week. Consequently, there were only a few spots throughout the state where schools will fail, or have failed, to open on schedule.

In Kansas City, Mo., however, opening was delayed until Sept. 13

"Thin Ice" Grosses $68,600 First Week

"Thin Ice" garnered $68,600 for the first seven days at the Roxy. According to the theatre management, a total of 167,965 persons paid to see the picture.

The tally represents the largest gross since the new admission policy was inaugurated and also marks the first week of 20th Century-Fox operation. The Roxy on Sept. 3 emerged from reorganization after being under the supervision of Howard S. Cullman, trustee, for five years.

"An Orphan Boy of Vienna"

(General Foreign Sales)

Featuring the Vienna Choir Boys, internationally famous organization of boy singers, "An Orphan Boy of Vienna" offers a genuinely moving and entertaining piece of screen fare, which is readily understandable to any audience through English subtitles and despite the German language. The film was made by Meteorfilm in Vienna, and was directed by Max Neufeld.

An excellent musical score runs through the entire picture, adding greatly to the effect, and the singing of the boys, as well as flashes of magnificent scenery in the Austrian Tyrol, are notable features of the production.

The story is simple and heart warming, telling of the young orphan, thrown out by his stepfather, who is befriended and taken in by an itinerant street singer, who quickly realizes that the youngster has an unusually good voice. He seeks to enroll the boy in the Vienna Choir Boys' group, and the friendly rector takes the youngster on trial. Disheartened by the fact that all the other boys have mothers, while he has none, he finds a mother in Julia Janssen, who plays the matron.

When she loses part of the day's receipts of the hotel the organization operates, the boy declares he stole it, thinking thus to protect her. He runs away, is almost drowned, and when the money is found, he is nursed to health by Miss Janssen, and is triumphantly reinstated in the group as they start for the United States.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G."

Purely Personal

J. H. SEIDELMAN, foreign head for Columbia, will sail today on the Ile de France to visit the company's branches in England and on the Continent. He also will visit the new office in Alexandria, Egypt.

RICHARD D. SPIERMAN has taken over the management of Japanese distribution for RKO, succeeding FRANK A. KENNEDY, who has resigned and is en route to this country, via Europe.

MILTON BERLE leaves for Boston Sept. 20 to open a week's engagement at an RKO theatre there. From Boston he will go to Chicago for another personal appearance.

NAT LIEBESKIND, head of RKO's Argentine branch, is aboard the Northern Prince, en route from Buenos Aires to New York for home office conferences.

SIDNEY KINGSLEY, author of "Dead End," left for the coast yesterday to confer with SAMUEL GOLDWYN on future picture work.

ARNOLD ALBERT, Warner trailer head at the Burbank studios, is being visited by his mother and brother.

AUSTIN C. KEOUGH has gone to Williamstown, Mass., for a vacation and will not return until Oct. 4.

LOUIS PHILLIPS will leave Monday for Philadelphia, and later next week will go to Dallas.

Film Men on Normandie

Dr. A. H. Giannini, president and chairman of the board of U. A.; Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the 20th Century-Fox board; Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee; and Hunt Stromberg, M-G-M producer, will arrive Tuesday on the Normandie.

FRED RYLE left yesterday to spend the weekend with his family at Barnegat Bay, N. J. If Ryle is as handy with a reel as he is with a makeup kit then it may be a tough break for those sea "monsters."

JOHN E. OTTERSON arrived in New York yesterday after returning from a European vacation by way of Quebec.

KAY KAMEN, that big race horse owner, is proud. Two of the nags finished first the other day.

D. A. DORAN is in town from the coast again.

Harry Brandt Said To Be After Beacon

Harry Brandt, largest independent exhibitor in the local territory, is reported to be negotiating for the Beacon, located at 76th St. and Broadway, and now in receivership. The theatre is part of the Beacon Hotel, which is being reorganized.

The estate of the late Jack W. Springer now operates the Beacon, which was originally included in the group of upper Broadway theatres to be taken over by Skouras Theatres.

Radio-Film Meet Set

ATLANTA, Sept. 10.—A statewide conference on educational uses of radio and films will be held here Oct. 15 and 16 under the auspices of the Audio-Visual Education Ass'n. A tour of radio stations will be a feature. Educational films also will be shown.

"Zola" on Coast

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—"The Life of Emile Zola" had a $5.50 top on a two-day basis at the Carthay Circle last night. The Hollywood fraternity turned out en masse for it.

Warners Will Start London House Soon

Construction of Warners' international showwindow, which will be built on the site of Daly's in London, will get under way shortly. Herman Maier, chief construction engineer for the company, will sail today on the Ile de France to supervise demolition and look after technical details in connection with the new theatre. Plans, already approved, call for 1,800 seats. The new name will be the Warner Theatre.

Sam E. Morris, in charge of all Warner foreign activities, will sail Wednesday on the Normandie to be on hand for preliminary arrangements. Joseph Hummel, foreign sales manager, returned Thursday on the Normandie after looking over Daly's. The new house will exhibit both American and British-made films from Warners.

Ohio Jurors Acquit In Sweepstakes Case

MARION, O., Sept. 10.—A jury in Municipal Court today acquitted George E. Planck, manager of the Palace, and three women employes on charges of operating a lottery.

Chief of Police William E. Marks made the charges following arrests at a Sweepstakes drawing Aug. 18. The defense contended that it was not necessary to buy a ticket.

The case was regarded as a test of the Ohio law. Sweepstakes had been suspended since the arrests.

Broadcast Takes Office

Broadcast Pictures has taken new office quarters in the General Motors Bldg. The company will handle the distribution of foreign as well as domestic product, the first being "Thank You, Madame." Joseph Steiner, former sales manager of American Tobis, has joined Broadcast in the same capacity.

Broadcasters Fail to Agree On Music Plan

Yesterday's conference of the Independent Radio Network Affiliates at the Waldorf Astoria with 200 station representatives present was adjourned at a late hour last night when members failed to agree on a definite plan of action to submit to the American Federation of Musicians, which has demanded that the broadcasters act to bring about reemployment of musicians in the industry, with a musicians' strike as the alternative. The meeting will be resumed this morning.

Also adjourned without any concrete measures agreed upon toward a solution of the same problem was a meeting of the executive board of the National Ass'n of Broadcasters at the St. Regis. This body also will reconvene today.

The A. F. of M. has asked that the I. R. N. A. spend approximately $3,000,000 annually for musicians' salaries. This sum, based on the reported yearly revenue of the approximately 200 I. R. N. A. stations, means an expenditure for musicians of approximately five per cent of each station's yearly gross.

It is believed a vote on the musicians' proposal or a compromise plan will be taken today. The opinion advanced by many of those who attended was that the threatened strike will not be necessary.

Radio News Editors Discuss Union Move

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—A discussion as to whether members should affiliate with a labor union featured the opening session of Radio News Editors and Writers which got under way this morning at the Hotel Sherman. John Van Cronkhite welcomed about 25 members. The general opinion was that there should be no union affiliation, but a decision was put over until tomorrow.

During the afternoon there was a discussion on the handling of various types of news stories. It was agreed that sex and crime stories should be treated only as spot news without details.

Censorship of news broadcasts by sponsors and stations was also discussed and it was agreed that a better understanding should be sought between news men, advertising agencies and clients. Ken McClure of WOAI was chairman of the afternoon session.

Boake Carter's scheduled appearance was cancelled and a letter from him will be read tomorrow. The first annual banquet will be held tomorrow night with the principal speaker to be announced tomorrow.

Add 8 Stations on Cudahy Show

Eight stations will be added to "Bachelor's Children," starting Sept. 27, when the program celebrates its first year on CBS. The new additions will give the series a total of 18 stations. The series is sponsored by the Cudahy Packing Co., and is heard Mondays through Fridays from 9:45 to 10 A. M. was ordered. This had been requested by both P. S. B. and RCA.

RCA had claimed that Philco and P. S. B. were the same entity and had been organized for the purpose of reducing the basis on which royalties were to be paid to RCA.

In the original suit P. S. B. and Philco sought to enjoin RCA from terminating the licensing agreement whereby P. S. B. had a right to use the basic patents owned by RCA. RCA in a cross suit sought to end the agreement, charging P. S. B. had violated the agreement by dividing the licensing with Philco.

Costs One Cause of Twickenham Failure

In the directors' explanation for failure is the statement that they "were misled regarding revenue from the American market. Had they realized that the distribution receipts would be practically negligible, they would have been more conservative in production costs."

of a deadlock, the matter is to go to arbitration.

Several sessions have been held this week between Local 306, members of the I.A.T.S.E. and major circuit heads on the new terms which are to prevail until 1939. Other meetings are scheduled for next week. The agreement, when made, will be retroactive to Sept. 1.

Local 306 is understood to be asking for increases up to 45 per cent. There are no signs of a compromise with indications pointing to the matter being delegated to an arbitration committee of three, as provided in the master 10-year agreement.

Exchanges throughout the country are now working under the terms of individual arrangements set up in New York by representatives of the I.A.T.S.E. and home office executives. Several agreements were revised after local unions objected to terms set for their members. These included Kansas City and Oklahoma City.

had been reviewed by the higher court. However, in the light of recent developments in Philadelphia exhibitor circles the continuance of a restrainer would lack much of the significance which was attached to it at the beginning of the "buyers' strike." The exhibitors in the meantime have concentrated their efforts on the formation of a buying combine for Paramount product in the Philadelphia area, rather than on a campaign of public demonstrations against the company and local exhibitors using its pictures.

Judge Dickinson, in an opinion described by Paramount officials as "mystifying," held that distribution of Paramount pictures in the Philadelphia district had been stopped as a result of the strike and, therefore, were no longer in interstate commerce. For that reason he held that the Federal District Court lacked jurisdiction over the case.

Philadelphia Group To Avoid Picketing

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—An augmented committee of exhibitors making up the so-called U.M.P.T.O. "war board" met today and announced that they would not make capital of Judge Dickinson's dismissal of Paramount's suit for an injunction in the "buyers' strike" demonstrations.

Picketing will not be carried on, although there was veiled intimation that restraint in this respect will depend upon Paramount's attitude.

In the meantime a "persuasion" committee has been formed to contact exhibitors and maintain a front in the quarrel. Nearly 200 exhibitors have signed to join the buying combine to deal with Paramount when a settlement has been reached, it is claimed.

Exhibitor leaders say there is plenty of product available.

Hearing Date Fixed For Coast Writers

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—The Regional Labor Board today set Sept. 27 as the date for a hearing on the Screen Writers' Guild petition to be declared the collective bargaining agent for all film writers here. William J. Walsh, national board attorney, will conduct the hearing.

The screen playwrights already hold a bargaining agreement for writers.

CIO Names Coast Organizer

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—Rudolph Kohl, business agent of the A. F. of L. Motion Picture Painters' Local during the recent strike, has been appointed by the CIO as organizer for the film industry.

C. H. Jordan, secretary of the Los Angeles Industrial Council, said the organizing move was "merely educational and the CIO was not attempting to disrupt the film industry labor situation. We are trying to educate film workers to the advantages of industrial unionism as against craft unionism."

Plan No Call For Strike in Studios Here

Actors Guild Definitely States Position

There will be no strike of talent employed by eastern studios regardless of the course which is followed by the few remaining producers who have not signed up with the Screen Actors' Guild yet, Mrs. Florence Marston, eastern head of the guild, said on Saturday.

"Despite published reports to the contrary," Mrs. Marston said, "there definitely will be no strike action called by the guild here."

She pointed out that the guild is so solidly entrenched in the east already in its own right and through its affiliations with Actors Equity Ass'n., Chorus Equity, the American Federation of Actors and the newly formed American Federation of Radio Artists, that no desirable talent available in the east could be signed up by any

Malco-Warner Deal To Be Signed Today

Contracts are scheduled to be signed today between M. A. Lightman of Malco Theatres and Joseph Bernhardt, general manager of Warner Bros. Circuit Management, Inc., whereby the former will take over 11 theatres in Kentucky.

Two of the theatres included in the group will be turned over to Paramount. The houses are located in Danville. With the nine units, Malco will have a new total of 93 wholly owned and affiliated theatres.

Lightman, who has been in town for about a week on the deal, will leave today for Memphis, following the signing of the contracts.

Report Move to Put On N. O. Vaudeville

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12.—It is reported here and not denied by any of those concerned that Mort Singer, Loew's and the Saenger organization have formed the St. Charles Amusement Co. to take over the St. Charles Oct. 1 for vaudeville shows. The stagehands' union has been approached, it is said, on the subject of wage scales.

This would allow the three major houses to stick to straight pictures while at the same time discouraging neighborhood amateur vaudeville and the Federal theatre programs.

Ford Will Finance Park Color Shorts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Financing of a series of two-reelers of Zion National Park and Bryce Canyon, Utah, some in color, by the Ford Motor Co. was announced today by Arne B. Cammerer, director of the National Park Service.

The two parks, together with Cedar Breaks National Monument, which probably will be included in the project, are among the most spectacular areas of the west.

The Ford company, which already has produced films of Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks, will spend about $25,000 on the pictures, which will be released through the Motion Picture Division of the Interior Dept. The pictures in color will be the first of that type to be made by the company.

Declare Minneapolis Is Far Over-Seated

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 12.—That Minneapolis is over-seated was emphasized again when the City Council License Committee turned down the application of H. L. Griffith for erection of a house near the Loop district.

Representatives of Temple Israel, who contended that a theatre within 150 feet of the entrance to the house of worship would be a detriment, were joined by Loop and neighborhood theatre men in opposing the issuance of the license on grounds that Minneapolis is far over-seated. Griffith, member of one of Minneapolis' oldest families, sought to convert his homestead into a theatre as his first venture into show business.

To End Squawling

HAMILTON, O., Sept. 12.—To discourage bringing babies into the theatre, and thus reducing, partially at least, the annoyance thus caused, the Rialto, second run, a local unit in the Southio circuit, requires a child's ticket for every infant, regardless of age.

IATSE to Embrace All Coast Workers

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12.—The I. A. T. S. E. on Saturday announced that it would claim jurisdiction over all branches of production workers and that a letter asserting this claim would be mailed immediately.

This means, according to William Bioff, coast head for the International, that the organization claims jurisdiction over actors, writers, producers, directors, unit managers, editors, business managers, lot managers, makeup men, seamstresses, painters and all other lot laborers and white collar workers.

Bioff's statement culminates plans

Federal Probe Here Reported As Quiescent

No Film Men Questioned For Some Time

Reports were current along Film Row Saturday that the Government has called off the local inquiry into the Brooklyn and Long Island clearances as they pertain to Loew's, RKO, Century and Skouras circuits. Efforts to check with Leo Hickey, U.S. District Attorney for the eastern district, were unsuccessful.

The Dep't of Justice since last April has refused to divulge any information as to the complainant in the local investigation and the reason for interrogating numerous film sales executives. From time to time, it has been reported that the complaint was filed by Century Circuit, but executives and attorneys for the independent circuit have been reluctant to discuss any phase of the case.

It is almost a month since Roy H. Haines has been called in by Hickey for questioning. He was the last sales executive to appear in the Brooklyn Federal Bldg., although Albert Warner and A. W. Smith have been reported to be on the calendar as next.

Among those who have been before Hickey in addition to Haines are Henry Randel and Lillian Bergson of Paramount and Harry Decker and Sam Lefkowitz of Warners. All have been advised to be on call, but no one

Ryan-E. M. Loew Suit For Fees Is Settled

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—E. M. Loew, a local exhibitor, has agreed to an out of court settlement of the suit brought against him by George S. Ryan for fees for legal services in Loew's recent anti-trust litigation against Paramount, it was learned today.

Ryan withdrew from the Paramount case charging Loew with bad faith after the circuit owner failed to perform a signed settlement with Paramount for cash and considerations approximating $200,000. Ryan subsequently sued Loew for his fees in the action. Loew, with other attorneys, eventually settled with Paramount for approximately $65,000.

The Ryan-Loew case was heard for several weeks before an auditor here when the temporary absence of a Loew lawyer recently brought about a recess. The amount of the settlement with Ryan was not learned.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Music for Madame"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12.—A light and, to an extent implausible, story is carried above the ordinary classification by the splendid singing of Nino Martini, who offers an ingratiating personality and a magnificent voice to "Music for Madame," produced by Jesse Lasky, who gave the grand opera star his first screen opportunity.

Also, there is Joan Fontaine, RKO newcomer, who is attractive, a potentially good actress and possessed of a voice of some charm. Billy Gilbert and Erik Rhodes join in supplying entertaining comedy, while Alan Mowbray is excellent as the temperamental maestro, and Bradley Page adds his bit.

The story has a touch of melodrama, more of romance, and throughout is treated in a light vein. Attractive features are the music and lyrics of Rudolph Friml and Gus Kahn, especially the title song, as sung by Miss Fontaine and Martini, and the beautiful effect provided by a concert in the Hollywood Bowl.

John Blystone held his direction to a humorous treatment and succeeded, with but few letdowns, in the movement of the film. The story, by Robert Harari and Hans Kraly, finds Martini arriving in Hollywood in full voice to seek a spot on the screen. Two crooks use his voice to decoy the guests away from the gift display at a swank wedding as they steal a necklace. Afraid to use his voice since that would be the manner of identifying him, he meets the hopeful composer, Miss Fontaine, and finally, through the effort of Mowbray, comes to triumph at the concert, bringing fame to Miss Fontaine at the same time by singing one of her songs.

Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

"This Way, Please"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12.—Sub-standard in entertainment quality, although featuring several unique showmanship ideas and personalities, the picture chosen for Mary Livingstone's screen debut is merely routine musical comedy, boy-meets-girl romance. Miss Livingstone is not the star. Betty Grable, Buddy Rogers, Ned Sparks, Porter Hall and Lee Bowman carry the load.

The plot in "This Way Please" may be intimately familiar to many theatre operators. Miss Grable, seeking a chorus girl's job, becomes enlisted in a theatre's military disciplined usherette corps. The stage show's master of ceremonies, Rogers, becomes enamoured of her and, to eliminate the situation, Manager Hall fires her. Rogers quits and prospects for the theatre doing any business are nil. Miss Livingstone suggests that Miss Grable be given a chance as entertainer and she, with Hall and Sparks, plan a stage wedding to unite her with Rogers. Things become complicated, as Rogers momentarily reneges, but love finds a way.

Miss Livingstone works in the picture in a manner similar to her radio broadcasting. Good bits of specialty comedy are provided by Fibber McGee and Molly and the sound effects imitator, Rufe Davis.

Bill Thomas and Maxwell Shane concocted the idea. Grant Garrett, Seena Owen and Howard J. Green transcribed it to the screen and Robert Florey directed.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Legion Approves 9
Of 10 New Pictures

The National Legion of Decency, in its list of new pictures for the current week, approved eight of the 10 reviewed for general patronage, approved one for adults, and classed one as objectionable in part. The new films and their classification follow:

Father Kelly Lauds Film, "Dead March"

Rev. John B. Kelly, spiritual director of the Catholic Writers' Guild of America, in a letter to William Pizor, president of Imperial Dist. Corp., praised the production "The Dead March," which is being released by Imperial, and which opens Sept. 18 at the Broadway.

Father Kelly declared, "The film consecrates the screen to the mission of making known the dreaded price to be paid for war and inspires action to establish peace in the realm of time."

More Union Deals Closed

New pacts with the I.A.T.S.E. for Loew's out-of-town theatres have been set in all instances except for a few Poli situations in New England, according to an executive of the circuit. Some of the situations provide for one-year deals, while others run two and three years.

Looking 'Em Over

"Mayerling"

(Pax Film)

A strong, tragic drama recounting an episode in the melancholy story of the Austrian Hapsburgs, "Mayerling," produced at the Joinville studio near Paris by Nero Film, is heavy, but well produced and very ably performed. It has the unfortunate, yet logical conclusion of a suicide pact as the way out of the dilemma of a hopeless love.

There is something to sell in this country in the high production values of the film, as well as in the names of the two cast leaders. Charles Boyer brilliantly plays the dissolute Archduke Rudolph, who meets real love and a few moments of happiness with a young baroness, played by Danielle Darrieux, whose delicately restrained performance of the young girl who falls deeply in love with the prince promises well for her future on the screen.

The film, in French, is based on the novel, "Idyl's End," by Claude Anet, and is directed with fine skill by Anton Litvak from a screen play by Joseph Kessel and J. V. Cube. Excellent characterizations are provided by Suzy Prim as the gabbling countess who acts as go-between for the baroness and the prince, and by Jean Dax as the Emperor Franz Joseph. Subtitles are plentiful and helpful.

Boyer, forced to marry against his will, and constantly spied upon, hating the conservatism and iron will of his father, meets and falls in love with Miss Darrieux. Facing opposition on all sides, compelled to secret meetings, the Archduke is faced with the alternative of giving up the girl or seeing her forced into a convent. She willingly takes the way out which he suggests, and the tragedy of a suicide pact ends the story.

Running time, 91 minutes. "A."

"The Lower Depths"

(Burstyn-Mayer)

From Maxim Gorki's play, Jean Renoir has fashioned as fine a production as has come from French studios in a long while. It is a serious drama, acted to perfection, and relieved in rare moments by snatches of sarcastic humor. Produced by Albatross, English sub-titling effectively translates the dialogue.

The locale of the story is a shelter where vagrants and outcasts come to spend the night. It is kept by Kostylev, a receiver of stolen goods. A variety of characters reside at this rat-haven and much footage is given to their idiosyncrasies. The active part of the story, however, revolves around the love of Pepel, a thief, for Natasha, the sister of Kostylev's wife. They do not understand each other. Pepel breaks up a near seduction by an inspector who is intimidating Kostylev, and departs with Natasha. She later reveals her love for him.

The climax arrives when Kostylev and his wife beat the girl. Pepel interferes and, in the ensuing fight, Kostylev is killed. Pepel goes off to jail, but later is released and he and Natasha go off to their destiny, up from the depths. Another story, that of a bankrupt baron enters the scenario between the romance. Pepel befriends the nobleman while burglarizing his apartment. Later the baron, practically destitute, comes to Kostylev's establishment and resigns himself to his fate. The material is finely interwoven.

The film bears the earmarks of highly intelligent direction. The performances by Jean Gabin, Louis Jouvet, Suzy Prim, Jany Holt, Vladimir Sokoloff, Robert Le Vigan and Rene Genin, are impressive and convincing.

No production code seal. Running time, 95 minutes. "A."

"Time" Pictures Fusion

The next issue of the "March of Time" is expected to have the sequence on the last four years of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's Fusion administration in New York, which the reel's cameramen have been filming quietly in Board of Estimate meetings, police stations and like places for several weeks.

The quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the M. P. P. D. A. will be held within the next fortnight, the date to be set by Will H. Hays following a check with members of the board on his return here tomorrow after his summer stay in Hollywood. The meeting is scheduled to receive the report of the May committee on the availability of film subjects in company vaults for educational purposes. The committee recently completed several months' work of viewing more than 1,500 films from which the material regarded as suitable for educational purposes was catalogued.

Short Subjects

"Radio Patrol"

(Universal)

Hokum, mystery and action, served up as the juvenile trade relishes it, is to be found in this 12-chapter serial. It is based on the syndicated comic strip which should make selling it on weekend matinees a simple matter. The film is well-spiced with spectacular action, an amply far-fetched story and an easily followed narrative. The plot involves the police with an unscrupulous group of Egyptians who are seeking the formula for flexible steel. The inventor is murdered in the first reel, a suspect is kidnapped, the formula is found to be missing and many leads and clues are run down with much excitement. Grant Withers plays the law officer. Mickey Rentschler is the son of the inventor. Catherine Hughes is the misunderstood woman in the case. The support includes Earl Dwire, Adrian Morris, Gordon Hart, Frank Lackteen and Jack Mulhall. Silver Wolf, a police dog, is also featured.

Each chapter runs about 20 minutes. "G."

"Hawaiian Capers"

(Mentone-Universal)

A mediocre collection of acts presented in a night club setting. The second rate acts are the usual singing, dancing and comedy, none distinguished or novel. Featured in the reel are Jean Sargent, Harry Savoy, Lei Keli, The Leslies and Marshall Montgomery. Running time, 17 mins. "G."

"Community Sing 2-1"

(Columbia)

This songfest is set on a train that touches at various cities where tunes are found appropriate to the location. It ranges from "Sidewalks of New York" to "California Here I Come." Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Guild to Aid New Talent

The Theatre Guild will cooperate with the work of the American Theatre Council in providing increased opportunities for new stage talent by sending representatives to the general auditions to be held by the council, it was stated Saturday. In addition, the guild will hold its own "new talent" auditions from time to time and will offer daily interviews with its casting director. Interviews, formerly, were obtainable only by appointment, applied for in writing.

CBS Summer Daytime Use Is Up 257%

CBS summertime advertisers increased their use of daytime radio hours 257.5 per cent over 1936, an analysis reveals.

Expenditures of advertisers for weekly daytime hours on CBS during July and August amounted to $1,190,142, netting the percentage increase mentioned above and boosting the gross revenue for the two months to a summertime high of $3,943,692, up 56.2 per cent over the corresponding two months last year, when summertime advertisers spent $2,525,363.

Weekly daytime hours in August alone were used to the amount of $566,827, up 308.1 per cent over August a year ago. This figure brought the daytime total for the first eight months of this year to $5,281,148, up 106.2 per cent over 1936.

Evening revenue in August was $1,388,453, an increase of 27 per cent over the same month last year. Total gross billings of CBS in August were $1,955,280, up 58.6 per cent over a year ago. The eight-month total was $18,746,957, an increase of 36.7 per cent.

"WALTZ DREAM"

Five New Accounts Sign for WHN Spots

Marking off 18 new accounts placed at WHN since Sept. 3, the station Saturday reported five commercial orders.

Adam Hat Stores, Inc., has signed to cover the broadcasting of boxing bouts each Tuesday night from the Bronx Coliseum. The season will open this month and will continue to June 1. Adam Stores has also signed to broadcast the fights every Monday from the Royal Windsor, beginning with the inaugural bout Sept. 20. The Glicksman agency handled the contracts.

Confidential Personal Loan Co., starting Sept. 20, will sponsor three 15-minute broadcasts weekly. Alsop Radio Recording is the agency.

Chevrolet Motor Co. has renewed its transcribed "Musical Moments" series for 13 additional weeks of broadcasting. Campbell-Ewald is the agency.

Eaton Paper Co. has signed for spot announcements, 13 weeks, through Badger & Browning.

Musterole Co. will present the Carson Robinson program Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 11:30 to 11:45 A. M., beginning Oct. 4. Erwin-Wasey is the agency.

Arnew Session Ends; Adopt Ethics Code

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The Association of Radio News Editors and Writers, in their final day session here, worked out a code of ethics for broadcasting news and ways and means of handling sex and crime stories on the air. Delegates from the far west and south arrived Saturday, swelling total attendance to about 50.

Two New Shows on KGB

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 12.—"Magic Island," a 15-minute transcribed series, is a new bi-weekly feature on KGB, local Don Lee outlet. The program, an adventure serial for children, written and produced by Perry Crandall, former KGB continuity writer, is heard Tuesdays and Fridays at 5:45 P. M., P. S. T. The Universal Boot Shop is the sponsor.

Another program on wax spotted for KGB is the "Phil Cole Radio Mysteries" series sponsored by Philco Radio & Television Corp., and aired Mondays at 8:30 P. M.

Celler to Talk on Nazis

Congressman Emanuel Celler will discuss the difference of opinion expressed between Ambassador Dodd and Secretary of State Hull concerning an American representative to the Nazi convention in Germany, in a special address on WMCA today from 8:15 to 8:30 P. M. Celler will explain his opposition to American participation.

Pick Three for "Hotel"

"That Certain Woman," with Bette Davis, Anita Louise and Ian Hunter, appearing in the lead roles, will be presented on "Hollywood Hotel" over CBS Sept. 17.

Godfrey Has 88th Sponsor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Arthur Godfrey will start work for his 88th sponsor over WJSV in a new series titled "Moon Dial" for Look Magazine.

New Shows On the Air

"Schaefer Revue"

"Schaefer Revue," sponsored by the Schaefer Brewing Co. and presented locally only over WEAJ, provides tunelessly pleasant listening, with Ray Heatherton offering the vocals and Leo Reisman's crack unit serving the orchestral melodies.

Reisman's band is unquestionably one of the finest purveyors of popular music extant. The orchestra's repertoire for the evening consisted of an unusually sophisticated arrangement of the "St. Louis Blues," Johann Strauss' "Vienna Life," "Whispers in the Dark" and "Have You Got Any Castles, Baby?" The latter two numbers included choral performances.

Ray Heatherton's "I Know Now" and "Where or When" rounded out an altogether enjoyable period.

"The Schaefer Revue," it may be mentioned in passing, is not a new program. It was presented last season as the "9 O'clock Revue," on WOR. It is now heard from 7:30 to 8 P. M. Thursdays.

"Song Shop"

Coca-Cola's "Song Shop," for the balance of its stay on CBS, should be marked a "must" program. It lacks high-powered radio names, but the performers nevertheless are excellent artists, and are bound to be contenders for listeners' ears no matter what the star booking on opposition programs.

Candidly, we were never much of an admirer of Frank Crumit, Reed Kennedy, Gus Haenchen, or Kitty Carlisle, and as for Alice Cornett, we never heard of her. Since hearing them on the inaugural "Song Shop" airing, however, we are compelled to revise our estimation of their worth. Each was more than excellent.

Miss Carlisle offered "High Up On a Hilltop," "I Cannot Live Without You," both from "White Horse Inn," in which she starred, and "One Kiss" and "A Waltz Was Born in Vienna." The latter number was marred somewhat by the inclusion of a musical comedy vignette which told a love story. Kennedy's vibrant baritone was excellently fitted to "The Grenadiers." The band numbers, and Miss Cornett's solo, were thoroughly enjoyable.

"Song Shop" is offered Fridays from 10 to 10:45 P. M. over the CBS network, Coca-Cola sponsoring.

Two NBC Programs Renewed

Renewals for two NBC-Blue network programs have been placed. Lamont Corliss Co., sponsors of "Husbands and Wives," has been signed for an additional 52 weeks on the air, effective Oct. 5. The series is offered from 8 to 8:30 P. M., Tuesdays. J. Walter Thompson handles the account.

Pacific Coast Borax Co., sponsors of "Death Valley Days," has renewed the series for 13 weeks, beginning Oct. 1. The programs are presented Fridays from 8:30 to 9 P. M. McCann-Erickson is the agency.

"Eton Boys" Set New Program

The "Eton Boys" will begin a new series of programs over CBS Sept. 20, and each Monday and Wednesday from 5:15 to 5:30 P. M. thereafter.

Radio Men Vote on Two Resolutions

The conference called by Independent Radio Network Affiliates, representing the approximately 200 stations belonging in this category, are voting on two resolutions designed to meet the A. F. of M. situation, it has been learned.

The resolutions are as follows:

Resolution No. 1. This convention, comprised of representatives of a majority of the radio stations affiliated in operation with the three nationwide networks NBC, CBS and MBS, has considered the report presented by its special advisory committee on negotiation with the AFM regarding the demands recently presented to the radio industry for employment of additional musicians. The committee reported that it recommended that these stations, which are approximately 258 in number, excluding the originating key stations of the networks in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, agree to expend an aggregate of $1,500,000 per annum in addition to present expenditures, or a total sum of not less than $3,000,000 per annum, for salaries of staff musicians members of the AFM to be engaged on regular employment. The committee further reported that a tentative proposal to this effect presented by it to the officers of AFM was approved by them subject to approval by the AFM as to allocation of this expenditure among the stations. It was Resolved: 1. This convention accepts and approves in principle the report as submitted.

2. This convention continues the special advisory committee with instructions to carry out the subject matter of this resolution.

To Negotiate Standard Contract

3. The committee is instructed to negotiate with the AFM a standard form of uniform contract as to all provisions except wages, hours and local working conditions, which will be incorporated in contracts to be entered into between radio stations and union locals intended to carry out the purposes of the agreement now to be entered into with the AFM, such standard form to include provisions as covered by this resolution.

4. Among such provisions such standard form of contract shall include:

a. Waiver of requirement of union membership for acknowledged virtuosos, amateurs other than band groups and performers on novelty instruments.

b. Employer shall have free right of selection of musicians, and complete control of program material.

c. Right to use services of staff musicians for commercial, sustaining or network programs, any extra compensation received by musicians for commercials to be credited against station's quota of expenditure.

d. Satisfactory clause for cancellation in the event of termination or modification of FCC license or other emergencies.

5. The committee shall point out to AFM the fairness of and endeavor to include in such standard form of contract the following further provision:

Booking Rights Defined

a. Right to book staff band for outside engagements at commission not in excess of the legal rate applicable but in no event in excess of 15 percent.

b. Satisfactory clause for arbitration of differences between station and local.

6. Such contract shall be for a term of not less than three years beginning October 1, 1937, or such later date as it becomes effective and shall contain such other provisions as in the judgment of the committee shall be fair and equitable to both station and the local.

7. Each station shall have the right to expend its agreed quota during such periods of the year as in its discretion it may elect with the understanding, however, the effort will be made to provide not less than nine months' employment during each year for each musician.

Resolution No. 2. Whereas, by adoption of Resolution 1, the IRNA has approved the recommendation of its special advisor committee that the radio stations affiliated in operation with the three nationwide networks, including the stations owned, managed or operated by the networks, except the originating key stations in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles (all of which are hereinafter referred to as affiliates) shall expend for staff musician members of the AFM for a period of three years or more, beginning Oct. 1, 1937, a total sum of not less than $3,000,000 per annum; and Whereas, it is necessary that a method of allocation of quotas be adopted which will fairly and equitably distribute the burden of this expenditure and the benefit of the employment thereby created,

Compute Basis of Percentages

Resolved, that it is the sense of this convention that the fair measure of expenditure which any individual affiliate shall be obligated to make to carry out the purposes of the committee's recommendations shall be:

1. A percentage of the gross revenue, defined as net receipts from sale of station time, said percentage to be computed on the aggregate gross revenue of all the affiliates to produce a total of $3,000,000, being approximately 5 per cent or

2. A multiple of the station's maximum published quarterly hour rate to be expended weekly, computed to produce a total of $3,000,000; being approximately three and one-half times the rate; or

3. A sliding scale based on the quarter-hour rate according to size of markets.

4. A weighted average based on both local rate, national rate and gross revenue; or

5. An option to the station to choose between 1 and 2; or

6. A factor of circulation or coverage as published by the networks; or

7. (Any other basis approved by this convention.)

8. In any event stations with a published quarter hour rate of $15 or less shall be exempt.

producer who was not a signatory to the guild contract. This in itself would be sufficient to make a strike call against any producer or studio here unnecessary, Mrs. Marston said.

Officials of the few remaining eastern production companies who have not yet signed with the guild admitted to MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Saturday that this was an accurate appraisal of the situation.

"We'll have to sign eventually," one spokesman said. He added that his company had no vigorous objections to dealing with the guild, but saw no reason for haste in view of the fact that new season production was not scheduled to get under way immediately and that a contract "can be made at any time."

Mrs. Marston said that the guild would not give formal notice of a "deadline" date for the inauguration of the guild shop in the east to the few remaining producers who have not signed. She said such a date may be set at any time and that producers here were "sufficiently informed already of the guild's intentions and purpose to require no further notice of the inauguration of a guild shop."

of the I. A. T. S. E., but appears to be a vertical unionization of the film industry. However, while indications are that the international may get other groups into its fold, the belief here is that actors, writers, directors and producers will never go into the I. A.

The Screen Actors Guild has a contract with producers for 10 years. Directors are organized into a Screen Directors Guild with assistant directors and unit managers. Writers have been organized into a Screen Playwrights' and Screen Writers' Guild. Producers have no organization for collective bargaining.

No union officer was available over the weekend for comment on Bioff's statement.

The United Scenic Artists local of Painters Brotherhood disclosed yesterday that it would join the I.A.T.S.E. on Sept. 30, while the Associated M.P. Costumers are prepared to surrender their direct A.F.L. charter to join the international. The latter group includes wardrobe workers, costumers and seamstresses.

has been notified by Hickey to make another appearance.

Meanwhile, Century Circuit has closed product deals with United Artists and 20th Century-Fox. Shortly another meeting will be held between Fred Schwartz, film buyer for the circuit, and Henry Randel of Paramount with indications that a one-year arrangement will be advanced a step further.

In the two deals already set, no changes in the present clearance setup, as far as Century is concerned, have been made. Loew's, which recently concluded a two-year contract with Paramount, has the same protection clauses as last year, thereby precluding an alteration in the Paramount-Century pact, if, and when, made.

Not to Alter Clearances

Although the complaint is said to be directed against Loew's and RKO, no executive of either major circuit has been before Hickey. Both circuits have insisted that they would not alter the local clearance schedules, despite the investigation.

Nate J. Blumberg, operating head for the RKO circuit, is on the coast and will be gone several days. Louis Nizer, who has been retained by the circuit and who has already submitted a 90-page brief to Leo Spitz on the activities of Century during the past 10 years, is vacationing in California.

Leo Hickey has been away from his office quite regularly during the past month. The only information given out at his Brooklyn headquarters is that "he is out of town."

Music Strike Fear Killed By Agreement

Union Accepts Offer-NA
In Special Session

By JACK BANNER

The last possibility that a general musicians' strike would be called against the broadcasting industry has faded with the acceptance by the A. F. of M. of the Independent Radio Network Affiliates offer to add $1,500,000 annually to musician payrolls. This was one of the major developments of the I.R.N.A. meetings held over the weekend at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Second major development of the weekend broadcasters' turmoil was the decision of the N.A.B. board of directors, meeting separately, to call a general convention of N.A.B. members in New York City. The date has not been officially set as yet, but it will probably be about Oct. 4, James Baldwin, managing director of the N.A.B. said.

"Zenda" to Stay 3rd Week at Music Hall

"The Prisoner of Zenda" over the weekend went beyond the Music Hall's control figure governing holdovers and will be held for a third week. The picture did an approximate $69,000 from Thursday to Sunday, inclusive.

United Artists, riding high on a wave of enthusiasm, yesterday was forecasting a second week of $105,000 to $106,000 and went further by computing $90,000 on the third week.

"Dead End," another U. A. current release, tomorrow will start its fourth week at the Rivoli.

Ampa to Resume Its Meetings Thursday

Ampa begins its fall season of meetings with a luncheon at Sardi's on Thursday. Guests will include Walter Wanger, Stuart F. Doyle, Barbara Stanwyck, Gertrude Berg of "The Rise of the Goldbergs" air program, and Agnes Meollo and Walter Cosden, winners of the "Harvest Moon" dancing contest.

Grant Para. Rehearing in Phila. Case

New Hearing Scheduled For October 4

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here today granted Paramount a rehearing of its application for a permanent injunction to restrain local exhibitors from concerted action and mass demonstrations in their "buyers' strike" against the company. The new hearing is scheduled to be held on Oct. 4.

Paramount's application for the permanent injunction was dismissed last week by Federal Judge Oliver B. Dickinson in U. S. District Court here. Judge Dickinson, ruling that Paramount films had ceased to be in interstate commerce in this territory through the expiration of last season's contracts and the refusal of local exhibitors to enter into new contracts, ruled that the district court lacked jurisdiction in the case

Para. Drive Ends With Million Rental

Paramount Week, the annual weekly sales drive, closed last Saturday with more than $1,000,000 in rentals for the week, the company reported yesterday. It is said to be the largest gross for the period of the drive since 1930.

Neil F. Agnew attributed the success of the drive largely to the "exceptional product available" and the manner in which the pictures were received at the box-offices of the nation. Paramount has 15 features completed and ready for release and an equal number in various stages of production.

Intermountain Lifts Scales in 50 Spots

DENVER, Sept. 13.—Admissions have been raised in 50 Fox Intermountain houses under the 40-cent mark. The general boost is five cents.

Four Denver houses are affected—the Aladdin, Broadway, Paramount and Tabor. The Aladdin and Broadway drop 25-cent balcony rates for a uniform 40-cent scale throughout the houses at night. Matinees remain at 25 cents. The Paramount will be on the same basis. The Tabor, subsequent run, will keep a 25-cent matinee with evenings raised to 35 cents.

IA to Proceed On Organizing Minor Workers

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Emerging from a four-hour conference with E. J. Mannix and Victor Clarke of the producers' labor relations department, William Bioff, personal representative of George Browne, I.A.T. S.E. president, today said that the organization would proceed immediately to organize minor employees of the studios under its charter and would temporarily defer inclusion of other studio workers until the return here of Louis B. Mayer and Joseph M. Schenck.

The trio conferred at the M-G-M office of Mannix over the I.A.T.S.E. announcement Saturday of plans to extend jurisdiction over all film production workers, including actors, writers and directors as well as minor crafts and the demand of the I.A. that the emblem of the organization be used on pictures to "insure projection of prints throughout the country by our projectionists."

Clarke parried queries with the statement that he had nothing to say, that Bioff would make the announcement.

The complete Bioff statement follows: "We are immediately proceed-

Interstate Buys Out Moore & Fitzgerald

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—The Interstate Circuit has bought out Moore and Fitzgerald. Edward Ansin and Harold Stoneman acquire the Chatham in Chatham, Community in Osterville and Hyannis and Idle in Hyannis by the deal. Moore and Fitzgerald are reported to be quitting the business.

A deal also is on the fire between Phil Smith and Interstate to clarify the Hyannis situation, where Smith had set plans to build. The transfer brings Interstate close to being New England's largest independent circuit. The deal is reported not to be effective until the close of the present so-called summer season.

20th-Fox Will Again Seek to Buy Out Chase

Schenck Says Deal Hangs On Suit Settlement

By BILL ORNSTEIN

Negotiations for the purchase of the Chase National Bank stock interest in 20th Century-Fox will be resumed by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the 20th Century-Fox board, following settlement of a Government suit against National Theatres Agency, Inc., theatre subsidiary of the distributing company, Schenck said yesterday, when he arrived from Europe on the Normandie.

There have been some talks, Schenck added, but "we have decided to do nothing until the suit is over."

Asked about the G. B. deal he said: "It is standing still, and that means they are going back." Schenck asserted he had no thought of discussing a deal with the Ostrers for acquiring their stock in G. B., adding that he had once made a deal with Isidore Ostrer and "he reneged."

There were no conferences abroad on the situation, although Schenck did meet John Maxwell once, but just to say "Hello."

"The contemplated quota could be improved a bit," the chairman of the 20th Century-Fox board said, "and

New Exchange Firm For Indies Planned

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—A plan to organize a national company to provide bonded exchanges in key cities exclusively for several independent producers is being mapped here. The idea would group the product of producers now using the state rights system under one organization controlling an exchange in each city and furnishing bonds to guarantee returns as stipulated in the distribution contract.

Holdovers on "Thin Ice"

"Thin Ice" achieved a record number of 46 holdovers during its fifth week, according to 20th Century-Fox.

"Double" in Big Money

Paramount reports that "Double or Nothing" made the best gross in six months at the United States Theatre in Paterson, with $3,200 in three days, and did $6,200 in the first three days at the Saenger in New Orleans.

Skouras, Ricketson East

DENVER, Sept. 13.—Charles Skouras and Rick Ricketson will fly to New York next week to meet Spyros Skouras before the latter sails for Europe.

Meanwhile, they are on a week's deer hunt in Wyoming with several other theatre men including Joe Dekker, Al Gould, Jr., Tony Archer, Dick Dickson, Tom Berta and others.

Yom Kippur to Start

Tonight, at sundown, Yom Kippur, the Jewish Day of atonement, will be ushered in and commemorated by fasting until sundown tomorrow.

Purely Personal

SAM E. MORRIS, vice-president in charge of Warner foreign activities, will sail for London tomorrow on the Normandie. He will be met there by JACK L. WARNER, vice-president in charge of production, early in October.

CRESSON E. SMITH, western and southern sales manager for RKO, will fly tonight to Dallas, first stop on a 10-day sales and inspection trip which also will include New Orleans, Atlanta and Charlotte.

OSCAR SMITH, Paramount studio bootblack who has appeared in a number of pictures and is famous among film people, will arrive in New York Sunday as a delegate to the American Legion convention.

BUSTER WEST and TOM PATRICOLA, comedy team, begin production today on their first Educational comedy for the new season at the company's Astoria studios.

HEIDY VON MASSBURG, Austrian stage star, arrived yesterday on the Normandie. Also on the ship were MICHAEL GOUGH, British actor, and DIANA GRAVES, English actress.

JOY HODGES, who has just completed work in "Merry-Go-Round of 1938" for Universal, is in town to start rehearsals for GEORGE M. COHAN'S "I'd Rather Be Right."

BARNEY BALABAN has called off his trip to Chicago for the holidays. The reason: His oldest son has a slight case of pneumonia.

MONTE PROSER will leave for the coast today by air for WALTER WANGER. He plans to be gone about a month.

ROY DISNEY has arrived from Hollywood in connection with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

REG WILSON, G. B. home office sales representative, will leave today for Dallas.

NATE BLUMBERG is due back from a short coast trip momentarily, or almost so.

WILL H. HAYS returned to New York yesterday after spending the summer on the coast.

PAULETTE GODDARD in town from the coast.

Ohio Appeal Undecided

MARION, O., Sept. 13.—City Solicitor Ralph E. Carhart has not decided whether to take an appeal from the jury verdict acquitting Robert E. Planck, manager of the Palace, on a lottery charge growing out of a Sweepstakes drawing. The City Council is in possession of the Palace drawing equipment and will decide whether to return it, in case no appeal is taken.

Fleischer to Oppose Labor Board Ruling

Fleischer Studios will refuse to recognize the validity of the National Labor Relations Board ruling, handed down in Washington on Sunday, that the recent employees' election at the studio gave the Commercial Artists & Designers Union the right to act as exclusive bargaining agent for the Fleischer employees, Arthur B. Krim of Phillips & Nizer, attorneys for Fleischer, said yesterday.

Krim declared that the Wagner Act provides that the N.L.R.B. "must take steps in the district or circuit court to enforce a ruling of this nature" and that pending "a determination of the legality of the methods and procedure adopted by the board in this instance" no recognition will be given by the studio to the certification of the employees' election made by the board.

The board's ruling held that the union could represent the 30 Fleischer animators who, the studio says, requested the board, by a vote of 26 to four, to segregate them as a separate unit with problems differing completely from those of the other 100 studio employees. The company states that the board ignored this request and, in fact, denied that it had been made.

Krim said that the company has recognized the union as a bargaining agent for certain of its employees, but was unwilling to recognize it as the representative of all.

M-G-M Will Attempt To Develop Writers

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—M-G-M has installed a new writers' department for the training of possible screen literary talent under the direction of Edwin Knopf, story department head, and John Gallishaw, New York story consultant.

Already enrolled are William Ludwig, Charles Marsh, Alfred Schiller, Howard Wilson, Ian Hunter, Hannibal Towle and Richard Litton.

Jersey Allied Will Make Product Survey

One of the features of the New Jersey Allied convention to be held at the Ritz, Atlantic City, Sept. 22-24, will be a product survey, Lee W. Newbury, president, stated yesterday.

Among the officers and directors of the national organization who will be on hand for the three-day session are Nathan Yamins, president; Abram F. Myers, general counsel, and Arthur Price, eastern regional vice-president.

Investigate Bombings

Police yesterday were investigating the bombings of 21 Springer & Cocalis theatres in Manhattan and the Bronx. Labor difficulties are said to have had a bearing on the matter, although the two operator unions deny any responsibility.

Minor Ban Hits Omaha

OMAHA, Sept. 13.—Three suburban houses—H. R. Grobeck's Mueller and the Epstein circuit's Lothrop and Circle—were forced to close in mid-week because of the health department's ban on minors during the paralysis epidemic. First runs are hard hit, too.

Future Plans Await Return, Says Doyle

His future plans in the theatre business will be decided by Stuart F. Doyle upon his return to Australia, he said yesterday upon his arrival from the coast. When he arrives in Sydney, he will have completed a world survey of the theatrical business.

"I have not completely severed my association with the theatre business in Australia," he said. "I retain an interest in several small companies, but whether I will get into active operation or build another circuit will be decided after I return to Sydney."

Doyle said that irrespective of where he will operate, his headquarters will be in London. He is now building two theatres in Piccadilly which are to be completed soon. He also is chairman and a director of Commonwealth Broadcasting Corp., largest radio company in Australia. He added that once every month he will fly from Australia to England. He said the trip takes six days.

While here for the next 10 days, Doyle will make use of Greater Union Theatres' office in the Loew Bldg. He plans to sail Sept. 23 on the Bremen for London to look over the two new theatre projects.

John Hicks Sailing To Talk Production

John W. Hicks, Jr., Paramount vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, will leave for England tomorrow on the Normandie to conduct the company's annual foreign sales convention and to confer with Adolph Zukor and J. C. Graham on the company's British producing plans.

The annual foreign sales meet will be held in London, Sept. 25 and 26, and will be attended by all Paramount sales managers from the Continent in addition to the British sales force. Zukor will attend the meeting and will confer with Hicks and Graham on British producing plans at that time. Hicks will visit Paramount's Continental offices later and will be away about six weeks in all.

Zukor's present plans call for his return to New York on the Queen Mary's Sept. 29 sailing, which would bring him here Oct. 4.

J. M. Johnston Dies

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13.—Joseph Maurice Johnston, 54, connected with the industry for 25 years, died at his home Saturday after a week's illness. He was part owner of the Lyric, New Boston, O., and formerly owned an interest in the local Fisher Pictures Corp. His widow and three daughters survive. Burial was in Rest Haven Memorial Park.

Charles Statler Passes

AKRON, Sept. 13.—Charles Statler, 52, veteran exhibitor here, died in St. Thomas Hospital after an operation. He owned and operated the Nixon for 25 years and at times the Southern and Peoples. His widow, a son and two daughters survive.

Leach New G. B. Manager

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 13.—Charles W. Leach, former assistant to Clinton White at the home office, has succeeded Carl J. Goe, resigned, as branch manager for G. B. here.

probably will. They want to do the right thing in England, I think."

Five pictures will be made in England, three by Robert T. Kane and two by Samuel Engel with Gracie Fields. Schenck said that these will be big pictures inasmuch as "productions costing $500,000 will be as good as four quota pictures."

United Artists Theatres Circuit paid between $800,000 and $900,000 for the 50 per cent interest in Robb & Rowley circuit in Texas. There is no expansion planned at this time, Schenck said, and no deal has been offered. However, if anything good comes up, he added, the circuit may consider new theatres.

The 20th Century-Fox board is scheduled to meet today. The session will be routine, according to Schenck, as nothing important is slated to come up.

Not Financing Korda

There is no truth to the report that M-G-M is financing Alexander Korda, Schenck said. This latter was confirmed by Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the U. A. board and president.

Schenck plans to leave for the coast in about a week. He visited Carlsbad, England, Amsterdam, Venice and one or two small European cities. He said he felt much better after the baths. Business abroad he said was very good.

"I haven't heard a word on the Korda deal for the purchase of stock held by three United Artists partners," Giannini said. "As far as I know there's nothing new on this deal." He also said that the Selznick situation was in status quo and that he had every reason to believe that the producer would continue with the company.

As for Walter Wanger, his contract has nine more years to run. George Elcock, one of the three English partners in Odeon Circuit, accompanied Giannini. He is here for a vacation.

While in Paris, Giannini called in foreign representatives of Oslo, Czechoslovakia, Geneva, Brussels and Copenhagen for a meeting. Giannini said he had never met the men and it was a good idea to get acquainted.

Korda will make six to eight this season. The chairman and president of U. A. insisted that his trip had nothing to do with raising money for Samuel Goldwyn and Korda to exercise the purchase options.

Odeon Has 223 Houses

He declared that since U. A. purchased a half interest in Odeon circuit, the stock has more than doubled in value. The circuit now has 223 theatres and in October will open a unit in Leicester Square.

Giannini will remain in town about a week and then head for the coast, where he will continue to make his headquarters.

John Schiff, a partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., returned after six weeks of grouse shooting in Scotland. Incidentally, Stanton Griffis, chairman of the executive committee, also was a passenger. He dodged reporters.

However, Schiff when questioned about the reported settlement of the two suits against Paramount trustees said he was not in a position to talk. He denied seeing Arthur Ballantine, who is attorney for the trustee, while abroad, and also said he did not discuss the case with Griffis. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are defendants in the matter.

Barney Ballaban, president of Paramount, who had gone to the pier to meet Griffis, said that he had not heard of any developments in the suits for three weeks.

Stromberg Returns

However, with the return of Schiff, it is expected that the suits, scheduled for hearing Sept. 27 will either be put over indefinitely or marked off the court calendar permanently. The reported settlement of the suit was "news" to him, Schiff added.

Returning from a seven-week vacation, Hunt Stromberg will depart for the M-G-M studios in about a week, he said, to begin the first of a series of pictures lined up for him. The first will be "Marie Antoinette," which will star Norma Shearer. Charles Laughton will not be in it. The second is "Another Thin Man," with William Powell and Myrna Loy. Number three is "Idiot's Delight," with Norma Shearer and Clark Gable. The next will be "Robin Hood" with Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy. Then will come "Springtime," a play, with Robert Taylor and Lionel Barrymore.

Stromberg said his trip was a combination business and vacation. He "investigated" casts for "Marie Antoinette" and worked with Robert Sherwood in England on the script of "Idiot's Delight." Sherwood is scheduled to sail tomorrow from England, en route to the M-G-M studios to finish the script. The M-G-M producer signed two players, but would not disclose their names.

Mrs. Natalie Kalmus, who just finished working on "The Drums" and "The Divorce of Madame X," for Alexander Korda, returned for a month's vacation. She will go back to England to work on "Bicycle Built for Two," which Victor Saville will direct for Korda. Then will follow a Merle Oberon film.

Dieterle, Futter Back

William Dieterle, Warner director, spent three months vacationing, mostly in Russia. He will spend three days here before leaving for Hollywood. He said he didn't know what his next assignment would be.

Walter Futter returned with a print of "Jericho," which stars Paul Robeson and Henry Wilcoxon. He said he had made a deal for national distribution, but would not reveal the company. He will leave for Hollywood in three weeks and then return to England to make another picture.

Reinhold Schunzel, M-G-M director signed by Louis B. Mayer at Carlsbad, will leave for Culver City in a few days. He said he had a seven-year contract. His last picture was "Land of Love" for Tobis. Prior to that he made 16 for Ufa.

Constance Bennett left for Hollywood via American Airlines shortly after she debarked. Sol A. Rosenblatt returned from a two-week trip to England and France where he conducted business for Transamerica Radio Corp.

ing with the organization of film editors, cutters and assistants, music librarians, wardrobe makers and workers, tailors and handlers, gardeners, janitors, watchmen, firemen, policemen and Moviola operators, which will keep us busy until the arrival here of Schenck, Mayer and other studio executives, at which time we will follow through with our organization program to include within our ranks every branch in the production of motion pictures.

Apparently Bioff is withholding the actual start of the creative talent organization drive upon the request of Clarke and Mannix.

Letter from Holmden

Accompanying the jurisdiction claim letter to producers Saturday was a letter signed by Harland Holmden, I.A.T.S.E. vice-president, saying, "Please be advised that conforming to the action of our general executive board it will be necessary that all prints bear the I.A.T.S.E. emblem after Sept. 18. Will you please advise your producing organizations that the above be complied with in order to insure projection of prints throughout the country by our projectionists, members of I.A.T.S.E."

A fairly comprehensive check of the industry labor situation today revealed a heterogeneous picture as far as the spread of I.A.T.S.E. jurisdiction is concerned.

The studio carpenters' local, 3,000 strong, still has an agreement for four years under the studio basic agreement. The recently-settled jurisdictional dispute with the I.A.T.S.E. regarding property men's working conditions, according to Cliff Mace, business agent, is agreeable to both sides.

The situation had been a troubled one for some time. The studio painters local agreement has until May to run. The pact was obtained with the aid of the I. A. The Associated M. P. Costumers local yesterday voted virtually unanimously to surrender its own A.F.L. charter and enter the I.A.T.S.E. They have an agreement with the producers growing out of the recent strike.

A. S. C. Controls Cameramen

The American Society of Cinematographers, which signed a five-year bargaining agreement with the producers, in 1934, after the cameramen's strike failed, still controls the first cameramen but the I. A. has the assistants fairly well organized. The makeup men and scenic artists' locals of the Painters Brotherhood already have voted to leave their international for the I.A.T.S.E. The Society of Film Editors is carrying on bargaining conferences with the producers, having rejected the first proposal on wages and working conditions made by the studios last week. The Screen Directors' Guild still is awaiting the producers' reply to the last communication declaring the guild would not dissolve itself into two organizations, one for directors and one for assistants and unit managers.

Meanwhile, the Academy of M. P.

Arts and Sciences continues to handle its code for assistant directors as the last vestige of its economic activities, having dropped the writers' and actors' working agreements. The writers' field is split in two definite groups, Screen Playwrights and Screen Writers' Guild, with the latter's petition for collective bargaining before the regional labor board and set for hearing Sept. 27. Neither group is affiliated with labor but the guild is chartered by the Authors' League of America.

Also before the labor board are the petitions of Societies of M. P. Art Directors, Artists and Illustrators and Set Designers, all covering crafts claimed by the Scenic Artists local.

The Studio Utility Workers, one of the original F.M.P.C. groups on strike, has an agreement with the producers on wage scales and working conditions, but the field is limited merely to construction work, having lost about half of its membership to the I. A. in the jurisdictional dispute which arose during the strike. The I. A. aided the Utility Workers to get an agreement.

The white collar workers are organized rather loosely on virtually all lots, but Paramount is the only studio signing an agreement with its employee group. Whether jurisdictional claims over this division of workers are effective is an open question.

Directors' Statement Today

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Howard Hawks, chairman of the Screen Directors' Guild negotiating committee, said tonight that the guild would issue a statement tomorrow on the I.A.T.S.E. jurisdictional claim over directors and assistants.

Junior Guild to Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—The board of directors of the Junior Screen Actors' Guild has set Sept. 19 for the next quarterly meeting.

Guild Shop Raises Extra Pay Over 10%

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—During June and July, the first two months of the Screen Actors' Guild shop rule, extras received more than 10 per cent above the 1936 rate of pay, according to figures of the guild.

In June, Central Casting made 22,226 placements among major studios using its services. Total wages paid were $239,906.36, making the daily average wage rate $9.32, 12.8 per cent more than they would have been paid in 1936. A total of $32,751.36 of this amount was paid in overtime and adjustments.

The total for the 29,786 July placements was $310,844.18. At the former rates, the total would have been $279,178.76. The average daily rate for July was $10.43, one of the highest on record. Overtime and adjustments accounted for $32,873.18 of the total.

The figures do not include day players and bit players engaged by the day.

Less than 200 complaints have arisen under the guild contract, and of these a number have been adjusted and conciliated, with less than 100 claims referred to the arbitration machinery as specified by the pact.

Gottlieb Quits Wanger

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Alex Gottlieb, for the past eight months publicity director for Walter Wanger, resigned today for an unannounced job. Russell Phelps is filling in.

Production Steady With 38 Shooting

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Thirty-eight pictures are before the cameras this week, one less than last week's total. Fourteen finished, and 13 started. Twenty-two are being prepared and 84 are being edited.

Those started are: Columbia, "College Follies of 1938;" M-G-M, "Bad Man of Brimstone," "The Four Marys," "Mannequin" and "Navy Blue and Gold;" Republic, "Zorro Rides Again (serial)" and "The Duke Comes Back;" Universal, "Renegade Rangers," "Tim Tyler's Luck" (serial) and "Young Man's Fancy;" Warners, "Too Much of Everything" and "Swing Your Lady."

The tally by studio:
Columbia, finished zero, shooting three, preparing two, editing six; Goldwyn, two, one, zero, two; Grand National, one, two, one, two; M-G-M, one, seven, three, six; Monogram, zero, zero, one, three; Paramount, three, five, three, 13; Principal, one, zero, zero, one; Republic, zero, three, one, four; RKO, one, three, five, five; Selznick International, zero, one, zero, one; 20th Century-Fox, two, two, four, nine; Universal, two, three, one, four; Wanger, zero, zero, zero, three; Warners, one, eight, one, 25.

Two short subjects are shooting, one at M-G-M and the other at RKO. M-G-M started one and finished one; RKO started one, and Columbia finished one. Eight are being prepared, and 12 are being edited.

Gogniat Suit Dismissed

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell yesterday dismissed the copyright infringement suit of George A. Gogniat, who does business as the United Music Co., against Universal Pictures, Gem Pictures Prod., Loew's, Inc., Consolidated Amusement Enterprises, Don Malkames, Morris I. Tropp, George Cochrane, Universal Film Exchanges, Big U Exchange, 981 8th Ave., Inc., and the Woodside Operating Corp.

The plaintiff claimed infringement of three musical compositions, "Don Rigo," "Vers l'Horizon" and "Valse Mutine," which were allegedly used as musical background for "Goofy Town Newsreel." The defendants asserted that the plaintiff's copyright was defective and that $100 had been paid for the right. Judge Leibell dismissed the suit after trial on the ground that it was "without merit."

Tampa Operators Sign

TAMPA, Sept. 13.—The Operators' Union, which has had a "closed shop" for some 15 years, has signed new contracts with all theatres for two years with a 10 percent salary increase.

The three houses operated by Casino Enterprises, the Ritz and Casino in Ybor City, and the Royal in West Tampa, have reopened after having been dark for six weeks, following a strike of their doormen, cashiers and ushers, who formed a union. Just what terms were reached between the company and the employees was not stated.

Briggs Delays Return

O. Henry Briggs, president of Pathe, has delayed his return from the coast until next Monday.

to sail tomorrow on the Normandie for a two-month tour of England and the Continent, has postponed his departure. He is now booked to sail Sept. 22 on the Queen Mary.

The U. A. deal completes all major product negotiations for the circuit.

George Blatchford, treasurer of Wisconsin Amusement Co., subsidiary of National Theatres, is in town from Milwaukee on a business and vacation trip. He will visit his family at New Hampshire before returning west.

New Exchange Firm For Indies Planned

ney, is here drawing up the papers. The first to accept the plan is Reliable Pictures, headed by Harry Webb and Bernard Ray, who have announced a program of 30 pictures for the new season. Silverberg was reticent regarding the plan and said a full announcement will be made in a few days. He would not state if the plan is for a 50-50 straight split, a 50-50 split after print costs are deducted or a straight guarantee plus overage. He indicated, however, that a new system is being evolved. He will leave shortly for a tour of key centers to line up exchanges.

Wallace Beery Injured

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13. — Wallace Beery accidentally shot himself in the left leg with a blank cartridge today as he was working on the set of "Bad Man of Brimstone" at M-G-M. He was removed to the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, and is expected to be out of the cast for several weeks.

Barrymore to England

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—As soon as he completes his part in "Navy Blue and Gold" at M-G-M, Lionel Barrymore will leave for London for a part in "Yank at Oxford," M-G-M British production.

Open Arkansas House

WEST MEMPHIS, ARK., Sept. 13.—The new Crittenden Theatre here was formally opened tonight, with a large crowd in attendance.

Ban Children from Muskegon Theatres

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—Following the discovery of several cases of infantile paralysis, the Muskegon board of health has issued an order barring all children under 16 from all theatres in the city. No action was taken toward closing the city's schools, which opened this week, but a close watch has been ordered on all children.

Although several cases also have been reported in Detroit and opening of the schools here has been postponed a week, no action has been taken to keep children from attending theatres.

Rehearing Granted In Paramount Case

and dismissed the company's application without prejudice.

The rehearing of the case will be held before the appeals court. Paramount also petitioned the higher court today for a temporary injunction against the exhibitors pending the new hearing, but the court reserved decision on that application. Indications are that a ruling will be handed down on this within the next few days. Locally, however, exhibitors have shown no disposition to renew picketing or other concerted public demonstrations, but have been centering their efforts on the formation of a buying combine to negotiate for Paramount product.

Raises Warner Scales

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13.—Nat Wolf, Warner zone manager, has raised admission prices five cents for both matinee and evening performances at the Strand, Akron, and Ohio, Sidney. This boost is in the nature of an experiment. If successful, admissions will be raised at other Warner houses in the zone.

"Hood" Budget High

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—A budget of $1,600,000 has been set for the production of "The Adventures of Robin Hood," which will go before the cameras shortly on the Warner lot. The film will be done in Technicolor. William Keighley will direct.

Famous Players in Deal With Union

TORONTO, Sept. 13.—The situation on the labor front here is calm with Famous Players Canadian Corp. and the I.A.T.S.E. operators having signed an agreement covering a three-year period, replacing the two-year contract just expired. The terms of the new contract have not been disclosed, but it is understood that reasonable wage increases have been accepted and that the operators will now receive one week's vacation with pay each year.

In Montreal, trouble has developed with the replacing of operators in five local theatres by members of the All-Canadian Congress of Labor, the all-Canadian Operators Union being in opposition to the Montreal Local of the I.A.T.S.E. In all, 20 operators are involved in the four theatres.

At Winnipeg, Man., there is a three-cornered labor fight in which the International and All-Canadian projectionists are lined up against what is known locally as the "One Big Union" which was organized in Winnipeg shortly after the war. A projectionists' local was established by the One Big Union about nine years ago. The present position is that James Leslie, representing the Bureau of Labor of the Manitoba Provincial Government, is conducting an investigation and a board of conciliation is being appointed to bring about a settlement of the dispute.

Elsewhere in the Dominion the theatre labor situation is unruffled.

Vancouver Strike Threatens

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13.—Local theatre owners are threatened with a strike after Sept. 18, unless they come to terms with the M. P. Projectionists' Union. The union and owners are negotiating a new contract, to replace the one which expired one week ago.

The chief point of contention is the number of men in the booth, since the Government inquiry indicated that one man and an apprentice are sufficient.

Music Strike Fear Killed By Agreement

is to be spread throughout the country in a manner to be determined later, to the extent of the additional $1,500,000, among national network affiliated stations, including managed and operated stations of NBC and CBS, but not including the network key stations in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

That proposal, acceptable to both the broadcasters and the union, constitutes the essence of the I.R.N.A. accomplishments to date. Two troublesome factors, however, yet remain to be settled. One is the determination of the method of allocation, and the other is the broadcasters' insistence that an arbitration clause be inserted in the contract. It has been learned that while the A. F. of M. has objected to the inclusion of an arbitration clause, it has not entirely refused it.

Probably for Two Years

The contract probably will be for a period of two years.

As reported exclusively in yesterday's issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY, the I.R.N.A. members have decided on accepting one of seven methods of allocation to raise the additional $1,500,000:

1—Five per cent of the gross revenue on music.

2—Three and one-half times the station's maximum published quarter-hour rate to be expended weekly.

3—A sliding scale based on quarter-hour rate according to size of market.

4—A weighted average based on both local rate, national rate and gross revenue.

5—An option to the station to choose between Methods 1 and 2.

6—A factor of circulation or coverage as published by the networks.

7—Any other basis approved by the convention of broadcasters.

At all events, stations with less than a $15 quarter-hour rate or less are to be exempt.

Second Method Likely

While the I.R.N.A. committee refused to say which, if any, of the methods of allocation received the most votes, it is reported that Method 2, stipulating a weekly individual expenditure of three and one-half the station's maximum quarterly-hour rate, would be the one most acceptable to the main body of broadcasters.

Before adjourning late Sunday night, the convention voted that John Shephard, 3rd, president of the Colonial and Yankee networks; L. B. Wilson, president of WCKY, Cincinnati, and George Norton, owner of WAVE, Louisville, be added to the I.R.N.A. committee. The committee now includes, in addition to those listed above, William S. Hedges, chairman, WLW, Cincinnati; Samuel R. Rosenbaum, WFIL, Philadelphia; Emile Gough, Hearst Radio; Edward W. Craig, WSM, Nashville; John J. Gillin, Jr., WOW, Omaha, and Mark Ethridge, WSAM, St. Louis.

In all likelihood, the Sept. 16 deadlines set by the A. F. of M. will be advanced to Oct. 1. The former date has not yet been set aside, but it most

Nets Offer Help

NBC and CBS have voluntarily offered to assume 10 per cent of the $1,500,000 which will be added to I.R.N.A. station owners' music payrolls when the A. F. of M. agreement goes into effect. The offer has been taken under advisement by the I.R.N.A.

likely will be within the next day or so, with the approval and sanction of the A. F. of M.

The committee will meet tomorrow with the full International Council of the A. F. of M. The committee has been empowered to act fully for the approximately 258 stations catalogued as independently owned, but network affiliated, stations.

Two strong reports are in circulation as an outgrowth of the meetings. It is reported that among the matters discussed in closed meeting by the broadcasters was the advisability of making the I.R.N.A. a permanent organization, and secondly the appointment of a labor counsellor to represent the broadcasting industry. Among the names offered for consideration for such a post were those of Joseph P. Kennedy, head of the Maritime Commission and first head of the S.E.C.; Robert Jackson, Assistant Attorney General of the United States, and Merlin H. Aylesworth. There was also talk that RCA might "loan" its recently acquired labor counsellor, Edward F. McGrady. The latter matter may come up for full consideration at the coming N.A.B. conclave.

Maine Commission on Air

The Maine Development Commission will sponsor a program featuring Marjorie Mills over 15 stations of the Mutual network, starting Sept. 21. The programs will be broadcast twice weekly, Tuesdays and Thursdays, over some stations from 1:15 to 1:30 P. M., and over others from 1:45 to 2 P. M. WOR will carry the early show. Brooke, Smith, French & Dorrance is the agency.

Edison Names Lord & Thomas

Lord & Thomas, Inc., has been appointed as advertising agency in charge of the Consolidated Edison Co's new radio program, which will be heard locally over WEAJ beginning Sept. 20. The utility company's program is titled "Echoes of New York Town" and is an annual radio fixture.

Stark to Benton & Bowles

Shelley Stark, director of the radio department for the Kiesewetter advertising agency, and author of the "Famous Jury Trials" scripts, has resigned to accept a position at Benton & Bowles. In his new capacity, Stark will serve as assistant to Ralph Richmond, executive in charge of radio commercials for Benton & Bowles.

Dorothy Gordon Will Resume

Dorothy Gordon, winner of the 1937 Women's National Radio Award for the best juvenile air show, will resume her "Children's Corner" programs over CBS Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 5:45 to 6 P. M., beginning Sept. 14.

New Shows On the Air

Ford "Sunday Evening Hour"

With Jose Iturbi, the distinguished Spanish conductor and pianist wielding the baton and with John Charles Thomas, the noted Metropolitan Opera baritone as the soloist, the Ford "Sunday Evening Hour" returned to millions who must have been eagerly awaiting it Sunday evening from 9 to 10 P. M. over CBS.

The uniform excellence which constantly and consistently has marked this stalwart of the air waves, of course, was in evidence again. Not without merit has this program, culled from the classics in music and interpreted by leading artists of the concert stage, earned for itself a topflight reputation in radio. The fall debut merely reiterated and, therefore, emphasized the observation.

Thomas, in that magnificent voice, sang numbers which included the prologue from "Pagliacci," "The Trumpeter," the Chancellor's Song—"When You're Lying Awake," and "The Lost Chord." Brahms' "Academic Festival Overture," Massenet's "Air de Ballet" and Chabrier's "España" were the chief orchestral numbers.

"Sunday Morning Quarterback"

Benny Friedman, former all-American grid star, should build for himself and sponsor a great audience of football enthusiasts, whose name, along about this time of each year, becomes legion. To his undisputed knowledge of the fine points of the game, Benny adds a pleasing style of delivery to make his program one of the best of its type to be found on the air.

Friedman led with his chin in stating that it was his belief that most of the followers of the game, no matter how often they've sat in the stands, really knew little about the pastime, but there's no question but that he spoke the truth. Fair-minded fans will admit this, he said. He promised to analyze the complex points of the weekly games, once the season gets under way.

By way of exhibiting his expert qualifications, Friedman reviewed the games played recently by the Green Bay Packers vs. the Western All-Stars, and the Giants-All-Stars game. He offers a watch from his sponsor each week to the writer of the best letter based on "The Most Interesting Game of the Week."

Benny Friedman's football talks are offered each Sunday over Mutual from 11:30 to 11:45 A. M. Parker Watch Co. sponsors.

"Zenith Foundation"

Zenith Radio Corp.'s "Zenith Foundation" has little to recommend it as a network program. Offering dramatizations based on scientific investigations, it is probably interesting enough from a scientific point of view, but as entertainment its evaluation is low.

Tracing the progress made by science through the years, the Sunday instalment dramatized the incidents revolving about the discoveries of

Ken McClure Named As Head of ARNEW

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Ken McClure of WOAI, San Antonio, was named president of the Ass'n of Radio News Editors and Writers before adjournment of the first convention yesterday.

Other officers named were: First vice-president, J. Beckley Smith, WJAS, Pittsburgh; 2nd vice-president, Ken Miller, KVOO, Tulsa; 3rd vice-president, Jack Harris, WSM; secretary-treasurer, Al Hollander, WIND-WJJD, Chicago; directors, John Van Cronkhite, John Hughes, Robert Hurley, Roy Brant, Foster May, Ken Miller, Earl Smith and Jack Harris.

Donald Cope on Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 13.—Donald Cope, production director of Benton & Bowles' New York office, has taken over his new duties as production supervisor of the Hollywood office. Accompanying him was Tom Revere, the agency's director of radio, who is here for several weeks on general company business.

Buy "Paramount Party"

Earle Harper's "Paramount Party" has been purchased for sponsorship by the Jules Chain Stores, Inc., over WNEW, beginning Sept. 17. The program will be offered Fridays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. The Klinger agency handled the contract.

Alkine Laboratories, Inc., will sponsor Alan Courtney's "Jovymakers" for 26 weeks beginning Sept. 20. The series is offered Mondays through Saturdays from 11:30 to 11:45 A. M. Schillin Adv. Corp.

Shift "Good Will Hour"

"The Good Will Hour," now heard Sundays from 10 to 10:30 P. M. on Mutual, will be heard at a new time, effective Sept. 19, from 9:30 to 10 P. M. The broadcast time for the same program over WMCA remains unchanged, Sundays from 10 to 11 P. M. The series is sponsored by MacFadden Publications in the interest of True Story Magazine.

optical lenses as an aid to sight; the discovery of the benefits of quinine by the white man from the Indians; the discovery of wireless by the late Senator Marconi, and other momentous scientific discoveries. It showed also how mankind's outlook has broadened through the years by telling how a citizen of Boston in 1801 was arrested by the authorities for the heinous crime of bathing each Saturday night, and how a resident of a town in Ohio in 1832 was shot by an outraged fellow resident for permitting a business meeting to be held in a school house. The well-worn flashback method is used throughout.

"Zenith Foundation" is heard Sundays over the NBC-Blue from 10 to 10:30 P. M.

Flash Review

Despite faithful carbon-copying, the Lux Radio Theatre production of "A Star Is Born" lacked the emotional quality which made the picture so enjoyable. Janet Gaynor and Robert Montgomery played the chief roles.

A full review of the program will appear in tomorrow's MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Knox Co., for Cystex, will sponsor a transcribed series Tuesdays from 9 to 9:15 A. M., beginning Oct. 5. Allen C. Smith Co., Kansas City, is the agency.

Lee & Perrins will begin a spot announcement campaign for 39 weeks beginning Sept. 18, through Schwimmer & Scott, agency.

Louis Howe Co., for Tums, will start a spot campaign for 39 weeks beginning Sept. 15, through H. W. Kastor & Son.

NBC Concert Artists May Take $1,200,000

Income of the 102 concert artists affiliated with NBC Artists Bureau is expected to gross $1,200,000 for the season 1937-1938 which opens in October, according to George Engles, manager of the bureau. If achieved, this figure will represent a 20 per cent increase over last year.

Engles bases his figures on advance bookings that have been made to date. They include only receipts from concert engagements and do not cover income that the artists may receive additionally from radio and screen work.

Fitch Buys Belcher Program

Jerry Belcher's "Our Neighbors" series, heard over NBC as a sustainer, has been purchased for sponsorship by the Fitch Co. to replace the Fitch "Jingle Program." The sponsorship will begin Sept. 26, on the Red network, at 7:45 P. M. L. W. Ramsey Co., Davenport, Ia., is the agency.

Stipulations Completed in Dallas Case

Short Trial Expected in Texas Trust Action

DALLAS, Sept. 14. — Stipulations covering approximately 80 per cent of the evidence regarded by local attorneys as admissible in the Government's action attacking the contracts entered into by distributors with the Interstate Circuit here have been completed by attorneys for both sides and will materially shorten the time required for trial of the suit, it was learned today.

The action is set for trial in the U. S. District Court here on Monday. The effect of the stipulations may mean the completion of the trial within three or four days at the most, attorneys believe.

The action involves the legality of film contracts made by Interstate with eight major distributors, in which the distributors agree not to sell any product which has played certain Interstate houses at a specified minimum admission to any other theatre which does not maintain a specified minimum admission. Through the stipulations

Defense Replies in Nebraska Game Case

LINCOLN, Sept. 14. — Replying to the briefs filed in the Bank Night case by the Attorney General's office here, William Wright, Omaha attorney for the Fox Beatrice Theatre Corp., told the Supreme Court today that the state had failed to prove a lottery in the operation of the game. The hearing has been set for Sept. 21.

Wright declared, "The state, realizing that it has failed to make the necessary proof to warrant the issuance of an injunction, has changed its theory and requested the court to sustain a judgment on issues not raised in the lower court."

Big "U" Denies All Anti-Trust Charges

Griffis Admits Settlement Of Para. Suits 'Under Way'

Official verification of the fact that negotiations for the settlement of two suits instituted against 1927-1931 officers and directors of Paramount by the reorganization trustees of the company are being conducted was given yesterday by Stanton Griffis, chairman of the Paramount executive committee.

"I am able to say," Griffis replied to questions concerning the settlement, "that serious negotiations have been held and are under way."

However, he declined to discuss the settlement terms, but declared that no final agreement has been reached yet.

The first of the two suits, which together seek an aggregate of $12,000,000 from the defendants, is scheduled for trial in N. Y. Supreme court, Sept. 27. From other sources, it was learned that slight differences over the settlement terms are still unsettled and that, if a complete agreement is not reached next week, the trial will proceed on the scheduled date, as there is no disposition at this time to seek a further postponement.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned several weeks ago that the settlement figure is approximately $2,150,000. The current differences, if resolved, may alter this figure but not to any appreciable extent, it is believed.

Griffis discussed the proposed settlement with Arthur A. Ballantine of Root, Clark, Buckner, & Ballantine, attorneys for the Paramount trustee, while the two were in London during

Filing New Briefs In Ascap's Action

OMAHA, Sept. 14.—Ascap and the Nebraska officials who were made defendants in the society's action to enjoin the enforcement of the anti-Ascap legislation enacted at the last session of the state legislature were given 10 days in which to submit additional briefs on the action with the conclusion of hearings here today before a three-judge Federal statutory court.

In the Legion

Louis B. Mayer has been made an officer of the Legion of Honor. The cross was presented to him by President Lebrun at the latter's private residence at Rambouillet.

Following the presentation Mayer was a guest at a dinner presided over by the Minister of Commerce which attended by a number of Government officials. Mayer will return on the Normandie Sept. 22.

Talks Are Set On Musicians' Work Agenda

Meetings between producer representatives and the American Federation of Musicians on the latter's demands involving increased employment of musicians in Hollywood studios are expected to get under way here next week, Pat Casey, producers' labor representative, said yesterday.

The A. F. of M. will meet tomorrow with radio network officials on the agreement reached earlier this week for increased employment of musicians by broadcasters, with indications that the agreement will be ratified by the union within a day or two, thus permitting the start of negotiations with the film producers. The union's principal demand of the studios is that the use of orchestral recordings from studio libraries in pictures other than those for which they were originally recorded be discontinued. This would involve a new orchestral recording for every picture in which music is used.

Casey currently is negotiating new terms with Local 52, studio mechanics, governing employment in eastern studios. He returns west shortly.

Sweeping U. S. Probe Looms On West Coast

Sifting of Charges by Independents Due

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—Showdown on charges of anti-trust violations against Fox West Coast and major companies loomed today with the arrival of Albert J. Law and Harold Collins, special assistant attorney generals. Law, resuming his probe of distribution after two months in Washington, told newspapermen, today:

"This will be a showdown on charges of independent exhibitors that Fox West Coast and major companies are violating the Clayton and Sherman anti-trust laws. Two special Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and four accountants will aid us in the investigation which will either prove the falsity of the charges or result in Grand Jury action."

Two consent decrees have been entered against Fox West Coast, according to Law. However, independents have asserted violations still exist and the attorney general's office has decided to probe the matter, he continued.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

BY all the markings, this column should be streaked with embarrassment this morning. It recalls the day, some time back now, when the Sunday reading glass centered upon the comment of Douglas W. Churchill, Hollywood correspondent of The New York Times. The amiable Douglas was writing about "Stage Door" and how RKO and Gregory La Cava had taken the Kaufman-Ferber play, tied it up neatly in knots and, weighted down, deposited it in a deep and convenient spot somewhere off Malibu. That persuaded this uncertain oracle to reprint much of what Churchill had written and then to append a handful or more of perfectly nasty cracks. The bon mots dealt with the whys and the wherefores, and the foolishness was not ignored, of acquiring Broadway stage plays at six representative figures, later to produce something else. . . .

What appears to be a habit-forming procedure has pinned us to the mast on at least two previous occasions. There was a printed slapping at Sam Goldwyn for "The Children's Hour" which emerged into the distinguished "These Three." One hot flush to the cheek. There was a second and it had to do with "Dead End," the difficulties which would have spelt trouble had Goldwyn taken the Kingsley play from its one all-embracing and dramatic set to let the camera roam at will. But Sam did no such thing; he stuck to the essentials of the plot and the background and, if you divine by this time that he made a sort of sucker out of us and our flushes, you're very uncomfortably close. . . .

The gong now resounds with a blare and crash and flush three arrives with "Stage Door." It is patent at the very beginning that RKO saw much more in this vehicle than we did the night it was reviewed as a play last season. While the New York drama critics whipped themselves into a froth, somehow or other we managed to remain calm, even collected, and reported Kaufman and Miss Ferber must have tossed their "Stage Door" off in an automobile bound for Bucks County. It had sharp dialogue and a plot which had collapsed, but characters cleverly worked out and handsomely rounded. True. But no more: . . .

Veiller, as the scriptists, retained the framework. The stage conflict between Hollywood, the talent devourer, and Broadway, the talent preserver, has been replaced by Adolphe Menjou, a play producer with a weakness for dimples and knees. The underlying tragic note, which is the heartbreak of Times Square, remains with the ultimate suicide of Andrea Leeds whose part in Menjou's show eventually goes to Katharine Hepburn. The assorted and hopeful Duses who live at the Footlights Club supply an intensely human sort of backdrop against which the handful of principal characters parade their doings. Most of the original dialogue has been dropped, the stage characters have been reshuffled. You would think a hodge-podge inevitably must result. . . .

Nothing of the sort. "Stage Door," the play, by no approach is to be mentioned in the same paragraph, or even sentence, with "Stage Door," the film. The play was never blessed with story maneuvers that meant anything. The film is similarly endowed. But it does not depend upon a steady succession of plot incidents nearly so much as it does upon the development of each character, the brilliance with which Miss Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and the unknown Miss Leeds perform, and the crackle of the Ryskind-Veiller dialogue. Your emotions are taken for a long buggy ride in those scenes when Miss Leeds is submerged in the defeat which ultimately persuades her to take her life. . . .

They are hammered at hard when she sees Miss Hepburn off for the premiere and the part she had hoped to play. There is genuine drama when Miss Hepburn, strangely and yet not strangely propelled into the performance she then knows Miss Leeds would have given, startles the first night audience with the depth of her interpretation. And a great bestirring around the heart in the gallant curtain speech wherein Miss Hepburn gives full credit for her own inspired rendition to the spiritual guidance of the girl resting finally in the morgue. And yet, to the complete astuteness of writers and director, the timing, interposing not a chuckle, but a belly laugh where exactly needed, is about as perfect a job as a job could be. . . .

Thus it comes about again that we are confounded in a stew of our own cooking. But it is a U. S. District Judge John W. Clancy yesterday placed on the calendar for hearing Oct. 11 the suit of Principal Film Exchanges, Inc., against Jay Dee Kay Prod., Inc., and J. D. Kendis for alleged breach of contract.

The suit is for $5,000. The plaintiff claims the defendant gave it an exclusive three-year contract for distribution of "Crusade Against Rackets" in New York and New Jersey, and that it booked the film into the Gaiety where it grossed $12,000. The plaintiff claims it was entitled to one third of this, but did not receive it.

pleasant stew and hesitancy is not in us in conceding sweepingly that we judged too quickly and too wrongly. For the promises which Radio has been holding forth for "Stage Door," this is now to tell you, represent no advertising man's hasheesh dream. On all counts, here is one of the peak shows of Hollywood's show parade. It will streak out front and, crystal gazing be damned, stay there. We are that certain. . . .

The Newsreel Parade

Movietone News

Vol. 20, No. 1
(20th Century-Fox)

A generally interesting and diversified reel, this number of Movietone News is well knit and fast. In the "World Events" division, Lowell Thomas describes the new water record of Sir Malcolm Campbell, the commemorative issue of Constitution stamps, the parade of the remnant of the Civil War veterans, and the selection of Miss America and her abdication.

Society's top rung is mixed with fast polo at Meadowbrook; "Names in the News" shows Mrs. Sarah Roosevelt, the President's mother, in France; the marriage of Dorothy Round, tennis champion, and the return home of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride. Lew Lehr offers one of his funniest "Newsettes," a poultry race, and Ed Thorgersen, who as newsreel sports commentator probably has no equal, takes a look at the tennis matches at Forest Hills, the breaking of a world swim mark in Chicago, and the tuning up preparatory to the football season.

Running time, 10 mins.

News of the Day

Vol. VIII, No. 303
(M-G-M)

Seasonal topics make up the larger part of this newsreel release. There is, for example, that old reliable Atlantic City bathing beauty contest, made somewhat different this year by the winner's refusal to accept the crown and title, which go to Miss No. 2 as a result. Football is ushered in with excellent shots of the night game played in New York between the College All-Stars and the Giants and with glimpses of the Notre Dame aggregation at early practice. Additional sports subjects include shots of the Forest Hills, N. Y., tennis matches and the Illinois Cup swimming meet at Chicago.

Late news "snapshots" feature the return to New York from a European honeymoon of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and the former Ethel du Pont, and the celebration at the Statue of Liberty site in observance of the 150th anniversary of the Constitution. Regatta Day in Venice and a bike race for London's ancients complete a release of average interest, narrated by Jean Paul King.

Running time, 8 mins.

Paramount News

No. 12
(Paramount)

Sports dominate the latest issue of this newsreel. The subject opens with a bicycle race from Milwaukee to Chicago. Then follows an amateur aquatic meet. Several of the major football teams are shown in practice.

President Roosevelt is pictured attending the graduation of a nurse's school at Poughkeepsie; his son, Franklin, Jr., and his bride are seen returning from Europe and the President's mother is glimpsed attending a banquet in Paris.

There are several news items of the day, including a parade of Civil War veterans at Madison, Wis., but there is nothing punchy to make this particular issue stand out.

Running time, 7 mins.

Pathe News

Vol. 9, No. 16
(RKO Radio)

Nine items, dramatically described by Clem McCarthy, Andre Baruch and John S. Martin, comprise the latest Pathe News. The sports events which open and close the subject set a fast pace and are interspersed by several historical events.

The women's national singles tennis championship between Anita Lizana of Chile and Jadwiga Jedreowska of Poland and Don Budge of America conquering Baron von Cramm in the men's finals at Forest Hills, starts off the subject. Following are the inaugural ceremonies of the Wheeler Dam at Alabama, the Grand Canal regatta at Venice, the destruction by police of Shantytown at Boston, Gov. LaFollette reviewing a parade at Madison, Wis., the printing of a special stamp to commemorate the signing of the Constitution, Cardinal Dougherty addressing celebrants in celebration of the signing of the Constitution in Philadelphia, fireworks at the Statue of Liberty in honor of the same event, and finally the polo event at Meadowbrook, L. I., between teams from the Argentine and the United States.

Running time, 6 mins.

Universal Newsreel

Vol. IX, No. 597
(Universal)

Universal Newsreel has done a smart job of photographing the night football game between the New York Giants and All Star college team on supersensitive film. The players stand out so sharply their shadows are visible and the photography is much more interesting than some of the regular daylight games.

Fireworks at the Statue of Liberty are not especially interesting. The Atlantic City beauty pageant is well handled and is timely because of the excitement stirred by the walkout of the winner, Bette Cooper. The Argentine-Aurora polo game is spectacular. One smart number shows a new sport of rooster racing. They actually race on a course. The clip is good for a hearty laugh.

Chaplin Plans Change

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—Charlie Chaplin says he has given up the idea of making another picture in his familiar makeup and will produce a sound film with an entirely new characterization with Paulette Goddard playing opposite him. The film may not be made for a year, he says.

Remodeling Gaining

Considerable remodeling of theatres in the local area is now under way. Among the houses being rejuvenated are Palace, Orange; Strand, Union City; Lyric, Summit, N. J.; Cameo, Newburgh; Garden and Parkway, Brooklyn; Warburton, Yonkers. Joe Hornstein is handling the work.

Comerford to Open Sept. 16 in Scranton

SCRANTON, Sept. 14.—The new Comerford Theatre on Wyoming Ave. will open on Sept. 16. The house is one of the latest to be constructed and occupies a plot of 180 x 80. It has a seating capacity of 1,800 and has fireproof construction throughout.

The house is the first in the chain to bear the name of M. E. Comerford.

"Firefly" $13,585 In Its Second Week

"The Firefly" garnered approximately $13,585 for the second week at the Astor at two-a-day prices. "Dead End" in its third week at the Rivoli tallied $29,000, while "The Life of Emile Zola" at the Hollywood at two-a-day got about $26,500.

M-G-M Enlarging Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—M-G-M is spending $2,000,000 for a new administration building, a cartoon studio, a writers' building, five new sound stages, a new industrial center, a new sound building and additions to the sound department.

The new administration building will be four stories high, and contain 226 rooms. Ground will be broken next week.

The five sound stages are under construction now. One of them will be 96 feet high.

SMPE Group to Meet

The Atlantic Coast Section of the Society of M. P. Engineers will hold its first monthly meeting of the fall season tonight at the Hotel Pennsylvania. The chief paper will be on "Agfacolor," in which John L. Forrest of Agfa-Ansco will describe a new single film for three-color reproduction. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner.

Nick Amos Passes

OMAHA, Sept. 14.—Nick Amos, 76, who is believed to have started one of the first theatre circuits in 1906, and who up to a few weeks ago was still selling state rights films here, is dead. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS ABOUT THE FILM INDUSTRY TODAY?

THERE ARE so many claims and counter-claims in the trade press that some exhibitors far removed from sources of verification must indeed be confused.

THE PURPOSE of this advertisement is not so much to sell contracts for 1937-38 product (since the majority of M-G-M exhibitors have already renewed) . . .

THE REASON for this ad is simply to make you happy that you have bought M-G-M again for the new season.

ONE HIT—or even two or three—do not make a dependable source of picture supply for a long twelve months! The element of chance gives practically every company big and small a certain average of success but nowadays that average is not enough.

ONLY M-G-M by virtue of its resources in stars, studio, writers, directors and personnel is geared for the continuous delivery of important, big-size and big-budget, star-blessed attractions.

WE PROVED during this past summer that we could keep up M-G-M hit-delivery even at a time of the year which has always been considered an off-season.

THERE IS NO such thing as an off-season to the public. They wanted entertainment during July and August and we gave them "Day at the Races," "Captains Courageous," "Saratoga," "Good Earth," "Broadway Melody" to mention just a few. What a remarkable line-up! Millions of dollars of screen diversion which would really make a commendable full year's showing for any company . . . but it was just the summer group from M-G-M!

WHAT FOLLOWS in the Fall is really unbelievable in the sense that never before, not even by M-G-M, has there been maintained such a tempo of big-time hit-production.

SO much so that there is wisdom in an observation often made by the trade press that "M-G-M is an industry by itself."

CROWDING into September and October are such attractions as: "Big City" starring Luise Rainer, Spencer Tracy (powerfully human, humorous and dramatic); . . . a stirring production of "Madame X" with Gladys George; . . . the best Joan Crawford picture in years "The Bride Wore Red" with Franchot Tone, Robert Young; . . . a history-making comedy by the "Thin Man" stars—William Powell, Myrna Loy in "Double Wedding". . . and "Conquest" the costliest production in M-G-M history starring Greta Garbo with Charles Boyer, a truly remarkable entertainment; . . . "Live, Love and Learn" with Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell . . . and the popular-price release of the Road-Show Jeanette MacDonald in "The Firefly". . .

THAT'S just a brief survey of what comes from the mighty studios of M-G-M up to the beginning of November, barely two months of the season 1937-38!

IT'S TRUE Leo's roaring louder than ever—and pridefully!

20th Century-Fox, RKO and Columbia have agreed to give investigators full access to the books and the audit will take several weeks, Law continued. Following the audit and summary of findings, he added, a decision will be made on what course to pursue. He intimated great pressure had been brought to bear on the attorney general's office from all sections of the country and that congressmen and senators have asked for investigations of the film industry repeatedly.

Foreign Trips Set For M-G-M Winners

Domestic and foreign sales forces of M-G-M will compete in a sales contest with the first 12 winners to be awarded free trips to Paris next year. The sales drive, now under way, will end Aug. 27, 1938.

William F. Rodgers, general sales manager for the domestic field, and Arthur Loew, head of foreign activities, have been trying to outgross each other in rentals. Several months ago, the sales for the foreign department for one week were above those for the domestic market. When the news was declared, Loew gave every employe in his department at the home office a bonus.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Angel"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—Sophisticated is the nice word for "Angel." Ernst Lubitsch has vested with a full measure of his august artistry a play in the so-called continental, and latterly frowned upon, manner. In it Marlene Dietrich gives her usual interpretation of the extremely sensitive if not downright sexual, woman whose love life hangs in the balance. This time the men to whom it is all important are Herbert Marshall and Melvyn Douglas, the preoccupied husband and would-be lover, respectively. Probably these four names on a marquee will bring in the customers and it is possible not too many of them will recognize beneath the Lubitsch glamour a triangular pattern regarded as passé, if not altogether untouchable, during recent years.

The play from the Hungarian by Melchior Lengyel opens in a Paris salon, as it is called, where men meet women and gambling also goes. Miss Dietrich arrives unidentified and meets Douglas, an Englishman seeking relaxation. They share an evening verbally indicated as innocent and she disappears. She is next seen as the wife of Marshall, a British diplomat, who has just bested 20 countries in a League of Nations struggle. Presently Douglas shows up as Marshall's guest and from then on Miss Dietrich and Douglas keep Marshall in ignorance as to their clandestine acquaintance.

While arguing as to whether or not to call the whole thing off, Miss Dietrich is for sticking to her husband until he cancels a pleasure trip for reasons of state. Whereupon she decides again to meet Douglas in Paris. Marshall learns of this and arrives simultaneously. There is a good deal of talking before the husband says it is all his fault and the wife decides to stay with him. The point of the whole thing seems to be that a wife whose husband is too busy keeping his country out of war to play house with her is justified in busying herself as pleases her best.

Guy Bolton and Russell Medcraft made the English adaptation as Samson Raphaelson wrote the screenplay. Much of their dialogue is smart and some of it is close enough to the deadline to rise eyebrows which have puckered in perusal of the production code. This is sandwiched between crisply humorous lines superbly handled by Edward Everett Horton, Ernest Cossart and Herbert Mundin. The production technique is, of course, of the highest order, while the Lubitsch touch, so long unseen upon a screen that has never had enough of it, is discernible in almost every scene.

Running time, 88 minutes. "A."

Griffis Admits Para. Settlement Is Near

July. An agreement, in substance, is reported to have been reached at that time, but was not accepted in its entirety upon being submitted to individual defendants and their attorneys here following Ballantine's return to New York.

Ballantine's firm will prosecute the suits in the event the proposed settlement is upset.

The two actions seek the recovery of losses alleged to have been incurred by Paramount as a result of the company's repurchase of its own stock at guaranteed redemption prices which were in excess of prevailing market prices. After the stock had been issued for the acquisition of theatres and other properties in the company's expansion moves from 1927 to 1932; for allegedly "excessive" compensation paid to officers during that period and for sums alleged to have been realized by outsiders through participations in the Paramount employes' stock purchase plan.

Filing New Briefs In Ascap's Action

Following the submission of the briefs the court will take the case under advisement and render its decision later.

The hearings here opened last Saturday with the presentation of Ascap's attack on the state law. The defense opened on Monday and was concluded today.

The Ascap action requests the court to find the new state legislation unconstitutional and in violation of Federal copyright laws. It also declares that the enforcement of the legislation would not be "in the public interest" and therefore, is not a valid exercise of the police power of the state. For these and other reasons set forth in the society's complaint Ascap asks the court to declare the legislation "null and void" and to issue a permanent injunction restraining state officers, including the Governor and Attorney General, from enforcing it.

The state's principal contention in defense of the legislation is that Ascap is an "unlawful combination" and, therefore, subject to regulation under the state's police power. The law itself imposes heavy penalties against a combination of two or more copyright owners banded together to license public performers of music for profit within the state.

Louis D. Frohlich and Herman Finkelstein of the New York law firm of Schwartz & Frohlich, Ascap counsel, argued the petition for the society. E. C. Mills, chairman of the administrative committee of Ascap, also attended the hearing.

Consolidated Strike Ended on the Coast

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 14.—After a 10-hour strike yesterday of I. A. T. S. E. laboratory workers employed by Consolidated an agreement was signed late last night providing for a closed shop and new wage scales for 300 workers. They get a 35 per cent raise in pay retroactive to Aug. 23.

The walkout was a surprise to outsiders and was not generally known until William Bioff, coast I. A. T. S. E. head, made the announcement of the agreement.

Bioff said organization efforts would now be centered on other laboratories—Cinecolor, Dunning, International Cinema, National Screen Service, Williams Shots, Western Film and Pacific Title.

Technicolor already has an agreement with the I. A. T. S. E.

W. E. to Pay 75 Cents

A dividend of 75 cents per share on the common was voted yesterday by the Western Electric directors. It is payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 24.

Marcus Loew, Ltd., to Pay

Marcus Loew Theatres, Ltd., of Canada has declared a dividend of $1.75 a share on the seven per cent preferred on account of accumulations, payable Sept. 30. After this payment dividend arrears will amount to $42 per share as of Oct. 18.

Radio Artists' Roll Said to Total 2,000

The newly organized American Federation of Radio Artists has a membership of approximately 2,000 of a potential 15,000 to 20,000 studio employees eligible for membership, it is stated in the current issue of Equity, official publication of Actors' Equity Ass'n. The membership is confined to the four locals which have been set up thus far in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and San Francisco. Additional locals will be set up in the near future, it is stated.

Dues in the organization run from $12 a year for those earning $2,000 or less annually from radio to $100 for those earning $50,000 or over. The initiation fee is $10 for the lower category and $25 for the higher one. Persons who have appeared in at least 30 broadcasts in any capacity or in at least 10 as a principal or eligible for active membership. Associate memberships are provided for those who have appeared in fewer broadcasts. Members of any branch of the Associated Actors & Artistes of America also are eligible.

Commentator Shows Aired Twice Weekly

The Commentator Magazine program, originally scheduled to be heard once weekly over Mutual, will be heard instead as a twice each week, starting Sept. 19. Cecil, Warwick & Legler handles the account.

To be titled "Commentator Forum," the programs will be offered Saturdays from 9:30 to 9:45 P. M., and Thursdays from 10 to 10:15 P. M. Featured will be various commentators heard on other networks and stations. The initial speakers will be Lowell Thomas and John B. Kennedy. Others who will be presented include Boake Carter, H. V. Kaltenborn, George Sokolsky, Upton Close and Linton Wells.

General Electric in Renewal on NBC Web

General-Electric's "Hour of Charm," offered Mondays from 9:30 to 10 P. M. on the NBC-Red, has been renewed for an additional 13 weeks of broadcasting, effective Oct. 11. Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra is featured. Maxon, Inc., is the agency.

Renewed for a full year is the "Uncle Ezra" programs offered Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7:15 to 7:30 P. M. over the NBC-Blue for Miles Laboratories, Inc. The renewal is effective Oct. 15. The Wade Advertising Co., Chicago, handles the account.

Mutual Gets Longer World Series Option

The Mutual Broadcasting System has received an extension of the option it holds for the broadcasting of the World Series baseball games, it has been learned.

Furthermore, Judge K. M. Landis has granted permission to the network to sell the games regionally, enabling Mutual to offer the games to as many sponsors as want to purchase the contests. This will make it much easier for Mutual to sell the series. The difficulty to date has been the inability to raise a sponsor willing to expend $200,000, the asking price.

Brophy Quits NBC; Returns to Canada

Reginald M. Brophy, NBC manager of the station relations division, has resigned his network position to return to the Canadian Marconi Co., as general manager. Brophy came to NBC from Canadian Marconi three years ago. At the time of his resignation there he was assistant general manager.

Brophy will be succeeded as station relations manager at NBC by Keith Kiggins, who for the past three years has served as assistant station relations head. Brophy's resignation is effective today.

Announcer Guild in Two Station Deals

The American Guild of Radio Announcers and Producers has signed agreements with WBNX, New York; WAAT, Jersey City, and WEEL, Boston. The organization also has an agreement with the staff of WORC in Worcester, Mass., where an announcer and an engineer have been discharged. AGRAP has brought the case before the National Labor Relations Board and a hearing will be held tomorrow in Worcester in an effort to reinstate the men who have chosen AGRAP as their collective bargaining agency. If an agreement cannot be reached at the session, the NLRB, it is reported, will issue a complaint and hold a public hearing.

WBNX Secures 100% Contract Renewals

W. C. Alcorn, vice-president and general manager of WBNX, New York, has secured 100 per cent contract renewals for 1938. The station specializes in foreign language programs, and for the coming season WBNX will carry Jewish, Italian and Polish for the sixth year, German for the fifth year and Spanish for the third year.

Five Times Weekly on News

Press-Radio News will now be heard over WMCA Monday through Friday at 10:45 A. M., previously having been heard at an earlier hour only three mornings a week. The evening schedule remains unchanged. Mondays through Saturdays at 6:20 P. M.

General Foods on CBS Time

General Foods has purchased the Monday, Wednesday and Friday noon to 12:15 P. M. time on CBS, 45 stations, beginning Oct. 4. The contract is for 52 weeks, through Young & Rubicam. The series will be a news commentary, with the speaker as yet to be assigned.

Winter, Radio Head

Bachenheimer, Dundes and Frank, Inc., advertising agency, has appointed Norman Winter, former advertising manager of Atlas Radio Corp. and radio head of Radioscript Mart, to head the agency's radio department.

Sanka Show Adds 8

"We, The People," dramatic series sponsored by the General Foods Corp. for Sanka coffee, adds eight stations to its schedule, which gets under way Oct. 7 over CBS. Young & Rubicam is the agency.

New Shows On the Air

Lux "Radio Theatre" Resumes

Lux "Radio Theatre" selected an excellent vehicle in "A Star is Born" to stage its return to CBS. The cast, which included Janet Gaynor, again playing the envied role of Vicki Lester, and Mae Robson, Robert Montgomery and Lionel Stander in the chief supporting roles, was uniformly good. Yet somehow, the radio production could not hold a candle to the picture from which it was adapted.

The general cause of this, we are frank to admit, still is not wholly apparent to us. Therefore, on the face of things, our reaction seems quite unfair to the program and its sponsor. However, we are able to place our finger on several separate portions of the treatment which we deem as poorly handled. Perhaps when these are added up, the sum total will substantiate the disappointed viewpoint.

To begin with, the method used to cut corners to condense the story within the running time of the program was the hackneyed one of bringing a radio gossipier into the program. At several important points of the story the narration would be halted abruptly and the successive portions of the plot would be glossed over hurriedly by the ether gossipier, ostensibly broadcasting on another station. Certainly if excessive story cutting was required, a more plausible method than this could have been employed.

Secondly, while Montgomery's version of the role of Norman Mane was an excellent portrayal, it was an exact duplication of Fredric March's, even to the minutest voice inflection. Naturally, we didn't expect to nor wanted Montgomery to change the characterization of Mane, but we didn't expect nor want him to go so far as to even imitate March's voice.

The final criticism is one that is quite familiar to the sponsor. Last season, practically every critic in radio leveled his verbal artillery at Lux for the overlong soap commercials, but apparently this criticism has fallen on deaf ears, for the commercials last evening were quite as tedious as they have always been, if not more so.

"Radio Theatre" is presented each Monday from 9 to 10 P. M. on CBS.

BANNER

Chevrolet Signs McKinley

Barry McKinley has been signed as the featured vocalist on the Chevrolet Motor Co.'s "Musical Moments" series, which returns to CBS Sept. 26. Seymour Simon's orchestra will be featured on the returning series. "Musical Moments" for the past several seasons featured Rubinoff's band, with Jan Peerce and Virginia Rea as vocalists. Campbell-Ewald is the agency.

To Resume "Jury Trials"

"Famous Jury Trials," sponsored by Mennen Products, will return to Mutual Sept. 27, from 10 to 10:45 P. M., and Mondays at that time thereafter. The series will be heard over WOR, New York, and WGN, Chicago. Kiesewetter is the agency.

Suit Filed to Halt Station at Rosarito

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 14.—Plans for the proposed 100-kw station at Rosarito Beach, Mexico, 25 miles south of San Diego, today were snarled in a $450,000 damage suit filed by John A. Murphy.

Murphy claims that he was "induced" to withdraw from the project and transfer his investments to others. Representation was made, Murphy charged in his action, that his name on the application for a radio permit would "endanger" chances of receiving it from the Mexican Government.

In addition to damages, Murphy seeks interpretation of his contract, accounting of the finances of the International Broadcasting System, appointment of a receiver for the firm and restoration of himself as its vice-president.

Principal defendants named by Murphy are Miguel Barbachano, Tiajuana capitalist, and Clinton L. Byers.

"Serenade" to Return to CBS

"Saturday Night Serenade," sponsored by the Pet Milk Sales Corp., will return to CBS Oct. 2, from 9:30 to 10 P. M. The cast will include Mary Eastman and Bill Perry, vocalists, Gus Haenschen's orchestra and a chorus.

Neff-Rogow, Inc., Adds Space

Neff-Rogow, Inc., have increased their office space at 30 Rockefeller Plaza. The new quarters will be occupied by the copy and production departments. Edward L. Barnett of Philadelphia has joined the agency.

Two from Hollywood

The Nash "Prof. Quiz" program, Saturdays from 9 to 9:30 P. M. over CBS, will emanate from Hollywood for the broadcasts of Sept. 18-25.

Baclanova in Series

Olga Baclanova has been signed by WOR to present a new series titled "Continental Revue," which will be offered weekly from 8:30 to 9 P. M. starting Sept. 20.

Para. British Plans Will Be Decided Soon

Production Details Await Return of Zukor

Paramount's arrangements for producing in England under the indicated new quota requirements will be completed here early in October following the return to New York of Adolph Zukor, Stanton Griffis, chairman of the administrative committee, said yesterday.

Griffis, who returned from a month's trip abroad early this week, said that he made no study of production facilities in England while there, declaring that that was one of the purposes of Zukor's trip and that the latter's recommendations in the matter would be acted upon by the management on his return here Oct. 4.

Griffis reported that Paramount planned to expand its theatre interests abroad, particularly in England, in the near future and now has under consideration several proposals involving both outright acquisitions of British

Johnston Reports Big Monogram Gain

Monogram Pictures' sales at the close of business on Sept. 11 were $872,000 in excess of the sales tallied up to the same date during the company's last selling season, W. Ray Johnston, Monogram president, said yesterday on his return to New York from a month's trip which included visits at the company's studio and west coast exchanges.

Sales are continuing at a brisk pace, Johnston reported, with "practically every large circuit in the country" already signed. In addition, favorable

Delaware Court Declares Charter Change Void

WILMINGTON, Sept. 15. — Holding the proposed amendment to the certificate of incorporation of Consolidated Film Industries which was approved by the company's stockholders last winter to be "null and void," Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott today directed that a permanent injunction be issued to restrain the company from putting the amendment into effect.

Chancellor Wolcott's decision was rendered in connection with an action brought by Norman Johnson of New York, a preferred stockholder, and is the second he has handed down upholding Johnson's efforts to prevent

New Mexican Taxes To Go on Invoices

American distributors, for the most part, plan to pass on to Mexican accounts the new three per cent tax on the invoice value of shipments to that country which Mexican consuls began collecting yesterday, it was learned from export managers here.

The tax is payable in advance on all goods shipped into Mexico and is in addition to a levy of five per cent on the invoice value of all shipments which Mexican consuls began collecting last January for partial prepayment of custom duties. The new tax of three per cent of the invoice value of shipments is applicable as an advance deposit on the income tax which

First Disney Feature Runs Over Million Dollar Mark

By J. M. JERAULD

Roy Disney is in town to set the sales policy on the industry's first cartoon feature, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." This much has already been decided; it will be a special. Disney hopes to have it ready by Dec. 1 for the Christmas holidays, and, failing that, by New Year's.

Disney revealed that the cost of the production has been tremendous so far and probably will total between $1,100,000 and $1,200,000, with 85 per cent of this cost having gone into labor. The picture will run for one hour and a half and will have an entirely new set of characters, none of which will be used again.

In addition to being in Technicolor and the first feature length film in the cartoon process, it will have what Disney describes as a multi-plane camera technique which will give it the illusion of a third dimension. This

Circuits Believe Epidemic on Wane

Reports of a rapid decline in the number of infantile paralysis cases in affected areas in the middle west and Kansas convinced circuit home offices here yesterday that the peak of the epidemic has passed.

Opening of schools has been delayed to Sept. 20 in many communities and children are still barred from theatres in most sections of the affected areas, but the decline in the number of new cases reported is marked and appears to be general throughout the affected areas.

In Kansas City and other cities throughout Missouri and Kansas the disease was reported on the decline

Chicago Refuses to Remove Juvenile Ban

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Exhibitors conferred with the Board of Health today in an effort to secure removal of the ban on theatre attendance by children under 16, but the board refused to act.

Exhibitors contended the decline in new cases showed the epidemic of infantile paralysis on the wane.

Neighborhood theatres are suffering a loss estimated at $250,000 weekly. Loop houses are hit, but not so badly.

tiated. A meeting of film editors has been called for Monday night.

A conference of directors, actors and writers scheduled for today was postponed for a number of reasons, but may be held tomorrow with the Actors', Writers' and Directors' Guilds participating. Officers of Screen Playwrights' Guild may also attend.

Leaders of six organizations formed during and since the recent studio strike are planning a meeting for discussion of a combined effort to oppose the I.A.T.S.E. The Society of M. P. Sketch Artists and Illustrators issued a statement defying the I.A.T.S.E. and asking all members of independent guilds "to present a united front." The artists will hold a general meeting next Tuesday night. Other groups to be summoned are the Society of M. P. Film Editors, M. P. Art Directors' Society, Society of M. P. Set Designers, Society of M. P. Interior Decorators and Society of M. P. Script Clerks.

Of the four creative talent groups only the Screen Actors' Guild has a labor charter. It is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Detroit Drops Ban On Spanish Picture

DETROIT, Sept. 15. — Following a clash between Police Commissioner Heinrich Pickert and his film censor, Sergeant Charles W. Snyder, and Judge Robert M. Toms of Circuit Court, the Michigan chapter of the Medical Bureau to Aid Spanish Democracy was allowed to show "Heart of Spain" at the Detroit Art Institute uncensored.

Sergeant Snyder and Pickert had objected to certain references in the film to Hitler and Mussolini and had ordered them deleted. Snyder said he ordered the deletions because he objected "to insulting references to these two gentlemen." Pickert added that the references were "likely to incite riot and bad feeling between racial groups in the city."

The Medical Bureau chapter sought an injunction against police. An hour before a hearing on it before Judge Toms, the police withdrew their objections.

Report Loew Income Gain for 3 Months

Loew's, Inc., business during the quarter just passed was larger than the corresponding period last year, it is understood, when the net was equal to $2.28 a share on 1,512,985 shares.

The principal reason for the up-trend, it is reported, is the policy of releasing a number of leading features during the hot weather instead of B films. This accounts for increased rentals. There has been some discussion concerning the refinancing of 136,722 shares of $6.50 preferred Loew's stock, but no definite decision has been reached.

Consolidated Again Loses Amendment

adoption of the amendment. Consolidated Film Industries appealed the first decision to the Delaware supreme court which returned the action to Chancellor Wolcott for further consideration. A spokesman for the company stated that the decision handed down today would be appealed also to the supreme court, which would be asked to pass upon the validity of the proposed plan of recapitalization for Consolidated, of which the charter amendment is a part. No ruling on the legality of the recapitalization plan has been made yet and, pending the current litigation, it has not been consummated.

The proposed charter amendment would increase Consolidated's authorized preferred stock from 400,000 to 500,000 shares. The recapitalization plan provides for an exchange of new stock for old, reduction of accumulated dividends on the preferred and the establishment of a new dividend basis for that stock.

Mussolini Coming Here

ROME, Sept. 15.—Vittorio Mussolini, son of Il Duce, leaves on the Rex tomorrow en route to Hollywood where he will study the film industry at first hand. He recently was named director of an M-G-M Italian subsidiary. Young Mussolini and Hal Roach are reported to be partners in a film company which, it is said, will produce film versions of four operas.
